Sweet relish of majestic scientific philosophy

If we do not have true scientific knowledge of anything, we cannot get to the bottom of that substance. It is also important that knowledge has to come down in *paramparā*¹. Otherwise it is not possible to ascertain the Truth. The Rishis have realized the Truth and they are able to behold it with their divine eyes. They have revealed the mysterious scientific principles of Truth to us which they have seen with their perfect vision. This is why we find a generous indication of the confidential knowledge that is 'Bhakti' in the very first verse of Chatuhshloki of Srimad-Bhāgavatam. Sri Bhagavān Himself has imparted this instruction to Brahmāji, and this verse absolutely points to the scientific knowledge about the Divine Being. The Upanishads tell the eager students seeking the 'Truth' that the sages are the knowledgeable Gurus and that we should accept the information flowing down from them. Then we should ruminate on their instructions, relish them sweetly, analyze our inner self, question humbly from the learned ones, and this is the method to travel on the path of Truth.

The sanātan or eternal process of our glorious country Bhāratvarsha is to take the refuge of the sacred feet of the Spiritual Master. This is the specialty of Indian culture. When we seek his shelter we learn how to behave correctly; not only this but we also gain a strong nature, clarity of vision and faith. These qualities flow into us like fragrant serene breeze. If our heart is not soft and ras-full, we shall not succeed in our endeavor. Therefore we need a Spiritual Master whose character is clean and his intellect shines with scriptural knowledge. If our Spiritual Master is not such, then our life will remain riddled with doubts and our bhajan will not bear fruit. However if we are fortunate to get such a Spiritual Master then our life will dazzle with joy. A Sadguru is the envoy of Sri Bhagavān's compassion on earth. He is the foremost messenger to bring the sweet message of our Beloved from the Realm of Amritam. He is the medium through which we manage to connect with that world which is beyond our perception.

Srimat Ananta dās Bābāji Mahārāj has accepted the shelter of Sri Rādhākund in every manner and is full of supreme *shraddhā*². He has collected the scientific facts about the Spiritual Master, the devotee, Sri Bhagavān, Sri Krishna, Srimati Rādhārāni, devotion, the Holy Name, Rāgānugā bhajan, prem and ras, and has presented them beautifully in this text.

This text is a ras-casket of scriptural principles. Those who are enthusiastic to know about the topmost goal of life and how to achieve it, if we are ready to strive in the path of bhajan, and want to build our lives under the brilliant guidance of the principles that are founded on the scriptures – then this text is a jewel-like divine gift for us. Many devotees are inquisitive about the nectarine philosophy; for such devotees this text is a gem that will guide them in an easy and natural manner in devotional practice. We cannot progress on the path of devotion if we are not simple and if we are not steadfast. We have to have a very clear idea about bhakta, bhakti and Bhagavān. It is a science – a transcendental science. The principles propounded by the shāstras are transcendental, and guarantee success. Those who take joy in bhajan, love to hear from the shāstras, and put them into practice. Beneath our material experiences there lies an eternal indestructible power that controls us, yet it is detached from everything – to feel this we need to perform sādhanā.

This text talks about the Supreme Being, the soul, Sri Bhagavān, and it is a delicious combination of majesty, blissful and loving ras, devotion and prem. These are all supreme truths. This text enables us to relish them intimately.

Srimad-Bhāgavatam has revealed to us the relation with Sri Bhagavān, the necessity to attain Him and the process to do so. The relation with Sri Bhagavān is the only true relation, and the knowledge about Him is the transcendental science. When we serve Him and make Him happy,

we feel joy. This is the essence of Vaishnavism. We see in "Roy Râmânanda samvâd"¹ that Sriman-Mahâprabhu tells Roy -

"prabhu kohe podo shlok sâdhyero nirnoy."

Meaning - "The Lord said – recite a verse that elucidates the topmost achievable goal".

This indicates that the Lord was particular that we should ascertain our goal based on the shâstrâs. Therefore we conclude that whatever is outside the shâstrâs or contradicts them is to be rejected and it is unacceptable. Humankind has two natures – one is extrovert and the other is introvert. If we wish to enjoy sweet Truth our innermost sensory instruments would better be sharp and active. Also the instrument has to see facts based on Truth. Worldly science involves ideas about material subjects. It is ridden with fallacies, and it is temporary, while transcendental science is eternal. 'Sâdhanâ' is the process by which we practice to perceive ourselves and our surrounding in a scientific manner. The main goal of our sâdhanâ is to adore the Supreme Being. If our goal is not fixed, our mind will be restless. Material science is short-sighted and cannot lead us to the right path. Therefore we need a Guru who is capable and worthy. When we take the shelter of the right Spiritual Master and then take the association of saintly devotees, we will become bhajanânandi bhaktas. Also these two factors drench our lives with ras and make the Supreme Being quickly available to us.

When we have faith and walk on the path of righteousness, then our belief in the Supreme Being blooms like a lotus flower. Âsuric thoughts cannot give us joy and beauty. Therefore we should mould our lives on the basis of the scriptures, lead clean lives and then our sâdhanâ will become all the more resplendent and serene.

Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd is one of the foremost preceptors of Goudiya Vaishnavism. However his Sri Bhakti-Rasâmrita-Sindhu which is a text book of ras-science is like a fathomless ocean. If we want to dive into it, and collect the gem-like principles, we will first have to become expert divers. Srila Raghunâth dâs Goswâmi, who is steadfast in Sri Râdhâ-dâsya and declares Srimati Râdhârâni to be the supreme, is the ideal for all bhajanânandi mahâtmâs. He is a powerful beacon in the rules and regulations governing bhakti sâdhanâ. Râgânugâ bhajan is pure sâdhanâ. The associates of Sriman-Mahâprabhu has generously gifted us this process which we have to perform under the subjugation of the gopâs and in gopi-bhâv. The extremely rare specialty of râgânugâ bhajan is this – we have to perform sevâ of the Divine Couple under the expert guidance of Sri Guru-manjari. Then by her kripâ we shall get the sevâ of the Divine Couple in the nikunja-mandir that is echoing with the honey-like music of the anklets of Sri Sri Râdhâ-Govinda. Only a truly blessed soul is able to attain this. Such wonderful sâdhanâ does not exist anywhere else. Sriman-Mahâprabhu is the most munificent One and has revealed this remarkable Truth to us.

When our heart is drenched with the blessing of Sri Gurudev, then we truly realize the sweet sparkling desire to perform sevâ. Only by the mercy of the Spiritual Master we can feel very intense greed for sevâ. Srila Bâbâji Mahârâj has an extraordinary heart that is so hungry for ras! This is because he has relished the Holy Name, prem and ras. He is also brimming with scriptural knowledge. This book is a burning evidence of these facts. He has made us aware of the wonderful relish we can get in sâdhak-body; not only this, he has also stated how we can worship our Deity in the temple of our heart, and how we can enrich this adoration with expertise and get joyful exultation as an outcome.

The living being has false ego. Therefore, ignorance, illusion, and turning away from Sri Bhagavân overcome it. It cannot get out of this predicament. As a result, we have to resort to the Spiritual Master. He will open the divine gateway for us, since he is so merciful. We have been overwhelmed by illusion and ignorance since time infinite. Now the Spiritual Master will redeem us from material sorrow and lead us to eternal happiness.

Srila Bâbâji Mahârâj is an expert in the scriptures. He has a natural penchant for scholastic study of the same. Also he ruminates on the scriptural principles so much that when a devotee who is of a primary level, and is eager to enquire into the facts concerning the divine being, comes across his writing, he is sure to be satisfied. Often we are eager and also want to seriously perform sâdhanâ, yet we are embroiled in dilemma, and wonder what to do. Our situation becomes like one who wants to reach a destination, but does not know the geography of that place. Now we are the travelers of eternal journey, but we are confused about the spiritual geography. This brilliant book is a perfect manual for all such perplexed yet sincere souls. Vaishnav-sâdhanâ makes one humane, builds character, preaches self-surrender, and teaches us how to ascertain the Truth in an impartial manner. This book is magnificent in inculcating all these qualities; moreover it shows us how to enjoy devotional practice. Therefore it is good for all anurâgi devotees. Sometimes we are bewildered so as to whom to worship. This book expertly clears all our doubts using scriptural logic. Srila Bâbâji Mahârâj is able to achieve this goal because of his superlative scholarship and mastery over these subjects. He states all the bhakti-principles boldly, analytically and courageously. Also his heart dazzles with purity, and each and every sentence of this magnificent book reflects this fact. Consequently the book becomes all the more worth meditating upon. For this, I wholeheartedly salute him.

Human beings are the sole beneficiaries of ras and prem tattvas. Only we can forget ourselves in relishing these exquisite subjects and obtain the grace of the condensed form of bhâv-ras, that is, Sri Krishna. We alone can enter that realm which is pervaded by the unified form of the Holy Name and the Named One (Sri Krishna). The beautiful blessings of the devotees and the Spiritual Master illuminate our hearts that are overcast by illusion. Such bounties awaken us from the pitch dark stupor of ignorance and our hearts then sparkle under the brilliant sunrays of their mercy. Then we feel truly inquisitive about tattva, and our bhajan-journey begins. We develop deep love for bhajan and feel blessed.

Sri Krishna is Sach-chidânandamaya and the sole refuge of every element. He is the Supreme truth. We can experience His three shaktis. Srîman-Mahâprabhu has told us that pure bhakti, that is bhakti devoid of 'gyân' is the topmost achievable goal. When gyân or knowledge transforms into 'vishesh' gyân, then it becomes 'vigyan' or scientific knowledge. When we gain scientific knowledge, our confusions and dilemmas that actually arise out of illusion, are solved.

Srila Bâbâji Mahârâj is a superb expert in shâstras and his specialty is that he knows exactly what the shâstric principles indicate, that is, their true meaning. He is also experienced in sâdhanâ. He has got the immense kripâ of the shâstras because he is so much surrendered unto them. His heart is illuminated with the light of their blessing. This is why he has been able to pluck the various flower-like principles that are otherwise so difficult to comprehend, in lucid and stylish language. He has chosen these blossoms (principles) from different scriptures, each of which is like a beautiful garden. Then he has knit a garland with these flowers and has named it 'Topmost achievable goal & the scientific way to achieve it'. Srila Bâbâji Mahârâj's munificence has stupefied us!! This divine garland is very fragrant indeed. Unhesitatingly, we declare that it will alleviate all doubts lurking in the heart of anybody who is inquisitive about the Supreme Being. This text is beneficial to all who are truly interested in tattva, ras, bhakti and spiritualism.

I hope to remain,
the humble servant of the servants of the Vasihnavs,

Humble Request

The treasury of Vaishnav philosophy is vast and very deep. The Vaishnav texts too are full of rich information. It is near impossible to study all of them and then become an expert in Vaishnav devotional practice. Only a hard-working persistent and patient sādhak can succeed in such an endeavor. Yet, without tattva-gyān how can we proceed in the path of bhajan? It is not possible. Many of us are interested in performing sādhanā and bhajan, however we lack the time, energy and patience to labor over copious Vaishnav-literature. Keeping such devotees in mind, we have presented this handbook called 'Topmost achievable Goal & How to achieve it'. It explains all the Vaishnav principles in easy, yet brief manner. We have dealt with ten principles here – love, our preceptors, the Goswāmis, have stated the entire philosophy in difficult language and very much in details. We have presented the same principles in simple language and in short. We sincerely hope that the sādhaks who are eager to perform bhajan will now easily understand the truth and progress in the devotional path. If any sādhak or sādhikā benefits even little bit from this book, we shall consider our endeavor as successful.

Most worshiped Prabhupād Srijukta Binod Kishor Goswāmi Mahoday has showered his mercy on me by writing the preface to the book. I am extremely grateful to him. Srila Prabhupād has written the introduction to few of my other books as well; they are all incomparable and wonderful prefaces. In this manner, he has expressed his grace on a fallen soul such as myself – I have no word to express my gratitude.

I also thank Vishwajeet Pandey and Sangita Sangai for proofreading. I pray that they make good progress in their bhajan. In spite of taking so much care, some mistakes still remain. My dear good devotees, please do rectify them since you are all-qualified, and please relish this book. I shall be ever grateful to you for this.

Your fallen servant,

Ananta das

(Editor).

Sri-Guru-Tattva-Vigyaan

(A Scientific study of the Spiritual Master)

Who is the Spiritual Master?

Sri Krishna, Who is God Himself, has defined the Spiritual Master to His dear devotee Sri Uddhav as follows (S.B. 11.17.27) –

Sri Bhagavān said-“O Uddhav! You should know the preceptor, meaning the Gurudev, to be myself and never disregard him. Do not find faults with him, taking him to be an ordinary human being for Sri Gurudev is the sum total of all devatās.”

“The scriptures proclaim the Gurudev as another form of Sri Krishna Who bestows His mercy upon the devotees in the form of Gurudev.” - (C.C.)

All these scriptures prove that Sri Krishna appears in the world in the form of Gurudev to extend His mercy upon the devotees. His grace consists of invaluable bhajan of Sri Krishna, and the fruit of that bhajan is priceless prem. Sri Krishna, in the form of Sri Gurudev graces a surrendered disciple with these two precious gifts.

Sri Uddhav told Sri Krishna –“O my Lord! A devotee has many sensual desires that are obstacles in the path of bhajan, You remove them externally in the form of Sri Gurudev who instructs in spiritual truth and internally in the form of good conscience. Thus You grant them realizations about You.” - (S.B. 11.29.6)

We should remember that, although Sri Gurudev is as worshiped as Sri Krishna, he is not the ultimate object of worship like Sri Krishna. The Gurudev is the special devotee-manifestation of the Lord.

“Although my Gurudev is the servant of Sri Chaitanya Mahāprabhu (the Supreme Being), still I know him to be the Lord’s manifestation.”- (C.C.)

Gurudev is the special devotee-manifestation of the Lord.

We must know Sri Gurudev as a special manifestation of the Lord in the form of the greatest saint - this is the true form of Sri Gurudev. In his Manah-Shikṣā Srila Raghunāth dās Goswāmī has written –

“O Mind! Remember Shachisuta¹ Sri Goursundar as Sri Krishna and Sri Gurudev as Sri Krishna’s dear most devotee!”

Srila Vishwanāth Chakravartipād has also written in his Gurvāṣhtakam-

“All the scriptures proclaim Sri Gurudev to be Lord Hari Himself, and the great saints also feel that, but he is also Sri Krishna’s dear most devotee - I offer my obeisance unto the lotus feet of such Sri Gurudev.”

The point is that although we should perceive Sri Gurudev as Sri Krishna’s dear most devotee, we should also consider him to be His actual manifestation. If we do not think like that we may start considering Gurudev to be an ordinary mortal. This is a great offense that will make all our devotional practice fruitless, like an elephant’s bath².

² After an elephant takes bath and comes out of the water, it sprinkles dust on itself. Srimad-Bhāgavatam (7.15.26) says - “A Spiritual Master is non-different from the Lord. He lights the lamp of transcendental knowledge. If one is so foolish as to see the Spiritual Master as an ordinary mortal, all his spiritual studies will be wasted and useless, just like lie bath of an elephant.”

Why is it necessary to take shelter of Sri Gurudev's lotus feet?

If we want to worship the Supreme Being then we must first of all take shelter of the lotus feet of Sri Gurudev. We will never be able to perform devotional practice if we do not take shelter of the lotus feet of Sri Gurudev, because this is the gate through which one enters the path of bhakti. We cannot master any discipline without the guidance of an expert preceptor, then how can we accomplish perfection in spiritual science that is a more complex and difficult process? Another special feature of devotional knowledge is that the merciful Sri Bhagavān has personally appeared in this world in the form of Gurudev to teach us bhakti.

We have briefly discussed the Guru-tattva here. When we understand the Gurutva (gravity) of Guru-tattva, then we will not have any doubt about the importance of taking shelter of Sri Gurudev. We do not know the true form of Sri Gurudev, what is Sri Gurudev made of and what is the positive result of surrendering unto Sri Gurudev. Therefore we are bound to have many questions regarding surrendering unto Sri Gurudev. However, if we associate with pure devotees we can gain knowledge on all these topics. We can not deeply realize the Guru-tattva without the association of pure devotees. Therefore if we desire the highest welfare and hence wish to practice devotion, the scriptures and the great saints advise us to associate with the saints. In Srimad-Bhāgavatam Lord Kapiladev told His mother Devahuti -

“When you attain the excellent company of the saints, your heart and the ears relish my glory like nectar. The topics related to my excellences are the quickest means to get rid of ignorance. Anyone who lovingly enjoys hearing them will gradually develop faith, attachment and devotion for me.” – (S.B.3.25.25)

This indicates that by hearing topics on the Supreme Lord from the great saints we gain scriptural faith, and then we take shelter of a sadguru; we begin bhajan (that is so precious) as a result of which rati and prem gradually develop. We have been wandering (reincarnating) through different species of life since time infinite and by the Lord's grace we have got this human body, which is the gateway to liberation from repeated birth and death. The most fortunate amongst human beings are they who have acquired the association of the saints. When we hear about Sri Krishna from the greatly realized devotees of the Lord, the heart, which is polluted by attachment to the sense objects, will be somewhat purified and we will realize that the body and everything related to it is temporary, and the ocean of temporary material seems impossible to cross. We will also comprehend that this material world is full of agony and lust and anger are attacking us every moment like dangerous sharks and crocodiles. Then we will become eager to cross the impassable and miserable ocean of material existence to attain the eternally blissful lotus feet of the Lord. We can use our invaluable human body to achieve this goal; however first of all we have to find a worthy captain – who is none other than Sri Gurudev. In Srimad-Bhāgavatam Sri Krishna has told Uddhav –

“O Uddhav! This human body is the root cause of all welfare, and it is expert in accomplishing its goal. The living entity attains this human body which is extremely rare. It is like an excellent boat that has Sri Gurudev as its captain. Moreover, I am providing favorable breeze to steer it in the right direction. A person who does not endeavour to cross the ocean of material existence despite having received this body is committing suicide.” - (S.B.11.20.17)

We have already discussed that in the company of devotees we come to realize that we should take shelter of a Spiritual Master. Thus it is logical that if we do not feel it necessary to surrender unto a Spiritual Master, we must not have associated with devotees in the true sense. Whenever someone has associated with devotees or is in the company of devotees right now, yet he has not realized the seriousness of taking the refuge of Sri

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Gurudev, we must understand that he has not got the real association of saints or the person has committed something foul, due to which the saintly relation is not showing result. As long as we do not gain the shelter of Sri Gurudev's lotus feet, the ultimate fruit of association with the devotees is – 'surrendering unto Sri Gurudev', for bhajan begins only after taking initiation and instructions from a sadguru.

The Characteristics of a sadguru

When we wish to be blessed with the benefit of devotional practice and we desire to take shelter of Sri Gurudev it is absolutely necessary that we commit ourselves at the feet of a sadguru alone.

Who is a sadguru?

When the Gurudev-potency awakens within a saint he becomes a sadguru. This Gurudev-potency awakens within a saint in the following way. He should have purified his heart through devotional practice. Bhakti awakens in him and he gains beautiful saintly qualities such as compassion and kindness. His heart melts when he sees the agony of the materially bound souls. By instructing devotional practice to these human beings he destroys their miserable condition and is extremely anxious to bless them by giving them the relish of bhakti ras. By the Lord's wish the Gurudev-potency emanates from Him and appears within the heart of such a bhakti siddha great saint.

When we covet devotion for the Supreme Lord, we are blessed by taking shelter of such a qualified sadguru. Srimad-Bhāgavatam has described the characteristics of such a *sadguru*¹

"Therefore a person who inquires about the highest welfare should take shelter of a sadguru, who is expert in the Word (Vedic scriptures) and is 'realized in the Supreme Being'. He also has to be free from lust and greed." - (S.B.11.3.21)

Sridhar Swāmi writes in his commentary on this verse: That the sadguru is 'expert in the Word' means that he is learned in Vedic literature and knows of the Truth. If he is not, then he cannot remove the doubts of the disciples who take his shelter. Then again he has to be 'realized in the Supreme Being', which means that He is a devotee, or that He is endowed with transcendental realizations about Sri Krishna. Otherwise he cannot inspire his disciple with bhajan-realizations."

The question may arise, "We may be able to discern whether the Spiritual Master is expert in the Word by seeing and hearing from him about the scriptures, but how will we know if he is realized in the Supreme Being?" The answer to this is, he should be upāsantasraya, or devoid of lust, anger and greed. When bhakti enlightens a heart, the darkness of lust and greed cannot shroud it. Therefore the characteristics of a sadguru given by the shāstras are as follows:

1) He has realizations about Sri Bhagavān due to his solid faith and firm perseverance in bhajan. He has attained the grace of his own Gurudev by being similarly devoted to his lotus feet.

2) He is well-versed in the Vedas and in bhakti-scriptures that highlight the true Vedic purport such as Srimad-Bhāgavatam. Thus he can wipe out the doubts of his disciples.

3) Because he has transcendental realizations about Sri Krishna he has attained His mercy. Thus he has become so powerful that he is able to bring the disciple on to the path of bhakti and infuse this power within him.

4) He is not overcome by vices like lust and greed.

¹ Later on we shall describe these characteristics more in detail

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

A saint who is endowed with such qualities and who has parental love for his disciples can attain the position of a sadguru. Such a sadguru is able to obliterate various obstacles that may hinder the disciple in his bhajan. He can bless the disciple with prem and bring him to the lotus feet of Sri Krishna. On the other hand, a person who desires to become famous as a Gurudev may have many virtues, like high birth etc., yet if he does not have the above mentioned characteristics he will not be counted as a sadguru. Therefore if we are sincere and are eager to do Sri Krishna-bhajan we should unto a saint who is endowed with the right qualities, receive initiation in Sri Krishna-mantra and learn bhajan from him.

Common Characteristics of a Sadguru

One who has the following characteristics is a sadguru –

- learned in the Vedas
- has realization about Sri Krishna
- most peaceful
- possesses Sri Krishna-bhakti

Special Characteristics of a Sadguru

A Spiritual Master who has the following characteristics is glorious –

- born in a faultless and sinless family
- is of unblemished character
- is careful about his conduct

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

- learned in the art of debating
- pure-hearted
- merciful - (Hari-Bhakti-Vilâs 1.38-41)

The Spiritual Master's mercy is Special

There is a difference in the mercy of Sri Hari and that of Sri Gurudev. The Upanishads say - "A person to whom Sri Hari wishes to lower in His eyes - He will make him perform wrong deeds, and He gives erroneous instructions to evil people." But the âchârya wants to elevate and engage everyone in saintly activities. He always speaks the right words everywhere. Therefore we should prefer the grace of Sri Gurudev rather than that of Sri Hari.

Who is an âchârya?

After all the scriptures define a preceptor as – "An âchârya is one who always pronounces (preaches) the scriptural injunction, follows them himself, and also teaches others to act accordingly."

How do we get a Sadguru?

Some people think that a sadguru is very rare in this world and it is not easy to recognize and get one. Thinking like this, they do not endeavour to take dikshâ mantra and thus waste the precious moments of their rare human life. In this context we would like to state that the Lord Himself descends as sadguru for the welfare of the world; then for a genuine seeker, someone who is serious about performing bhajan and those who are eager to take shelter of a sadguru, He can never be hard-to-get or unattainable. We should give up crookedness and associate with pure devotees with a simple and innocent mind to rid us of material miseries. We should be anxious to get a sadguru so that we may perform devotional practice. To achieve this we should pray wholeheartedly to the Lord. Then He will bless us with a sadguru – harbor no doubt about it. Sri Hari is merciful. He will most certainly grant earnest devotees their heartfelt wish.

Shelter of Sri Gurudev's Lotus-feet

Srimat Rupa Goswâmpîad has stated 64 items of bhajan. The first three are -

1. Taking shelter of Sri Gurudev's feet
2. Taking initiation into Sri Krishna-mantra and learning Bhâgavata-dharma (the process of worshipping Sri Krishna) from him
3. Serving Sri Gurudev with faith. - (Bhakti-Rasâmrîta-Sindhu 1.2.74)

Sri Chaitanya-Charitâmrîta states the same - guru pādâshroy, dikshâ, gurur seban

- (C.C.)

Guru pādâshroy means that a person who wishes to practice devotion must live near Sri Gurudev's feet for a while before taking initiation, and sincerely render service to him according to his wishes, so that Sri Gurudev is pleased. The scriptures say it is also necessary that the Spiritual Master and the disciple should test each other before initiation. In this way both Gurudev and disciple can examine each other's nature and qualification. If they do not do this, then both may experience obstacles in their bhajan in the future. In other words, if the Gurudev does not have the characteristics that the shâstra describe the disciple will inevitably experience obstacles in bhajan and if the disciple is not qualified then the Gurudev too will face problems. Not only this, the mutual examination also has a very valuable outcome. When the sādhak who is eager to receive dikshā, stays for a few days with the Gurudev and serves him he will also become qualified for both dikshā and bhajan. On the other hand, the Sri Gurudev-tattva will melt in compassion when he sees the sincere service rendered by such a great devotee. The aspirant achieves an important goal of human life by attaining the dikshā mantra from Sri Gurudev. Since Sri Gurudev is satisfied with the disciple's service his heart is melting with compassion and hence the aspirant will be blessed with the true relish of ambrosial bhakti ras. Here it is noteworthy that a great saint, who has extraordinary powers, can examine the qualifications of a disciple on mere sight, or can make an unqualified applicant at once qualified and can thus give initiation to a candidate at once. The above rules and regulations do not apply to such saints. This, however, is not appropriate for everyone.

Dikshā or initiation

What do we mean by dikshā or initiation? In his Bhakti-Sandarbha (283) Srimat Jiva Goswāmipād quotes the shāstra to describe the greatness of initiation-- "The āchāryas who know the truth define 'dikshā' as that which bestows divine knowledge and destroys all sins."

What do we mean by dikshā?

Sri Jivapād adds: "Here 'divine knowledge' means the knowledge about the Lord's swarup which lies within the mantra, along with special knowledge about our relationship with the Lord."

"The swarup of the living entity is that he is Krishna's eternal servant. He is Krishna's tatasthā shakti and so he is both different and non-different from Him." – (C.C.)

Although we are Sri Krishna's eternal servant, we have been averse to the Lord since time infinite. Hence ignorance and illusion have gripped us. Since we are under such illusion we identify with our false body, senses and mind. We forget our own swarup and call this false body "I". We forget our eternal relationship with Sri Hari and become bound to spouse, children and money.

"The living being has forgotten that he is Sri Krishna's eternal servant, and due to that fault māyā has tied a noose round his neck." – (C.C.)

In this way, although we are originally transcendental, we are bound by māyā and wander around in the miserable material world, reincarnating from one species to the other. Thus we suffer the pain of birth, disease, old age and death. Sri Gurudev mercifully cuts the bondage of māyā and breathes transcendental energy into our heart. Thus he awakens awareness in us – about who we are and our eternal and special relationship with Sri Hari - this is dikshā.

Then again, the mantra is non-different from the Lord. By the grace of the pure devotees and the Spiritual Master, who are the condensed form of Sri Hari's mercy, the Lord enters the disciple's heart in the form of mantra to make his body, mind and life-airs transcendently suitable for serving the Lord. Sriman-*Mahā*prabhu has said with His holy lips-

"At the time of initiation the devotee surrenders himself and at that time Sri Krishna makes him His own. The Lord then makes the devotee's body transcendental and in this transcendental body the devotee serves His lotus feet." – (C. C.)

Some know the glory of surrendering unto a sadguru and taking initiation, yet think that it is not necessary to take dikshā. Their idea is that chanting the Holy Name alone will suffice. It is easy to guess what enormous loss they are suffering in spiritual life. However the Goswāmīs have a different opinion about this. They say that –

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

If someone knows the glory of dikshâ, yet he is averse to taking the shelter of a sadguru, he is only committing an offense when he chants the Holy Name.

This is because the shâstras and Mahâjans have glorified dikshâ and have stated that dikshâ is eternal; the present day devotees too are practicing such purificatory process. Still, he is disregarding the shâstra and Mahâjan on one hand, and showing contempt for the institution of Guru-tattva on the other¹ – both are very strong offences.

Dikshâ-Mantra

Of all the different mantras that have been mentioned by the shâstras in connection with dikshâ, the Sri Krishna-mantra is the most important, because Sri Krishna is Swayam Bhagavân and is the origin of all divine forms. Sri Krishna performs divine pastimes in three Holy Abodes - Vrindâban, Mathurâ and Dwâarakâ. The greatest quality of Sri Bhagavân - sweetness - is manifest in Sri Vrindâban alone where Sri Krishna plays like a cowherd boy. Therefore the mantras in connection with this Vrindâban-leelâ are the greatest. Then again the 10-syllable² and 18-syllable 'Gopi-janavallabh' mantra, that induce the topmost ras (that of madhur leelâ), are the greatest of all. Although these mantras are all present in sacred books, their jap will yield no fruit without initiation! We must receive the mantra from the *sadguru*³.

Some people also consider the 16-word, 32-syllable Hare Krishna *Mahâmantra*⁴ as a dikshâ mantra, but no scripture on initiation consider Harinâm Mahâmantra as dikshâ mantra, because if it is chanted out loud, how can it be counted amongst the dikshâ mantras? In some places it is a custom to give Harinâm before dikshâ to purify the ears and the heart, but we cannot call it dikshâ. The question may arise –

When the Hare Krishna mantra is called the Mahâmantra, then will we not attain perfection by taking this mantra alone? And why will we not achieve 'dikshâ' – which is our goal – by taking this mantra?

The answer to this is that the Hare Krishna mantra is called the Mahâmantra because it is more powerful than any other mantra in bestowing prem. Still, the rule is that a dikshâ mantra must have a dative case ending and the six standard sequences that form a certain pattern of composition. Since the Mahâmantra does not have this it is not a dikshâ mantra. We should know that when we take Harinâm before dikshâ, the Mahâmantra blesses us by giving us a sadguru and he instructs us about bhajan; after taking dikshâ the result of Harinâm is prem.

Dikshâ-Guru and Shikshâ-Guru

The one who gives dikshâ mantra is our Dikshâ-Guru, while the one who instructs us about bhajan is the Shikshâ-Guru. Srimad-Bhâgavatam says –

"Take dikshâ mantra from the Spiritual Master and then take the instructions regarding the rules and gain knowledge of the shâstras from him."

¹ Gurvavyâ and Shruti-shâstra-nindâ – these are the two offences

² The 10-syllable mantra is meant for the brahmins by birth.

³ Srila Vishwanâth Chakravartipâd explains this in his purport to Srimad-Bhâgavatam (11.21.15)

⁴ Hare Krishna Hare Krishna Krishna Krishna Hare Hare / Hare Râm Hare Râm Râm Râm Hare Hare

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Therefore we understand that the Spiritual Master, who gives dikshâ, also has to instruct the disciple about how to take the mantra. The shâstras want us to take the shelter of a sadguru; we should not think that he is incapable of imparting instructions. If we think like this we are reducing the stature of Sri Gurudev and this is an offence. However if the Spiritual Master disappears before we have got bhajan-instructions from him, we can accept a great devotee who is equally expert in bhajan as our Shikshâ-Guru and serve him like we would have served our own Gurudev. Sri Krishna Himself is a Shikshâ-Guru who resides in our heart to give us bhakti and externally He is present in the form of Spiritual Master and makes us His own. Sri Chaitanya-Charitâmrita says –

“Shikshâ-Guru is Sri Krishna personified. He resides in our heart as the overseer and also appears as the topmost devotee.” – (C.C.)

The Shikshâ-Guru who lives in our heart (antaryâmi) does not appear before us. He is called chaitya-Guru (the One Who resides in our chitta or sub-conscious mind). We should not confuse Him with Paramâtmâ Who regulates the ones who are turned away from Sri Bhagavân and inspires their intellect. That Paramâtmâ is not the One Who controls a devotees' heart. He does not instruct a devotee as 'chaitya-guru'. That divine form Whom we worship as Deity, He is our Antaryâmi. He appears in our heart as Shikshâ-Guru, instructs us and inspires the norms and rules of bhâv in us. Also it is Sri Krishna Himself Who appears as His dear most devotee outside our heart and imparts face-to-face teachings about bhajan.

There is an opinion that we should take 'shikshâ-mantra' from a shikshâ-Guru – otherwise we cannot perform bhajan. This is contrary to scriptural injunctions. According to the scriptures and Mahâjans there is nothing such as 'shikshâ-mantra'. We should not allow anyone to cheat us by succumbing to such wrong preaching.

Serving Sri Gurudev

The duties of the disciple do not end after taking dikshâ from the sadguru. There is a special need to serve Sri Gurudev after taking initiation, because when Sri Gurudev is pleased, then all obstacles in bhajan will be destroyed and Lord Krishna will be pleased. Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has written in his Bhakti Sandarbha –

“We have many bad qualities that we are unable to get rid of in spite of various endeavors. However if we please the Spiritual Master these qualities get destroyed. Moreover Sri Hari will also be most pleased when the disciple pleases Sri Gurudev.”

Srila Goswâmpâd is indicating that when we make headway on the path of bhajan, then all kinds of powerful bad qualities cultivated in previous lives or in this life due to various offenses, raise their ugly heads and disturb our devotional practice. Nevertheless, we will not be able to get relief from these evil traits on our own, although we may try various means. The only way to destroy these traits is to please Sri Gurudev.

Also, the only way to make Sri Bhagavân happy is to please Sri Gurudev. From this we can realize Sri Gurudev's satisfaction is the root of devotional practice and its result - that is - the destruction of all kinds of bad qualities and the attaining the love of Sri Krishna. Another way to please Sri Gurudev is to serve him honestly. We learn from Srimad-Bhâgavatam that all evil traits are destroyed when we serve Sri Gurudev with devotion.

Sri Nârada told King Yudhisthir - “My dear King, to give up lust one must give up planning for enjoyment, to give up anger one must give up lust, because when lust is frustrated, anger arises, and to give up greed one must see the evil of money and all things it can buy. We can conquer fear by constantly analyzing the truth, we can give up grief and illusion by considering what is material and what is spiritual; we can crush our pride by serving a devotee. We can gain concentration by forsaking all talks other than that pertaining to Sri Krishna and thus we achieve perfection in keeping the vow of silence (since the vow of silence is rendered perfect not when we simply maintain silence, but when we give up all talks other than Sri Krishna-kathâ). We can conquer violence by giving up endeavors for sense gratification. We can mitigate the suffering caused by other living entities by developing compassion and we can alleviate the suffering caused by natural elements (such as heat, cold etc.) by entering into samâdhi. We can end the suffering caused by our body and mind by practicing the eight-fold path of âshtânga yog. When we are in the mode of goodness (free from passion and ignorance) we can conquer sleep¹. When we increase our goodness, naturally our ignorance and passion decrease. In this way one process destroys one bad tendency, but we can conquer all these vices and simply by serving Sri Gurudev with devotion. " - (Srimad-Bhâgavatam 7.15.22-25)

Thus we see how important it is to serve Sri Gurudev if we want to give up all bad qualities.

Special sevâ of Sri Gurudev

In Bhakti-Sandarbha Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has written –

"Although it is true that when we take refuge at Sri Bhagavân's lotus feet, we achieve the topmost goal, if we wish to accomplish that 'something special' then we have to necessarily serve our shikshâ-Guru, who instructs in the divine scriptures, and dikshâ-Guru who initiates us in the divine mantra regularly in a special manner."

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd uses the words "visheshatah sevâm kuryât" – thus indicating that we should serve Sri Gurudev in a special manner (vishesh = special) As soon as we talk of 'special sevâ' it naturally follows as that there must be an 'ordinary sevâ'.

What do we mean by 'ordinary Guru-sevâ'?

After taking dikshâ, we worship Sri Hari by hearing, glorifying, performing archanam, jap etc daily. As a part of this daily routine, we worship and glorify Sri Gurudev. Therefore, we see that for us the hearing, jap etc are the main activities and Sri Gurudev's sevâ is a part of these activities. This is 'ordinary Guru-sevâ'.

What is 'special Guru-sevâ'?

If a devotee has single-pointed Guru-bhakti and is completely dedicated to Sri Gurudev's sevâ, he will consider that sevâ to be the most important aspect and for him hearing, glorifying etc. will be a part of Sri Guru-sevâ. Whatever sâdhanâ he performs it is only to please his Gurudev. For him, Sri Gurudev's satisfaction is the only aim. He strives to fulfill all the injunctions of bhakti only because it will please the Spiritual Master. This is 'special Guru-sevâ'. Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has called such a devotee as 'vaishishtya-lipsu' (one who craves for something special). Sri Bhagavân showers kripâ on such a devotee (more than the one who serves Him). We find that Mother Devahuti is praying in Sri Padma Purân – "If I have more devotion for my Spiritual Master than I have for Sri Hari then He may give me darshan."

When the Spiritual Master is pleased, Sri Hari is naturally happy with us.

Vâman-kalpa says –

"Sri Gurudev is verily the mantra and Sri Gurudev is none other than Sri Hari; when Sri Gurudev is pleased with us Sri Hari is also pleased."

Things to beware of while serving Sri Gurudev

We should be especially careful when serving Sri Gurudev, who is so glorious. Srila Thâkur Mahâshay has said –

"The lotus feet of Sri Gurudev are the abode of pure devotion. I pay obeisance to them with great care."

¹ Get the correct amount of sleep and good quality sleep, or feel relaxed with less sleep

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

When we consider Sri Gurudev as ordinary human being, we commit the third offence to the Holy Name – that is – disregard for the Spiritual Master. It will deprive us of the great fruits of Guru-sevā. While serving the Spiritual Master we should beware of the following—

- We should never disobey Sri Gurudev.
- We should never step on or use Sri Gurudev's shoes, garments, bathing water, bed and other utilities.
- Do not pronounce Sri Gurudev's name in a casual way. When it is absolutely necessary we should bow down, fold the hands and pronounce different reverential titles of the Gurudev such as 'astottara shata Sri Sri', 'om vishnupād', 'prabhupād' and so on, before saying his actual name.
- Never imitate the gait, speech, voice or gestures of the Gurudev.
- We should not spread our legs, place one leg over the other or point the feet at the Gurudev.
- Do not yawn, laugh loudly, break the finger-joints, sway the body or make hands, feet or any other limb dance in front of the Spiritual Master.
- We should not sit down in front of Sri Gurudev without his prior permission, but stand before him with folded hands.
- Do not lie down on a bed in front of Sri Gurudev.
- When we live in the presence of Sri Gurudev, we should never go anywhere without his permission.
- Do not worship or praise anyone else in front of the Gurudev.
- Do not explain the shāstras in front of Sri Gurudev.
- Do not give initiation without Sri Gurudev's permission.
- Do not display superiority over others and do not chastise others in front of Sri Gurudev.
- Do not say anything to Sri Gurudev that sounds like an order.
- Do not make any gesture or hints in front of him, like flapping the hands or winking with the eyes.
- We should always tolerate Sri Gurudev's rebukes and must never respond with hatred, ill will or envy.
- Never take anything from Sri Gurudev without his permission.
- It is also a cause of offense to remain silent in front of Sri Gurudev, not to praise him or not to ask him any questions about bhajan.
- Even if the disciple has taken a vow of silence he should not remain silent in front of Sri Gurudev.
- Do not go to any place where someone is so envious of Sri Gurudev and slanders him. If by chance we hear the blasphemy of the Spiritual Master, we should block our ears, remember Sri Hari and leave that place. It is forbidden to associate with a person who blasphemes the Spiritual Master, to live with such a person or even to see his face.
- When we see Sri Gurudev arriving we should come forward and offer sāstānga dandavat and when he leaves we should walk behind him.
- We must personally bring water for washing Sri Gurudev's feet and for bathing him.
- We must personally massage Sri Gurudev's body, bathe him, anoint him with unguents like sandalwood pulp, wash his clothes and massage his feet.
- We must personally clean and anoint Sri Gurudev's house or room, and his yard.
- We must take prasādam only after offering it to Sri Gurudev.

We must always please Sri Gurudev in a simple and loving manner, with a saintly heart, with body, mind and speech. We should serve him with one's house, wealth and one's very life. A sādhak who follows these rules and prohibitions in connection with Sri Gurudev will swiftly attain the ultimate result of Sri Guru-sevā, that is, prem-bhakti for the lotus feet of Sri Bhagavān and thus become most blessed.

Points to be specially noted

Sripād Baladev Vidyābhushan has written in Sidhānta-Ratna –

"Bhakti is flowing from Sri Hari's eternal associates to the present day sādhaks like the river Mandākini. Bhakti is present in the eternal associates in the eternal abode forever and descends like river Mandākini in this world through a channel of devotees."

This means that just as river Mandākini arises from Sri Bhagavān's lotus feet, descends to the heavenly planets, earth and nether regions – bhakti (that is a characteristic of Sri Bhagavān's internal potency) too travels through the Guru-paramparā and descends in the heart of a sādhak. Similarly just as the river Mandākini sanctifies the three worlds, bhakti too makes our heart pure. We can get the Guru-pranāli from a sadguru.

This Kaliyug is very special. Sriman-*Mahā*prabhu has taken mercy and descended to give us the topmost ras, which is Manjari-bhāv-sādhanā. Sri Bhagavān had not offered this kripā to humanity in any other yug. Those of us who wish to feel blessed by taking advantage of this mercy and start performing Manjari-bhāv-sādhanā must take dīkshā from a sadguru in Sri Goudiya-Vaishnav Paramparā. He should obtain Sri Guru-pranāli and siddha-pranāli from the Spiritual Master and then perform bhajan under his guidance.

We have already mentioned that we can conquer easily all our anarthas by serving the Spiritual Master with devotion. Now let us learn how Sri Bhagavān's mercy descends on us. It flows through two channels –

1. Sri Vaishnav
2. Sri Gurudev

When we associate with the Vaishnavs we realize it is our foremost duty to take the shelter of Sri Gurudev and we gain a sadguru by the mercy of the Vaishnavs. The Vaishnavs are so merciful that they bring us in contact with the priceless treasure called 'Spiritual Master' who is the source of devotional practice. Therefore if we wish to attain prem we have to serve Sri Gurudev and the Vaishnavs equally. The Vaishnavs are embodiment of devotion, while Sri Gurudev is the incarnation of Sri Bhagavān, when both shower mercy on us we shall attain success in devotional practice. This is why Srila Narottam dās Thākur Mahāshay has written –

*"chādiyā baishnab sebā, nistār peyechhe kebā, anukkhon khed uthe mone.
narottam dāse koy, jeebār uchit noy, sri guru-baishnab-sebābine."*

Meaning – "Who has ever got deliverance by not serving the Vaishnavs? He is always pricked by his guilty conscience. Narottam dās says – we have no right to live if we do not serve Sri Gurudev and the Vaishnavs."

If we serve Sri Gurudev and ignore the Vaishnavs then we are not serving the Spiritual Master perfectly and if we serve the Vaishnavs, yet we are not interested in the Spiritual Master then we cannot call it 'complete Vaishnav-sevā'.

Therefore a sadguru surrenders his disciple at the Vaishnavs feet so that he associates with the Vaishnavs, serves them and gets their blessing. Similarly a good Vaishnav too instructs the devotee to serve the lotus feet of the Spiritual Master and get his mercy.

If a Spiritual Master is envious of great Vaishnavs and forbids his disciple to associate with him then the disciple should think that Sri Gurudev is testing me and he should approach the feet of his Gurudev and plead him to withdraw such an order. However still if the Spiritual Master continues to give such commands then the disciple should consider it his misfortune, take refuge of Sri Bhagavān's lotus feet and continue to worship his Spiritual Master from far. Under no circumstance must he reject that Spiritual Master or misbehave with him. He should not slander him either. If the Spiritual Master really starts behaving in an un-Vaishnav like manner then the disciple can consider him a non-Vaishnav, reject him, take initiation again from a Vaishnav Gurudev and perform bhajan under his shelter. Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has stated very clearly in Sri Bhakti-Sandarbha –

Sri Nârâd-Pancharâtra says –“The one who speaks against the rules stated in the Vaishnav-scriptures and the one who hears such talk that is outside the rules stated therein – both perish in the hell for time infinite.

If the Spiritual Master’s instruction is against the Vaishnav-scriptures then we ought to reject him and worship him from far. However if the Spiritual Master goes against the Vaishnavs or slanders the Vaishnavs it is better we forsake him altogether. ‘Slandering’ indicates the six types of Vaishnav offences. A Spiritual Master who commits Vaishnav-offence definitely is not worthy of being a Guru. Hence the rule states that we should reject him. If a Spiritual Master is materialistic, does not know the right from the wrong (what he should do and he should not do) and behaves contrary to the injunctions given in the Bhakti-shâstras then it is our duty to reject such a Spiritual Master for he is without a ‘Vaishnav-bhâv’ – so he is as good as a non-Vaishnav. Here is the rule - ‘if we chant a mantra given by a non-Vaishnav, we shall perish in the hell’ - becomes active.

We can forsake a Spiritual Master in the following cases –

- If he is envious of other Vaishnavs
- Conducts himself in an Un-Vaishnav like manner
- Has the wrong concept of God
- Preaches himself as God
- Is not interested in hearing and glorifying Sri Krishna’s excellences
- Does not feel joy upon hearing the excellences of Sri Krishna
- Is intoxicated by the worship of the people since he has a massive false ego

Under the above circumstances it is our duty to reject him and take the shelter of a worthy Spiritual Master.

Sri-Bhakta-Tattva-Vigyaan

(A Scientific study of the devotee)

Who is a devotee?

A devotee is one who has devotion for God.

Srila Rupa Goswāmpād has written – “The one whose innermost mind is full of Sri Krishna is a ‘Krishna-devotee’.”

Krishna-devotees are of two types –

- Sādhak (a practicing devotee)
- Siddha (a devotee who has attained success in devotion)

“A sādhak is one who has rati for Sri Krishna, yet all his anarthas are not completely destroyed and he is worthy of meeting Sri Krishna.” – (B.R.S.2.1.276)

“A siddha is one who does not have any ignorance and illusion (no anarthā), he is always engaged in activities pertaining only to Sri Krishna and he enjoys the bliss of Sri Krishna-prem uninterruptedly.” – (B.R.S.2.1.280)

According to the characteristics of a devotee we can classify them also as –

- Best
- Medium
- Junior

Srimad-Bhāgavatam describes them further in the 11th skandha in the conversation with Nimi Yogindra.

Best Devotee

“The one who sees his beloved Sri Bhagavān in all conscious and non-conscious objects and feels the power of the love that he has for Sri Bhagavān in all elements is the best amongst the devotees.” – (Krama-Sandarbha purport of Srimat Jiva Goswāmpād to S.B.11.2.45)

The best devotee is in different stages of devotion. When his love for Sri Bhagavān becomes very deep then he cannot differentiate between objects. All he can see is Sri Bhagavān. When his love is not so deep then although he can distinguish between various objects he sees the presence of Sri Bhagavān in them.

Srimad-Bhāgavatam cites some characteristics of the best devotee – let us mention some of them. Although this devotee senses beauty, taste etc. he sees the entire universe as full of Sri Bhagavān and hence he never feels stress and anxiety. He is the best of devotees. The one who does not feel miserable in birth, death, hunger, thirst, fearful situations and hard labor because he remembers Sri Bhagavān is also the best of devotees. The one who does not wish to commit karma and Sri Vāsudev is his only support – he is the best of devotees. The one who does not discriminate between his property and others’, considers everyone equal, is impartial to all elements and he is calm – he alone is the best of devotees.

Bhakti-Sandarbha has classified the best devotees who have attained divine love into three types –

1. murchhita kashāy – the one whose kashāy (desire) has become murchhita (very faint) – e.g. King Bharat, Nārād Muni in the birth as a maid-servant’s son.
2. nirdhuta kashāy – the one who does not have the least desire – e.g. Shukadev Goswāmi
3. The one who has got the body of Sri Bhagavān’s associate – e.g. Nārād Muni.

Again we may classify the best devotees into two types depending on their prem

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

1. Swarup-âdhikya (depends on which form of Sri Bhagavân he worships) - Sri Krishna is the origin of all other divine forms; therefore when a devotee loves Sri Krishna he is superior to the devotees who love any other divine form. On the basis of this classification, although Sri Bilwamangal Thâkur is in the murchhita kashây stage (this means, he still has some faint material desires) is greater than Sri Hanumân and Pundarik who have no material desire whatsoever.

The devotees of sweet ras are greater than the one worshipping in parental mood, and he is superior to the devotee in friendly mood that is greater than the devotee adoring Sri Bhagavân in the servile mood. Although a devotee in the sweet mood may be in murchhita kashây stage he is superior to the one who has become Sri Bhagavân's associate in the servile, friendly or parental mood.

"The deeper the mood closer he is to Sri Bhagavân"
– (B.S.187)

The devotee's status also depends on where he is serving. The servant of Dwârakâ has more love than the one in Vaikuntha. The servant of Mathurâ is greater than that, the one in Vrindâban is greater, the one in Govardhan is still greater and the loving devotee of Râdhâkund is the best.

2. Parimân-âdhikya (depends on the amount of love) – Prem increases from sneha, mân, pranay, râg, anurâg up to Mahâbhâv. Therefore the one who has reached the stage of pranay-prem-bhakti is superior to the one who has attained sneha-prem-bhakti. The devotees who have gain Mahâbhâv are the greatest since their prem is maximum. Mahâbhâv does not exist anywhere else other than Braja dhâm. Only the Gopis who are immersed in sweet ras have Mahâbhâv. They have monopoly over this treasure. Using this analysis we conclude that the maidservants who are sheltered at the feet of Sri Vrishabhânu-Nandini (the daughter of King Vrishabhânu) – Srimati Râdhârâni – are the greatest loving devotees.

Sri-Brihad-Bhâgavatâmrîtam has classified devotees in 5 types depending on their bhâv in ascending order of status (the next one is greater than the previous one)–

1. gyân-bhakta – e.g. Bharat
2. shuddha-bhakta – (pure devotee) – e.g. Ambarish
3. prem-bhakta – (loving devotee) – e.g. Hanumân
4. prem-para-bhakta – (very loving devotee) – e.g. Arjun and the Pandavs
5. prem-âtur-bhakta (loving and anxious devotee) – e.g. Uddhav and the other Yâdavs

Sri Brihad-Bhâgavatâmrîtam has categorically proved that each is superior to the previous. Sri Uddhav, who is the greatest of all devotees, has begged to be born as a grass or moss in Brajabhumi because he is craving for a speck of dust from the feet of the gopikâs. Sri Uddhav himself admits in Srimad-Bhâgavatam. When we get bhakti then certain special qualities arise in our body and mind – we should recognize them as the characteristics of a Vaishnav.

"A Vaishnav's body and mind have all good qualities since Sri Krishna's excellences get transmitted inside His devotee. We call these as the characteristics of a Vaishnav – they are so innumerable that we cannot count them." – (C.C.)

We should remember that not even one quality of Sri Krishna can get transmitted to anyone to the fullest extent. The devotee gets drops of these eminent qualities. Only Sri Krishna has them completely.

"A Vaishnav has the following qualities –

- Compassionate
- Is not inimical to anyone

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

- Truthful
- Impartial
- Faultless
- Magnanimous
- Soft-spoken
- Clean
- Without material possession
- Helpful
- Calm
- Sri Krishna is his only shelter
- Free of material desires
- Harmless
- Steadfast
- Has conquered the six enemies such as lust, anger etc.
- Eats less
- Not agitated
- Respectful to others
- Does not expect respect from others
- Serious
- Merciful
- Friendly
- Wise
- Expert
- Silent." – (C.C.)

A Vaishnav is also 'sādhavo'dosha-darshināh' – does not see faults in others – this is also a great quality of the Vaishnav. This is possible for one who has become magnanimous by practicing the path of bhakti. This is the only characteristic that lets us distinguish between the great, greater, greatest and the perfect Vaishnav. Let us understand this with some examples.

A great devotee or 'sādhu' is one who does not see another's fault; rather he considers it a good quality. E.g. someone is harsh-spoken. A great devotee will consider it medicinal like Neem-juice. He will think that the harsh words are good for him since they help him to improve.

A greater devotee is one who cannot even realize that another person has any fault. He only sees the good qualities. E.g. a greater devotee saw a businessman entertaining his clients (to advance his business for his selfish purpose) and thought – "How this man loves guests and treat them well!"

The greatest devotee is one who never sees faults in others, but takes a small good quality as an excellence. E.g. a thief equipped with arms stole devotees clothes off his body. He thought – "This man is suffering from cold, so he has stolen my clothes. However he is very compassionate, since, in spite of being armed he has not shown violence. He is indeed blessed!"

A perfect Vaishnav is one who sees a good quality when there is none. He thinks, "There is no evil in this world at all, everything is good."

Sriman-*Mahā*prabhu has called him the best devotee who can transmit bhakti in us just if we take his darshan.

The Lord said – "You are the best of *Mahā*bhāgavats, since just by your darshan everyone's heart is purified." – (C.C.)

How does the best devotee feel?

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

"Prem makes the devotee laugh, cry and sing. He dances in delirium and runs helter-skelter. He sweats, shivers and is covered in goose bumps. His voice is choked and he turns pale. Prem makes a devotee dance in this manner and makes him float in the nectarine blissful ocean of Sri Krishna." - (C.C.)

Medium Devotee

In his Krama-Sandarbha purport of S.B.11.2.46, Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has cited the characteristics of a medium devotee as follows –

"He loves the Supremæ Being, is passionate towards Him (has ratî), is friendly towards all who are subjugated to Sri Bhagavân, is compassionate to the ones who do not practice bhakti, yet he is not envious towards Sri Bhagavân or his devotees and ignores the ones who are envious of him, of the devotees and of Sri Bhagavân."

These devotees are extremely merciful to the ignorant people – we can see from Sri Prahlâd *Mahâ*âj's prayer to Lord Nrisimha (s.B.7.9) –

Sri Prahlâd *Mahâ*shay told Lord Nrisimha – "My dear Lord, I grieve for the foolish people who are turned away from Your nectarine talks and are carrying the burden of materialism by giving in to sense gratification."

Hence we find that the medium devotee is compassionate to the foolish people who are disinterested in Bhagavad-kathâ, yet are not envious of Sri Bhagavân and His devotees. He ignores those who are jealous of him, since they do not agitate him. Rather because he is kind by nature, he considers him ignorant and shows him mercy. How compassionate was Prahlâd *Mahâ*shay to Hiranyakashipu although the latter tried to kill him! However the medium devotee never shows kindness to the ones who are envious of Sri Bhagavân and His devotees, since they agitate him. "The 'envious' also includes the ones who slander"

– (B.S.)

The difference between medium and best devotee is that, the medium devotee feels compassionate towards the ignorant, while the best devotee is so full of divine love that he feels much friendlier towards the ignorant. The medium devotee is not interested in those who are envious towards the devotees and Sri Bhagavân, while the best devotee feels malevolence for such envious people. E.g. Sri Shukadev Goswâmi is calling Kamsa 'bhojânâm kulapâmshanaht' (S.B.10.1.35), meaning, "Kamsa is a blot on the fair name of the Bhoj family." Thus we find that even pure devotees such as Shukadev Goswâmi feel inimical towards those who are against the devotees and Sri Bhagavân.

You may ask, then how come we are saying that the great devotees see the divine being everywhere? The *Mahâ*jan answers –

"When the pure devotees see such envious people they get a sphurti of Sri Bhagavân as the One Who disciplines the wicked. Therefore we see pure devotees such as Sri Uddhav paying obeisance to people like Duryodhan. Here they are saluting their beloved Sri Bhagavân Who is in the form of the 'Punisher of the evil-doer'. We should realize that they are not paying obeisance to Duryodhan as such." – (Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd in Krama-Sandarbha)

Earlier we have stated the pure devotees consider the faults in others as good qualities; however they do not do so in the case of those who are against the Vaishnavs and Sri Bhagavân.

Junior devotee

"The one, who worships Sri Hari's Deity with devotion, however does not adore His devotees, he is an ordinary devotee and we should realize that he has recently stepped into the realm of bhajan." – (S.B.11.2.47)

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has explained the above statement in his Krama-Sandarbha purport as follows – “Although such devotees worship Sri Bhagavân faithfully, they do not love Him, and hence they do not know the importance of His devotees. They do not even know that Sri Hari resides in each and every devotee and are not aware that it is the characteristic of a devotee to respect every element. Actually their faith is not scriptural, since the Bhakti-scriptures do not instruct us only to worship to Sri Bhagavân, but that we should adore His devotees and respect every living being, knowing that Sri Bhagavân is present in it. Sri Krishna has told in the verse 'jayâtma-buddhih kunape' (S.B.10.84.13) that – ‘The one who considers this material body as his own, his wife and children as his dear ones, worships a Deity transformed from material elements, water bodies as holy places, yet does not feel nearness, love, adoration for the devotees – he is as stupid as cows and donkeys.’ This is why such people are disinterested in worshiping the devotee and it is verily impossible for them to adore all living beings. Even the scriptures say that the one who worships Sri Govinda, yet does not worship His devotee is not a devotee at all, he is only arrogant.’ He is like a devotee, not really a devotee.”

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has defined a real junior devotee as follows –

“A junior devotee is a sâdhak who has scriptural faith, yet does not have passion for Sri Bhagavân”. This signifies that, since this devotee has scriptural faith he has the desire and courage to behave according to the Bhakti-scriptures. Sriman-*Mahâ*prabhu has stated the characteristics of a Vaishnav, medium Vaishnav and a best Vaishnav as follows –

Who is a real
junior devotee?

“Then Râmânanda Roy and Satyarâj Khân requested the Lord humbly – ‘I am but a materialistic householder, please instruct me how to practice bhakti. I shall be grateful if You give some command with Your holy lips.’

The Lord said – ‘Serve Sri Krishna and the Vaishnavs and constantly chant the Holy Name.’

Satyarâj asked – ‘How shall I recognize a Vaishnav? Please tell me the common characteristics of a Vaishnav.’

The Lord answered, ‘When we hear the Holy Name of Sri Krishna even once from someone’s mouth – we should worship him for he is the greatest of all.’

The villagers of Kulin requested as they had previously done – ‘Dear Lord, please order us how we should execute devotional practice?’

The Lord answered, ‘Serve the Vaishnavs and chant the Holy Name – simply do these two things and you will attain the lotus feet of Sri Krishna very soon.’

They asked, ‘Who is a Vaishnav? What are his characteristics?’

The Lord laughed for He understood what they wanted to say; He replied – ‘the one who always chants the Holy Name of Sri Krishna is the best of Vaishnavs; always worship his feet.’ After a year when they repeated the question the Lord taught them how to distinguish between Vaishnavs. He said – ‘when you see a Vaishnav and the Holy Name automatically appears on your lips – know him to be the best of Vaishnavs. In this manner the Lord expressed the characteristics of a Vaishnav and distinguished between ordinary, medium and the best Vaishnav.’ – (C.C.)

Sri Krishna told Sri Arjun in the Holy Gitâ –

“yo mad-bhaktah sa me priyah”

Meaning - "My devotee alone is dear to me."

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

This indicates that whoever is dearer to Sri Krishna is a greater devotee – undoubtedly. Sri Krishna has mentioned in verses such as "adweshtâ sarva-bhutânâm" (B.G.12.13-19) the qualities of the devotees who are loyal to Him. Then He has stated the result of hearing, reading and pondering on all those qualities as follows – "ye tu dharmâmritam-idam yathoktam paryupâsate, shraddadhânâ matparamâ bhaktâste teeva me priyâh" (B.G.12.20)

Srila Vishwanâth Chakravartipâd has explained this verse as follows - "O Arjun, I have earlier mentioned various qualities of the different devotees, however those siddha devotees have attained perfection in a certain quality, meaning, someone is without any negative disposition towards any element, someone is friendly towards all etc. The sâdhaks who desire the qualities of all those devotees and love me with faith and practice the path of dharma that I have preached (that is, hear, read, ponder) – they are very much dear to me. Although they are sâdhaks, they are greater than the siddhas who have perfected in one quality since they desire all the qualities of the siddhas. This is what 'ateeva' in the verse signifies."

Who is the dearest to Sri Krishna in the universe? The Lord has Himself stated at the end of Sri Gitâ – "Dear Arjun, The one who instructs this most confidential teaching to my devotees will attain supreme devotion and obtain me. In humankind there is none who was dearer to me, none is dearer now, nor will there be in the future." – (B.G.18.68 – 69)

So now we know that the instructions in the bhakti-shâstras are the dearest to Sri Bhagavân and no means is higher than hearing them. Those who make us relish the ras of the bhakti-shâstras to the devotees they are the dearest to Sri Bhagavân. They are indeed blessed for they have the most excellent quality. In fact relishing the ras of the scriptures is the life-air for a devotee. However we should hear from the ones who are satisfied with what ever they get, selfless, surrendered and behave like a devotee. Although one may peach the bhakti-shâstras he can never be dear to Sri Bhagavân if he does not possess the good qualities of a devotee – we should realize this fact. Srimad-Bhâgavatam states the characteristics of a Paramahamsa devotee as follows –

"yâtrânuraktâh sahasaiva dheera vyapohya dehâdîshu sangamudham, Brajanti tatpâramahamsyamantyam yasminnahimsopashamah swadharma."

- (S.B.1.18.22)

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd explains this verse in his Krama-Sandarbha as follows –

"The devotee who loves Sri Bhagavân deeply forsakes all material attachment and ascends to the status of a Bhâgavat-Paramahamsa. When we reach this stage we are devoid of jealousy etc and we become steady fast in Sri Bhagavân."

Sri Krishna has told Sri Uddhav –

"My devotees have true spiritual knowledge, they are entirely detached and do not expect even liberation, definitely not power and position, he shows the characteristics of bhâv, transcends the varnâshram dharma established in the scriptures. Hence he is beyond the scriptural injunctions."

Srila Vishwanâth Chakravartipâd has explained further –

"Although these devotees transcend scriptural injunctions they are extremely pure-hearted, therefore they never indulge in activities frowned upon by the scriptures – such as, slandering others, harming others, seducing others' wife, stealing, telling lies and jealousy. They do not possess the tendency towards such activities. The devotee who has attained prem forsakes the prescribed duties of the particular âshram while the devotee who has not attained prem continues to follow the rules of the âshram, yet within his heart he does not consider himself part of any âshram – hence he too is detached from âshram."

"A Krishna-devotee forsakes all – even the varnâshram dharma, he become free of all possessions and only seeks the refuge of Sri Krishna." – (C.C.)

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

"A Krishna-devotee forsakes the rules prescribed in the scriptures and adores Sri Krishna's lotus feet. However he never feels like committing the activities forbidden in the scriptures."
– (C.C.)

The devotees who analyze good and bad qualities of a person and accept them as such – we call them 'ordinary great devotees'. They can distinguish the good from the bad using the rules prescribed in the scriptures. We can also call them 'sadāchār devotees' – (B.s.201). We should associate with such devotees because they are the best for fallen souls such as myself. They will pick out and analyze my good and bad qualities, then they will instruct me how to get rid of my faults and if I do not obey them, they will chastise me – this is also their kripā. Those devotees who consider even the fallen souls as excellent and consider themselves as lower than a blade of grass – they are Mahābhāgavats. However they do not always feel compassion for sinners such as me. I am unable to understand in which situation and when they feel merciful to the living beings. Therefore it is best to associate with ordinary great devotees.

Association with devotees and their kripā are the only means to obtain bhakti

All the scriptures unanimously extol the greatness of associating with devotees. Since time infinite we have been bound by illusion. Due to this we have been wandering in 64 lakhs species¹ and materialism is carrying us towards destruction. The only way by which we can be saved from this doom is the association of devotees. It will ultimately reach us to the lotus feet of Sri Bhagavān. Association with devotees and their blessing alone can redeem us from this terrible fate.

"There is no way we can get bhakti without the mercy of great devotees; forget attaining Sri Krishna, without it we cannot even transcend the material ocean." – (C.C.)

Srimat Jiva Goswāmipād has proved point by point in his Sri Bhakti-Sandarbhā how we cannot turn towards the lotus feet of Sri Bhagavān since our heart is wicked since time infinite, it is steeped in material desires and it needs to become clean before it can develop any spiritual interest. He has written –

"Although Sri Bhagavān's kripā is necessary for us to turn to Sri Bhagavān, it is not so important. This is because the ones who are turned away from Sri Bhagavān are burning in the scorching fire of materialism so much that it is indeed impossible for divine mercy to independently fall on them. Mercy is a characteristic of the heart. When our sorrow touches the heart of a compassionate person, he feels mercy. Sri Bhagavān is eternally joyful. He is the embodiment of supreme bliss and ras. The sun is so brilliant that darkness can never touch it. Similarly we are suffering from false sorrows arising out of ignorance and illusion – hence our sadness can never touch the heart of ever-blissful Sri Hari. It is just impossible. Therefore although Sri Bhagavān is an ocean of mercy and He is capable of everything, the ones who are turned away from Him do not find relief from their suffering. Hence only the great devotees can redeem them, for their mercy is aroused when they see the suffering of the fallen souls. This is the greatest difference between Sri Bhagavān and His devotees.

It is true that the great devotees too do not feel the materialistic sorrow arising out of illusion and ignorance, yet one who is awake wishes to wake up a sleeping man who is tossing and turning due to a nightmare, the great devotee has arisen from the sleep of illusion and now he wishes to awaken the materialists who are enduring the agony of the nightmarish material sorrow. Hence we see that the great devotees carry Sri Bhagavān's kripā and transmit it into the living beings – divine mercy does not travel independently." – (B.S.180)

Even ordinary devatās and devis do not travel without a vehicle, then how can we expect the crest jewel of all shaktis – Bhagavad-kripā – divine mercy to travel without one?²

² Divine mercy uses the great devotee's heart as a vehicle or we can say that she rides on a vehicle called 'bhakta-sanga' and enters in our heart.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Srila Muchukunda extolled Lord Krishna –

"bhavâpavargo bhramato sada bhavejjanasya tarhyachyuta-sat-samagamâh, satsangamoyarhi tadeva sadgatou parâvareshe twayi jâyate matih."

Meaning - "My dear Lord, the living being wanders in the cycle of birth and death; when his material condition is about to end, he comes in contact with Your devotees. And then they get interested in You who are the sole refuge of the devotees."

Actually when we keep the company of the devotees our material condition comes to an end – and not the reverse. However King Muchukunda is stating 'material condition is about to end' before 'comes in contact with Your devotees' – this indicates that contact with devotees is so powerful and grants instantaneous result that you cannot make out what happened first – you came in contact with devotees or your material suffering got mitigated. The rhetoricians call this sort of statement as a figure of speech – 'the fourth type of hyperbole'. They say –

"chaturthi sâ kâranasya gaditum sheeghra kârya-kâritâm yâ hi kâryasya purvoktih".

Meaning – "When one wants to show how fast an action results into a reaction, one states the reaction before the action; we call this the fourth type of hyperbole."

Here another point to be noted is that destroying the material suffering is not the chief effect of bhakta-sanga (association with devotees). Its main consequence is to make us attain bhakti at the lotus feet of Sri Bhagavân. Ending the material suffering is only a bye-product. The main use of the sun is – it gives us light; that it also mitigates darkness is a secondary consequence. Similarly bhakta-sanga transmits bhakti in us, while destruction of ignorance and sorrow is the secondary effect.

Sri Krishna told Sri Nal-kuvar and Manigreev – "My devotee is impartial to all and has surrendered his heart unto me; when a living being beholds such a devotee then his material bondage is broken, just as the sunrise annihilates darkness." - (S.B.10.10.41)

Therefore, as soon as we associate with a devotee it certain that passion for Sri Hari will arise in us (this is the chief outcome) and along side it will break our material bondage – the secondary effect.

We may question – in most cases why do we not experience such colossal impact of bhakta-sanga? We do associate with devotees, and yet why we continue to turn away from Sri Bhagavân and we do not realize any passion for Him? Srimad-Bhâgavatam answers this question – this happens only in the case of offensive people. If we are inoffensive, then most certainly this effect will occur. The devotees do not wish to shower mercy on offensive people although they may associate with them –

"O Urugâya, O Paresh, the ones who have dishonest tendency or are offensive – they are turned away from you. Your devotees who are steadfast on Your lotus feet surely do not wish to glance at them." – (S.B.3.5.44)

This proves that Sri Bhagavân's devotees do not shower kripâ on offensive materialists. Here 'dishonest tendency' does not refer to materialistic characteristics alone, for until we get the kripâ of devotees, all of us are materialists. Hence 'dishonest tendency' indicates 'offensive' since ordinary materialists attract the devotees' kripâ. For example –

Sri Vidur Mahâshay told Srila Maitreya Rishi – 'O master, the ones who are turned away from Sri Krishna are suffering immensely since their past karma forces them to behave unrighteously. Sri Krishna's auspicious devotees such as you have appeared on earth to shower mercy on such materialists.' – (S.B.3.5.3)

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Therefore if anybody is inoffensive and has just one fault – that is – he is turned away from Sri Bhagavân – then as soon as he associates with devotees, he is rid of that shortcoming and he is interested in Sri Bhagavân. If one who is offensive and has turned away from Sri Bhagavân, then by merely associating with devotees he will not become interested in Sri Bhagavân.

Simply associating with devotees will not make an offensive materialist turn towards Sri Krishna – the great devotee has to feel compassion for him.

However if they can attract the kripâ of some very great soul then it is possible that his merciful glance will rid them of offenses and make them worship the lotus feet of Sri Hari. When an inoffensive materialist comes in contact with a great devotee, even though he may not consider him great and the great devotee does not think 'he is fallen, let me take mercy on him' – just the association will make the materialist worship Sri Bhagavân. However when a great devotee comes in contact with an offensive person, if he does not consider his offenses and simply showers kripâ on him just because he is munificent, then it is possible that he turns to Sri Bhagavân.

We can understand this fact better with the example of Sri Nal-kuvar and Manigreev and the ordinary devatâs. We see that Sri Nal-kuvar and Manigreev had offended Devarshi Nârad by disregarding him; however the great sage did not consider their offense and in stead cast his merciful glance on them. The result was that they got to live in Vrindâban inoffensively with the memory of their past life intact, got darshan of Sri Bâl-Gopâl and attained steadfast bhakti at His lotus feet. On the other hand we find that the devatâs who do not have respect for great devotees see Devarshi Nârad repeatedly yet do not get devotion for Sri Hari. They do pray to Sri Krishna from time to time – however it is in their self-interest. If Sri Krishna does anything that is not in their material interest then they do not lose the chance to turn against Him. We know very well what Indra did when Sri Krishna stopped the Brijwâsis from worshipping him – this incident in Srimad-Bhâgavatam is a burning testimony of this fact.

Still we have one doubt regarding this principle that – in his prayer Sri Prahlâd Mahâshay told Lord Nrisimha -

"naitân vihâya kripanân vimumukshu eko nânayam twadasya sharanam bhramato'nupashye"

Meaning - "My dear Lord, the living beings are suffering in the cycle of birth and death in this material ocean – I do not wish to forsake them and desire liberation for myself. These materialists are without any shelter and I see no compassionate person other than You who is capable of protecting them."

Then although Sri Prahlâd is so merciful towards all living beings how come they are continuing to suffer?

The answer is that, living beings are innumerable and Sri Prahlâd Mahâshay did not consider all of them. He has prayed to Lord Nrisimha about those whose suffering he has seen or heard, and it is certain they have been delivered. Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd who is a friend of all jivas (living beings) is positive about this.

Brahmarshi Bharat has clearly declared to King Rahugan that there is no other way to gain divine knowledge without serving (consuming, revering) the dust of the holy feet of the great devotees – "O Mahârâj Rahugan, unless and until we bathe in the dust of the holy feet of the great devotees – we cannot gain knowledge about the divine truth by any other means, such as – austerity, Vedic rituals, food-distribution, building shelter for refugees, Vedic study, worshipping the water, fire or the sun." – (S.B.5.12.12)

Srila Prahlâd Mahâshay too has prescribed worshipping the dust of the holy feet of the great devotees as the 'sure-shot' means to turn towards Sri Bhagavân -

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

"Unless and until we bathe in the dust of the feet of the devotees who are free of material desire our mind cannot touch the lotus feet of Sri Bhagavân. When we turn towards Sri Krishna all our bad qualities get destroyed." – (S.B.7.5.2)

"bhakta-pada-dhooli âr bhakta-pada-jal, bhakta-bhukta-abashesh – tin mohâbol."

Meaning - "The dust of the devotee's feet, the foot-wash of the devotee and the remnants of the devotee's prasâdam - these three are enormously invigorating." – (C.C.)

Sri Chaitanya-Charitâmrita continues – "These three grant us Sri Krishna-prem. All the scriptures cry out repeatedly and hence I am telling you again and again – Hear O devotees! worship these three with full confidence and you will experience the ecstasy of Sri Krishna-nâm and Sri Krishna-prem. Devotee Kâlidâs is an evidence of the miracle of Sri Krishna-prasâdam." – (C.C.)

Srila Kâlidâs Roy had immense faith in the *charanâmrita*¹ and *adharâmrita*² of the devotees. He was a rare fortunate soul who gained Sriman-*Mahâ*prabhu's kripâ in Neelâchal.³ Srila Narottam dâs Thâkur *Mahâ*shay has said –

"baishnaber pada-jal krishna-bhakti dite bol, âr keho nohe balabanta."

Meaning - "No one is as powerful as to give the mighty Sri Krishna-prem other than the foot wash of the Vaishnav."

"baishnaber uchchhishta, tâhe mor mon nishthâ, baishnaber nâmete ullâs."

Meaning - "My heart is faithfully absorbed in the remnant of the food partaken by the Vaishnav and I am ecstatic to hear and glorify the Holy Name of the Vaishnavs."

"bhagavad-bhakta-pâdâbja-pâdukâbhyo namo'stu me, yat-sangamah sâdhanancha sâdhyanchâkhilam-uttamam."

Meaning - "Association of the devotees is the topmost achievable goal and also the means to achieve the goal – I pay obeisance to the lotus feet and even to the shoes of such devotees of Sri Bhagavân."

Associating with one devotee = Innumerable lifetime achievements

Srimad-Bhâgavatam says – "Lord Agni (the fire-god) shatters darkness, cold and fear; likewise the shelter of devotees destroy the outcomes of karma, fear of material bondage, and the obstacles on the path of bhajan." – (S.B.11.26.31)

Srila Vishwanâth Chakravartipâd has explained this verse as follows –

"When we light the fire for cooking, the natural outcome (though we do not intend it – the real intention of lighting the fire is to cook) is that it dissipates darkness, fear and cold. Similarly if we associate with devotees to do better bhajan or to gain prem – we naturally break the bondage of karma, dispel worldly fear and obstacles in bhajan."

The association of devotees is more glorious than all the Holy places put together.

"The one who associates with devotees is greater than the one who bathes with reverence in the Gangâ." – (Padma Purân)

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Associating with devotees is greater than all pious activities.

"When you have bathed in the peaceful, serene, Gangâ-like association of the devotees, why do you need to perform charity, visit Holy places, tapasyâ and sacrifice?" – (Padma Purân)

Bhakta-sanga brings supreme joy and adds meaning to life during difficult times.

"When we are separated from friends our heart and home is empty, wise devotees make our lives meaningful, death attains immortality¹ and hard times appear like great bounty." – (Vashishtha Purân)

Bhakta-sanga makes us forget the body and its pleasures.

"Dear Kamal-nâbh², the devotees' hearts are extremely tempted by the fragrance of Your lotus feet; the ones who associate with such devotees do not remember this body which is otherwise so precious for worldly men and they never think of objects related to the body either, such as, home, property, friends, children and spouse."

– (S.B.4.9.12)

Bhakta-sanga makes the universe happy.

"The shelter of Vaishnavs is like the moonlight that is supremely blissful. It destroys all type of illness and suffering. Whom does it not please?" (Padma Purân)

Bhakta-sanga is the essence of everything.

"O son of Brahmâ, nothing in this world has any meaning; however for the ones who wish to perform Sri Hari-bhakti – for them bhakta-sanga alone is meaningful (the best sâdhanâ)." – (Brihan-Nâradiya Purân)

Bhakta-sanga is the only reason why we should drink the nectar of divine discourses.

Sage Nârada told King Prâchinbarhi – "O King, when serene and pure devotees of Sri Bhagavân gather eagerly to hear His excellences, in that august association, the glory of Lord Madhusudan flows like condensed Amritam from the lips of the great devotees. Those who listen attentively to that nectarine divine talk in a mood devoid of material desires, no material suffering – such as – hunger, thirst, fear, sorrow and illusion can pose an obstacle in their path."- (S.B.4.29.40-41) Srila Sanâtan Goswâmpâd has explained this verse from Srimad-Bhâgavatam as follows – "If we try to hear Sri Hari-kathâ alone then we feel bored and lazy. We lack the quality of being absorbed in ras and hence we are easily overwhelmed by hunger and thirst. However when we hear the nectarine divine discourses in the association of the devotees, bhakti comes naturally to us."

Bhakta-sanga naturally arouses bhakti.

Brihan-Nâradiya Purân says –

"The association of the devotees arouses bhakti in us; the one who has past sukriti alone has the good fortune of bhakta-sanga."

Bhakta-sanga verily subjugates Sri Bhagavân.

Sri Bhagavân told Sri Uddhav – "O scion of the Yadu clan, hear this most confidential truth. Since you are my servant, well-wisher and friend, I shall reveal the topmost secret to you. Ashtânga yog, sânkhya, non-violence, varnâshram-dharma, Vedic study, austerity, renunciation, sacrifices such as Agnishtom, welfare activities such as digging wells, alms-giving, vows such as Ekâdashi, worshiping the devatâs, chanting the secret mantras, serving the Holy places, controlling the internal and external senses – nothing can subjugate me like bhakta-sanga, for it breaks all material attachments."

¹ If someone dies in the company of devotees, he attains the lotus feet of Sri Bhagavân.

² The One Whose navel is shaped like a lotus petal, Sri Bhagavân.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

The association of devotees is the supreme goal.

The sages such as Shounak told Sri Suta – “Dear Suta, we do not compare the heaven and not even moksha with a trace of bhakta-sanga, hence what to speak of worldly treasures desired by ordinary mortals?”

– (S.B.1.18.13)

This is why Srimad-Bhāgavatam says – “The association of devotees is the greatest blessing to mankind.” – (S.B.12.10.7)

The scriptures and Mahājans conclude that prem and Sri Bhagavān's sevā are the greatest achievements of human life. The association of devotees is the means to achieve that topmost

If we associate carefully and nicely with devotees, we can easily attain prem for Sri Bhagavān's lotus feet and become blessed.

goal – prem. Then why are we calling bhakta-sanga the topmost goal? Valid question. The answer is that – the association of devotees results in bhakti, associating with devotees is synonymous with practicing bhakti and the result of bhakti is also the association of devotees. Prem alone can make Sri Krishna subordinate to us and the Lord is saying that associating with devotees can subjugate Him – this means that prem is equal to bhakta-sanga.

Lord Sri Kapildev told His mother Devahuti – “Dear mother, true association of devotee's results in the discussion of my glory that is extremely pleasurable to the ear and the heart. If one hears and ponders upon such talk with love then it mitigates all his material suffering and gradually arouses respect, passion and prem for me.”

– (S.B.3.25.24)

Here ‘true’ association indicates complete surrender to the devotees - with body, mind and speech. This means we should serve the devotees with our body, with mind we should have faith in them and their instructions and by speech we should glorify them. We should follow their ideal and perform bhajan according to their instructions. This is ‘true’ bhakta-sanga – it is not enough simply to approach them and live in their proximity.

Even after gaining bhakti bhakta-sanga is necessary to relish ras. Srimati Rādhārāni has written in Sri Bhakti-Rasāmrita-Sindhu -

“We should relish the ras of divine talks in the company of the devotees who are in the same mood as we, they should be serene, on higher level of bhakti than we are and they should be connoisseurs of ras.” – (B.R.S. 1.2.91)

Devotional practice has many classifications; hence it is necessary we keep the company of only *sajātiya*¹ devotees. Also we must associate with only those devotees who are higher in bhakti than we are and he should be compassionate and serene. Srila Rupa Goswāmipād has mentioned ‘sajātiyāshay’ to signify that the devotee whose company we keep should be of the same mood as we are, so that we can relish ras nicely, and the word ‘swato vara’ indicates that the company of such great devotees arouses bhakti-ras in us. When we take darshan of such great souls, touch them, speak to them and discuss Sri Bhagavān with them, then the passion in us is quickly transformed into ras and it becomes highly enjoyable.

Importance of serving the devotees

All the shāstras and saints loudly proclaim with the accompaniment of kettle-drums the great glory of serving the devotees. Sri Vidur Mahāshay has told Maitreya Muni in Srimad-Bhāgavatam - “O sage, by serving the devotees we get the highly delectable love for the lotus feet of Lord Madhusudan that is eternal and saves us from material sufferings.” – (S.B.3.7.19)

¹ Devotees practicing bhakti in the same mood as we are – e.g. parental mood, friendly mood, Manjari-swarup etc.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has explained this statement in Bhakti-Sandarbha (2.44) as follows –
" Sevâ is of two types –

- Paricharyâ – to please a Vaishnav by offering money, food and massaging the feet.
- Prasangâ – to make a Vaishnav hear Sri Hari-kathâ and Harinâm.

Of the two sevâ, paricharyâ is greater since we can quickly attain divine prem by resorting to this sevâ. Sri Bhagavân has told Uddhav – 'mad-bhakta-pujâbhy-adhikâ' - I am more pleased when you worship my devotee. When we worship the Vaishnav we should do so considering him or her as an appearance of Lord Vishnu. Beware! Even though the Vaishnav may belong to a lower class or of ill nature, he is worthy of our adoration. Under no circumstance must we ever disregard a Vaishnav who adorns tilak and Tulsî, for it is an offence.

When we serve – we should not consider the community, race and nature of a Vaishnav – however when we associate then we should make certain that we keep the company of only sadâchâri and good Vaishnavs. The scriptures instruct us not to associate with ill-natured Vaishnavs.

Sri Rishabhdev instructed his sons in Srimad-Bhâgavatam –

"The association of great devotees is the door to gain prem-bhaktî, while the company of womanizers is the gateway of hell."

We see in Padma Purân –

Lord Mahâdev said – "Dear devâ! Worshipping Sri Vishnu is greater than worshiping all devatâs, but worshiping the Vaishnav is even greater than that."

"tasmâd-vishnu-prasâdâya vaishnavân paritoshayet"

Meaning - "If we wish to please Lord Vishnu we have to please the Vaishnavs in all respect."

– (Itihâs-samuchchay)

Sri Chaitanya-Bhâgabat says –

*"krishna-sebâ hoite baishnab-sebâ bodo, bhâgabat âdi sob shâstre koilo dadha.
eteko baishnab-sebâ parom upây, bhakta-sebâ hoite shobâi krishna pay."*

Meaning - "Serving the Vaishnav is greater than serving Sri Krishna - this is the firm conclusion of Srimad-Bhâgavatam and other scriptures. Hence serving the Vaishnav is the best way to please Sri Krishna and everyone can attain Sri Krishna by resorting to Vaishnav-sevâ."

*krishna-bhojibâr jâr âchhe abhilâsh, se bhojuk krishner mangal nija dâs.
shobâre shikhây gourchandra-bhagabâne, baishnaber sebâ prabhu koriyâ âpone."*

Meaning - "Whoever wishes to worship Sri Krishna should worship his devotees who are auspicious. Bhagavân Sri Gourchandra teaches everyone by serving the Vaishnavs with His own hands." – (Sri Chaitanya-Bhâgabat)

In spite of being Swayam Bhagavân, Sriman-*Mahâ*prabhu has instructed all humankind the wonderful outcome of bhakta-sevâ by serving His devotees Himself. Srila Vrindâban dâs Thâkur says –

*"ningâroye bastra kâro koriyâ jotone, dhuti-bastra tuli kâro den to âpone.
kush, gangâ-mrittikâ kâhâro den kore, sâji bohi konodîn chole kâro ghare.
sakal baishnabgon hây hây kore,*

ki koro ki koro ! tobu kore bishwambhare. "

Meaning - "The Lord either squeezed someone's clothes (after they were washed) or picked up and gave another's dhoti and shirt. Sometimes He would place kush (a type of grass used for worshipping) and the earth of Gangâ and at other times He would carry a devotee's flower-casket to his room. All the Vaishnavs would protest and lament – Alas! Alas! What are You doing? – They would ask. Yet Lord Vishwambhar (Sriman-*Mahâ*prabhu) would not listen and continue to serve the devotees." – (Sri Chaitanya-Bhâgabat)

The Lord has clarified why He was serving His devotees –

"tomrâ se pâro krishna-bhajan dibâre, dâsere sebile krishna anugraha kore. "

Meaning - "You are devotees – so you can give me Sri Krishna-bhajan. When one serves Sri Krishna's servant then He shows mercy on one."

"tomâ sobâ sebile se krishna-bhakti pâi. "

Meaning - "By serving all of you I can get Sri Krishna-bhakti."

Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd has written in Sri Bhakti-Rasâmrita-Sindhu –

"We have described here some topics of Bhagavad-bhakti, however the wise know that majority of them pertain to worshipping the devotees." – (B.R.S. 1.2.219)

We may ask – "The scriptures and saints are instructing us to serve the Vaishnavs – how shall we execute this order? We can worship Sri Bhagavân by hearing, glorifying etc. But how will we express adoration for the Vaishnavs?"

Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd replies to this question – "We have stated that hearing, glorifying, meditating etc. are means of worshipping Sri Bhagavân, majority of them are the means to adore Vaishnavs as well. For example, hearing the names and excellences of the Vaishnavs, glorifying them, performing archanam, praying to them, taking their darshan, paying obeisance and doing parikramâ with faith and reverence. This is because when we express devotion for the Vaishnavs we are showing our love for Sri Krishna. Sri Nârad-Pancharâtra gives the topmost instruction when it says – "vaishnavânâm parâbhakti" – practice supremæ devotion to the Vaishnavs."

Sri Bhagavad-Tattva-Vigyaan

(A Scientific study of God)

Who is a devotee?

Srimat Jiva Goswāmpād has stated in the third chapter of Sri Bhagavat-Sandarbha –

"There is an absolute Mass of Bliss Who has an inherent power. He has inexpressible qualities and He is the origin of all divine powers. His intrinsic power comprises of sub-powers. 'Hlādini Shakti' or the Power of Bliss is the chief sub-power. Hlādini Shakti has a special property – devotion or bhakti."

There are sages situated in extremely high spiritual position, so much so, that they have realized Brahman. When they experience this Mass of Bliss, they get bhakti in their heart. Their internal and external senses are drenched with bhakti. Then bhakti manifests to them that supreme Shakti (Mass of Bliss). He appears as the Hero of various leelās with a multitude of capabilities. This is Bhagavān or God."

In simple terms, Sri Bhagavān is a transcendental Tattva and has all the powers to the fullest extent. Therefore, we conclude that –

"Sri Bhagavān has all the powers – material or spiritual." – (B.S.17th chapter)

The Vaishnav-Toshani purport of Srimad-Bhāgavatam (10.12.11) has stated as follows –

"Bhagavān is someone Who comprises of extraordinary swarup, majesty and sweetness. Swarup means 'supreme bliss', majesty refers to unparalleled and infinite lordship and sweetness implies unmatched, all-captivating natural beauty, excellence and leelās."

In other words – Sri Bhagavān is a supernatural Tattva that is eternal, conscious and blissful. He has absolute sovereignty and beauty. No one has equal or more supremacy than He does, no body can compare with Him in all-mesmerizing looks and excellences, and neither can anyone match Him in beautiful leelās. Such is Sri Bhagavān.

Shruti and Upanishads mention often that the Supreme Brahman is eternal, conscious and blissful (sat-chit-ānanda).

"The Supreme Being is sat-chit-ānanda." – (Nri Purva 1.6)

"(Sri Bhagavān says) - I am absolute and sat-chit-ānanda." – (Maitri.3.12)

"The Supreme One is Truth, conscious and eternal." – (Taittiriya Upanishad¹.2.1.1)

"Verily know the Supreme One to be bliss." - (Brihad-Āranyak Upanishad².2.9.28)

"We know for sure that the Supreme One is bliss." – (Taittiriya Upanishad.2.6.1.)

Shrutis often repeat that Parabrahman is extremely majestic. He is all knowing, the ultimate decision-maker, the Great Controller, colossal – the sun, moon and all heavenly bodies move by His command. All universes are resplendent with His almighty existence.

"ishāvāsyam idam sarvam" – "Everything belongs to God."

¹ The Taittiriya Upanishad forms the seventh, eighth and ninth chapters of the Taittiriya Āranyak of the Krishna Yajur Ved. These chapters are known as Shikshā Valli, Ānanda Valli and Bhṛigu Valli, respectively.

² It is widely known for its philosophical statements, and is ascribed to Rishi Yāgnavalkya. Its name is literally translated as "great-forest-book". It includes three sections, namely, Madhu Kanda, Muni Kanda (or Yāgnavalkya Kanda) and Khila Kanda. The Madhu Kanda explains the teachings of the basic identity of the individual or jiva and the Atman. Muni Kanda includes the conversations between the sage Yāgnavalkya and his wife, Maitreyi. Various methods of worship and meditation are dealt in the Khila Kanda.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

"sarvasya prabhum ishânâṃ sarvasya sharanam brihat." – "God is the Master of everything and That Almighty One Is the shelter of all."

"esha sarvashwara esha sarvagnyah esho'ntaryâmi" – "God is Almighty, He is all-knowing, and omniscient."

'vashi sarvasya lokasya sthâvarasya charasya cha' – "God is the controller of everything – moving and non-moving."

Sage Yagnavalkya¹ told Gârghi –
"etasya vâ aksharasya prashâsane gârghi surya-chandramasou vidhritou toshthat, etasya vâ aksharasya prashâsane gârghi dyâvâ prithivyau vidhrite tishthata." – "O Gârghi, That One Being controls the sun and the moon, as well as the earth."

Sri Gitâ too says – "shashi-surya-netram" – "The sun and the moon are His eyes."

Sri Bhagavân is so magnificent that even He is incapable of describing His majesty, so He is telling Arjun – "Everything that is magnificent, rich and powerful – know it to be a part of my potency."
– (B.G.10.41)

The material universe comprises of just one part of the Lord's majesty while the remaining three-fourth is in the divine world. We see in the Chhândogya Upanishad – "Where does Sri Bhagavân reside? He resides in His infinite glory."

The Vedas and Upanishads also tell us about Sri Bhagavân's sweetness. The Aryan rishis worshiped Sri Bhagavân intensely; therefore, they realized the entire creation as an expression of the Lord's sweetness. The mantra "madhuvâtâ ritâyate madhuksharanti sindhava" of the Rig Ved says –

"The breeze is laden with sweet fragrance; the seas ooze sweetness, the plants, the days and nights and the earth are all sweet."

They must have relished someone Who is extraordinarily sweet and full of ras – otherwise they would not have made a statement that expresses such a sweet bhâv.

Madhuvidyâ of Brihad-Âranyak says – "Paramâtmâ Sri Bhagavân is the sweetness in everything."

Sri Bhagavân is absolute; He is naturally majestic and sweet. He is the ocean of sachchidânanda. He is the embodiment of love, ras and joy. His body is not material; therefore, it is eternal. His body is made up of bliss.

"His body and soul are non-different." – (Kurma Purân)

¹ According to Indian tradition, he was the son of sage Devarât and was the pupil of sage Vaishampâyan. Once, Vaishampâyan got angry with Yâgnavalkya as the latter displayed too much sense of pride in being abler than other students. The angry teacher asked his pupil Yâgnavalkya to give back all the knowledge of Yajurved he taught him. As per the demands of his Guru, Yâgnavalkya vomited all the knowledge that he acquired from his teacher in form of eaten food. Other disciples of Vaishampâyan took the form of partridge birds and consumed the vomited stuff because it was knowledge and they were very eager to receive the same. The Sanskrit name for partridge is "Tittiri". As the Tittiri (partridge) birds ate this Veda, it is thenceforth called the Taittiriya Yajurved. It is also known as Krishna Yajurved or Black-Yajurved on account of it being a vomited substance. It is also called Taittiriya Samhitâ. Then Yâgnavalkya determined not to have any human guru thereafter. Thus he began to propitiate the Sun God, Surya. Yâgnavalkya worshipped and extolled the Sun, the master of the Vedas, for the purpose of acquiring the fresh Vedic portions not known to his preceptor, Vaishampâyan. The Sun God, pleased with Yâgnavalkya's penance, assumed the form of a horse and graced the sage with such fresh portions of the Yajurveda as were not known to any other. This portion of the Yajurved goes by the name of Shukla Yajurved or White-Yajurved on account of it being revealed by Sun.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

"Sri Bhagavân has many forms and all the forms are eternal and changeless. These forms do not have a beginning or an end. They are not material, but transcendental." – (Varâha Purân)

"All the forms of Sri Bhagavân are true, conscious, infinite and made of blissful ras. Even the sages who are extremely pure-hearted and are learned in the Vedânta cannot realize Their glory." – (S.B.10.13.54)

This is why the gyânîs consider His body as an illusion.

Sriman-*Mahâ*prabhu has told Sârvabhouma Bhattâchârya – *ishwarer sri bigraha sach-chidanandâkâr, se bigrohe koho sattva guner bikâr.
sri bigroho je nâ mane sei to pâshandi, adrishya asprishya hoy se jom-dandi.*

Meaning – "The Supreme Being's form is sachchidânanda. How can you say it is made of sattva-gur? Who does not accept that Sri Bhagavân's form is eternal and blissful is verily an atheist."

Sri Bhagavân's form is sachchidânanda, this is why it is simultaneously omnipresent and place-bound. Sri Bhagavân's power is inconceivable; therefore He is capable of such contradictions. Just because He is in the form of a Deity, it does not mean that He is only there and nowhere else. Sri Bhagavân is almighty, hence He is present everywhere, in everything eternally. A material object can be present in a certain place at one time, however this is not the case with Sri Bhagavân. He is beyond the rules of the material world. Sri Bhagavân is beyond time, beyond the rules of action and reaction, beyond material attributes. His Deity is non-different from Himself. His Deity is without a beginning and end. It was so in the distant past; it is so today and will remain like this in the everlasting future.

Sri Bhagavân's body is not made up of the Five Elements

Sri Bhagavân's body is not made up of the Five Elements (earth, water, fire, air and space). These comprise only material objects.

"Who considers Sri Bhagavân's body to comprise of the Five Elements is banned from performing all auspicious activities mentioned in the Shrutis and the Smritis."

In fact, Sri Bhagavân's birth and activities are divine, they are untouched by the illusory energy (= they are not an illusion; they are real) and they are loving expressions of His divine leelâ-shakti. The divine abode is an inexhaustible source of leelâ-ras. Innumerable forms of that One Supreme Being sport therein. From there He takes mercy on the living beings and descends in the material earth. Here He expresses various sweet divine pastimes and again draws these leelâs within Himself. This is the mystery of Sri Bhagavân's appearance and disappearance.

"Who knows this secret of my divine birth and activities (pastimes) in truth and principle are freed from the bonds of birth and karma, they become free of illusion and attain Sri Bhagavân." – (B.G.4.9)

Sripâd Râmânujâchârya has explained this verse as follows –

"The Blessed Lord is saying – 'A devotee may have inauspicious qualities that stop him from approaching my lotus feet; however if he knows the truth and principle behind my divine birth and activities, then that knowledge destroys countless inauspicious qualities and the devotee surrenders unto me in this very life, endears himself to me and attains me'"

Sri Bhagavân has three shaktis

"Whoever knows Sri Krishna's swarup and His three shaktis, has no doubt about Him." – (C.C.)
We have already mentioned that Bhagavân is an absolute and almighty Tattva. Now we are analyzing His strength. We can understand Him better if we know His potency.

Sri Bhagavân has three principal shaktis.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

"These three shaktis are as follows –

1. Chit-shakti – We also call it 'swarup-shakti'. It is 'antarangâ' or internal. It has infinite opulence and the divine realms such as the countless Vaikunthas are made of this shakti.
2. Mâyâ-shakti – It is the 'bahirangâ' or external shakti. The material world comprising of innumerable universes is made up of this shakti.
3. Jiv-shakti – It is also called 'tatasthâ-shakti'. It is present in all the living beings.

These three shaktis further consist of infinite shaktis." - (C.C.)

Chit-shakti

Shwetâshwatar Upanishad is saying – "We hear about the shakti of the Divine Being"

This shakti is nothing but the 'chit-shakti' or the 'Antarangâ shakti'. This shakti is the closest to Sri Bhagavân. This is why we call it 'internal'. It is self-manifesting and is the opposite of non-conscious. Hence, it is 'consciousness' or 'chit-shakti' ('chit' means conscious). It is present in the Supreme Being's swarup. Therefore, we also call it 'swarup-shakti'. It is greater than the other two shaktis in nature and glory. Therefore, it is 'Parâ-shakti' or 'supremè shakti'. Thus, it has the following names –

- Antarangâ-shakti
- Chit-shakti
- Swarup-shakti
- Parâ-shakti

"Sri Krishna is sat-chit-ânanda. His chit-shakti assumes three forms -

1. Sandhini – When the swarup-shakti manifests the property 'sat' (eternally existent), we call it 'sandhini'. Although Sri Bhagavân is 'sat' personified, He exists and makes others existent using the sandhini-shakti.
2. Samvit – When the swarup-shakti conveys knowledge or consciousness, it is expressing itself as 'samvit'. Sri Bhagavân is the embodiment of knowledge. Yet He uses the samvit-shakti to know Himself and make others know about Him.
3. Hlâdini –

"When the swarup-shakti expresses bliss, we call it 'hlâdini.'" - (C.C.)

Sri Bhagavân is Bliss, yet He relishes joy using Hlâdini-shakti and makes others relish too.

We cannot separate Sri Bhagavân's sat, chit and ânanda. Similarly sandhini, samvit and hlâdini too are intermingled with each other.

We have stated that chit-shakti is self-manifested. When the sun rises, it shows itself and illuminates other substances as well. Similarly, chit-shakti manifests itself as well as other objects. It is a conglomeration of sandhini, samvit and hlâdini. Chit-shakti* has a property called 'vishuddha-satva' (= especially pure goodness). Sri Bhagavân uses this property while appearing. All three – hlâdini, sandhini and samvit – are present together in vishuddha-satva. However sometimes they manifest themselves in equal amounts and sometimes in different proportions. 'Vishuddha-satva' gains special names depending on how much hlâdini, samvit and sandhini is expressed in it. Some of them are as follows –

- Âdhâr-shakti – When sandhini-shakti expresses itself to a large degree, then 'vishuddha-satva' is called 'âdhâr-shakti'. Sri Bhagavân manifests His abode using this power.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

"When sandhini-shakti is dominant we call it as 'shuddha-satva' (not to be confused with vishuddha-satva). Sri Bhagavân's power rests on this. His parents, abode, home, bed etc are made up of shuddha-satva." – (C.C.)

- Ātma-vidyā – When samvit-shakti makes up the major portion of vishuddha-satva, we call it 'ātma-vidyā.' It has two forms – (a) knowledge (b) dispenser of knowledge.
It gives knowledge to the worshiper.

"The function of samvit is to give knowledge about Sri Krishna's divinity and all sorts of spiritual awareness." – (C.C.)

- Guhya-vidyā – When hlādini is dominant in vishuddha-satva, it is called 'guhya-vidyā' (secret knowledge). It has two forms – (a) devotion (b) harbinger of devotion.
It gives loving devotion or 'prem-bhakti' to a devotee.

"When we condense hlādini we get 'prem'. It is made up of blissful and conscious (or divine) ras". – (C.C.)

- Murti – When sandhini, samvit and hlādini manifest in equal amounts in vishuddha-satva we call it as 'murti'. Sri Bhagavân's Holy Form manifests due to this shakti.

Mâyâ-shakti

(External potency)

Sri Bhagavân has described His external Mâyâ-shakti to Brahmâji with His own Holy lips –
"I am the only object worth accomplishing. When one cannot understand this and realizes something else, it is 'mâyâ'. Mâyâ cannot exist on its own - just like a reflection or darkness."
- (S.B.2.9.3)

Mâyâ's first characteristic is - when we do not realize Sri Bhagavân, we appreciate mâyâ. We do not turn towards Him and in stead consider mâyâ true. So let us understand that those who have not realized Sri Bhagavân, or have turned away from Him are the ones who consider their body and everything related to the body as real. They do not comprehend that these substances are all mâyâ. It naturally follows that if we realize Sri Bhagavân, mâyâ will not have any effect on us. We will know that mâyâ's activities are temporary and material pleasure will never tempt us.

Sri Bhagavân has stated another characteristic of mâyâ – "It cannot exist on its own". This means that mâyâ cannot exist without Sri Bhagavân. It is true that when we do not experience Sri Bhagavân, we fall into the clutches of mâyâ. However, it is also true that Sri Bhagavân is the source of mâyâ. Power (Shakti) has to come from a powerful person (Shaktimân). There cannot be any power other than Sri Bhagavân (since He is almighty). So this means that mâyâ also comes from Him. Nevertheless, we should also know that mâyâ is His external potency and does not exist within Him. It is a power working in the material world (outside the divine empire).

Sri Bhagavân has explained mâyâ further with two examples – "Just like (a) reflection and (b) darkness". We can see the reflection of the sun in a water body. The sun's reflection is very far from the sun and it is in the world. Similarly, mâyâ occurs outside the divine realm. Sri Bhagavân's internal potency works in His transcendental world while mâyâ manifests itself in the material world.

We may ask – "Power exists within the powerful person. When Mâyâ is present so far from the Supreme Being then how can you call it His Shakti?" The answer is – A powerful person is the source of power. It cannot survive without him. We cannot see the sun's reflection in the absence of the sun. Therefore, although Mâyâ exists far from the Supreme Being, He is its source."

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Another point - "Mâyâ is like darkness". If we stare long enough at the sun's reflection, its glare blinds us and we begin to see darkness. This darkness is present in our eyes and not in the sun. However, we experience the darkness because of the sun. Likewise, although the Supreme Being is the source of Mâyâ it exists outside Him. Sri Jiva Goswâmpâd says, "External Mâyâ is of two types - (a) Jiva-mâyâ (b) Guna-mâyâ."

(a) Jiva-mâyâ - When we stare at the sun's reflection in a water body, its glare blinds us. Similarly, the Mâyâ that covers our intelligence is called 'Jiva-mâyâ'. It has two functions -

- To cover - Mâyâ covers our intelligence and does not allow us to know our swarup. It prevents us from learning that we are originally transcendental beings.
- To distract - Mâyâ distracts us from the lotus feet of Sri Bhagavân and instead throws our mind into non-conscious matter. It makes us feel that we are this body and makes our mind wander in the alleys of sense gratification.

(b) Guna-mâyâ - As we continue to look intently at the reflection of the sun, the darkness assumes many shapes. Similarly, mâyâ presents three gunas - satvah, rajah, tamah - in various shapes to us.

"The material world is not a source at all. Nature is without any consciousness. Sri Krishna takes mercy and implants His shakti in it. When a piece of iron encounters fire, the fire transmits its quality to the iron (that is the iron becomes red hot like the fire). Similarly due to His shakti, Nature assumes some attributes or gunas." - (C.C.)

Tatasthâ Jiva-shakti

(The shakti inside living beings)

The shâstras prove that the living being is essentially Sri Bhagavân's Shakti. Sri Vishnu Purân says -

"We call Vishnu-shakti or Swarup-shakti as divine power. There is another shakti called Jiva-shakti. There is a third power that results in ignorance (external Mâyâ-shakti)."

We also find in Sri Gitâ -

Sri Krishna told Arjun - "O mighty-armed hero, I have an excellent power called Jiva-shakti which is different from Mâyâ-shakti. This excellent power is holding the world."

"The living entity is shakti (Power) while Sri Krishna is the Shaktimân (powerful person). The scriptures such as Sri Gitâ and Vishnu Purân prove this." - (C.C.)

This Jiva-shakti belongs neither to Swarup-shakti nor to Mâyâ-shakti. We call it 'tatasthâ' - something that lies midway between the two. Sri Bhagavân is almighty and conscious Being while the Jiva-shakti is atom-like in comparison. Shrutis mention that - the Jiva is as small as the ten thousandth part of the tip of a hair. There are countless jivas. We can classify them into two groups -

(a) Nitya-mukta (eternally free) - A class of living beings are turned towards Sri Bhagavân and have divine knowledge since time infinite. They are 'Nitya-mukta'.

(b) Nitya-baddha (eternally bound) - This group has forgotten Sri Bhagavân since eternity and is turned away from Him. - (Paramâtma-Sandarbhâ)

Sriman-*Mahâ*prabhu has told in Sanâtan-shikshâ -

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

"Jivas are of two types – (a) eternally free and (b) eternally bound to the material world. Those who are eternally free turn toward Sri Krishna's feet forever. They are His associates and enjoy the pleasure of serving Him. The eternally bound are the ones who have turned away from Him since infinity. They suffer hellish pains in the material world." – (C.C.)

Sri Bhagavân is the only One worth worshipping

Sriman-*Mahâ*prabhu has told in Sanâtan-shikshâ –

"Jiva forgot that he is the eternal servant of Sri Krishna. Due to this crime, Mâyâ tied a noose round his neck. When he learns this and serves Sri Gurudev and Sri Krishna, he becomes free from Mâyâ's clutches and attains Sri Krishna's feet." – (C.C.)

Since eternity, we have turned away from Sri Bhagavân. Therefore, our heart is always unclean. This is the reason that in spite of being a part of That sat-chit-ânanda (which means, originally the jiva is blissful), the living entity is in mâyâ's grip and is suffering in various species perpetually. If Jiva wants to break free from Mâyâ's bondage and enjoy permanent bliss, he has no option but to worship the lotus feet of Sri Bhagavân. The Lord has said with His Holy lips –

"O Arjun, my Mâyâ bewitches all living beings. It comprises of the three gunas - sattva, raja, tama. It is verily insurmountable. The tiny jiva can never fight with Mâyâ-shakti and defeat it. Only those who surrender unto me can cross the ocean-like mâyâ." – (B.G.7.14)

"Sri Krishna is like the brilliant sun, while Mâyâ is darkness. When Sri Krishna is present, Mâyâ cannot exist." – (C.C.)

When the jiva, who is Sri Krishna's eternal servant, wishes to go beyond the dark ocean-like Mâyâ and gain the joyous loving service of Sri Bhagavân, he certainly has to accept the path of God-worship. This is why Sri Krishna has told Arjun –

"O Bhârat, you surrender completely unto the Supreme Being. Then by His mercy, you will gain supreme peace and attain His eternal abode." – (B.G.18.62)

In Srimad-Bhagavad-Gitâ, after describing desire-free karma, the path of knowledge and yog-practices, the Lord has said –

"O Arjun, I am repeating the deepest secret, hear my supreme words. You are extremely dear to me – therefore I am telling you. Surrender your heart to me, become my devotee, worship me and bow before me. You are my very dear one – I pledge that if you follow my command you shall certainly get me. Forsake all dharma and take my shelter alone. I will free you from all sins – do not grieve." – (B.G.18.64-66)

"Earlier He (Sri Krishna) advised the principles of the Vedas, karma, yog and gyân. Ultimately, He gave a strong commandment. If the devotee has faith in this commandment, he forsakes all activities and worships Sri Krishna." - (C.C.)

Sri Bhagavân instructed Arjun on many subjects and eventually revealed the most confidential message hidden in the heart of all shâstras – to worship Sri Bhagavân and take shelter of His lotus feet. He has stated this very clearly. Life is short. We would like to perform various dharmas, clean up our heart and gain the highest goal. However, by then our life is finished. There is neither any time nor the opportunity to reach the goal. As a result, compassionate Sri Bhagavân is telling Arjun to forsake all other dharmas and directly surrender unto Him. He is instructing Arjun about bhajan. Sri Bhagavân loves those who seek His protection. He has vowed to burn all our sins that become obstacles in the path of bhakti. Our hearts are stained with material attachment and envy that we have collected since infinity. We can never clean up our heart on our own. So, if we are intelligent, we shall surely take Sri Bhagavân's shelter with singular devotion and make ourselves blessed. We have to sacrifice our ego completely and depend on His Holy feet. Then we will gain the serene touch of His mercy. We shall rest in supremæ peace and sanctify ourselves. Those of us who wish to soothe the scorching heat of the three fold miseries and float in the river of love should surrender at His Holy feet with body, mind and soul and take to the path of divine bhajan. Then, after this karmic body ends, we shall become divine associates and absorb in His service. We will relish Sri Bhagavân's sweet transcendental beauty, excellences and pastimes forever and they will appear new each time. No scripture or saint disagrees with this. Sri Bhagavân has told Sri Uddhav –

“O Uddhav, I have prescribed duties in the Vedas and have stated that it is good to follow these rules and it is wrong not to obey them. However, in spite of knowing this, if someone considers the Vedic rules to be a disturbance in his path of meditation (upon me), he has firmly decided that he will accomplish the highest goal solely on the strength of my Bhakti, and he has forsaken all dharmas to practice Bhajan, he is a topmost saint.” – (S.B.11.11.32)

Sripâd Shukamuni has stated in the beginning of Srimad-Bhâgavatam - “tasmâd bhârata sarvâtmâ bhagavânishwaro harih, shravayah kirtitavyashcha smartavyashchechchhatâbhayam.”

“O Parikshit Mahârâj, whoever wishes to get rid of fear ought to hear, glorify and reminisce only about Sri Hari, Who is ‘sarvâtmâ’ (present in everybody’s heart) and is the Supremæ Controller.” – (S.B.2.1.5)

Sridhar Swâmpâd has explained this verse as follows – “Sripâd Shukamuni explained that Sri Bhagavân is the only Person worthy of worshiping. To indicate this he has used four names –

- ‘Sarvâtmâ’ (present in everybody’s heart) –>He is dear to all.
- ‘Bhagavân’ -> this word stands for beauty.
- Ishwar –>it is necessary to worship Him.
- Hari ->He steals material bondage.

Why does Shukadev Goswâmi use the name ‘sarvâtmâ’?

The Vedas, whom we consider as our Mother, too tells us that –

“The supremæ Being Who dwells in our heart is dearer to us than even our children, wealth and everything else.” – (Brihad-Âranyak Upanishad.1.4.8.).

“We like the objects not because they are those objects, but because they contain the Supremæ One in them.” – (Brihad-Âranyak Upanishad)

The Supremæ Being’s consciousness reflects in material objects and makes them worthy of love. He is the Soul of the soul. This is why our soul is dear to us. Paramâtmâ is worthy of selfless love. This Great Soul is amalgamated with everything in the universe – whether it has a soul or not and is making it lovable. Water naturally proceeds towards the sea. Similarly, the love of every living being flows towards Sri Bhagavân. The scriptures say “priya eva varaniya bhavati” (what you love appears great). Since we naturally love Sri Bhagavân, we find Him great and so it is easy to worship Him.

The question may arise – we see that only the love of staunch devotees flow towards Sri Bhagavân. Then how can we say that everybody’s love is directed to Him? The reply is that, although water naturally flows towards the sea, we do not find all water bodies heading for the same. Only the rivers flow into the sea. If water logs in some hole or ditch, it stops flowing. Gradually, it becomes filthy, rots and worms wriggle in it. We cannot use this water for drinking or bathing. However, it does not mean that this water has lost its property or qualification to move towards the sea. Now if there is torrential rain, and the rainwater enters the ditch, the water rises up. The worms are destroyed. The water becomes pure, enters a stream and into Ganga. It mixes with the water of Ganga and gushes towards the sea, unobstructed. In the same manner, the living being, who has turned away from Sri Krishna - his love is confined to small holes (material objects of sense gratification). Therefore, it has become selfish and filthy. Thousands of worms (material desires) are wriggling in it. The natural function of love, that is, to serve Sri Bhagavân, is lost (just like the ditch-water that loses its potability). Even then, it retains its characteristic to rush towards Sri Bhagavân. If he hears abundant nectarine Harikathâ in the association of pure devotees (this is like the torrential rain), then the sweet talk along with kripâ of the pure devotees enter his heart through his ears. His love forsakes materialism, selfishness and becomes pure. It rushes towards Sri Bhagavân. Gradually it mixes with the Ganga-like bhakti and flows uninterruptedly towards Him. Sripâd Shukamuni has indicated this process by using the name 'sarvâtmâ'.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

What does 'Bhagavân' indicate?

Also, He is 'Bhagavân', which indicates that He is immeasurably beautiful and sweet. Tell me, who does not worship beauty? We like to see beautiful things, our ears crave for sweet music, we like to taste beautiful delicious food with the tongue, our nose seeks beautiful fragrance and our skin desires the touch of beautiful soft and luxurious objects. We think of beautiful things and love beauty. The fact that all our senses tend to worship beauty indicates that in reality they would like to adore That 'satyam shivam sundaram' – immensely beautiful and immeasurably sweet Sri Bhagavân. We shall never be satisfied with the material world since it is non-conscious and even happiness here ultimately results in pain. By the grace of pure devotees, when we gain the knowledge of Sri Bhagavân's divine beauty and ras, our senses absorb in Him forever. Then we loathe worldly beauty and enjoyments. Sripâd Shukamuni has used the word 'Bhagavân' because He is the only Person worthy of our adoration.

Why does Shukadev Goswâmi use the name 'Ishwar'?

The name 'Ishwar' tells us that it is necessary for all humankind to worship Him. This is because, by worshiping Him, we do well for ourselves – in fact, extremely well.

"Those of us who feel, "I am this body and everything related to this body belongs to me" are always anxious. We constantly worry about losing our possessions. However, if we worship Achyuta (the One Who is steadfast) we lose our fear and gain nectarine divine prem – thus we are blessed." – (S.B.11.2.30)

On the other hand –

"Who do not worship God, are evil, lowest amongst humankind, Mâyâ shrouds their intellect and they are âsuric."- (B.G.7.15)

"The Supreme Controller throws such lowly people in violent species such as tigers and snakes repeatedly." – (B.G.16.19)

This means that it is absolutely necessary for everyone to worship God.

What does 'Hari' mean?

Shukadev Goswâmi has called Sri Bhagavân as 'Hari'. Hari means 'One Who steals. No one is capable of stealing material bondage other than Sri Hari. He not only steals material bondage, but also steals our heart with prem. Sriman-*Mahâ*prabhu has told with His Holy Lips –

"Hari' has many meanings, of which two are most important – "One Who steals all inauspiciousness' and 'One Who steals our heart with prem." – (C.C.)

What is the main reason for our material bondage? Our sinful tendencies. These are the 'inauspicious qualities'. Sri Hari steals these qualities. Now, we know that people steal only costly items when they want something, yet do not get it. If Sri Hari asks us to give Him our unfavorable qualities, we will certainly give Him, what is the need for Him to steal? But then, we consider all our evil aspects to be good! Therefore, we do not want to give them up! It becomes necessary for Sri Hari to steal them secretly. When our heart becomes empty of all material desires, He fills it nicely with His prem. He steals our heart with His beauty and sweetness. This is why Sri Hari alone is worthy of our adoration.

In another verse, Sripād Shukamuni has explained very nicely that we should worship only Sri Bhagavān -

“Our topmost duty is to worship Sri Bhagavān, because He is always present within everyone. He is our soul and hence dearest to us. He is the eternal Truth. He is indestructible and full of adorable qualities. Worshiping Him is a joyous activity. If we worship Him firmly then our ignorance easily disappears.” – (S.B.2.2.6)

Shridhar Swāmipād has explained this verse as follows –

“We must worship only Sri Bhagavān. Sripād Shukamuni has stated some extraordinary facts to prove this point.

1. Sri Bhagavān is always present in every living element, hence, to worship Him we never have to search elsewhere. He knows what is going on in our mind. Therefore, even if we do not use external objects to worship Him and simply make offerings in meditation, He accepts them and is pleased. He is well aware of our infinite past, present and future – so even if we perform bhajan after hundreds and thousands of lifetimes, He starts giving us His kripā that will pave our path for bhajan. If we take one step towards Him, He takes a thousand steps to come near us. Who else, other than Sri Hari is so compassionate?
2. Sri Bhagavān is the Supreme Soul. Therefore, He is our dearest One. We feel naturally happy to serve whom we love. Hence, everyone finds pleasure in serving Sri Hari.
3. Sri Bhagavān is Truth personified. He is not false and temporary like the body and things related to the body. He is the treasure of our soul. He is not perishable like worldly dharmas and karmas. Even if we perform little bhajan we will surely progress on the path of devotion. We may face repeated obstacles on the path of bhakti due to inauspicious qualities resulting out of bad association. In spite of this, as soon as our major unworthy aspects disappear, we are certain to gain this priceless bhajan - if not in this life, then in some other life.
4. Sri Bhagavān loves His devotees. He is very much compassionate. He has countless more adorable qualities. If we serve Him even a little bit, He considers it great. Even though we may offer Him just a palmful of water and one Tulsi leaf, He gives Himself to His devotee.

The plus point is that Sri Hari's bhajan is not difficult at all. In fact worshiping Him is highly pleasurable. Sri Bhagavān is Bliss. His Name, excellences and leelās all express bliss. Therefore, when we relish that joy in hearing and glorifying Him, our bhajan becomes natural and most blissful. When the sun rises, darkness flees. In the same manner, when we perform bhajan that is easy as well as pleasurable, our ignorance perishes (this is the side effect of bhajan). The main effect is – we get Sri Bhagavān's darshan very soon and get His actual sevā. Then we become fortunate forever and ever.

Here we should also know that the Vedas are self-manifested. They are transcendental. They have revealed the identity of Sri Bhagavān to humanity. We should be grateful to them, for otherwise, we would have never learnt about the Supreme Being Who is eternal, infinite, super natural and inconceivable. The Vedas have declared divine forms such as Sri Krishna, Sri Gourānga, Sri Rām, and Sri Nrisimha etc. as worshiped Deities. If we wish our welfare, we must worship Them. Nowadays it is a fashion to raise some magicians and successful yogis to the altar and worship them as God. We find this trait (of converting man into God) especially amongst the Bengalis. In Bengal, there is an epidemic of incarnations – so much, so that gullible simpletons are worshiping these cheats to fulfill cheap desires such as money and position. This is why we say – devotees, beware! We are not short of God that we have to search for some new god and worship him. In this special Kaliyug, Sri Gourānga *Mahā*prabhu, the hidden incarnation, has appeared and has preached the most confidential path of Sri Krishna-worship. He has revealed how to adore Sri Krishna, Whom all the Vedas, and above all Srimad-Bhāgavatam, the essence of the Vedas prove as the Swayam Bhagavān. Srīman-*Mahā*prabhu has blest us with this information. We are ever grateful to Him for teaching us how to worship Sri Sri Rādhārāni - Who is Sri Krishna's root potency, and Swayam Bhagavān Vrajendra-nandan - Who is sweetness personified. We shall learn about Them more in the following chapters – Scientific study of Sri Krishna and Sri Rādhā.

Sri Krishna-Tattva-Vigyaan

(A Scientific Study of Sri Krishna)

Sri Krishna is the sole Objective of the Vedic scriptures

Sri Gitâ is the essence of all the Upanishads and Sri Krishna Himself had told Arjun his dearest friend, supremè devotee and cousin brother–

"vedaishcha sarvairahameva vedyo vedântakrid veda-videva châham".G.15.15)

Meaning – "O Arjun, only I am to be known by the Vedas, I am the compiler of Vedânta and the knower of Vedas."

Sri Krishna is the ultimate aim of Bhagavad-Gita

Therefore, while summing up the Gitâ, Sri Krishna told Arjun to transcend all other endeavors such as karma, gyân, yog etc. Rather than following these paths, the Lord has proclaimed that we should directly serve His lotus feet lovingly. He has declared this practice to be the topmost and the most confidential. His supremè words are as

sarva-guhyatamam bhuyah shrinu me paramam vachah, ishto'si me dridhamiti tato vakshyâmi te hitam.

- (B.G.18.64)

Meaning – "O Arjun, I have already imparted to you the confidential, more confidential and the most confidential knowledge. However, these are not my topmost instructions. Now I shall divulge the *supremè*most secret and it is also my topmost instruction. Do hear attentively. You are very dear to me, so I shall tell you what is best for you."

Thus Sri Krishna drew Arjun's attention towards the topmost form of worship and said –

*"manmanâ bhava mad-bhakto madyâji mân namaskuru, mâmevaishyasi satyan te pratijâne priyo'si me.
sarva-dharmân parityajya mâmekam sharanam Braja, ahan twâm sarvapâpebhyo mokshayishyâmi mâ shucha."*

- (B.G.18.65-66)

Meaning – "O Arjun, surrender your mind to me (always think about me), be my devotee (always hear and glorify me), worship me and bow only to me; then you will achieve me – I am telling you the truth. Forsake all dharmas and surrender unto me – I shall liberate you from all sins, therefore do not grieve."

Sri Krishna's ultimate message in Bhagavad-Gitâ is to transgress all religious practices and serve His lotus feet. In this manner, through Arjun He is teaching entire humanity that He alone is the Objective of all Vedic scriptures.

Sri Krishna is the sole Objective of Srimad-Bhâgavatam

Like Bhagavad-Gitâ, Srimad Bhâgavatam too has Sri Krishna as His sole aim. The blessed Bhâgavatam has appeared simply to drench humanity in the pleasurable ras of Sri Krishna's divine pastimes. Although Srimad-Bhâgavatam describes ten subjects such as creation, dissolution etc., His real intention is to reveal Sri Krishna

Who is the source of everything.

"dashamasya vishuddhyarthan navâvâm-ihâ lakshanam"

Meaning – "Srimad-Bhâgavatam describes the nine subjects such as creation only to impart the especially pure knowledge about Sri Krishna Who is the tenth subject."

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

"I pay obeisance to Sri Krishna, Who is the tenth subject of Srimad-Bhâgavatam, Who protects those who seek His shelter, Who is the root source of everyone and all the worlds, and Who is the Objective of the tenth *skandha*¹ of Srimad-Bhâgavatam."

– (Bhâvârtha-dipikâ purport of S.B.10.1.1)

From the above statement, we can easily understand that Sri Krishna is the supreme source of even Srimad-Bhâgavatam. In the beginning of Srimad-Bhâgavatam itself, the sages led by Sri Shounak expressed the desire to hear Sri Krishna-Kathâ from Suta Muni. It is a point to be noted, for this is what triggered off Srimad-Bhâgavatam in the first place.

"Dear Suta, may you be blessed. You know why Bhagavân Sri Krishna, the Lord of the Yadus, appeared as the son of Sri Vâsudev and Devaki. We are desirous of hearing Sri Krishna-Kathâ, therefore please talk constantly about Sri Krishna to us. After all, Lord Krishna appeared for the welfare and prosperity of the entire universe." – (S.B.2.1.12-13)

Sri Suta Muni started with Srimad-Bhâgavatam just to answer this question; hence, we cannot have any doubt that Sri Krishna is Srimad-Bhâgavatam's sole Objective.

The second point is that Sri Suta Muni has also declared Srimad-Bhâgavatam as Sri Krishna's representative in the beginning of his narration –

"When Bhagavân Sri Krishna left for His abode along with auspicious qualities such as dharma, knowledge and renunciation, He gifted the unfortunate person of Kaliyug with this jewel-like scripture that is resplendent like the sun – Srimad-Bhâgavatam - who is His representative."

How can we ever imagine that Srimad-Bhâgavatam (Sri Krishna's spokesperson) to proclaim anyone other than He as the sole Object? Moreover, Garud Purân has asserted that Srimad-Bhâgavatam is 'sâkshâ-bhagavadotit' – manifested from Sri Krishna Himself. Swayam Bhagavân Sri Krishna can never establish anyone other than Himself. Gopâl-Tâpani Shruti very clearly mentions that Sri Krishna has revealed Srimad-Bhâgavatam –

"I pay obeisance to That Sri Krishna Who imparted the science of self-realization to Brahmâ in the beginning of Creation."

Thus Srimad-Bhâgavatam is the teaching that Sri Krishna imparted to Brahma and through him to Nârada, Vyâs and ultimately to all of us. Hence, Srimad-Bhâgavatam's aim is to glorify Sri Krishna.

Truth is another name of Sri Krishna

Some of us think that the introduction and conclusion of Srimad-Bhâgavatam contains the verse "satyam param dhimahi" – I meditate on the Truth – this indicates that Srimad-Bhâgavatam does not advocate any particular divine form, but just the "Truth".

We beg to reply, "Truth simply happens to be Sri Krishna's name."

We find in Mahâbhârat –

"Bhishmadev said – Sri Krishna resides in Truth and Truth resides in Sri Krishna. Sri Krishna is truer than the supreme truth; therefore Truth is one of His names."

During Sri Krishna's appearance, the devatâs such as Lord Brahmâ glorified Sri Krishna in the womb of Mother Devaki as -

"We surrender unto the lotus feet of Sri Krishna – Who is the decisive truth, is achievable by truth, is the unwavering truth in the past, present and future, the source of the five elements²,

¹ Since Srimad-Bhâgavatam is called a wish-fulfilling tree, its parts are designated as 'skandhas' or branches

² Earth, water, fire, air and space

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

the Omniscient, and the divine Tattva, the True Word, the harbinger of equanimity, and the Truth personified." – (S.B.10.2.26)

Besides this, Sri Krishna has told in very clear terms to his dear devotee Uddhav in Srimad-Bhâgavatam that He is the topmost goal of the Shrutis

"Whom do the Shrutis worship by adopting regulative principles in the Karma Kândâ? Whom do they propitiate with Mantras in the devatâ-kândâ? Whom do they analyze in the gyân-kândâ? On whom do they debate? No one knows the answers to these questions, other than me. In fact, all the Shrutis decide that I am yagna, propitiate me with mantras; consider me as the topic of debate, reject the existence of any other Object and ultimately establish me. I am the Goal of all the Vedas. The Vedas are under my protection and hence prevent man from succumbing to Mâyâ. They conclude by declaring that I am the supreme goal."

We can understand from these words of Sri Krishna that all the Vedas worship Him alone. This is why the scriptures such as Gopâl-Tâpani Shruti has flatly stated –

"krishna eva paro devastam dhyâyet tam rase"

Meaning – "Sri Krishna alone is the Supreme Being; meditate on Him and take ras in Him."

"esha brahmanyô devakiputra"

Meaning - "The son of Devaki is the Brahman (Supreme Being)."

Sri Krishna is God Himself

Sri Suta Muni has said in Srimad-Bhâgavatam –

'ete châmsha kalâh pumsah krishnastu Bhagavân swayam.'

Meaning – "They (whom I mentioned so far) are parts or parts of the parts, but Sri Krishna is Swayam Bhagavân (God Himself)." – (S.B.1.3.8)

We owe credit to Srimad-Bhâgavatam for the term 'Swayam Bhagavân'. No scripture has used this phrase for any other divine form. Our preceptors tell us, this sentence is Veda-Vyâs's pledge of declaration and he has used it to establish Sri Krishna's supremacy. We find the phrase 'Swayam Bhagavân' in the third chapter of the first branch of Srimad-Bhâgavatam. This chapter deals with the incarnations. It is popularly known as 'janma-guhya-adhyây' (the chapter containing the mystery of creation'. It goes like this –

"jagrihe pourusham rupam Bhagavân mahadâdibhih, Sambhutam shodashakalam-âdou lokasisrikshayâ."

Meaning - "Once again Sri Bhagavân wished to create the worlds with the twenty four elements such as mahat etc. Therefore, He assumed the divine form of Purush with its sixteen attributes."

This Purush does not have any material quality; it is 'vishuddha-satvam-urjitam – especially pure and self-manifested. He is *Kâranânnav-shâyî*¹ Nârâyan. From Him, Garbhodakashâyî, the second Purush emanates and from Him all other incarnations manifest. Therefore, the preceptors call the second Purush, that is, Garbhodakashâyî Nârâyan as the seed of all incarnations. Who are these incarnations? Suta Muni replied starting with Sanak Rishi, he went on to Varâha, Nârâd, Narânârâyan, Kapil and finally when he reached the nineteenth and twentieth names, he said –

"Balarâm and Krishna appeared on numbers nineteen and twenty in the Vrishni clan and delivered the earth from sinful elements."

When we read this part, the first thought that strikes us is – "When Suta Muni has included Sri Krishna's name in the list of incarnations, then He must be one of them. This is a valid point since he is discussing incarnations. Therefore since he has taken Sri Krishna's name, we ought to call Him an incarnation." However, this is a big blunder and we shall prove it just now.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

The preceptors who have explained Srimad-Bhâgavatam say – here although Sri Krishna has appeared in this context (of incarnations) he is not an incarnation of the Purush, rather He is the original Person, God Himself. They prove their statement by quoting the verse "jagrihe pourusham rupam Bhagavân mahadâdibhih". In this verse, Srimad-Bhâgavatam has started talking about 'Bhagavârt' and in the verse "râma-krishnâ-viti bhuvo-Bhagavânaharadbhayam" He (Srimad-Bhâgavatam) has concluded with 'Bhagavârt'. In this manner, Srimad-Bhâgavatam has expressed that the Purush has appeared from Sri Bhagavân and all the incarnations have manifested from the Purush. Srimad-Bhâgavatam goes on to mention all the incarnations one after another, however, He does not refer any of them as 'Bhagavârt'. He utters 'Bhagavârt' only to refer to Sri Krishna. It is clear that Lord Veda Vyâs is not ready to call any incarnation as the root or actually God. Rather, from the depth of his heart, he wants to proclaim that Sri Krishna is God Himself, all the incarnations have manifested from Purush and Purush has appeared from Sri Krishna. Vedanta Philosophy uses this method of analysis. If we use this process to investigate into what-is-the-real-intention, then we shall arrive at the conclusion that the One Who had assumed the form of Purush, in the very beginning of creation, and from whom all the incarnations have appeared is none other than Sri Krishna, God Himself.

To wipe away any inkling of doubt, Sri Suta Muni, after calling Sri Krishna as 'Bhagavârt' boldly declares once again – "ete châmsha kalâh pumsah krishnastu Bhagavân swayam" – "O Rishis! Previously all the incarnations that I have mentioned – none of them is Purush, some are parts of Purush, while the others are parts of the parts. However, Sri Krishna is God Himself. Sri Krishna is replete with all powers and He is the supreme Tattva. He is not an incarnation, but the source of all incarnations, He is not a part but the whole, He is not Purush but Purushottam, and....He is not Bhagavân (God) but Swayam Bhagavân (God Himself).

This verse blows the trumpet of Sri Krishna being God Himself. It is the crest-jewel of all the verses in Srimad-Bhâgavatam. Lord Veda-Vyâs has used it as a declaration. Based on this statement the great saints such as Shridhar Swâmipâd have accepted Sri Krishna as the supreme truth and thus explained Srimad-Bhâgavatam. According to our Goswamis, this statement defines Srimad-Bhâgavatam's original Tattva.

What is a definition?

" anyame niyamakârini paribhâshâ"

Meaning - "A definition is a set of words that regularizes an irregular description."

A definition occurs only once in a text. It is never repeated. The rest of the text just explains the definition. Similarly, "Krishna is God Himself" appears only once in Srimad-Bhâgavatam. The statement is crystal clear by itself. It towers over the scripture like a sovereign king. It proudly flies like a flag of victory over all other statements. Shridhar Swâmi has explained this verse as follows –

"Sri Krishna is God Himself because all the shaktis are always present in Him."

Srimaj-Jiva Goswâmipâd says, "The words 'Swayam Bhagavârt' strongly prove that Sri Krishna is the source of all incarnations."

If we want to know about the truth regarding Sri Krishna we have to contemplate very deeply on this verse. Then we will understand why Vyâsdev has instructed us that Sri Krishna alone is God Himself. Why did he say "Sri Krishna alone is God Himself" and not "God Himself is Sri Krishna"? The litterateurs state the rule –

"anuvâdam-anuktaiva na vidheyam-udeerayet"

Meaning - "Do not state the predicate without first stating the subject."

Going by this rule, the literary pandits say that – in the sentence 'krishnastu Bhagavân swayam', 'Sri Krishna' is the subject and 'Bhagavân swayam' (God himself) is the predicate and describes

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Him. Had Vyāsdev said “God Himself is Sri Krishna” it would have seemed as if there is someone called ‘God Himself’ and He appears as Sri Krishna. However, this is not the case. Srila Krishnadās Kavirāj Goswāmi has explained this matter very sweetly and simply. He has written –

“After Suta Gosāin included Krishnachandra in his list of ordinary incarnations, he got very scared. Therefore, he stated their positions. He said that they were all incarnations – either parts or parts of the parts of Purush. However, Sri Krishna is Swayam Bhagavān and the root source of all.

I can hear my opponents passing sarcastic comments – what an explanation! Do you not know that Lord Nārāyan of Paravyom (the divine world) is God Himself? He comes and appears as Krishna. This is what the verse means, what is there to explain?

I tell my opponents – why do you assume wrong things and then argue? You can never prove a hypothesis that contradicts the shāstras. We are never supposed to state the predicate before the subject. We should always state the subject first and then the predicate. ‘Predicate’ is that part of a sentence what we do not know, while the ‘subject’ is of what we are already aware. For example – when we say “this Brahmin is very scholarly”, ‘the brahmin’ is the subject and ‘is very scholarly’ is the predicate. Now everyone knows that he is a brahmin, but that ‘he is very scholarly’ is the new information. Therefore we mention the word ‘brahmin’ first and then ‘very scholarly’.

Similarly, Suta Gosāin has already mentioned the incarnations. So we know this. But whose incarnations? This is unknown. ‘ete’ means ‘these’ – the incarnations – this is the subject. ‘chāmsha kalā pumsah’ (parts or parts of the parts of Purush) is the predicate. In the same way, he has already mentioned Krishna in his list. So we know Him. But we do not know His specialty. Therefore, he states ‘Krishna’ first – this is the subject, and the predicate ‘Bhagavān Swayam’, later.

Suta Gosain’s topmost goal is to highlight the fact that Sri Krishna is God Himself. Had He been the part and Nārāyan the whole, then Suta would have reversed the words in his sentence. He would have then said, “Nārāyan is God Himself and That God Himself is (has appeared as) Krishna.” You see, the great wise preceptors don’t have faults such as bhram, pramād, vijra-lipsā and karanāpātav. You are drawing all wrong conclusions and when I am pointing them out you are getting angry. The other divine forms get their divinity from Sri Krishna, so we call Him Swayam Bhagavān. Period.” – (C.C.)

“Sri Krishna alone is the source of everything – He contains all the abodes and all universes repose in Him.” – (C.C.)

Not only Srimad-Bhāgavatam, but Sri Brahma-Samhitā too states that Sri Krishna alone is God Himself and other divine forms are either His portion or parts of the parts. Sri Brahma-Samhitā begins with - “ishwarah paramah krishna sachchidānanda vigrahaḥ, Anādir-ādī govindah sarva-kāraṇa-kāraṇam.”

Meaning - “Sri Krishna is the Supreme controller and His form is eternal, conscious and blissful. He is without a beginning and He is the beginning of everything; Govinda is the cause of all causes.”

After having established the above fact, Brahma-Samhitā goes on to state –

“I worship That Primeval Person Sri Govinda, That Supreme Being, Who has expressed His Shaktis through forms such as Lord Rām and has manifested various incarnations in this world, and Himself has appeared as Sri Krishna.”

In spite of all these good logic, some object saying that although “krishnastu Bhagavān swayam” does indicate that Sri Krishna is God Himself, this is not Srimad-Bhāgavatam’s intention. Had this been so, His name would not have been enlisted as an incarnation. After all, Srimad-Bhāgavatam has put Him in line with all other incarnations such as Rāmchandra. Moreover, why should

Swayam Bhagavân descend on earth? His incarnations are enough to put down the evil and protect the good. Why should Swayam Bhagavân leave His blissful transcendental abode and come to this material world? Hence, the word 'krishne' in the verse 'krishnastu Bhagavân swayam' means Lord Nârâyan and not Sri Krishna, the Son of Vasudev. They say that many times the word 'Krishna' in Srimad-Bhâgavatam refers to Nârâyan. Therefore Sriman-Nârâyan, the master of the divine world is God Himself, He appeared as Kâranârnav-shâyî Purush in the beginning of creation and all other incarnations have appeared from Purush. Valid point.

Srimaj-Jiva Goswami has crushed all these arguments of the opposition by using the analytical method of Mimânsâ¹ darshan and has firmly established Sri Krishna as Swayam Bhagavân. He has written –

“Just because Sri Krishna is enlisted with incarnations we should not doubt that He is God Himself. Mimânsâ Shastra has one formula –

Purvâparaye purva-dourbalyam prakritivat

Meaning – Sometimes, if there is a contradiction between previous and later statements in the scriptures, the later statements are stronger and will express the true meaning of the previous statements.

Nyây Shâstra (logic) also statespurvâparayor-madhye para-vidhi balavân

Meaning - The later instruction is stronger than the previous one.”

There is another example to elucidate this point. It is very interesting. Agnishtom yagnya has a rule – At the end of the fire sacrifice, the priest chanting mantrâs from Rig Ved (he starts the fire) and the priest who utters mantrâs from Sârn Ved (he concludes the sacrifice) holds the ends of each other's dhotis and circumambulate the pyre. While doing so, by chance, if the beginner-priest is separated from the concluding-priest, then as repentance you have to perform the sacrifice again without paying any fee. However, if the cloth slips from the concluder's hand, then you have to pay the entire fee and perform the sacrifice all over again. Now what happens if both of them let go of the cloth simultaneously before they complete the parikramâ? You surely cannot pay and not pay the fees! Well, Maharshi Jaimini² says, the latter rule will hold true since it is stronger than the previous rule. This means, that you have to pay the entire fee and repeat the fire-sacrifice. Following in the same footsteps, we too assert that although Suta Muni has listed Sri Krishna as an incarnation earlier, and declared as Swayam Bhagavân later, the declaration is stronger. Undoubtedly.

If anyone is still reluctant to believe this, Srimaj-Jiva Goswâmi has mentioned another formula from the Mimânsâ Shâstra to clear up the matter.

“Shruti-linga-vâkya-prakarana-sthânan-sama-âkhyânâm samavâye pâra-dourbalyam-artha-vipra-karshât”

¹ M m s , a Sanskrit word meaning "investigation", is the name of an aastika ("orthodox") school of Indian philosophy whose primary enquiry is into the nature of dharma based on close study of the theory and method of interpretation of the Vedas.

² Jaimini was an ancient sage, who was a great philosopher of the Mimamsa school of Indian philosophy. He was the disciple of the great Rishi Veda Vyâs. Jaimini is famous for his great treatise Purva Mimamsa Sutras ("First Reflection"), or Karma-mimamsa ("Study of [Ritual] Action"), a system that investigates the nature of Vedic injunctions. The text founded the Purva-Mimamsa school of Ancient Indian philosophy, one of the six Darsanas or schools of Ancient Indian philosophy. Dated to the 3rd century BC, the text contains about 3,000 sutras and is the foundational text of the Mimamsa School. The text aims at an analysis of the Vedas with regard to ritual practice (karma) and religious duty (dharma), commenting on the early Upanishads. Jaimini's Mimamsa is a ritualist counter-movement to the mystic Vedanta currents of his day.

Meaning - "We can classify the scriptures as – Shruti, linga, vākya, prakaran, sthân and samākhyā. They are in descending order of strength. This means that, the scriptures included in shruti are the strongest. Those included in the linga are weaker, prakaran are still weaker and so forth. If there are two contradictory terms in Shruti and prakaran, then the statement in the Shruti holds true, since shrutyā prakaranasya vādhāt – Shruti holds good over prakaran.

The opposition has said there is no reason for Swayam Bahgavân to appear in the world, since His incarnations are enough to crush the evil forces and protect the good. So why should Sri Krishna appear in this material earth? And if He did appear, it must mean that He is an incarnation, right? Srimat Jiva Goswâmpād has replied to this –

"Although Sri Krishna has been included in the incarnations, He has not appeared to deliver the earth from the burden of sinful elements like the incarnations. It is true that the incarnations of Purush perform such activities. Then why does Srimad-Bhâgavatam say that Sri Krishna has lessened the burden of the earth? It means that – when Swayam Bhagavân appears His incarnations too are present in Him. They deliver the earth from the burden of sins; Swayam Bhagavân simply gets the credit for this. We see in Chaitanya-Charitâmrita –

"It is the not Swayam Bhagavân's job to take away the burden from the earth; it is Vishnu's function to maintain and protect the world. However when Sri Krishna descends, Vishnu merges with Him. Whenever complete Bhagavân descends, all the incarnations come and enter into Him. The incarnations such as Nârâyan, Chaturvyuha, Matsya and the Yug-avatârs, Manvantar-avatârs and all types of incarnations come and become one with Sri Krishna. He, the complete Bhagavân appears in this manner. Therefore, since Vishnu is present within Sri Krishna, He kills the asuras with Vishnu." – (C.C.)

Swayam Bhagavân Sri Krishna expresses indescribable sweetness through many human-like leelâs such as Janma-leelâ (the divine pastime of Birth), growing-up-leelâ etc. These leelâs are much sweeter and wonderful than the eternal leelâs. He manifests these pastimes all the time maintaining His individuality and divinity. Although Sri Krishna is Swayam Bahgavân, He appears in this material world out of His causeless mercy for us – that is the true reason for His appearance.

Factually, Sri Krishna is the root of all incarnations – the original God. Therefore, He does not depend on anyone while descending. He is entirely independent.

"ananyâ-pekshi yadrupam swayam-rupah sa uchyate"

Meaning - "'Swayam rup' or 'Original form' is the one that is independent of others."

'Swayam rup' is famous in the scriptures as the form that does not rest on any other factor; it is eternally present in the eternal abode and even when it descends in the material world, it is entirely independent in the manifest and non-manifest leelâs. Sri Krishna's form is self-evident original form. Srimad-Bhâgavatam has described essentially this form as "lavanya-sâram-asamorddham-ananya-siddham" – the original form that is condensed lavanya, unparalleled and non-exceeded.

"Sri Krishna's form resides in Brajadhâm. It is majestic and sweet. It is the abode of precious and divine qualities. Sri Krishna has given a part of His majesty and divinity to the incarnations since He is the whole and their source." – (C.C.)

Srimad-Bhâgavatam has mentioned the word 'Swayam' thrice in relation to Sri Krishna – viz., "krishnastu Bhagavân swayam", "Swayam-twa-sâmyâtishayatryadheeshah" and "Swayam-eva-harih". Thus He is loudly proclaiming Sri Krishna as Swayam Bhagavân just as one declares a pledge thrice.

Although the original Nârâyan and Sri Krishna are always non-different, when we perform a ras-analysis, Sri Krishna wins a landslide victory (as everyone will agree, even the opposition) –

Meaning - "Although the philosophists may differ in their opinions regarding the supremacy of the avatârs, one has to concede that Sri Krishna contains ras in its most brilliant form and that ras verily exists in Sri Krishna."

"krishna-eva paro devastam dhyâyet tat raset" – Shruti

"mattah parataram nânyat kinchidasti dhananjayah" – (Gitâ)

"ishwarah paramah krishnah sachchidânanda vigraha" –(Brahma-Samhitâ)

"krishnastu Bhagavân Swayam"- (Srimad-Bhâgavatam)

"gudhah param brahma-manushya-lingam" - (Srimad-Bhâgavatam)

Ras-science proclaims Sri Krishna as the Most Exalted.

"raso vai sah"

Meaning - "Sri Bhagavân is ras personified." – Shruti

Although Sri Bhagavân is the embodiment of ras, the divine forms manifest ras to different extent. Certain divine forms express certain ras. None of the incarnations exhibits all the ras. However, Sri Krishna is embodiment of all nectarine ras. All the ras are manifest in Him to the maximum degree. He has some special qualities that nourish ras, and He has monopoly over these qualities. No other divine form has the same sweet traits. The Mahâjans call these attributes as 'mâdhurya' (sweetness). Sri Krishna is sweetness personified. He is infinite; His sweetness too is infinite. Yet, our reverend Goswâmis have classified it into four –

"We find the following four types of sweetness that is peculiar to Sri Vrajendranandan (Sri Krishna in Vrindâban) only and nowhere else. They are –

- ♥ Leelâ-mâdhuri - Sweet pastimes
- ♥ Preyâ-priyâdhikyam – sweet love for His dear ones
- ♥ Venu-mâdhuri – sweet flute
- ♥ Rupa-mâdhuri – sweet beauty"- (B.R.S.2.1.43)

Let us relish Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd's explanation of these sweetness.

He says – "sarvâdbhuta-chamatkâra-leelâ-kallola-vâridhih" – Sri Bhagavân is most extraordinarily wonderful. He is a surging ocean of divine pastimes. Sri Bhagavân is rasamay¹, and therefore he is leelamay². He expresses His ras through His leelâs. His pastimes are naturally sweet and wonderful – His Braja-leelâs are the topmost – they are incomparable! In Brajadhâm, He is indeed the rushing and gushing ocean of amazing leelâ-ras!

"Of all the pastimes of Sri Krishna, the human-like ones that He performs in human-like form are the best. He is dressed as a cowherd boy, holding the flute, in the threshold of youth and groomed like a great dancer. Thus He is well suited to perform human-like pastimes." – (C.C.)

The pastimes He performs as God do not express much sweetness, since they arouse awe and reverence in his devotees. On the other hand, if He behaves only as an ordinary human being, we will not take Him seriously; we may even land up thinking Him as material. However, when He displays both majestic and human-like mood side-by-side and create various amazing ras-

² Embodiment of leelâ

situations, the leelās become all the more extraordinary. They are contradictory to each other; therefore, they prove and enhance His majestic appeal.

The philosophical Shrutis present Sri Bhagavān in particular manner, while Leelā-shakti paints Him in breathtaking colors! Sri Bhagavān's inconceivable powers beautifully harmonize all contradictory features. According to the Shrutis He is ātmārām, āptakām, continuous and complete, whereas in the playground of Leelā, the same One is hungry, thirsty, human-like and craving for devotees' love.

How do we explain His actions? On one hand He is all-knowing, on the other hand He is ignorant, He is infinite, yet limited. He is simultaneously almighty and afraid, and above all He is ātmārām, yet indulges in lovemaking. The only answer is – He is inconceivable. Although Leelā-ras is based on philosophy, while relishing ras, we should separate the two. Philosophy says Sri Bhagavān is free of desires; He is without any feeling whatsoever. In leelā, He is thirsty for ras. He indulges in Leelā so much that he becomes Leelā-Purushottam, only to quench His thirst for ras. This is the only reason why Mother Yashoda can bind the all-pervading and omni-present Sri Hari with a rope. All the saints glorify His feet and yet He feels grateful while carrying Nanda Bâbâ's shoes. That almighty Being joyously carries Shridâm on his shoulders after the latter defeats him in a game. Although Sri Hari is the most worshiped Tattva, He stands like a beggar holding the ends of His upper cloth (placed round His neck), most apologetic, at the door of mānini/Sri Râdhâ's kunjâ and begging "dehi-pada-pallavam-udâram"! He most joyously holds Srimati's feet on His head!! If we think how Leelā-shakti is carrying away Sri Bhagavān like a wooden puppet floating in the flow of ras, we cannot help but be amazed – as if the all knowing, almighty Sri Bhagavān has lost control over Himself. How? Is it due to Mâyâ or Leelâ? We know that-

"krishna surjya-sama mâyâ ghor andhakâr, Jâhân krishna tâhân nâhi mâyâr adhikâr."

Meaning - "Sri Krishna is like the brilliant sun while Mâyâ is pitch darkness; where Krishna exists, Mâyâ cannot be present.) – (C.C.)

Sri Bhagavān is stupefied by His leelâ. And Râs-leelâ is the crest-jewel of all all pastimes – Sri Bhagavān loses Himself in its extraordinary brilliant ras!

Sri Krishna has said –

"Although all my pastimes in Vrindâban are enchanting, yet whenever I remember the Râs-leelâ, I don't know what happens to me – I cannot express it." – (S.B.)

Sri Bhagavān is blissful; however, the Râsleelâ makes Him so much exultant that He loses Himself! Shruti says – Sri Bhagavān is complete. The One Who is complete cannot decrease or increase. Then how is it possible that His exultation reaches dizzy heights? After all, since He is complete, His joy is also complete, is it not so? But we cannot harbor such doubts when we relish leelâ, since euphoria is Leelâ's characteristic. Srimad-Bhâgavatam has clearly described Sri Krishna's extreme beauty during the Râs-leelâ –

"During the Râs-leelâ Sri Bhagavān Devaki-suta¹ was dazzling like an exquisite emerald amidst the golden Gopis". – (S.B.10.33.6)

What an enchanting combination of place, time and people! Blissful Vrindâban dhâm is all aglow with beauty; it is a full moon night; the sky is lit with moonlight – drops of serene moon rays are falling constantly from the sky – Mother Nature is smiling all over – soft fragrant breeze is dancing away, rocking the hearts of Mallikâ and Mâlâti; the woodlands are laden with sweet-scented flowers. Jâti, Juthi, Mallikâ and Mâlâti are bowing lovingly in each kunjâ. Ohh! How sweetly the bees are humming, the cuckoo is cooing and the peacocks are dancing. Kumud, lotus and kahlâr have bloomed in the bosom of the blue Yamunâ! And the bees are sporting lovingly in the sweet ras of their heart! The dark water of the Yamunâ is sparkling with moonlight! The Yamunâ appears as if she is going on abhisâr dressed in a dark blue sâri with gold border – she is going dancing with the heroines of the Râs-dance and she is rushing to her husband, the sea, with the message of Râsbihari Sri Krishna's sweet Râs-leelâ. Ohh! The extremely sweet Râs-vilâs on that green bank of blue Yamuna!! Rasa-râj Shyâmsundar is dancing in circle with countless Mahâbhâvs. One Krishna in between two Gopis! The entire creation is luminescent with extraordinary brilliance! There are so many tunes, so many lyrics, so many rhythms and so many râgs and râginis!! How fantastic! That sweetness is mesmerizing!! The anklets are chiming musically all around and the quarters are resounding with the jingling of waist-bells. The rabâb, muraj and flute are keeping harmony with them. The bewitching crown prince, decked in an enticing garland is absorbed in the pleasure of dancing with the supremely beautiful cowherd belles!! Sripâd Shuka Muni has described the very sweet Râs-leelâ only here, in Vrindâban. We do not find this Leelâ in any other dhâm, in any other swarup. Had it been there, certainly some saint or the other would have mentioned it in his realization. The shâstras would have stated it. But it is not there. This is why Sri Vrindâban-Chandra's leelâs are the sweetest – they are incomparable.

Srimat Rupa Goswâmpâd has described the sweet love of the associates as – "atulya-madhura-prema-mandita-priya-mandalah" – the dear associates of Brajadhâm are full of remarkable sweet love. The Brijwâsis' love is free of desires and pure. It is without the slightest whiff of majesty and is full of pristine pure sweetness. Majesty evokes awe and reverence; it chokes the jubilation of love. Love loves informality; as soon as formality steps in, it breaks the heart of Love. Therefore, if we want to make Bhagavân as our near and dear one, we have to bind Him with the strong bond of love. We have to tie Him in such a way that He can never loosen it. The bhakta and Bhagavân who are in Braja-love float in sweetness and hug each other tightly – this is the specialty of Braja-love! There is no feeling of high and low, love breaks all boundary and amalgamates the hearts of Sri Krishna and the Braja-lovers as one! In Vrindâban the Ganga of love has branched into innumerable distributaries, raising waves upon waves and rushing towards the infinity! It is due to this sweet love that Mother Yashodâ has petted, nourished, beaten and scolded Sri Krishna with maternal feeling. The sakhâs have fed Him with their uchchhishtha. The Gopis have heaped hundreds of abuses on Him in love-anger. What to do? After all this is what makes Him happy. Srila Krishnadâs Kavirâj Goswâmi has quoted Sri Krishna as saying –

"Mother ties me as her son; she nourishes and pets me considering me as nothing. The sakhâs climb on my shoulder in pure friendly mood – they seem to say, "What makes you think you are richer than us? You and we are equals." If my sweetheart sulks and insults me – it steals my heart more than Vedic hymns." – (C.C.)

Sri Sri Râdhâ-Mâdhav's love for each other is the topmost. It is the sweetest. It is unparalleled. Both are caught tightly in the snare of love. They enjoy so many innumerable ras-sports and various forms of lovemaking day after day! No one could ever fathom such ras-sports anywhere in Vaikuntha, Dwâarakâ or Mathurâ. It is beyond the imagination of the munis and rishis. Only Swayam Bhagavân can conceive it. He plans new ras-thoughts daily. His mind is unlimited – so are His ideas. Srimat Rupa Goswâmpâd has written about one day –

dwâronmochana-lolashankha-balaya-kwânâmu muhuh shrinvatah,

Explanation – It was a dark night of New Moon. There was pin drop silence all around. It was so dark that you would not be able to see the path. On such a night a young adolescent walked slowly on the way to Yâvat and reached Abhimanyu's house. A huge Koli tree stood in front. It was very dark under its thick foliage. You would not notice anything from a distance. The intruder carefully tiptoed in like a thief and stood beneath the tree. Looks like all the inmates are sleeping! After all who would remain awake in the dead of night? Everyone was asleep. The youngster looked around Him once. He understood, true, no one is awake. He caught the opportunity to call out a signal – "Coooo! Coooo!" Inside the house a beautiful young girl was just waiting for this signal. law, who was in the adjacent room could not get sleep. She was awake with worry. Her new daughter-in-law was exceedingly pretty, while that son of Nanda was an enormous flirt. He was always running behind the Gopa-brides. No one knows what bad incident may occur. Therefore mother and daughter guarded Her day and night. So when the bangles jingled, the old lady immediately screamed – “Who’s there? Who’s there? Who made that sound, Boumâ¹?” The young girl’s heart trembled. She silently closed the door and shrank back. On the other hand, the youth too got scared and hid further behind the Koli tree. A longtime passed. There was no sound anywhere. The silence of that dark night was so grave that you would be certain that no one was awake. Hence once again there was a cry – “Cooo! Cooo!” Priyâji heard the signal and opened the door. But alas! Once more the old lady’s voice roared – “Who...who dares to open the door?” Promptly the two agitated hearts crept back in fear. Thus, the whole night passed in cooing, opening the door and immediately the old woman’s thunderous roar! Soon the eastern horizon turned pink. The youth returned to Nandagram with a heart broken with the pangs of viraha. My dear emotional devotees, by now you must have recognized the youth? He is the very same “satyam gyânânam-anantam brahmâ”² and “raso vai sah”³ of Vedânta, “ishwarah paramah krishnah-sach-chidânanda vigrahah, anâdirâdir govinda sarva-kârana-kâranam”⁴ of Brahma-Samhitâ. He is the One Whom Bhagavad-Gitâ proclaims as “loke vede cha prârthitah purushottamah” and Srimad-Bhâgavatam declares as “krishnastu Bhagavân swayam”. And who is the young belle? Well, She is none other than “vishnor-atyanta-vallabhâ”⁵ of Padma-purân, “Shriyah-kântâ”⁶ of Brahma-Samhitâ, “devi krishnamayi proktâ râdhikâ para-devatâ” of Nârad-Pancharâtra and “anayârâdhito nunam Bhagavân haririshwarah” of Srimad-Bhâgavatam. No other associate of Braja has been able to arouse such high waves of desire in the heart of the ocean like Sachchidânanda. Therefore Srimati Râdhârâni is the topmost in sweet love. He is Rasa-râj while She is Mahâbhâv. The ras is endless and so is the bhâv. There is nothing sweeter than the love of Madan-mohan and Madan-mohan-mohini in the divine world.

As for venu-mâdhuri, Srimat Rupa Goswâmpâd’s statement is – “trijagan-mânasâkarshi-murali-kala-kujitah” – the sweet notes of Sri Krishna’s flute attract the three worlds. His flute drives the whole universe crazy. The maddening flute plays only in Vrindâban.

“madhur madhur bamshi baje ei to brindâbart”

Meaning - “Where the sweet sweet flute plays, that is Vrindâban.”

“shabdamayam venum vâdayantam mukhâmbuje”

Meaning - “The flute that is the Shabda-Brahman plays on Sri Krishna’s lips.”

That song, that strain, that resonance is a grand opulence of the divine realm. That magnificence transforms everything into nectar. Srimad-Bhâgavatam says –

“aspandanam gatimatâm pulakastarunâm”

Meaning - “The song of the flute stupefies the moving and the trees experience goose bumps.” The waves of this strain turns everything topsy-turvy. The song intoxicates all creation – it astounds and overwhelms the fourteen worlds.

“The song of the flute rushed through all the worlds, stopping the clouds in their courses, astounding Gandharvarâj tumburu, breaking the samâdhi of the Four Kumârs, amazing Brahmâji, agitating King Bali and making him restless, sending Nâg-râj dizzy and pierced the envelope of the universe.”

Sri Brahma-Samhitâ says – “atha venu-ninâdasya trayimurtimayi gatih”

Meaning - "When the flute plays it expresses the 'trayi-murti'"

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has explained the word 'trayimurti' as 'Vedmâtâ Gâyatri'. This means that Gâyatri Mantra is resounding in every strain of the flute; it is driving away all material desires, awakens devotion and drags the devotee towards the path to Braja. This is the nature of the beautiful song of the flute. Sri Chaitanya-Charitâmrita says –

“The song of the flute travels in all directions, and piercing the envelope of the universe, enters Vaikuntha. It forces its entry into all the ears. It maddens all and forcibly drags everyone, especially the young maidens. The song is most impudent – it breaks the vow of chastity and drags a woman from the lap of her husband. It attracts the Laxmis of Vaikuntha – what to speak of the Gopis?” – (C.C.)

It is evident from the following statement of the pure-hearted Gopis –

“O Beloved, is there any woman in the three worlds whom the sweet song of the flute will not verily mesmerize, break her vow of chastity and force her to surrender at Your feet?” – (C.C.)

When Sriman-*Mahâ*prabhu, Who is absorbed in the bhâv of a Gopi, heard this verse from His Holiness Swarup-dâmodar, he relished in the following manner –

“Sweetheart, tell us for sure – in the three worlds is there any worthy woman whom Your flute does not attract? The song of Your flute is like an enchantress weaving black magic all around and stealing women’s hearts. It increases their agitation, which is already great, forces them to forsake the rules of the Aryan society and makes them surrender unto You.

You use Your flute to compel them to give up righteousness; its melody pierces their heart like the arrows of the Love-god and destroys their decency and fear. Now, how dare You show anger upon us and accuse us of forsaking our husbands? How virtuous are You that You are teaching us propriety? You hide something in Your heart while You speak another thing and behave in a third manner – all these are the features of a deceit. Your joke is killing us. Better get rid of your cunning ways.” – (C.C.)

“On hearing the sweet song of Your flute even once, all the women’s heart turn and twist. Their skirt-strings loosen; they become His slaves and rush to Krishna like crazed women. Even Laxmi Thâkurâni¹, after hearing the commotion made by these women, come to Krishna in expectation. However she does not get His association and in stead her thirst increases. She performs austerity, yet does not succeed in her endeavor.” - (C.C.)

Sri Krishna is Leelâmay Leelâ-Purushottam and Vrindâban is the playground of His leelâ. The flute plays an immense role in leelâ. It is inexpressibly sweet and its nature is inconceivable. Its sweetness verily inebriates three worlds – then what to speak of the Brijwâsis? Is it surprising that the flute will drown them in its nectarine deluge?

The mellifluous notes of the flute give a special message to each person. It arouses different bhâvs in every devotee – such is its magic!

“Mother Yashomati hears the flute telling her to give butter, while father Nanda hears – ‘Papa, here I am bringing your shoes’. The sakhâs hear- ‘Come let us go to the pastures’ and Kamalini² (Râdhârâni) hears – ‘Come out, dear Râi’.” – (C.C.)

You will not find this sweetness anywhere other than in Vrindâban. Venu-mâdhuri is the extraordinary wealth of Vrindâban alone. This sweetness make Vrindavan-vihâri Sri Krishna more exalted than the original Nârâyan, although the latter is the Master of Mahâ-Vaikuntha.

Sripād Rupa Goswāmipād has described Sri Krishna's sweet beauty with 'asamānorddha-rupa-shri-vismāpita-charācharah' – Sri Krishna's fantastic sweet beauty astounds all moving and non-moving elements of the universe. Sri Krishna is sweetness personified. His rupa-mādhuri is immense and incomparable. Srila Uddhav Mahāshay has said –

"Sri Krishna's internal potency is called Yogmāyā. He wished to display her immense power and therefore He expressed His supremely handsome two-handed form in this world. He looks extremely attractive with His flute and He is full of wonderful sweetness. This form is most suited for His leelās in the material world. In fact, He is so captivating that it astounds even Him. He too feels like relishing His beauty. He is enormously gorgeous, most remarkable and the beauty constantly increases in spite of being unlimited. The transcendental body of Krishna is so beautiful that it beautifies the ornaments He wears. Therefore, we see that Krishna's body is the ornament of ornaments. " – (S.B.3.2.12)

Srila Krishnadās Kavirāj Goswāmi has written in Sri Chaitanya-Charitāmrita that Srīman-Mahāprabhu has relished the above verse and has expressed it brilliantly to Srila Sanātan Goswāmi –

"The most exquisite of all the Leelās are His (Sri Krishna's) pastimes in the human-like form. He is a budding youth, dressed as a cowherd boy, exceedingly well groomed and holding a flute. These are well suited for human-like pastimes.

Hear O Sanātan, about Krishna's sweet beauty – a drop of which drowns all creation and attracts all beings. He wished to display the prowess of Yogmāyā, His internal potency, and therefore He expressed in the world this gem of a beauty, that was hitherto known only to His confidential devotees. It was hidden in the spiritual world and the devotees cherished it like a precious wealth (however now, it was revealed to all).

He is so gorgeous that it astounds even Him. When He beholds Himself, He too wishes to enjoy His body. He is Fortune personified and possesses all excellent qualities. This beauty resides eternally in Him. Every part of His body is so attractive that it beautifies the ornaments it wears. Moreover, His stylish tribhanga pose is doubly attractive. Add to it His dancing eyebrows that shoot arrows with sidelong glances – and they determinedly pierce the heart of Rādhārāni and the other Gopis." –(C.C.)

We find the description of Sri Krishna's sweet beauty originally in Srimad-Bhāgavatam.

"gopyas-tapah kim-acharan yadamushya rupam lāvanya-sāram-asamorddham-ananya-siddham, drigbhih pivanty-anusavābhi-navam durāpam ekānta-dhāma yashasah shriya aishwarasya."

Sri Krishna's sweetness attracted Srīman-Mahāprabhu so much that it immersed Him in love. He held Srila Sanātan Goswāmi's hand and quoted the loving women of Mathura. He also rendered a charming explanation of the same.

"Sri Krishna's youth is like a fathomless ocean, in which extreme lāvanya play like waves. In that great ocean is the whirlpool of the awakening of various bhāvs. The vibration of Krishna's flute is like a whirlwind, while the hearts of the Gopis are like straws and leaves. Once they fall in the whirlwind, they most certainly drown and lose all chance to rise again (they are fixed eternally at the lotus feet of Krishna)".

"O my dear sakhi¹, what severe austerities have the Gopis performed to drink His extremely sweet beauty through their eyes to their heart's content? By doing so, they glorify their birth, body and mind.

¹ Since Srīman-Mahāprabhu is in Gopi-bhāv and He is considers Sanātan Goswāmi also as a Manjari Krishna's sweetness is unparalleled. It is so ravishing that no one – not even His swarup, that is, Lord Nârâyan of Paravyom Who is the source of all the incarnations, has equal or greater sweetness.

Even the dearest consort of Nârâyan, the goddess of fortune, who is worshiped by all chaste women, is captivated by the incomparable sweetness of Krishna. She forsook everything to enjoy Krishna, and taking a great vow, she performed severe austerity.

Krishna is the essence of all sweetness - there is no perfection above it. He is the inexhaustible mine of all nectarine qualities. He has lent a part of His excellences to His other manifestations wherever and whoever they may be." – (C.C.)

"This divinely sweet form (of Krishna) resides in Brajadhâm alone, which is the abode of majesty, sweetness and jewel-like immaculate qualities. The opulence of other divine forms is merely a reflection of Krishna's excellences. They gain their divinity from Him. Krishna is the fountainhead and is the protector of all." – (C.C.)

Srimad-Bhâgavatam states that Ramâ Devi, the Lady of Vaikuntha was attracted by Sri Krishna's sweet beauty and performed austerity to attain His association. Thus it is evident that Sri Krishna's rupa-mâdhuri is more ras-ful and wonderful. We also learn that although Sri Krishna displayed the two-handed form of Nârâyan to the Gopikâs, He was unable to win them over. Sri Chaitanya-Charitâmrita describes –

Sri Krishna steals Laxmi Devi's heart because He is Swayam Bhagavân, however Nârâyan cannot captivate the Gopikâs. What to speak of the real Nârâyan, once Sri Krishna, Who is much more handsome than Nârâyan disguised Himself as the latter and tried to fool the Gopis by displaying a four-handed form. Yet He was unable to arouse any feeling in them. Sri Chaitanya-Charitâmrita says –

"Krishna steals Laxmi Devi's heart because He is Swayam Bhagavân, however Nârâyan does not have this effect on the Gopikâs. Krishna tried to tease them by disguising as Nârâyan and manifested a four-handed form, but it did not impress the Gopis, nor were they interested." - (C.C.)

We can easily decipher that Sri Nârâyan is not as handsome as Sri Krishna. He captivates everybody right from the Nâg-patnis¹ to Sri Laxmi Devi and from the material world up to the Vaikuntha planets – this is why He is 'Krishna' (the All-attractive). His nature is to delight all chittas with His delighting-shakti and attract them to Him. Therefore the Mahâjan has said –

"Sri Krishna is the transcendental youthful Love-god of Vrindâban, Who is worshiped with Kâm-beej and Kâm-Gâyatri. He attracts every chitta – be it man, woman, the moving or the non-moving. He is so enthralling that He agitates even the Love-god." – (C.C.)

The Gopikâs sighed on the night of Râs – "O Darling, You are the most handsome One in the three worlds. Your sweet beauty makes the cows gaze transfixed at Your face. The birds such as parrots perch on the branches and meditate on Your beauty with their eyes closed, like the Munis. The trees and creepers express goose bumps by sprouting buds and shed tears in the form of honey. The deer are stupefied in ecstasy and remain still like a picture." – (S.B.)

The Gopikâs are full of anurâg. Hence Shyâmsundar's beauty appears all the more stupendous. Thâkur Srila Vidyâpati has quoted Srimati Râdhârâni during purvarâg –
"Dear sakhi, do you know, what I saw? It was remarkable! When you hear it, you will feel I must have seen a dream (it is so unreal!). I saw a pair of lotuses² wearing a garland of moons³. Upon them a young Tamâl tree¹ stood with a golden creeper² entwining it. This combination was strolling on the banks of the Kâlindi. A moon³ arose on the top of the tree with two newly sprouting leaves⁴ – they were pink like the dawn. A couple of bimba fruits⁵ had manifested on that moon and a parrot⁶ was perching motionless on them. It was topped with a pair of restless *Khanjar*⁷ birds covered with a cluster of serpentess⁸ crowned with a peacock⁹.

O my friend Rangini, I am using code words - however when I looked again, I fainted. Poet Vidyâpati says, O Radhe, You are an expert at describing masculine beauty!"

And then sometimes She says –

"Oh I saw something so wonderful – He was sweetness personified – the essence of love-ras. I feel it is matchless in the three worlds. He is bewitching with His hair pulled up and the chandan dot on His forehead. His face is as exquisite as the full moon and it is a snare for the whole world. He is bright like a fresh rain cloud, full of erotic ras and His complexion is dark, smooth and glossy. He is decked in silver, gold, gems and pearls. His joined eyebrows - heaven knows who created them - are arched and attractive like the kâmân (bow) of Kâmdev. On top of this, with His passionate eyes He darts sidelong glances like the flower-arrows of the Love-god, which are more fatal than the poison ones."

We do not get such beautiful description of any divine form other than that of Sri Krishna. The surging waves of His lovely beauty drown the readers' chitta. As a result whenever they wanted to describe male beauty, almost all the great poets have accepted Sri Krishna as their model, since no one else has such sweetness in his lips, serenity in smile, nectarine dew drops in speech, soothing gaze and hitherto unparalleled song of the flute. Sri Krishna is matchless in the ras of beauty, stylish of attire, graceful gestures and movement, and He is the ever-charming hero!

Sri Krishna, the Ocean of Beauty gives rise to inebriated waves and no one can beat poet Jaydev in raising those waves to dizzy heights and then plunge our hearts in it. Also composer Govinda dâs is no less in this matter. He has tried his level best to give us a clear picture of Sri Krishna's rupa-mâdhuri. His poetry is so sweet that we feel as if we can see the extremely handsome Sri Krishna right in front of us.

"His youthful lāvanya is pouring onto the earth and flowing away while the dancing waves of his soft smile make the Love-god faint in ecstasy. Who is this lover-boy and at what unfortunate moment did I behold Him that I lost all my control? Ever since, my heart is agitated and I know not why it bleeds so. He does not walk, He dances – His body swaying in laughter ! His sidelong glances dart poisonous arrows that charge to pierce our hearts.

Inebriated black bees sing, hover and fall on the garland of Mâlâti flowers that sways on His bosom. The chandan dot on His forehead sends sparks that hit the center of my heart. I don't know what disease I have caught – I am so ashamed to reveal it to anyone. A woman's heart is so hard that it continues to beat even under such drastic situation! Poet Govinda dâs says – I really do not know what will happen now."

What a wonderful description! Beauty and ras have mingled to create bliss!! Sri Lilâshuk is another poet who is excellent at portraying Sri Krishna's beauty. Sometimes in the throes of bhâv, he has gushed – Sri Krishna is an extraordinary Object! And sometimes he has eulogized – Sri Krishna is remarkable effulgence! Yet again he has called Sri Krishna 'a transcendental bliss'. After labeling Him an 'Object' He has added a smile to it; He has called Him 'effulgence' and then crowned Him with peacock feathers; He has termed Him as 'bliss' and then arranged a sweet flute on the lips of that 'bliss'. How sweet is his bhâv! How lofty is his language!! Ultimately he has lost himself in the anurâg of Sri Krishna's beauty – all he could utter was 'madhuram madhuram'.

" madhuram madhuram vapurasya vibhor-madhuram madhuram vadanam madhuram madhu-gandhi madhusmitam-etad-aho madhuram madhuram madhuram madhuram. "

- (Sri Krishna-Karnâmrítam.92)

Sriman-*Mahâ*prabhu has relished this verse and has explained it with His sweet lips –

"Krishna is like a delicious sweet dish with a sweet filling of lâvanya. It is sweeter than sweet. His nectarine moon like face is sweeter than that, so it is sweeter than sweeter than sweet. When He smiles, it scatters moonbeams all around – it is sweeter than His face – therefore it is sweeter than sweeter than sweeter than sweet. A single drop of this sweetness transverses three worlds and the sweet filling spreads all around." – (C.C.)

Sri Krishna's leelâ-mâdhuri, prem-mâdhuri, venu-mâdhuri and rupa-mâdhuri – this four-fold sweetness are extraordinary. Sri Krishna expresses these to the maximum extent. As a result, shrutis, smritis and great saints have extolled Vrajendranandan Sri Krishna as Swayam Bhagavân.

Fitting reply to all the opponents of Sri Krishna being Swayam Bhagavân

Great scriptures such as Srimad-Bhagavad-Gitâ and Srimad-Bhâgavatam prove that Sri Krishna is Swayam Bhagavân, yet some statements appear to be contradictory also. The good devotees need to know how to resolve them with one another. *Mahâ*raj Parikshit has asked Sri Shukadev right in the beginning of the tenth skandha of Srimad-Bhâgavatam - yadoshcha dharmasheelasya nitarâm munisattama, tatrâmshena-avatirnasya vishnorviryâni shamsa nah.

"O greatest of sages, please describe to me the glory of Sri Krishna Who appeared as amsha (part / incarnation) in the lineage of the most righteous King Yadu." - (S.B.10.12)

"The devatâs told Devaki –

Drishtyâmba te kukshi-gatah parah pumânamshe-nâ sâkshâd-bhagavân bhavâya nah

Dear mother, the Supreme Personality has appeared as amsha (part / incarnation) in your womb for our welfare." – (S.B.10.2.41)

There are many such statements in Srimad-Bhâgavatam that prove Sri Krishna an incarnation – but only apparently. However Sridhar Swâmpâd, the foremost preceptor of Srimad-Bhâgavatam explains that although some characters in the text (for example Nanda *Mahâ*raj) have made these statements, Srimad-Bhâgavatam does not affirm them – they are not Srimad-Bhâgavatam's personal opinion. Srimad-Bhâgavatam cannot contradict Himself (krishnastu bhagavân swayam). The wise scholar is one who explains a scripture by resolving apparently contradictory statements in the scriptures.

Let us return to *Mahâ*raj Parikshit's question. Here the âchâryas explain that 'amshena' does not mean 'as an amsha', but according to Sanskrit Grammar, 'amshena' also means 'with an amsha'. If we accept the latter meaning, then the statement stands as – "O greatest of sages, please describe to me the glory of Sri Krishna Who appeared with amsha (Lord Balarâm) in the lineage of the most righteous King Yadu."

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Similarly the intention of the devatâs too would change – “Dear mother, the Supreme Personality has appeared with amsha (here ‘amsa’ means ‘shakti’ or His potency) in your womb for our welfare.”

Mahârâj Nanda has said - “I consider Krishna amsa (part) of Sri Nârâyan.” – (S.B.10.26.23)

This is strictly Nanda Mahârâj’s personal opinion and NOT that of Srimad-Bhâgavatam.

In the same way, we find the word ‘kalâ’ (part of the part of the Supreme Being) with reference to Sri Krishna.

– (S.B.10.20)

This verse seemingly means – “The earth looked extremely exuberant with rich and golden crops, to welcome Sri Krishna and Baladev Who appeared as Sri Hari’s kalâ.”

This meaning of the above verse indicates that the speaker of Srimad-Bhâgavatam is once declaring Sri Krishna as ‘swayam Bhagavân’ and in the same breath he is stating Him as ‘part of a part’. Has Vyâsdev gone mad? Definitely not. In truth, following the rules of Sanskrit grammar, we can break the word ‘kalâbhyâm’ into ‘kalâ’ and ‘âbhyâm’. ‘kalâ’ means ‘the earth’ and ‘âbhyâm’ means ‘by Sri Krishna-Balarâm’. Now the entire sentence conveys - “The earth was extremely beautified with rich and golden crops, by (the appearance of) Sri Krishna and balarâm.”

If we accept this meaning then the scripture does not contradict itself. The preceptors too support explanations that resolve seemingly inconsistent statements. We see in Srimad-Bhâgavatam (10.89.58) –

“dwijâtmajâ me yuvayodidrikshunâ, mayopanitâ bhuvî dharmâ-guptaye, kalâvatirnou-avanerbharâsurân hatveha bhuyastarayetamanti me.”

The superficial meaning of this verse is – “Bhumâ-purush is telling Sri Krishna and Arjun – I wanted to see you, therefore I brought the Brahmin-children here. Both of you have appeared as my ‘kalâ’ (parts) to protect righteousness. Kill the asuras who are a burden to the earth and return quickly to me.”

This translation disagrees with some other verses of Srimad-Bhâgavatam that propounds Sri Krishna as ‘Swayam Bhagavân’. Hence no âchârya has accepted this meaning. They have broken ‘kalâvatirnou’ into ‘kalâ’ (=earth, which is a part of His part) and ‘avatirnou’ (=descended) so that the verse gains the right connotation – “I wanted to see you; therefore I brought the Brahmin-children here. Both of you have descended on my ‘kalâ’ (earth) to protect righteousness. Kill the asuras who are a burden on the earth and return them quickly to me.” This is the real meaning of the verse.

Bhumâ-purush was craving to get Swayam Bhagavân Sri Krishna’s darshan, since He is beauty and sweetness personified. However it is impossible for Bhumâ-purush to bring Sri Krishna from Dwâraka to Mahâkâlpur and behold Him. He knows that Sri Krishna is ‘brahmanyadev’ – He can do anything to help a Brahmin. Therefore to satisfy his intense desire to behold Sri Krishna he had kidnapped the Brahmin-children.

Harivamsa especially describes the pastimes of the Supreme Lord that took place after the battle at Kuruksetra, including His pastimes of disappearance. Harivamsa is considered a supplement of Mahabharata.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Meaning – “Sri Krishna went because of the brahmin, otherwise He would not have gone there.”

This indicates that Bhumâ-purush cannot force Sri Krishna to do anything; he is dependent on Sri Krishna's wish. He desires Sri Krishna's darshan and whether he will get darshan or not depends on Sri Krishna's wish; these factors prove that Bhumâ-purush is a part and Sri Krishna is the source.

Especially the story of Bhumâ-purush belongs to the 'âkhyân¹' category, while 'krishnastu Bhagavân swayam' is Shruti. Shruti is impartial and stronger than âkhyân. When two statements in the scriptures seemingly contradict each other, we are to accept what the stronger category says – this is the rule of Mimânsâ philosophy. Therefore whatever an âkhyân may say, 'krishnastu Bhagavân swayam' is an extremely forceful statement and it is bound to defeat all else.

Our opponents put forth another argument – Sri Krishna has payed obeisance to Bhumâ-purush, therefore he is greater than Sri Krishna. Although we agree that one who pays obeisance has a lower status, we cannot use the same logic here. Sri Krishna paid obeisance because He was playing the role of a human being. It is a part of His transcendental pastime. Why, Sri Krishna has paid obeisance to Nârâd Muni, Govardhan Mountain, the sun, and the fire - so does it mean they are all greater than He? Lord Râmchandra has extolled the sea and has paid obeisance, does that make the sea more exalted than Lord Râm? Actually these activities are parts of the sweet human like leelâs and them all the more charming.

One more point – the Nârâyan that Arjun had seen in Mahākâlpur was eight-handed. According to Nârâyan-tattva, four-handed Nârâyan is greater than the eight-handed form. We see in Brahmaji's glorification – "nârâyano'ngam narabhujalâyanât" - he clearly described the four-handed Nârâyan as Sri Krishna's part.

Our opponents also quote scriptures such as Vishnu Purân to prove that Sri Krishna is Lord Nârâyan's 'kesh-avatâr' (incarnation of hair). There is a story in Sri Vishnu Puran, Harivamsha and Mahâbhârat. It says when the devatâs prayed to Kshirodakashâyi Vishnu to remove the burden of the earth He had drawn two 'kesh' (hairs) from his head – one black and the other white. These two hairs appeared as Sri Krishna and Balarâm in the Yadu dynasty to save the earth. However, here the word kesh cannot possibly mean 'hair' since Lord Nârâyan is ever-young and is beyond the effect of time. How can he possess white hair? Here, 'kesh' means 'effulgence'. Sri Krishna Himself has said –

"amshavo ye prakâshante te mama keshha-sangitâh, sarvagyâh keshavam tasmân mâmâhurmunisattamâh." – (Mahâbhârat)

Meaning - "'kesh' is the mass of effulgence that emanate from me. As a result the sages call me 'Keshav'."

This is why Kshirodakashâyi Nârâyan pointed to the two rays – one dark and the other bright to imply that Sri Krishna, Who is dark-complexioned and Balarâm Who is fair, would descend on earth. They would be effulgent. By indicating to the rays over his head, he also proclaimed that this time Swayam Bhagavân, Who is my Master and the overlord of all incarnations would appear. Hence you need not worry any more about saving the earth.

Sri Vyâsdev is very much in his right sense and does not contradict himself. It is just that we do not understand these verses in their right perspective. There is another way to resolve the seemingly conflicting statements –

Harivamsa consists of about sixteen thousand verses; it was first recited by the great sage, Vaisampayan, to King Janamejaya. In that assembly, Ugrasrava or Sauti was also present. Later on, by the request of the sages at Naimisaranya, headed by Saunak, Sauti again recited the Harivamsa Purân.

“Some say Sri Krishna is verily Sri Nara-Nârâyan, while others say that He is indeed Lord Vâman; still others say that Sri Krishna is the incarnation of Kshirodashâyi Vishnu. Nothing is impossible – everyone is speaking the truth – for, Sri Krishna is the source of all incarnations. When He descends on the earth all His portions come and merge into Him. Whichever form one worships, one says Sri Krishna is that divine form. Everything is possible with Sri Krishna - have no doubt about it.” – (C.C.)

(A Scientific Study of Sri Râdhâ)

Sri Râdhâ is the absolute power

In 'A Scientific Study of God' we have learnt about the internal potency of Sri Bhagavân. Hlâdini shakti or Blissful potency is the greatest internal potency. Srimati Râdhârâni is Hlâdini Shakti personified. Sri Krishna is Swayam Bhagavân, hence He is absolutely powerful. Srimati Râdhârâni is the crest-jewel of all His beloveds – therefore She is the absolute Shakti. She is the greatest and the source of all shaktis. She is the whole while all other shaktis are Her parts. Sri Nârad tells Srimati Râdhârâni in the Pâtâl-khanda of Sri Padma-Purân –

"O Devi, You are the source of all that is specially pure and good. You are the source of the hlâdini, sandhini and samvit potencies and You are the Supremæ Power and Supremæ Knowledge. You give the highest bliss to Sri Bhagavân and even Brahmâ and Rudra (Shiva) cannot understand You. Your opulence is remarkable in every aspect. The best of yogis cannot reach You with their meditation. I feel all the divine shaktis are Your parts as You control various shaktis such as ichchâ-shakti (will power), gyân-shakti (the power of knowledge) and kriyâ-shakti (the power of action). Swayam Bhagavân Sri Krishna, Who is the Supremæ Personality, has countless majesty and they are also Your parts."

Srimati Râdhârâni is the embodiment of Sri Krishna's swarup shakti. She has each and every excellent quality and is the presiding Deity for all opulence¹. Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has written in Priti-sandarbha (120th chapter) –

"Sri Bhagavân's swarup shakti has countless wonderful properties, for example - excellent talents, wealth etc. This swarup shakti exists in two forms –

1. it is unmanifest and exists in Sri Bhagavân only as a 'power'.
2. it is manifest and expressed in the forms of Laxmis. The swarup shakti that is manifest and appears in the personal form is the source of all excellences and opulence. Srimati Râdhârâni is the root of all the Kamalâs².

"Srimati Râdhârâni is Sri Bhagavân's primeval potency; She is eternal, without any material quality and other shaktis such as Laxmi and Durgâ are Her parts." – (Gopâl-Tâpani-Shruti)

In fact, Sri Krishna is the topmost Tattva and at the same time He is the Cause of all causes. Srimati Râdhârâni too is the supremæ Shakti and is the Cause of all causes. Sri Gopâl-Tâpani-Shruti has called Her the 'primeval potency' because She is the Cause of all causes. Sri Nârad-Pancharâtra and Goutamiya-tantra have defined Her as 'the supremæ Shakti' because She is eternal and the topmost.

"laxmi Saraswati durgâ sâvitri râdhikâ parâ, bhaktyâ namanti yat shashwat tam namâmparât-param."

Meaning - "I constantly pay obeisance to Sri Krishna Who is more divine than the divine, and Whom Laxmi, Saraswati, Durgâ, Sâvitri and the 'parâ-shakti' or supremæ Shakti Sri Râdhâ worship with devotion." – (Nârad-Pancharâtra)

It is evident from this verse that although Laxmi, Durgâ etc. are divine shaktis, only Srimati Râdhârâni is 'parâ'. What does 'parâ' mean?

"parânte shreshtha-vâchakâh"

Meaning - "When we use the word 'parâ' at the end, it indicates the superlative (greatest)".

² Kamalâ is another name of Laxmi.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

From this we easily understand that Srimati Râdhârâni is the supremæ. Sri Nârad-Pancharâtra has used 'parâ' many times in connection with Srimati Râdhârâni. Example -

"rasikâ rasikânandâ swayam râseseshwari parâ".

Meaning - "Srimati Râdhârâni is the connoisseur of ras, She takes delight in those who are devoted to ras, She Herself is the controller of the Râs-dance and is the greatest of all."

"devi krishnamayee proktâ râdhikâ para-devatâ, sarva-laxmimayi sarva-kântih sammohini para."

The author of Sri Chaitanya-Charitâmrita has explained this verse very beautifully –

"Srimati Râdhârâni is resplendent and supremely beautiful. She is like the altar of Sri Krishna-worship and the playground for His love-sports. She is Krishnamayee, meaning, She is full of Sri Krishna inside and outside. Sri Krishna appears wherever She casts Her gaze. Sri Krishna is love and ras personified and His shakti is non-different from Him. She worships Sri Krishna by fulfilling all His desires; hence the Purâns call Her 'Râdhikâ' (the worshipper). Therefore She is all-revered and is the supremæ deity. She is the all-protector and is the Mother of all the universes.

She is the source of all the Laxmis. The Laxmis are the six majesty of Sri Krishna¹. Srimati Râdhârâni is their source – the greatest of all shaktis. All beauty and splendour reside in Her. She dispenses beauty to all the Laxmis. Here 'splendour' can also mean all the desires of Sri Krishna – this indicates that all His desires reside in Srimati Râdhârâni. Râdhikâ fulfils His wishes. This is the meaning of 'Sri Râdhâ is all-resplendent'. Sri Krishna mesmerizes everybody and Srimati Râdhârâni holds Sri Krishna spellbound. Therefore we conclude that She is the Supremæ Owner²." – (C.C.)

When the great sage Parâshar³ mentioned 'parâ-shakti' (the Great Power), he said –
"The Great Power is always beyond description; it is extremely far from our mental speculation and it is a subject for only self-realized param-hamsas - I pray to That supremæ Ishwari⁴."

Although some refer that supremæ shakti as Laxmi and some call Her as 'Durgâ', actually she is Sri Râdhâ and resides as the absolute power in Vrindâban. Sri Râdhâ is the pinnacle of supremæ shakti.

"Srimati Râdhârâni is the Supremæ Power while Sri Krishna is the Supremæ Personality. The scriptures prove that the two are non-different. Just as musk and its fragrance are inseparable, and so are fire and its burning property, similarly Râdhâ and Krishna are one. They assume two forms simply to relish ras." – (C.C.)

Just as the moon is inseparable from its moonlight and the milk is non-different from its whiteness, Râdhâ and Krishna are one. Although They are inseparable, Srimati Râdhârâni is always present besides Sri Krishna in the playground of Leelâ as the 'crest-jewel of all His beloveds'. In love She is Krishnamayee⁵, in ras She is Gourângi (brilliant), in opulence She is all-Laxmimayee⁶, in sweetness She is the foremost Gopikâ. Srila Shukamuni has realized Her immense importance over all other Gopikâs while describing the Râs-leelâ in Srimad-Bhâgavatam.

² Because She owns even Sri Krishna.

³ Mahamuni Parâshar, Husband of Satyavati and the father of Vyâsdev. Maitreya was Mahamuni Parâshar's disciple, so Vyâs and Maitreya were very close friends. He was present also during the time of Bhishma's death. He was the spiritual master of Maharaj Janak and a great devotee of Lord Shiva. He is the author of many Vedic scriptures and sociological directions.

⁴ Controller (fem.)

⁵ She can think of nothing other than Sri Krishna and is always engaged in serving Him. Sri Krishna is present outside He and withing Her. She is absolutely engrossed in Him.

⁶ The aggregate of all the Laxmis

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

He has placed Her on the highest pedestal amidst hundreds of crores of Gopis during the Râs-leelâ.

anayârâdhito nunam Bhagavân harireeshwarah, yanno vihâya govindah prito yâmanayadrahah.
- (S.B.10.30.24.)

Explanation – When Sri Krishna disappeared with Srimati Râdhârâni from amidst the Râs-dance, the Brajadesis went mad with viraha. They started searching for Him. While searching, they first saw His footprints and when they started following those steps, they noticed Srimati Râdhârâni's footprints on the left side of His footprints. Then they realized that Srimati Râdhârâni is the most blessed of them all. A gopi said – “Dear sakhis, look, these are Râdhâ's footsteps. Sri Bhagavân destroys all miseries and fulfils the devotee's heartfelt desire; and Sri Râdhâ has subjugated Him by Her adoration. As a result Sri Govinda has forsaken us in this dead night in the forest and has taken Her in a secluded place unknown to us. Her good fortune is incomparable.”

In Sri Chaitanya-Charitâmrita (8th chapter, Madhya Leelâ), Râmânanda Roy established Sri Râdhâ's prem as the crest-jewel of all achievable goals. He quoted this verse from Srimad-Bhâgavatam to prove that Sri Râdhâ is more important than all other Gopikâs. Then Sriman-Mahâprabhu objected to it saying –

“The Lord said – tell me more. I am enjoying your talk very much. It seems as if a wonderful river of amritam is flowing from your lips. However I do not approve of Krishna taking Râdhâ away stealthily to a secluded place. It appears He is afraid of the other Gopis. This does not show deep love at all. Had Krishna rejected the Gopis openly for Radha's sake, then I would have accepted that He has deep anurâg for Her.” –(C.C.)

Sri Krishna is entirely subordinate to love. His subjugation is proportional to the type and amount of love. When He stole Srimati Râdhârâni away from the Gopis, then we feel as if He was afraid to upset them. This means He does not love Srimati Râdhârâni openly. Had He taken Her right in front of the Gopis, then we would have appreciated His love for Her. This is why Lord Goursundar is objecting to Sri Govinda's behaviour.

Sri Râdhâ expressed mân during the Great Râs while the Gopis became proud of their good fortune. Sri Krishna wanted to alleviate Her mân and simultaneously crush the pride of the other Gopis. Therefore He disappeared. Had He taken Sri Râdhâ away in front of the Gopis, Her mân would have been assuaged. However, the other Gopis who were floating in the ocean of bhâv would have felt jealous. The Râs-dance is a sport of immense ras; it has to be free from negative waves. All the participants should immerse in a vast ocean of absolutely pure prem-bhâv. This is the only reason why Sri Krishna disappeared with Srimati Râdhârâni without anyone's knowledge and not because He feared the Gopis. It is evident from Sri Jaydev's description of the vernal Râs, where we see that He has openly abandoned the Gopis in Srimati Râdhârâni's favour. Râmânanda Roy is an expert connoisseur of ras. He has logically overruled Sriman-Mahâprabhu's objection by citing evidence from Poet Jaydev's Râs. He said –

“Then please hear the glory of love. Sri Râdhâ's love is unparalleled in three worlds. Sri Krishna deserted the Râs-dance of the Gopis and wandered in the forest of Vrindâban lamenting for Râdhâ.

Sri Geet-Govindam says (3.1.2) –

*kamsarirâpi samsâra-vâsanâ-baddha-shrinkhalâm, râdhâ-mâdhâya hridaye tatyâja Braja-sundari.
itastatastâm-anusritya râdhikâm-ananga-bân-brana-khinâ-mânansah, kritânu-tâpah sa kalinda-nandini tatânta-kunje vishasâda mâdhavah.*

When we analyse these two verses we stumble across an enormous mine of Amritam. Sri Krishna was indulging the Râs-dalliance with hundreds of crores of Gopis, while He remained with Râdhâ in one form. When Râdhâ saw that He was expressing equal love for everyone, She felt He was treating Her like an ordinary Gopi, and Her love, which is naturally crooked, became all the more

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

so. She was angry and deserted the Râs-floor in a huff. When Sri Hari did not see Her, He was agitated. The Râs-leelâ is Sri Krishna's biggest dream-come-true and Râdhikâ is the main 'link' in Râs-leelâ¹. He did not enjoy the Râs-dance in Her absence. So He left the group and went in search of Râdhâ. He wandered here and there, but could not see Her. Struck by the arrow of passionate love, He sat and lamented. Hundreds of crores of Gopis could not satisfy Him – from this we can easily guess Sri Râdhikâ's excellences." – (C.C.)

Srimati Râdhârâni's excellences

Forget the living being, even Sri Bhagavân cannot count Srimati Râdhârâni's excellent qualities. All Her good traits arise from Mahâbhâv and hence they entirely subjugate Sri Bhagavân. If a particular quality does not spring out of love, howmuchevery good it may be, Sri Krishna could not care less. Bhagavân Sri Krishna is the absolute and intense form of sat, chit and ânanda. However Sri Râdhâ is more talented than He is. As a result Sri Krishna is so happy with Her. Srila Krishnadâs Kavirâj Goswâmi has written –

The effect of Sri Râdhâ's excellences on Sri Krishna

"Sri Krishna thinks in His mind - the wise call me absolute bliss, and absolute ras. All universes get happiness from me. Is there anyone who can make me joyful? Only someone who is hundreds of times more qualified than me can please me. However it is impossible to find one who is more worthy than me. I realize only Râdhâ to be more competent than me. My beauty can defeat countless Love-gods, none can equal or surpass my sweetness and all universes are delighted to behold my handsomeness. Yet my eyes are soothed when they gaze at Sri Râdhâ. The song of my flute attracts the three worlds, yet Sri Râdhâ's speech is so sweet that it captivates my ears. Although the world is aromatic due to my fragrance, the sweet smell of Sri Râdhâ's body steals my heart and soul. Despite the fact that I am the fountainhead of all the ras present in this world, the nectar of Sri Râdhâ's lips enthralls me. Albeit, my touch is as cooling as innumerable moons, Râdhikâ's sweet touch soothes even me. Thus I am the cause of all happiness in the world, yet I continue to exist only because of Râdhikâ's beauty and excellences." - (C.C.)

Sri Râdhâ has innumerable qualities just like Sri Krishna; nevertheless Srimat Rupa Goswâmpâd has cited twenty-five special qualities that singularly mesmerize Sri Krishna.

"Sri Râdhikâ is –

- (1) Sweet – this means, in every situation Her expressions, movements and features are pleasurable.
- (2) eternally adolescent
- (3) Her side-long glances are highly restless
- (4) bright smile
- (5) She has beautiful symbols of fortune such as barley, discus etc. on Her palms and soles.
- (6) She maddens Mâdhav with Her sweet aroma.
- (7) She is the topmost expert in singing
- (8) Her speech is highly attractive.
- (9) well versed in the art of witty speech
- (10) humble
- (11) compassionate
- (12) expert in various arts
- (13) extremely clever
- (14) bashful
- (15) extremely well mannered
- (16) patient

¹ The Râs-participants form a chain and dance in a circle; hence Srimati Râdhârâni is called the main 'link' in this chain.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

- (17) serious
- (18) charming expressions of love-making
- (19) She is immensely thirsty for Sri Krishna since She is at the height of Mahâbhâv
- (20) all the residents of Gokul love Her
- (21) all universe is resounding with Her fame
- (22) She is a pet of the elders
- (23) She is completely subjugated by the love of Her sakhis
- (24) the chief beloved of Sri Krishna
- (25) Sri Krishna is always in Her control

Sri Râdhâ is a treasurehouse of love. What to speak of ordinary beings, even the consorts of other divinities wish they had Srimati Râdhârâni's qualities.

"Srimati Râdhârâni is the personification of Sri Krishna's priceless and especially pure love. She is full of exquisite qualities. Even Satyabhâmâ desires to have good fortune like Her and the fair maidens of Braja learn the art of love-sports from Her. The exalted devîs such as Laxmi and Parvati wish they were beautiful like Srimati Râdhârâni. Arundhati who is famous for her chastity craves to be chaste like Her. When Krishna Himself cannot conceive all Her excellences, how can this tiny worthless creature count them?" - (C.C.)

Srimati Râdhârâni is the aggregate of all Laxmis and She is the proprietress of infinite majesty. Yet these opulences are immersed in the fathomless ocean of sweetness, hence Srimati Râdhârâni does not express a single drop of majesty – She is so very sweet! Therefore the Mahâjars have only described Her sweetness. In fact sweetness is to be relished, we should feel it in the heart – it is beyond bhâv, language and metre. We cannot realize Srimati Râdhârâni's sweetness without performing the sâdhanâ of prem. Although the wise say we should meditate on the immaculate lotus-like radiance of Sri Râdhâ, 'immaculate lotus-like radiance' cannot give any clue to Her beauty. The lotus and the moon are material objects. They are just transformations of water and light, while Sri Râdhâ is made of Mahabhâv.

"Srimati Râdhârâni is prem personified and She is absorbed in prem – this is the reason why She is crowned as 'the greatest of Sri Krishna's beloveds'." – (C.C.)

Dear devotees, please relish how the Mahâjars have described That embodiment of prem – "Srimati Râdhârâni is Mahâbhâv and dazzles like a wish-fulfilling gem. Loving sakhîs such as Lalitâ are Her expansions. She displays Sri Krishna's love for Her like a perfumed anointment on Her body. This makes Her all the more fragrant and brilliant.

Her first bath is with the nectarine shower of compassion; the next bath comprises of nectarine youth; the last bath is with nectarine lâvanya. She drapes Herself in a blue silk skirt (since Sri Krishna is blue) and wears a red *dupattâ*¹ which is made of deep love (anurâg) for Sri Krishna. The bodice that covers Her bosom is made of pranay and mân.

Then the sakhis anoint Her with three pastes - saffron (made of beauty), chandan (made of love) and the camphor (made of sweet smile and radiance). She has beautiful designs on Her body made with Sri Krishna's brilliant (erotic) ras which is like intoxicating musk. Her silken garment consists of hidden mân, vâmya, expressions of dhammila and the qualities such as dhira-adhirâ.

Her lips are sparkling with the rosiness of the tâmbul (made of râg), while Her eyes are dark with the kohl of crooked prem. Srimati Râdhârâni is decorated with all these bhâvs and Her jewellery consists of twenty types of bhâvs starting with kila-kinchit. The flower garlands She dons on all parts of Her body are none other than Her excellent qualities. The dot that dazzles on Her fair forehead is made of good fortune and Her heart overflows with the liquid gem called 'prem-vaichittî'² (in stead of blood).

² Prem-vaichitti is a type of bhâv. Please see glossary.

She rests Her hand on the shoulder of an adolescent sakhi while young maidens who are absorbed in Sri Krishnaleelâ surround Her.

She is seated on the high pedestal of Her perfumed self and is forever absorbed in Her loving pastimes with Sri Krishna. Her ear-rings consist of Sri Krishna's Holy Names and excellences¹ and all She can utter are Sri Krishna's Holy Names and excellences. She makes Sri Krishna drink (with His ears) the nectarine ras of His magnificent qualities and relentlessly fulfils His every desire."

- (C.C.)

My dear emotional readers! This is the factual description of the Embodiment of eternal love! We have to feel Mahâbhâv with bhâv – there is no other way. Mahâbhâv is the greatest cause of Sri Krishna's happiness. This is why our Goswâmis have described Sri Râdhâ as 'the One Who pleases Sri Krishna' and then they have cited Her sweet qualities. We see in the 'Vishâkhâ-ânandad Stotra' (An ode that gives joy to Vishâkhâ sakhi) composed by Srila Raghunâth das Goswâmi

"Sri Râdhâ is the sunray that makes Sri Govinda's lotus-like love bloom². She is the moonbeam that enables Sri Krishna's kumud-like heart blossom³. She is the great Mânas Sarovar in which Sri Krishna's swan-like mind always swims happily and She is the shower of the fresh rain clouds that breathe new life into the châtak-like Shyâmsundar⁴. While Sri Krishna is like the Tamâl tree that blows serene breeze, She is like the golden creeper embracing Him. She is the static lightning that adorns the fresh cloud-like Govinda. In the summer She is like the extremely cool combination of camphor, chandan and moonlight smeared all over Govinda. In winter Sri Râdhâ is the attractive golden yellow woollen dress for Shyâm. In the spring She is the vernal beauty while Sri Krishna is like a tree. She makes Him exuberant just like the spring season makes a tree burst into greenery. In monsoon He is Shyâm (dark blue) clouds while She is the *Manju-mallâr râg*⁵ that enthuses Him with erotic ras. In the Sharad season, She is the Râs-beauty Who openly subjugates Sri Krishna–the-Râs-rasîk with the help of Her sakhis, and love-sports with Him. The Autumn finds Her as Victory personified as She verily defeats Brajarâj-nandan Sri Krishna Who is in the look out for a duel in the battle of love."

To sum up, Sri Râdhâ is all-in-all of Sri Krishna's divine pastimes. Shyâmsundar is like the dark tamâl tree and Sri Râdhâ is like the golden creeper nestling close to His loving bosom, held tightly by His passionate embrace. The sakhi-manjaris are like the newly sprouting leaves on this creeper-like Sri Râdhâ and they are all swinging together in sweet loving ras.

If we, as the sâdhaks of ras are not able to see this scene, then the major part of our devotional practice in the mood of Vraja has gone waste.

Worshiping in Braja-ras is in vain if we do not surrender to Sri Râdhâ

We have only one aim when we worship Braja-ras – and that is to relish Sri Krishna's sweetness, which is like a colossal upsurging ocean. We are tiny living beings. Even if we reach the stage of prem, howmuch can we relish with our miniscule love? Hardly a drop. If some tremendously powerful person can relish the entire sweetness of the almighty Sri Krishna with Her all-powerful prem, and mercifully She lets us also enjoy the entire delicious sweetness that She has relished, then it will be very nice for us. We will indeed feel blessed and our worship of Braja-ras will be completely successful in all respects. However, to gain this bounty we shall have to surrender unto Her lotus-feet. But first let us find out who is this person? Sri Krishna says in Sri Chaitanya-Charitāmrita –

“My sweetness is wonderful, infinite and absolute. Nobody in the three worlds can conceive it. Rādhikā alone completely relishes this nectarine sweetness due to Her prem.” – (C.C.)

All the sādhaks who take the shelter of Srimati Rādhārāni in the mood of sakhi-manjaris – She enables them to relish the entire Sri Krishna-mādhuri, since She is a fathomless ocean of compassion. Sri Chaitanya-Charitāmrita throws light on this –

“Srimati Rādhārāni is the wish-fulfilling creeper of Sri Krishna-prem, while the sakhis are its leaves and flowers. If we water the creeper with Sri Krishna’s nectarine talks, then the leaves and blossoms feel more joyous than the creeper itself.” – (C.C.)

Srimati Rādhārāni is the wish-fulfilling creeper of Sri Krishna-*prem*¹. When a creeper absorbs water, it transmits the nourishment to all its branches, leaves and inflorescence; similarly Sri Rādhā is absorbed in the nectarine divine pastimes of Sri Krishna and She gives the entire relish to Her sakhi-manjaris. Therefore the Mahājans say that we can hardly appreciate Sri Krishna’s sweetness without surrendering unto Srimati Rādhārāni.

*“rādhā-dāsyam-apāsyā yah prayatate govinda-sangāshayā so’yam purna-sudhā-rucheh parichayam rākām vinā kānkshati.
kincha shyāma-rati-pravāha-lahari-beejan na ye tām vidu-ste prāpyāpi marmita-ambudhim-aho bindum param prāpnuyuh.”*

Meaning - “Whoever rejects Sri Rādhā’s service and tries to gain Sri Krishna’s association, wishes to enjoy a full moon without it being a full moon night. Those who do not know Sri Rādhā – alas! – in spite of getting an enormous ocean of amritam they are able to savor hardly a drop!”

Srimati Rādhārāni is the original blissful potency. She is the fountainhead of Sri Krishna-prem. We can relish maximum Sri Krishna-mādhuri in Her shelter. The devotees who are not so blessed as to worship and serve Sri Krishna under Srimati Rādhārāni’s subservience, they are indeed unfortunate – if they serve Sri Krishna alone and even though they may get some relish, it is very little. Therefore Sripād Raghunāth dās Goswāmicharan had resolved to completely reject their association. He has said –

“The sages such as Sri Nārad and the Nigam scriptures forever glorify Her and She is Sri Krishna’s Chief Beloved. Whosoever disregards Her and serves Govinda alone – he is a cheat and arrogant – I do not wish to be in his defiling presence even for a moment – this is my pledge.”

The scriptures say – “binā rādhā-prasādena krishna-prāptir-na jāyate”

Meaning - “It is impossible to attain Sri Krishna without Srimati Rādhārāni’s mercy.”

Lord Shiva has told Devi Durgā in Sammohan-Tantra –

“Who rejects Sri Rādhā and worships Shyāmsundar, takes His Holy Name or meditates on Him, will verily fall down.”

This is the result of discriminating between Sri Krishna and Sri Rādhā. She is His eternal consort. Rik Parishishta says –

“radhayā mādhavo devo mādhavenaiva rādhikā janeshwāvīrbhrājante”

Meaning - “Radha with Mādhav and Mādhav with Rādhā resides eternally in this world.”

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has uttered in pain –

If somebody is a king, but does not serve Sri Hari, he is a spear in my heart; one who spends money, yet does not offer to Sri Hari is a spear in my heart; who is a poet, yet does not extol the beauty, excellence and pastimes of the Lord is a spear in my heart; who has taken the shelter of guru, but not the shelter of Sri Hari, is a spear in my heart; who is talented, yet does not surrender to Sri Hari, is a spear in my heart; whose heart is pure, yet does not serve Sri Krishna, is a spear in my heart, and who worships Sri Krishna, but does not serve under the subservience of Brajaramâ¹ Sri Râdhâ is a spear in my heart – these seven spears are smiting my heart and are excruciatingly agonizing.”

Srila Narottam dâs Thâkur Mahâshai has regretted the misfortune of those who are averse to serving Sri Râdhâ –

“All glory to the Holy Name of Sri Râdhâ, Who resides in Vrindâban and Who is the treasurehouse of Sri Krishna’s blissful love-sports. The hymns that extol Her excellences are so sweet – yet my ears are disinclined to hear them – alas! I am so unfortunate!

Whoever always associates with Her devotees and absorbs in the loving discussions about Her ras-ful divine pastimes gains the association of Ghanashyâm Sri Krishna. Whoever is indisposed to such conversation will never accomplish the highest goal of human life – I loathe hearing his name even.” – (P.B.C.)

It is possible for us to know the very deep confidential mellows of the divine pastimes of Sri Sri Râdhâ-Mâdhav only when we associate with the devotees who are surrendered unto the lotus feet of Sri Sri Râdhâ-Mâdhav. Srila Raghunâth dâs Goswâmi has written in his Swa-sankalpa-prakâsh Stotra (= A hymn to declare my resolution) –

“Whoever has not served the holy, fragrant and compassionate dust of the lotus feet of Srimati Râdhârâni, who has not taken the shelter of Sri Vrindâban that is decorated with Her beautiful footprints, who has not associated with the rasik devotees whose hearts are extremely thirsty for the confidential sevâ of Srimati Râdhârâni - he can never ever immerse in Shyâmsundar Who is the ‘ocean of ras’ personified.”

Sri Râdhâ is Vrindâban-mâdhuri personified

rukmini dwârâvatyanturâdhâ vrindâvane vane

Meaning - "Queen Rukmini is worshiped in Dwârakâ, however Sri Râdhâ is the Controller of Vrindâban."

The supreme Truth has two aspects – shaktimân (He Who is potent) and shakti (His potency). Sri Krishna is Shaktimân while Sri Râdhâ is Shakti. Sri Krishna the Supreme Being, is intense bliss. His characteristic is joy. Similarly ‘shakti’ is a descriptive term and it describes ‘Shaktimân’. When Shakti and Shaktimân sport with one another – they are expressing majesty - we call it ‘Leelâ’.

Shakti is of three types –

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

- Swarup-shakti
- Jiva-shakti
- Mâyâ-shakti

Likewise Leelâ too is of three types –

- Nitya-leelâ (eternal divine pastimes) – When Sri Bhagavân sports with His swarup-shakti we call it Nitya-leelâ. These pastimes are countless, infinitely variegated, always exultant and supremely ras-ful.
- Samsâr-leelâ (pastimes in the material world) – Sri Bhagavân performs these leelâs with the living entity.
- Srishti-leelâ (the pastime of creation) – He performs these pastimes with Mâyâ-shakti.

We can further classify the Nitya-leelâs into two –

1. Unmanifest (aprakat leelâ) – Sri Bhagavân's leelâs are flowing continuously since time infinite in the transcendental world (such as Golok Dhâm). It is an eternal, conscious and blissful abode. It is the topmost and beyond material conception. This is the 'unmanifest leelâ'. These pastimes are the source of all other leelâs. When Leelâmây¹ Sri Bhagavân wishes to reveal His unmanifest leelâ to everybody, He performs these divine pastimes in the material world – we call them 'Manifest or prakat leelâ'.
2. Manifest (prakat leelâ) – These pastimes are manifest in the material world. Sometimes they are more wonderful and contain more ras than the unmanifest leelâs (what He performs in the transcendental abode).

In both manifest and unmanifest leelâs, Sri Bhagavân mainly sports with His swarup shakti. Although swarup shakti comprises of three types of shaktis - sandhini, samvit and hlâdini, the leelâs that He performs with Hlâdini shakti are the most wonderful.

What is Hlâdini shakti?

"yayâ hlâdayate hlâdayati cha sâ hlâdini"

Meaning - "Although the Supreme Being is bliss personified, He relishes complete blissful ras and also gives its taste to His devotees; He does this by using a certain Shakti and this is called Hlâdini Shakti."

"Hlâdini Shakti enables Sri Krishna to relish bliss and He makes His devotees enjoy the same by using Hlâdini Shakti." – (C.C.)

The Supreme Being is intense bliss and Hlâdini exists as potency in Him², while She is also present eternally in Bhakti-tattva. (Since Bhakti results in joy and Hlâdini means joy). However She also has a particular form to serve That Supreme Being Who is Shringâr-rasârâj (the King of Erotic ras). Therefore She exists outside the Swarup shakti as well. Now She becomes famous as 'Bhagavad-priyâ' or 'Beloved of Sri Bhagavân'. There are many such beloveds emanating from Her. They reside in Golok, Vaikuntha etc. we can classify these beloveds into three types –

1. Parama-sweeyâ – eg. The Laxmis of Vaikunthas
2. Swakiyâ – eg. Sitâ in Ayodhyâ, Rukmini, Satyabhâmâ and the other queens in Dwâarakâ
3. Parakiyâ – eg. The Gopikâs in Vrindâban

² She is a part of His swarup shakti or internal potency.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

We find that sweet ras is the most exultant in parakiyâ bhâv. Sri Chaitanya-Charitâmrita says – “Ras is the maximum in parakiyâ bhâv and this mood does not exist anywhere other than in Brajadhâm.” – (C.C.)

“The love affair in which the lover and the beloved face numerous obstacles in meeting one another, their love is hidden, and they find it extremely difficult to get each other - that love is the most erotic and the topmost”. – (U.N.)

As a result the beloveds in Parakiyâ bhâv (the Gopis) are renowned as ‘samarthâ nâyikâ’ or ‘self-independent beloveds’. Amongst these self-independent and most capable Braja-beauties¹, Srimati Râdhârâni is the greatest because She is the embodiment of the famous ‘Mâdanâkhya Mahâbhâv’. Just as Sri Krishna is the personification of total nectarine ras, Srimati Râdhârâni is absolute Mahâbhâv. Bhâv is expressing itself through ras and ras is relished in bhâv – in this manner Sri Krishna and Srimati Râdhârâni are uniting with one another and there is unparalleled deluge in the enormous relish of sweet ras. Hundreds of crores of Gopis are present only to assist in His sweet meeting with Srimati Râdhârâni. They exist simply to bring about variety in Their love-union.

“Sri Krishna relishes the ras of love-sports because of Srimati Râdhârâni; all the other Gopis are the ingredients of ras.” (C.C.)

This indicates the Râs-dance. All sweetness reaches the zenith during the Râs-leelâ. Sri Râdhâ alone is Râseshwari.

“Govinda does not enjoy the Râs-leelâ without Her.” – (C.C.)

The enormous deluge of erotic ras that comprises of immensely wonderful songs and dances delights Sri Krishna, Who is the Embodiment of intense ras and absolute bliss – this is the remarkable function of Leelâ-shakti. We realize it only when we enter the leelâ – such realization is prohibited for the outsiders.

The words of the Shrutis are meaningful only when we understand them in the context of leelâs and the Râs-leelâ is the best incident that proves them true. Although Sri Govinda is Absolute and intense bliss, the sweetness of the Râs-leelâ drives Him crazy. In spite of being âtmârâm, âptakâm and ‘raso vai sah’, His heart becomes full of countless desires to relish Râs-leelâ! If we analyze the verse “remetayâ châtmaratah” of Srimad-Bhâgavatam we can clearly realize what arouses the massive thunderstorm of countless desires in Sri Bhagavân, Who is otherwise ‘âptakâm’ and His heart is calm (without a single wave) like the Pacific Ocean. That arouser is none other than the sweet love of Srimati Râdhârâni Who is Mahâbhâv.²

The sages experience Sri Sri Râsleelâ as the great divine sport of ras - that expresses the extremely ecstatic union and immensely agitated separation of the Lover and the Beloved, the Supreme Being and the Transcendental Nature, the Almighty and the Absolute Power Personified, Supreme God and Supreme Goddess.

This ras is so relishing that Sripâd Shukadev Muni who is completely liberated, has himself drowned in it and has immersed Parikshit Mahârâj as well. This ras has maddened Jayadev, Bilwamangal, Vidyâpati and Chandidâs who have themselves floated in it and has set all world afloat. What to speak of others, even Sri Bhagavân has accepted defeat in this sweet ras at the hands of the Râs-nâyikâs and has declared that He is in debt –

“I can remain manifest in the world for as long as Brahmâ lives and continue to reciprocate your love, yet I shall not be able to repay your debt. The manner in which you have broken all invincible shackles to serve me is incomparable. May your goodness itself be the reward for this!” – (S.B.10.32.22)

² Some other gopis have mahâbhâv in them, but Srimati Râdhârâni is mahâbhâv personified, that is, She is made up of mahâbhâv.

Rasa-râj is bowing down on His own at Mahâbhâv's feet. And Mâdan-âkhyā Mahâbhâv reigns supreme in the realm of Mâhâbhâv.

"Mâdan is the highest of all divine bhâvs. It is greater than supreme bhâvs such as modan and mohan even. It is the source of all bhâvs and takes the Divine Couple to the height of exultation. Only Srimati Râdhârâni Who is Hlâdini Personified possesses mâdan bhâv."

– (U.N.)

As a result the wise glorify Srimati Râdhârâni as the suprememost ideal of love. Although all the Braja-beauties manifest Mahâbhâv to a great extent, Srimati Râdhârâni is its source. Her love too is the maximum. Therefore Sri Krishna is greedy to relish Sri Râdhâ's sweet love. This is the reason that He has accepted Sri Râdhâ's bhâv and splendour and has appeared as Sri Gourânga. He has Himself savoured Srimati Râdhârâni's sweet love and has immersed the world in that love. He has declared – "Sri Râdhâ alone is the embodiment of Braja-mâdhuri". The Goudiya Vaishnav preceptors are surrendered unto the lotus feet of Sri Goursundar. They have showered the bounty of Sri Râdhâ's sweet love in many ways and made us fortunate.

Sri Sri Yugal-mâdhuri – the only object of worship for the Goudiya Vaishnavs

Srila Raghunath dâs Goswâmi takes a vow

Sri Sri Râdhâ-Mâdhav is the sole Object of worship for the devotees sheltered at Sriman-*Mahâ*prabhu's lotus feet. And they serve Sri Krishna only under Srimati Râdhârâni's subservience. We have already quoted howmuch the Goudiya Vaishnav preceptors grieve when we adore Sri Krishna alone and not serve Sri Râdhâ. Srimat Raghunâth dâs Goswâmpâd has called the one who worships Sri Krishna sans Sri Râdhâ as a fraud and arrogant; he has vowed to reject them instantly. In the same breath he has also declared his heartfelt reverence for the worshipers of the Divine Couple –

"Srimati Râdhârâni's name is so sweet that as soon as a living being hears it, he is bathed in love. Whoever lovingly worships Sri Krishna in accompaniment with Sri Râdhâ – I pledge to wash his feet, drink that water and carry it on my head forever."

If we analyse these two pledges of Srila Dâs Goswâmi we can easily appreciate how important it is to serve Srimati Râdhârâni along with Sri Krishna. Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has written at the end of Sri-Krishna-Sandarbha –

"Amongst all the divine manifestations, Sri Krishna is God Himself. Again we see that he expresses Himself in three forms – in Dwâarakâ, Mathurâ and Vrindâban. Amongst these, He expresses extraordinary sweetness in His Vrindâban-manifestation; therefore the Vrindâban-manifestation is the topmost. In Vrindâban He expresses various moods in His pastimes as a child with His parents and as a boy with His friends. However when He performs love-sports in the kishor form with Sri Sri Râdhârâni, who is the crest-jewel of all Vrajânganâs, He is indeed supremely wonderful. Therefore the worship of Sri Sri Râdhâ-Mâdhav is the suprememost."

Srimad-Bhâgavatam (1.1.1) describes Sri Krishna's absolute majesty –

"janmâdyasya yato'nvayâditaratashchâartheshwabhignah swarât tene brahma hridâ ya âdikavaye muhyanti yat soorayah, tejovârimridâm yathâ vinimayo yatra trisargo'mrishâ dhâmnâ swena sada nirastakuhakam satyam param dheemahî."

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has explained this verse as follows –

“Sri Râdhâ is Sri Krishna’s supremely blissful potency. Although Sri Sri Râdhâ-Krishna are one soul, They have accepted eternal bodies that are different from each other to relish leelâ-ras. Therefore Sri Râdhâ is non-different from Sri Krishna. He is forever in deep love with Her. The divine Couple is the source of the primeval ras or erotic ras. They are very much expert in performing various sports of the primeval ras. No one can describe Their pastimes without Their mercy. They showed immense compassion to Lord Veda-Vyas when They revealed Srimad-Bhâgavatam and this text is luxuriant because of Their leelâs. However in spite of Srimad-Bhâgavatam being revealed in our heart, we cannot describe Sri Râdhâ without Her mercy, since even great persons such as Shesh are overcome with illusion when they try to define Her. But Veda-Vyâs definitely had Srimati Râdhârâni’s mercy for he was able to at least describe Their sweet Râs-leelâ.”

Sri Sri Râdhâ-Govinda are so immensely amazing, that when fire and water come in their contact, they behave strangely. Fire becomes cold and water feels hot to touch. Their splendour puts brilliant objects in the shadow while non-luminous articles become radiant. The river flows upwards and the rocks melt. Their association breathes life into the non-conscious. They even change each other’s characteristics – that is, the Lover behaves like the Beloved and the Beloved acts as the Lover – na so ramana nâ ham ramani, duhun mana manobhava peshala jâni.

Sri Krishna relishes the ras of all the beloveds only through Sri Râdhâ. He has used His shakti Yogmâyâ to create the parakiyâ bhâv, then He has got rid of all the obstacles in the path of leelâ, and has sported freely in supremè bliss. Such Sri Sri Râdhâ-Govinda alone are the goal of meditation for the rasik devotees. Srila Veda-Vyâs, along with his intimate disciples such as Shukadev has meditated on Sri Sri Râdhâ-Govinda and he has proved that They are the topmost objects of worship. The highest result of our devotional practice is to delight in the ras of seva along with the ras of sweetness. Nothing can compare with Sri Râdhâ-Govinda’s sweetness. Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has written –

“Sri Sri Râdhâ-Mâdhav’s sweetness is resplendent with fair and dark brilliance; Their love-sporting eyes are dancing in the pure feast of love, Their sweetness is enriched with the extreme expertise in the art of lovemaking and it is supremely charming due to Their nectarine love for each other. I pray that sweetness may attract my innermost heart in all respects.”

Explanation – Sri Râdhâ’s molten-gold complexion is dazzling-white due to Her proximity with Shyâmsundar’s brilliance. He has gained an emerald hue because He is close to Her golden color. The Sweethearts have come very close to each other and hence Sri Krishna’s left eye and Sri Râdhâ’s right eye have become jubilant. It seems as if Their inexpressibly sweet beauty is dancing in celebration. They are decorated with countless expressions of love-sports arising out of mâdan-âkhya Mahâbhâv. Mâdan bhâv exists only in Srimati Râdhârâni. This bhâv is the fountainhead of all other bhâvs; therefore it contains the bhâvs of the devotees, His associates and the beloveds. As a result Rasik-shekhar Sri Krishna can savor the ras of innumerable devotees and the ras of infinite leelâs just by enjoying the mâdan bhâv of Srimati Râdhârâni.

When the sweetness of Sri Mâdhav and Sri Râdhâ Who is the embodiment of Mâdan-âkhya Mahâbhâv, reveals in our heart we realize our topmost goal. This is why Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd is praying for a revelation of Sri Sri Râdhâ-Mâdhav’s expert love-making arising out of Mâdan.

In addition, this sweetness is rich with the all-captivating fragrance of love for each other. The love-sporting Lover and His Beloved anoint Their bodies with saffron and other perfumed unguents whose fragrance spreads in all directions when They embrace each other – this enchants other sakhis also. The signs of love-making arouse Their passion for each other even more and this pleases the sakhis and drowns them in the ras of love for the Divine Couple. When our heart is absorbed in the pure nectarine sweet ras of the Divine Couple's love for each other, it becomes delirious with the aromatic love for Sri Sri Râdhâ-Krishna. Sripâd Jiva Goswâmicharan is saying – may my chitta be attracted by all this sweetness.

We, as sâdhaks, too should pray for the same because this will make us accomplish our topmost goal - that is - the confidential seva in the secluded love-grove and give us the complete relish of ras.

Sri Sri Gourânga Mahâprabhu has given us this hitherto unoffered gift of Manjari-bhâv-sâdhanâ. This is His immense magnanimity.

By performing this Manjari-bhâv-sâdhanâ we can relish Sri Sri Râdhâ-Mâdhav's sweetness and at the same time we can reach the highest achievable goal – that is – confidential nikonja sevâ.

This Sri Yugal-mâdhuri alone is the only Object of worship for the Goudiya Vaishnavs. Our preceptors too have given us the same instruction. Srila Narottam dâs Thâkur Mahâshai has sung in Manjari-swarup –

"râdhâ-krishna prân mor jugala kishor, jibone morone gati âr nâhi mor.

kâlindiro kule keli kadambero bon, ratana bedir upor boshâbo dujon.

shyâm-gouri ange dibo (chuwâ) chandanero gandha, châmara dhulâbo kobe heri mukha-chandra.

gânthiyâ mâlotiro mâlâ dibo donhâr gole, adhare tuliyâ dibo karpoooro tâmbule.

lalitâ bishâkhâa âdi joto sakhi-brinda, âgyâya koribo sebâ charanârobindo.

shri-krishna-chaitanya-prabhur dâser anudâs, sebâ abhilâsh kore narottama dâs."

Meaning –“The Divine Couple - Srimati Râdhârâni and Sri Krishna are my life and soul. I have no refuge in life or death other than They. I shall seat Them on the gem-studded altar in the loving woods of Kadamba trees on the banks of the Kâlindi and anoint Them with fragrant chandan paste. O when will I fan Them with a châmar, all the while gazing at Their sweet and radiant moon-like faces? When shall I sew Mâlati garlands and put around Them? When will I offer camphor-scented betel leaves to their sweet lips? When will I serve Their lotus-feet under the command of Lalitâ, Vishâkhâ and all other sakhis?

Thus prays Narottam dâs - the servant of the servant of Sri Krishna-Chaitanya Mahâprabhu, since his heartfelt desire is to serve the Divine Couple in this confidential manner.”

Sri Bhakti-Tattva-Vigyaan

(A Scientific Study of bhakti)

What is bhakti?

What is bhakti? When Rishis such as Sanak Muni asked this question, Gopâl-Tâpani Shruti answered –

" bhaktirasya bhajanam tadihâm-utra-upâdhi-nairâsyena amusmin manah kalpanam-etad-eava hi naishkarmyam. "

Meaning - "Bhakti means 'to serve Sri Bhagavârt. When we are free of all material desires and engage our mind and all the senses in serving Sri Bhagavân, we call it 'bhajan' and this bhajan alone is 'naishkarmyâ'."

These words of the Shruti prove that bhajan and naishkarmya are synonymous. It expresses the truth that when we begin bhajan all our material desires are destroyed and our heart becomes immaculate. We simply get drowned in relishing the sevâ-ras of Sri Bhagavân.

Tâpani Shruti has defined bhakti and how bhakti subjugates Sri Krishna. It says – "vigyâna-ghana ânanda-ghana sachchidânandaika-rase bhakti-yoge tishthati. "

Meaning - "Sri Krishna is intense special knowledge personified. He is revealed through Bhakti-yog that is eternal, conscious and blissful ras."

From the above statement we learn three things –

- What is bhakti – it is eternal, conscious and blissful ras
- What does bhakti do – it reveals Sri Krishna, which means that He is under the control of bhakti
- Sri Bhagavân's original form – intense special knowledge

Sri Nârâd-Pancha-Râtra says –

" surarshe vihita shâstre harim-uddishya yâ kriyâ, saiva bhaktir-iti prokta taya bhakti parâ bhavet. "

Meaning - "Bhakti comprises all the activities we perform to serve Sri Krishna. By performing these activities we gain supreme bhakti called prem."

Here, 'all the activities we perform to serve Sri Krishna' means the actions that please Him such as, hearing, glorifying etc.

'Bhakti originates from the root word 'bhaj'.

What does
'bhaj' mean?

bhaj ityasha vai dhâtuḥ sevâyâm parikirtitah

Meaning - "The root word 'bhaj' means 'sevâ.'" – (Garud Purân)

However we should note that, if we perform bhajan with any desire other than pleasing Sri Bhagavân, we shall not gain eternal love.

"We do not get prem in spite of performing devotional practice if we have material desires, or the desire for liberation in our heart." – (C.C.Madhya.19.152)

¹ An action that does not bear any fruit and does not result in rebirth.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Bhakti is the chief characteristic of Sri Bhagavân's internal potencies Hlâdini and Samvit. Hlâdini has only one function – to please Sri Bhagavân. Therefore if we have any desire other than pleasing Sri Krishna, Bhakti will never appear in our heart. This is why we should first know the truth about Sri Bhagavân and bhakti. And then we should embark on the path of bhajan. Then our hearing, glorification etc. will bear result. Sri Shândilya Rishi has told in his Bhakti-Sutra -

“sâ parânuraktireeshware”

Meaning - "Bhakti means supreme love for Sri Bhagavân."

Sripâd Swapnâchârya has explained this statement as follows –

"In this verse 'anu' indicates that bhakti is the deep attachment we gain for God after we have gained knowledge about God's true form, His glory and what is Bhakti."

Srimat Rupa Goswâmpâd has analyzed the above statements of Shrutî and Smritî and has written a verse in the beginning of his beautiful text Bhakti-Rasâmrita-Sindhu. In this verse he has expressed the complete definition of Bhakti. And this is strictly in accordance with the Shrutîs and Smritîs. This definition holds good whether we are in vidhi-marga, râg-mârga, sâdhan-bhakti, sâdhya-bhakti, bhâv or prem. The verse is - anyâbhilâshitâ-shunyam gyâna-karmâdi-anâvritam, ânukulyena krishnânusheelanam bhaktiruttamâ.

Meaning - "The topmost bhakti is that which is free of all desires other than to please Sri Krishna; it is not shrouded in *gyân*¹ and *karmâ*². It is beneficial to Sri Krishna."

– (B.R.S.1.1.11)

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd and Srila Vishwanâth Chakravartipâd have elucidated this verse very nicely. Let us relish their explanation.

'Bhakti' comprises activities that are conducive for serving Sri Krishna. This is the true characteristic or main definition of Bhakti. The word 'anusheelant' in the verse has originated from the root 'sheel'. Now 'sheel' means 'sheelant' (to follow some rule) and it is of two types –

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd and Srila Vishwanâth Chakravartipâd's explanation of the 'anyâbhilâshitâshunyâ
verse of B.R.S.

- Do's – We should do certain things with our body, mind and tongue. With our body we should serve the Deities, with our mind we should meditate on His divine pastimes and please Him with our thoughts; with the tongue, we can glorify His Holy Name, qualities and pastimes.

- Don'ts – We should avoid sevâ-offences and offences to the Holy Name.

'Krishnânusheelant' indicates all the do's and don'ts that we should follow to serve and please Sri Krishna. This involves everything starting from taking the shelter of Sri Gurudev's lotus-feet and practicing *sthâyi-bhâv*³ and *vyâbhichâri-bhâv*⁴.

In this manner if we please Sri Krishna with our body, mind and speech, we can say we are performing Bhakti.

We can perform bhakti in two ways –

¹ Path of knowledge that leads to liberation

² Path of action that results in heavenly enjoyments

³ Permanent mood – in the case of the Goudiya Vaishnavs, it is the mood of a Manjari.

⁴ Passing moods such as joy

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

- With impurity
- Without impurity

The 'impurities' in Bhakti comprise of

- a) Some other desires
- b) Adulteration.

When our bhakti is free of other desires and adulteration, we call it 'pure bhakti'.

'Other desires' and 'adulteration'

'Other desires' means longing for material objects, liberation, magical powers, monetary gain, power, position, fame etc.

'Adulteration' indicates the presence of 'gyân' (knowledge) and 'karma' (action). Here 'gyân' refers to worshipping the Impersonal and 'karma' implies activities such as sacrifices, charity and worshipping for material gains - as mentioned in the *smṛiti śāstras*¹. Of course knowledge about bhakti and Sri Bhagavân are true knowledge and we should definitely acquire it. Also it is necessary to perform activities such as worshipping, glorifying and hearing about Sri Krishna. We should also be generous and helpful, but not for the purpose of gaining money, fame and glory. These are parts of 'Sri Krishna-anusheelan' (serving Sri Krishna). If we perform these activities without the desire for material gain and/or liberation then we are said to perform pure bhakti. This bhakti is also called by many other names such as – nirgunā (free of impurities), kevalā (only), mukhya (main), ananyā (exclusive), akinchanā (devoid of desires) and swarup-siddhā (self-independent or true form).

Here Srila Rupa Goswāmipād has used a word – 'ānukulya' or beneficial. If we serve Sri Krishna in such a manner that it is not beneficial for Him, it is not bhakti. Let us understand this better. We may serve Sri Krishna in a non-beneficial manner also. Kamsa, Shishupāl, Jarāsandha too served and pleased Sri Krishna; however their activities were not beneficial for Him, rather they intended to harm Him. Therefore we do not call them 'bhakti'.

Explanation of 'ānukulya'

Here if we think that, going by the dictionary, 'ānukulya' also means 'pleasing' then we are wrong. For example, Sri Krishna was pleased to fight with the asurs and He relished the ras of battle. Although He liked it, we cannot say the asurs were performing bhakti, simply because they were not doing it for His good. Contrary to them, Mother Yashodā left the hungry Sri Krishna and hurried to save the milk from spilling. He did not like it one bit, however we call the mother's activity as bhakti because she was striving for His welfare (since the milk was meant for Him). So ānukulya means 'devoid of envy towards Sri Krishna'.

What does Srila Rupa Goswāmipād mean by 'uttamā bhakti'?

Srila Rupa Goswāmipād has proved what is 'uttamā' or 'topmost bhakti' with this verse from Nārada-Pancharātra – sarvopādhi vinirmuktam tat-paratvena nirmalam, hrishikeshha hrishikeshhasevanam bhaktir-uchyate

Meaning – " 'Bhakti' is serving Sri Krishna without any impurity, with organs (hands, mouth etc.) that are purified by their loving service."

We find that the following terms of this verse are synonymous with Srila Rupa Goswāmipād's verse.

¹ The scriptures dealing mainly with rituals

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Nârad-Pancharâtra	Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd
' sarvopâdhi vinirmuktam ' (free of impurities)	anyâbhilâshitâ-shunyam (free from other desires)
tat-paratvena	ânukulyâtmak (beneficial to Him)
nirmalam	gyâna-karmâdi-anâvritam (not shrouded by gyân and karma)
sevanam	anusheelanam (to serve)

"Prem arises from pure bhakti. Therefore I am expressing the characteristics of pure bhakti

- Forsaking other desires, other worship, gyân and karma
- Perform activities for Sri Krishna with all the organs of the body such that
- They are beneficial to Him.

This is pure bhakti and we gain prem by practicing it. The Pancharâtra and Srimad-Bhâgavatam expound the same." – (C.C. Madhya.19.147-149)

We have already heard what the Pancharâtra has to say. Now what does Srimad-Bhâgavatam state?

Sri Kapildev told Mother Devahuti – "O mother, I am the supreme Personality seated in everyone's heart. As soon as someone hears my excellences, if his heart rushes towards me continuously like the flow of the Gangâ towards the sea, if it does not seek anything else and is without the obstacles called gyân and karma, then it is bhakti without any impurity. My devotees do not accept anything else other than my seva. They do not accept sâlokyâ (living with me in the same abode), sârshî (an opulence alike to mine), sârupyâ (beauty like mine), sâmipyâ (staying close to me), and sâyujyâ (merging into me), even though I may offer it to them." – (S.B.3.29.11-13)

Such pure devotion results in prem. Sriman-Mahâprabhu instructed Srila Rupa Goswâmi about how we can gain prem as a result of performing pure devotion. Sri Chaitanya-Charitâmrita elucidates in a simple manner.

"After roaming in the entire universe some blessed creature, by the mercy of Sri Gurudev and Sri Krishna gets the seed of *Bhakti-latâ*¹. He (the sâdhak) becomes the gardener and sows that seed. He nurtures it by pouring the water of hearing about and glorifying Sri Krishna (His beauty, excellences and pastimes). The seed germinates into a sapling, grows into a creeper, and ultimately pierces the covering of the universe. It crosses the River Virajâ and reaches the transcendental abode. There it goes to Golok Vrindâban and climbs Sri Krishna's feet that are like the wish-fulfilling tree. Once there, it spreads and ultimately it fruits into prem.

How pure devotion results in *prem

Here the gardener waters the creeper daily with the water of hearing, glorifying etc. If he commits Vaishnav-offence, which is like a mad elephant, then it uproots the creeper, and its leaves dry up. Therefore the gardener takes care not to commit aparâdh. However it is possible that parasitic plants may grow on the creeper.

What are these 'parasitic plants'?

¹ Bhakti is likened to latâ or a creeper since it is very tender and fragile. This also indicates that we have to nurture it with care.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

They are the desires for material pleasure, liberation and countless other wishes. These parasitic plants also contain forbidden activities, crookedness, violence, monetary gain and power. The water nourishes these parasitic plants in stead of the Bhakti-creeper; they grow further and further, while the main creeper stops growing. Therefore first of all, we should cut off these other plants. Then only the main creeper will grow and travel to Vrindâban. It will fruit into prem that will ripen so much that it will fall off the creeper on its own and the gardener will eat it and enjoy. He will climb up with the support of this creeper and reach the wish-fulfilling tree (Sri Krishna's lotus feet). There he will serve that wish-fulfilling tree and enjoy the ras of the prem-fruit happily. This is highest reward and the supreme goal of human life. All other goals are worthless as compared to it." – (C.C. Madhya.19.143-146)

What is bhakti made up of?

When we analyze bhakti from the philosophical point of view, we see that it contains nothing other realization and ras. Ordinary people have many doubts regarding bhakti because it contains joy. Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has written in Priti-Sandarbhâ (65) – "Shruti says – 'Bhakti takes the devotee to God and reveals Him to the devotee. Bhakti subjugates Sri Bhagavân and it is the best and the surest way to attain Him.'

Bhakti is so great that it is able to madden Sri Bhagavân with its own joy – the same Sri Bhagavân who is bliss Himself! So what does bhakti comprise? The proponents of Sânkhya, who do not believe in the existence of God, say that no joy is greater than when we are established in goodness. Sri Jiva says - Bhakti is not like the happiness arising out of goodness because the mode¹ of goodness is material. We read in the scriptures that bhakti subjugates Sri Bhagavân, and nothing material can possibly control Him. Also He is joyful in Himself and self-satisfied. He does not feel the necessity for any material pleasure. Therefore bhakti is not synonymous with the mode of goodness.

When the worshipers of Brahman realize Him, His bliss transmits into them. Therefore they feel certain pleasure. However bhakti is not Sri Bhagavân's own joy either, since we find that bhakti gives more pleasure than Brahman-realization. Sri Bhagavân too is happier with bhakti than He is with Himself.

Bhakti definitely is not the inner joy arising out of the living being (if it does not arise from Sri Bhagavân, how can it arise from us since we are His part?) We are atomic; our happiness too is miniscule. It is impossible to make Sri Bhagavân delirious with such small pleasure. How can a goat attract the owner of crores of *kâm-dhenus*²?

Dhruva Maharaj says (quoted in Vishnu-Purân) – "O my Lord, You are the source of everything. The three potencies such as Hlâdini, Sandhini and Samvit reside in You. You are above all material modes of nature. Therefore sattva-gun that gives peace, the troublesome tama-gun and raja-gun – do not exist in You (but in the material world only)."

Now the question arises – how is it possible for Hlâdini shakti to give such immense pleasure to Sri Bhagavân when all the while it is present in Him? Let us study the following case. There is a man called Devdatta. If we say 'Devdatta does not eat during the day, yet he is fat,' it surely indicates that he eats during the night. Similarly we find that Sri Bhagavân is getting immense pleasure from bhakti and at the same time it is not possible for Hlâdini shakti to make Him so happy, since it already exists within Him. We have previously stated that when we do Bhakti, it gives Him much more joy than Brahman-realization. Therefore we conclude that Bhakti is not synonymous with Hlâdini shakti, just as Devdatta cannot become fat without food. If he does not eat during the day, he must be eating at night – so if Hlâdini shakti is not giving Him so much happiness by herself, then logic follows that she must be giving Him immense pleasure in some other form. What is that form? We conclude – when the devotee assists Hlâdini shakti, She gains a special power and gives even Sri Bhagavân (Who is Her source) extreme happiness so much so that He is spellbound.

What happens is like this – Hlâdini has a property called extreme happiness. It continuously enters the devotees and exists in them as 'love for God'. Therefore when Sri Bhagavân feels that love, He too is extremely pleased with His holy devotees. Bhakti is an intense combination of Hlâdini and samvit shakti.

It enters the heart of a devotee and gives Sri Bhagavân immense pleasure. Therefore it is so powerful that it controls Sri Bhagavân. Here intense combination means tat-sâratvancha tannitya-parikarâshrayak tad-ânukulyâ-bhilâsha-visheshah - 'Bhakti is the desire that forever exists in His eternal associates and benefits Sri Bhagavân.' This bhakti flows like the River Mandâkini¹ from the eternal associates in disciplic succession of devotees (Guru-paramparâ) in the material world.

We may ask – bhakti is transcendental. It is the intense combination of Hlâdini and samvit. It is the opposite of material nature. Even Sri Bhagavân experiences it and it is supremely blissful. Then how come this great element appears in this material world and that too in the miniscule living beings? The answer is that – the mercy of the pure devotee carries bhakti from the transcendental world and places it inside the living being, unknown to him. Later it attracts his heart and creates a situation so that the seed of the bhakti-creeper (the wish-fulfilling creeper) can be sown in the heart. This seed sprouts into a desire to serve Sri Bhagavân in favorable manner. A loving mother picks up her baby rolling in the dust, wipes it cleans with her own cloth and suckles it. Bhakti devi too is loving. We, who are turned away from God, have dirt inside us. This dirt consists of doubts regarding God, and many material desires. She cleans the dirt and enthusiastically sows the seed of Bhakti-creeper that is favorable for Sri Bhagavân and for bhajan. Then Bhakti devi makes us inquisitive about bhajan, knowledge of bhakti, firm scriptural faith that is good for bhakti and disinterest in material objects. When our chitta gets cleansed in this manner, the devotee thinks, whether my material attachment diminishes or increases, whether hundreds of obstacles appear in bhajan, I can never forsake the path of bhakti. The devotee is firmly determined; gradually his offences and anarthas disappear and he is blessed with rati and ultimately prem.

Bhakti is the means

Prem is the most desired wealth and the topmost goal of the living being. And bhakti is the means to obtain it. Therefore we call devotional practice as the 'abhidheya' (means or process). We cannot get Sri Bhagavân's mercy by following any path, be it karma, gyân or yog – if we do not possess bhakti.

"Gyân, karma or yog cannot subjugate Sri Krishna; He can be controlled only by the ras of love and devotion." – (C.C)

Sri Krishna has told Sri Uddhav – "O Uddhav, steadfast devotion for me subjugates me to such an extent that yog, sânkhya, dharma, study of the Vedas, austerity and even renunciation cannot."

– (S.B.11.14.20)

¹ Mandâkini is a tributary of river Alaknandâ. Mandâkini originates from the Charabari glacier near Kedârnath in Uttarâkhand, India. Mandâkini is fed by river Vâsukigangâ at Sonprayâg. Mandâkini joins Alaknandâ at Rudraprayâg. Alaknandâ then proceeds towards Devaprayâg where it joins with Bhâgirathi River to form the Gangâ.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

"Devotion for Sri Krishna is the most important means to obtain Him. If we want to attain success in karma, yog or gyân, we have to resort to bhakti. These practices yield fruits that are next to nothing and do not have any power without the assistance of bhakti." – (C.C.)

Bhakti is the only means to achieve spiritual goal. In fact bhakti is the only way for the living being. Bhakti can help all living beings to attain happiness. Therefore the shâstras and Mahâjan have called bhakti as the supremè dharma, supremè yog and supremè welfare. Srimad-Bhâgavatam says – when Sri Brahmâ patiently analyzed all the Vedas thrice, he understood that the scriptures have only one message – and that is devotion for God. Not only this, Bhakti alone is the topmost goal for the living being. Devotional practice is universal. Anybody can follow this path, anywhere and in any situation. The Chatuhshlokî of Srimad-Bhâgavatam says –

" etâvadeva jigyâsyam Tattva-jigyâsunâtmanah, anvaya-vyatirekâbhyâm yat syât sarvatra sarvadâ."

Meaning - "O Brahmâ, whoever wishes to know the confidential truth about love for me, will accept the path of devotional practice that contains do's and don'ts; it is universal and eternal. He will enquire about it from his Spiritual Master."

Sri Bhagavân is proving that devotional practice is the means to achieve our goal. Although karma, gyân and yog also have rules, it is not written anywhere that if you do not resort to them you will commit an offence. Rather some parts of the scriptures also criticize them. On the other hand, we find lots of statements that assert the need for bhakti. Srimad-Bhâgavatam states –

"Sri Chamas Yogindra told Mahârâj Nimi – O King, The brahmins are born from Sri Bhagavân's mouth; they are in the mode of goodness. The Kshatriyas (warriors) have arisen from His arms; they are in the mode of passion. The Vaishyas are born of His thighs; they are in the combined mode of passion and ignorance. The shudras are born of His feet; they are in the mode of ignorance. Likewise, the four âshrams viz. the order of householders, celibacy, vânaprastha and sannyâs have arisen from His thighs, heart, bosom and head respectively. Therefore we see that Sri Hari is the father of all four varnas and orders. If a member of the human society does not adore² Sri Hari, Who is the parent, he is disregarding Him. They fall down from their state."

– (S.B.11.5.2-3)

Sri Krishna has told in Gita with His holy lips –

" na mâm dushkritino mudhâh prapadyante narâdhamâh, mâyayâpahrita-gyâna âsuram bhâram-âshritâh."

Meaning - "O Arjun, all those who are sinful, foolish, have lost their intelligence due to Mâyâ and are in the evil mode of nature are the lowest of human species and they do not surrender unto me."

Thus we see that those who are without bhakti suffer in many ways However we never come across any scripture criticizing the devotional process.

Devotional practice is indeed universal. We find it -

- In every scripture

Skanda Purân states –

¹ The Chatuhshloki Bhâgavatam which as the name suggests condenses the essence of the Purân into 4 verses. It was imparted by Sri Bhagavân to Brahmâji who was about to perform creation but has doubts as to the nature of what he is about to create. It occurs in the 9th chapter of the 2nd skandha of Srimad-Bhâgavatam.

² 'adore' naturally indicates sevâ which in turn means bhakti.

- Suitable for everybody

Sri Brahmâ has told Sri Nârad –

Fallen beings such as women, shudras, huns and shabars too can take the shelter of Sri Hari. If they surrender unto Him, Who is the only refuge for devotees and if they follow their nature

Bhakti* is so universal that anyone, simply anyone – whether he is most sinful, pious, learned or without any knowledge, renounced or with deep attachment, striving for liberation or already liberated, not-yet-successful in Bhakti, or he has accomplished success in Bhakti, practiced-and-became the Lord's associate or eternal associate – bhakti is for everyone, is good for all and spreads happiness all around. There is no restriction or requirement for anyone to follow this path. Therefore undoubtedly, we should all practice Bhakti.

and activities, then they can know the truth about Him. They too can cross His illusory potency (mâyâ). Even if animals associate with devotees and follow their conduct and nature, they can also learn the truth about Sri Bhagavân and can transcend the material ocean. Then do we have any doubt that we can learn the truth about Sri Bhagavân and cross the material barrier after hearing instructions from the Holy Spiritual Master about jap, and we hear, glorify and meditate on Him?" - (S.B.2.7.46)

It is true that the ones who have committed heinous crimes too get supremæ peace by practicing bhakti. Sri Bhagavân has Himself assured in Bhagavad-Gita -

"O Arjun, even if one commits most abominable activities, yet he serves me, then consider him a saint; for by the impact of bhakti, he will very soon become righteous and attain eternal peace. Dear Kounteya (son of Kunti), in this context you may declare in an assembly of debate that my devotee never perishes." – (B.G.9.30-31)

When someone who indulges in foul actions can achieve welfare by practicing bhakti, how much more will someone following the rules of bhakti, and having good conduct, attain – can we guess?

Sri Bhagavân has told Uddhav –

"O Uddhav, the people who live in impure countries and times – if they serve me who is the soul in all beings - either knowing me to be sat-chit-ânanda, or not knowing this – but if they adore me exclusively, then I consider them as the best of my devotees." – (S.B.11.11.33)

This proves that the ones with knowledge or without knowledge can practice devotion.

Srimad-Bhâgavatam very clearly mentions that even the ones who are very deeply attached to material pleasures are qualified for devotional practice.

"Sri Krishna told Uddhav – Dear Uddhav, Bhakti is very powerful. Even though in the beginning of devotional practice my devotee may be highly materialistic, yet with practice (by the impact of bhakti) he mostly transcends the temptations of materialism." – (S.B.11.14.18)

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Hence it is needless to state that by the effect of bhakti, the ones who are detached from materialism will definitely not succumb to its charm again.

The ones who are already liberated and the ones striving for liberations, both have the tendency for bhakti – we know this from Srimad-Bhāgavatam –

"mumukshavo ghora-rupān hitvā bhūta-pati-natha, nārāyana-kalāh śhāntā bhajanti hi-anasuyavah."

Meaning - "Sri Suta Muni said - O Shounak, those who wish to be liberated from the bondage of ignorance should reject the worship of terrible forms such as Bhairav etc. and instead adore the serene forms of Sri Nārāyan or the divine forms emanating from Him ."

Sri Suta Muni has described how the already liberated people serve Sri Hari –

ātmā-rāmashcha munayo nirgranthā apy-urukrame, kurvanty-ahaitukim bhaktim-itthambhuto guno harih."

Meaning - "O Shounak, Sri Hari's excellences attract even the ātmārām sages who are liberated from the bondage of false-ego and serve Him without any cause." – (S.B.1.7.10)

Whether a devotee has reached the state of rati or even if he has not attained rati, it is possible that he still likes to practice bhakti –

"Sri Shukadev told Mahārāj Parikshit – O King, some great people who are devoted to Vāsudev, destroy huge collection of sins by practicing pure devotion just as the direct rays of the sun annihilate fog." – (S.B.6.1.15)

This indicates the ajāta-rati devotee (who has not attained *rati) since this statement does not mention any special expression of bhakti manifested by the devotee.

The following statement proves that one who has reached the stage of *rati too likes devotional practice –

"Sri Havi Yogindra told Nimi Mahārāj – O King, Brahmā and other devatās strive to obtain the lotus-feet of Sri Bhagavān, yet they do not achieve them. However the devotee's mind is transfixed on those extremely rare lotus-feet and does not waver for half a moment even though you may offer him the wealth of the three worlds. He is the best amongst the Vaishnavs." – (S.B.11.2.53)

We find the devotees who have become the Lord's associates by performing bhakti-sādhana continue to do so –

"Sriman-Nārāyan told the great sage Durvāsā – O Muni, my devotees who are free of all material desires do not want to accept the four types¹ of liberation although offered on a platter, since they are always engrossed in the joy of serving me. This is the effect of their Bhakti. When they do not wish for liberation that brings supreme bliss, then it is needless to say that they have no inclination for temporary material objects." – (S.B.9.46.7)

The eternal devotees (e.g. Laxmi devi) too practice bhakti –

"Sri Brahmā told the devatās – O Devas, The lakes of Vaikuntha contain extremely clear and pure water. It is nectarine in taste. The banks of these lakes are bound with corals. Laxmi devi sits on the shore along with her maidservants and worships Sri Vishnu with Tulasi leaves. Then she sees her reflection in the water of the lake and gazes at her pretty face with its curly locks and high nose. She meditates on Sri Nârâyan kissing her face." – (S.B.3.15.22)

- Every sense organ is happy to perform bhakti.

For example – "mânasopachârena paricharya harim mudâ pare'vâm-manasâ gamyan tam sâkshât pratipedire."

Meaning - "Extremely fortunate devotees have got actual darshan of Sri Hari by serving Him in meditation, although He is indescribable and inconceivable."

And of course we all know how to serve Him with external senses. In fact, Bhakti means to serve Him with all our senses. The blessed Lord has told in Sri Gita –

"patram pushpam phalam toyam yo me bhaktyâ prayachchhati tad-aham bhaktyupahritam-ashnâmi prayatâtmanah."

Meaning - "O Arjun, who lovingly gives me a leaf, flower, fruit or water – I eat that loving offering of the pure devotee."

We can practice devotion by various activities –

Devarshi Nârâd has told Sri Vâsudev - "Dear Vâsudev, if one hears Bhâgavat dharma, reads, meditates, respects or simply second (approve) of Bhâgavat dharma, even though he may be inimical to the entire universe, this action immediately purifies him." – (S.B.11.2.12)

- We can perform bhakti through all activities –

The Lord told Arjun – "O Arjun, whatever you do, eat, offer in sacrifice, give in charity, perform austerity – offer them all unto me." – (B.G.9.27)

- Not only this, we also see that some have performed just a shadow of bhakti (not pure bhakti) and yet they have got the result, such as Ajâmil.

He was scared of the emissaries of Yam (the Lord of death) and piteously called out to his son Nârâyan. As a result of this, he later went to Vaikuntha. All of us have heard this story from Srimad-Bhâgavatam. We find another incident in The Purâns –

Once upon a time, a mouse lived in a Mandir. Everyday it used to carry away the cotton wick dipped in ghee to eat. One day when he was scurrying with the wick dipped in ghee; it accidentally touched a lighted lamp. The mouse tried its level best to get rid of the wick since his mouth was burning. But since it had got entangled in its teeth, he could not set free of the fire. The Lord accepted its movements as if it had performed âratî. In the next life it was born as a queen. She conducted a festival of lights for the Lord, pleased him and went to his abode.

In the above narration we see that the mouse has committed an aparâdh by stealing the ghee-wick. Also it has performed âratî which is not true bhakti, but just a shadow of bhakti (bhakti-âbhâs). Yet, Sri Bhagavân did not consider its offense (since the mouse was ignorant), rather He was satisfied with its bhakti (offering of lamp) and brought its soul to His abode.

- Srimad-Bhâgavatam tells us that Sri Bhakti Devi can give all sorts of results in return for bhakti.

For example –

"Who has no desire other than serving the Lord, who has all material desires and who longs for liberation – if they are intelligent, all of them will worship the Supremæ Personality with deep devotion."

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

The scriptures recommend bhakti as the mode of worship in every age –

"krite yad-dhyâyato vishnum tretâyâm yajato makhaih, dwâpare paricharyâyâm kalou tad-hari-kirtanât."

Meaning - "Whatever the people achieved by meditation in Satya Yug, offering fire-sacrifice in the Tretâ Yug, worshiping Him in Dwâpar Yug, they can attain the fruits of all these activities simply by taking the Holy Name in Kali Yug."

- We can perform devotional practice anywhere and in any situation, for example –

Prahlâd in his mother's womb, Dhruva as a child, Ambarish and Bharat in youth, Dhritarâshtra in old age and Ajâmil at the time of death performed bhakti and achieved the highest welfare. Sri Bhagavân tells us about Chitraketu who served Sri Hari in the heaven. In Nrisimha Purân we read of an instance when a devotee attained Sri Bhagavân by taking His Holy Name in hell. Thus we observe that bhakti is universal and eternal. Therefore we can firmly state that bhakti is the only means to achieve the topmost goal of life.

Who is qualified for Bhakti?

Each and every man is qualified for bhakti. Although bhakti is universal and does not depend on the place and time and person, Sri Bhagavân has told Uddhav with reference to who is qualified for pure devotion –

yadrichchhayâ mat-kathâdou jâta-shraddhastu yah pumân

Meaning - "When someone gains faith in hearing my *kathâ*¹, know him to be qualified for bhakti-yog." – (S.B.11.20.8)

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has explained this verse as – "While stating the qualification for bhakti-yog, Sri Bhagavân has said that the cause and rules of bhakti-yog are very much different for those of karma-yog and other spiritual paths. He has noted that scriptural faith alone is the cause of bhakti. In this verse 'yadrichchhayâ' means 'one becomes worthy for the path of bhakti when one comes in contact with some extremely self-sufficient (spiritually)² devotee and the devotee takes mercy on him. This brings about his welfare and he becomes qualified for practicing bhakti.'

There are only two ways to gain faith – association with a devotee and getting his mercy.

Sri Suta Muni told sages such as Shounak – "O pure souls, if we visit holy places we generally tend to serve the pure devotees; if we have respect for Hari-kathâ and wish to hear about Sri Bhagavân, that sevâ arouses in us an interest for Holy discourse." – (S.B.1.2.16.)

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has explained this verse as follows – "Suppose someone visits a Holy Place, say Vrindâban, simply because his job warrants him to go there. He sees some devotees who might have come there to serve Vrindâban or they may be residents of that place. They take darshan of the great devotees, touch their feet, speak to them and serve them. As a result of their sevâ, they start believing in them. Pure devotees are naturally engrossed in discussing about Sri Bhagavân amongst themselves. The visitor becomes curious – 'let me hear what they are talking'. When he hears Sri Hari-kathâ from their holy lips, he gains interest in it."

² A devotee who performs bhakti-sâdhana on his own, and does not need external prodding or inspiration to do so.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Thus, association and mercy of pure devotees result in faith, and faith is the only requisite to start with devotional practice.

What is faith?

"Shraddhā (faith) means very firm conviction that if we perform Sri Krishna-bhakti we will achieve success in all our endeavors." – (C.C.Madhya.22.37.)

We should believe that the scriptures tell the truth, have firm conviction in them, try to study them carefully and adopt measures to resolve contradictions. If we follow the scriptures in this manner then we shall surely come to the conclusion that life is worthless without devotional practice.

When can we say we have faith?

Suppose we know that if we perform desire-free karmas our heart will become pure, and if we do not perform the same, we shall go to hell. In spite of knowing this, when we have the firm conviction that following these paths are obstacles in my service unto Sri Bhagavān, if I perform only Sri Krishna-bhakti, I shall succeed in all my endeavors and resolutely forsake all other dharmas, we can say we have faith in Sri Krishna and Sri Krishna-bhakti. Such faith leads us to Sri Hari-bhajan.

Shraddhā = shrat + dhā + am. Shrat = heart; dhā = dhāran (to hold) or establish. Thus, shraddhā means – believing with all our heart – believe the scriptures – believe in the meaning of the scriptures. Shrutis says –

"When we gain shraddhā in Sri Bhagavān then we think about Him and meditate on Him; an unfaithful person can never do this. Therefore O Nārada, first you try to understand what faith is." Sri Nārada said, "I wish to know about shraddhā itself. How do I learn about shraddhā?" – (Chândogya Upanishad)

The reply to this question is – "shradhāt vanyopāyavarjyam-bhakti yunmukhi-chitta-vritti-visheshah"

Meaning - "Shraddha is to reject all other means and turn to bhakti alone." – (Āmnāy- sutra)

How do we know we are detached from material pleasure?

Hence when we have faith and turn to bhakti, then we gradually become detached from material pleasure. As a result we gain dislike for all topics unrelated to Sri Krishna and we are satisfied with whatever we get. This proves we have faith or shraddhā.

Another proof of shraddhā is – bhagavat-shranāgati - complete refuge at the lotus feet of Sri Bhagavān. Srimat Jiva Goswāmipād says –

"Sharaddhā and sharanāgati (to accept His shelter or protection) are synonymous. It is logical, since if we have faith in the scriptures we shall surely believe that those who are not surrendered to Sri Bhagavān need be afraid and those who are in His shelter have no need to fear. Therefore if we have shraddhā we shall definitely have sharanāgati." – (Bhakti-sandarbha – 173)

Immediately after this Srimat Jiva Goswāmipād has mentioned a few characteristic of scriptural faith. Let us learn this in brief. He says that, if we gain scriptural faith - whether we realize our goal or not, we shall continue to serve Sri Bhagavān just like a gold-digger¹. We shall not care for monetary gain, fame and power. Knowingly we will never offend the devotees. It is possible we may not be able to give up material pleasure altogether; however we will not have deep ¹ One who is convinced there is gold in a certain place continues to search for it in spite of failing repeatedly.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

attachment for the same. If we have shraddhâ we shall never be ill-mannered or commit anything foul.

Sri Bhagavân wants that we should be careful and enthusiastic when we embark on bhakti, since – "jatnâgraha binâ bhakti nâ janmây preme"

Meaning - "Devotional practice does not result in prem if we are not careful and enthusiastic."

– (C.C.)

A father may give all his property to an unworthy son, yet he would be happier if he could make his son worthy and then confer the rights of the property to him. This is natural. Sri Hari loves us, therefore He gives us bhakti only after we have gained faith in Him, and it is true. However, how much qualified we are, to receive bhakti, depends on the extent of shraddhâ we have. The faithful can be classified into three categories –

- Ø Best
- Ø Medium
- Ø Junior

The best – He is a good expert in the scriptures and in presenting logic based on the same. He firmly believes that Sri Krishna is the only Object of worship, Eternal Love is the only goal and bhakti is the only means to achieve this goal. He has absolutely no doubt about this and has very deep shraddhâ – he is the most qualified to receive bhakti.

"Who is a good expert in the scriptures and has extremely firm conviction, He is the best amongst the faithful and can deliver the whole world." – (C.C.)

The medium – He is not so good at analyzing the scriptures nor is he so experienced in studying or presenting the shâstras. In case of a debate, if the opponent is strong he cannot decide what to say; neither can he resolve a difficult poser. However he has extremely strong conviction and is very sure about whom he should worship and what bhajan he should perform. None – not even a strong opponent – can shake his faith.

"He does not know the scriptures, however he has very firm faith; he is the medium devotee and is highly blessed." – (C.C.)

Junior – He has little knowledge of the shâstras and he has less faith. One may break his faith through arguments presented from the scriptures.

"He is a 'junior devotee' since he has less faith; he too will gradually ascend to the top." – (C.C.)

64 rules of Bhakti

Sri Prahlâd Mahâshay has cited 9 rules of bhakti in Srimad-Bhâgavatam – hearing, glorification, remembrance, serve the lotus-feet, worshiping, prayer, servitude, friendship and self-surrender. Scriptures such as Sri Hari-Bhakti-Vilâs mentions many more rules of Bhakti. To make us happy Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd has skimmed through all the scriptures and compiled all of the rules. He made them easy for us so that we find devotional practice a joy and not drudgery. He has penned down 64 rules. Of these, the first twenty form the gateway to the Temple of Bhakti – there are 10 do's and 10 don'ts.

The 10 do's

1. Surrendering unto Sri Gurudev's feet - First of all, we have to take the shelter of the Spiritual Master. Without this we can never start with bhajan. If we find someone making little progress in the path of devotion we should know that he had accepted the shelter of Sri Gurudev in his past life and had made some progress. Hence a faithful person should first take refuge at Sadguru's feet, take initiation in Sri Krishna-mantra and take instruction about bhajan. Sri Gurudev instructs him about the topmost achievable goal and how to accomplish it. He also teaches the devotee about good conduct, drive away the disciple's ignorance and show him the path to Sri Bhagavân. In this manner he showers mercy and blessing on him. On the other hand we see how much one suffers if he is not under the guidance of Sri Gurudev.

"The one who forsakes the feet of Sri Gurudev and tries to control the extremely wavering mind by regulating the sense organs and life-air, they get painful experience from the very same sense organs and life-air. They fall into hundreds of troubles and continue to exist in this material world (they are not delivered). They face the same peril as a sea-faring merchant without his captain." (S.B.10.87.33)

This indicates that when we follow Sri Gurudev's instructions and practice bhajan under his subservience, we gain the knowledge of Bhagavad-*dharma*¹. By the kripâ of Sri Gurudev, obstacles never overwhelm us and our mind quickly becomes unwavering.

In fact Sri Krishna expresses his powerful mercy through Sri Gurudev; He is more compassionate than Sri Krishna. Sri Gurudev is God in the incarnation of a devotee. In the transcendental abode he resides in the form of Sri Gurudev on the left side of Himself (Sri Bhagavân). He spreads extreme mercy – much more than Sri Krishna and awakens in us knowledge about Himself. Shruti is testimony to this –

"âchâryavân purusho veda"

Meaning - "Who surrenders at the feet of the Spiritual Master, can know God".

2. Taking dikshâ and instructions from Sri Gurudev – We should take dikshâ (initiation) from Sri Gurudev. The initiation should comprise of 'Sri Krishna-Mantra'. And we should learn the Bhâgavat dharma from him. After all 'dikshâ' is the process by which we get enlightenment and destroy our sins. 'Enlightenment' indicates that we know the 'dikshâ-mantra' as non-different from Sri Bhagavân and we realize our special relationship with Him.

In the scriptures we find many mantrâs with relation to dikshâ. However Sri Krishna-mantra is the most important of all. Again, amongst Sri Krishna-mantrâs, some pertain to His Vrindâban pastimes while others are related to His Mathurâ and Dwârakâ pastimes.

Just as Sri Krishna's Vrindâvan-leelâs as a cowherd-boy are the sweetest, the mantras that reveal His supremely sweet ras of Brajadhâm are the sweetest. Hence the ten-syllable and eighteen-syllable mantras are the best and we call them as 'the King of Mantras'.

Certain scientific processes can turn lesser metals into gold; similarly by taking dikshâ in proper manner we can turn our material body into spiritual and get the right to serve Sri Krishna.

"When the devotee surrenders during dikshâ, Sri Krishna makes him His Own. He converts the devotee's material body into spiritual and he serves Sri Krishna with his transcendental body." – (Sriman-*Mahâ*prabhu in C.C.Antya.4.184-185)

After taking dikshâ it is necessary to learn Sri Bhâgavat Dharma from Sri Gurudev –

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

"We should consider Sri Gurudev as dear to us as our life and make him our worshiped Deity. We should be free from arrogance, be submissive to Sri Gurudev and learn Bhâgavat Dharma from him. When we approach the Spiritual Master to learn Bhâgavat Dharma we should serve him in such a manner so as to please Sri Hari Who has made us His Own." – (Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd's explanation of S.B.11.3.22)

3. Serve Sri Gurudev – We should consider Sri Gurudev as our well-wisher, dear most friend and the embodiment of the supreme most being Sri Hari. Considering him thus we should serve him. If we do not have very strong faith that Sri Gurudev is divine manifestation, we can never gain the knowledge of the highest truth. If we think of the Spiritual master as mundane all our endeavors become fruitless.

"Sri Gurudev is the torch of knowledge and is the very embodiment of the divine one. Whoever has the corrupt intelligence to think "he is human" is only taking an elephant-bath (all his spiritual endeavors are fruitless)."- (S.B.7.15.26)

So we should serve Sri Gurudev most carefully since we are able to please Sri Hari by his blessing alone.

yo mantrah sa guruh sâkshât yo guruh sa harih swayam, gururyasya bhavettushtasya tushto harih swayam."

Meaning - "Mantra, Guru and Sri Hari are one and the same. When the Spiritual Master is pleased with a devotee, even Sri Hari is pleased with him."

4. Walk on the footsteps of the pure devotees – We should follow in the footprints of the pure devotees since they have obtained Sri Hari-bhakti.

Sri Bhakti-Rasâmrita-Sindhu has quoted the following statement from Sri Skanda Purân –

"The previous Mahâjans have obtained Sri Hari-bhakti without any labor. To achieve this they followed a path that is without stress and it is auspicious. It is our duty to follow that path."

Sri Vyâsdev has said –

"The rules concerning Dharma are very difficult to comprehend. Therefore we should follow the path taken by the Mahâjans since they have attained what is good."

The Mahâjans behave strictly according to the scriptures. This is why Sri Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd has immediately quoted Sri Brahma-Yâmal –

"If we practice single-pointed Bhakti yet neglect the injunctions of Shruti, Smriti, Purân and Pancharâtra then we simply create trouble."

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has explained this statement –

"If we practice single-pointed Bhakti without following the injunctions of the scriptures, it is not good, since this means that we do not have faith in the Vedic scriptures. Here we are not referring to those who do not follow the scriptural injunctions because they are not aware of them or they may be simply lazy. We are referring only to those who know the rules yet disregard them because they do not consider them true. Their so-called 'single-pointed devotion' is an eye-wash since it is not according to the scriptures."

Believers respect the scriptures and forsake what is forbidden by them only to please Sri Krishna. Therefore a devotee naturally wishes to do what the scriptures prescribe and forsake what they forbid, since faith rests on the scriptures alone.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

5. We should be inquisitive about the devotional practice of the pure devotees -

We should ask questions such as - what sort of devotional practice did the pure devotees perform? How did they gain Sri Krishna's sevā? We should be eager to know these facts and ask learned devotees about the process of devotion.

If we are extremely curious about devotional practice we will become absorbed in this topic. This will make us somewhat interested in Bhakti, our heart will become pure and the facts about bhakti will arise in our mind spontaneously. We cannot realize Bhakti by using logic alone. Here by 'interest' we mean that the devotee has an earlier sanskār by which he considers Srimad Bhāgavatam and such scriptures as the highest and has extremely firm faith in the pure devotees and the spiritual master. This is how we understand the true knowledge of bhakti – we cannot realize it with dry logic. Sri Bhakti-Rasāmrita-Sindhu proves that we should inquire about the rules of Bhakti by quoting Nārada Purān –

"Those who are extremely eager to learn about the path followed by the pure devotees achieve the highest goal within a very short time."

6. To forsake material enjoyment for Sri Krishna's pleasure -

Our minds are conditioned to take pleasure in worldly sound, touch, beauty, taste and smell. We always seek sense gratification. This desire is the root cause of material suffering and digression. Our goal should be to give up sensual pleasures and gradually engage the senses in relishing Sri Krishna's divine beauty and ras. If we have strong attachment for sense gratification, it is but natural that we will not be deeply inclined towards bhajan. Yet, if we do not perform bhajan with intense absorption we cannot please Sri Krishna. In fact if we want to obtain Sri Krishna we must please Him. To make Sri Krishna happy we must give up material enjoyment and the desire for such pleasure. We see in Sri Padma Purān –

"From time to time you have forsaken sense gratification; therefore the permanent treasure of Vaikuntha is waiting to welcome you (you will be given a grand welcome and the treasure of Vaikuntha will belong to you - that treasure will never exhaust unlike material prosperity that is temporary)."

We have a natural attraction for material pleasures. It does not go easily. However, the Vedas state that –

" āhār shuddhou sattva-shuddhi, sattva-shuddhou dhruvā-smritih, smriti-lābhe sarva-granthinām vipra-mokshah."

Meaning - "Eating pure food purifies our chitta. When our chitta becomes pure we remember Sri Bhagavān, along with that we naturally get rid of material desires."

Food nourishes and energizes the body and mind. Pure food cleanses the body, senses and the mind. This makes us more easily engrossed in bhajan. Therefore if we want to attain the purest state it is necessary to be very careful about food.

7. We should reside in the holy places of Sri Krishna – It is easy to get bhakti when we live in the places where the Lord has performed His pastimes – such as Sri Vrindāban, Sri Nabadweep, Sri Kshetra (Puri) and on the banks of the Gangā. These places remind us of His divine pastimes and they create an ambience for bhajan. We also get darshan of pure devotees and saints since they too reside in such places. Otherwise it is very difficult to get their darshan. It also shows our surrender.

tavāsmiti vadan vāchā tathaiva manasā vidan, tatsthānamāshritastanvā modate sharanāgatah .

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

“O Lord, who says ‘I am Yours’ and believes the same in his heart and joyously resides in Your *leelâ-sthals*¹ is indeed surrendered unto You.”

8. We should accept what is necessary for our living –

“We should accept whatever is necessary for our living; if we accept either less or more than that we will stray from the spiritual path.” (Nârad Purân quoted in B.R.S.)

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has explained this as – “The sâdhak should earn and spend money in such a manner that bhajan should go on.” The householder should earn by honest means, execute their duties and practice bhajan. Until we reach the stage of renunciation we should continue in this manner. If we attempt to earn more than what is barely necessary to maintain bhakti, our appetite for bhajan will decrease. On the other hand, if we earn less then our mind will be stressed. Therefore it is best to accept that much wealth as is necessary to execute family life and carry on with our bhakti.”

9. We should revere Hari-bâsar – We call the end of Ekâdashi and the beginning of Dwâdashi as ‘Hari-bâsar’. Hari-bâsar also includes other Vaishnav-fasts as mentioned in the scriptures, such as – Janmâshtami, Râdhâshtami, Râm-navami, Nrisimha-chaturdashi, Shiva-chaturdashi, the appearance days of Lord Gourânga, Lord Nityânanda, Lord Advaita etc. We should always forsake the ‘biddhâ’ days and observe pure vrata. When we keep a vrata, we please Sri Krishna and if we do not, we commit great offence.

Many fast but they give up just food. In reality, ‘fast’ signifies – “upavrittasya pâpebhyo yo bâsas-tad-gunaih saha, upavâsah sa vigneya nopavâsastu langhanam.”

Meaning - “Fasting does not mean merely giving up Mahâprasâdam. We should avoid all material activities and spend the day in hearing and glorifying Sri Krishna’s name, excellences and divine pastimes. This is fasting in the true sense.”

10. We should respect dhâtri, ashwattha etc. – “We should worship, pay obeisance and meditate on the *ashwatthâ*², Tulsi, *dhâtri*³, cow, brahmin and Vaishnavs. This destroys our sins.” – (Skanda Purân quoted in B.R.S.)

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has explained further –

“Ashwattha is a majestic manifestation of Sri Bhagavân, hence it is worthy of worship. Sri Bhagavân descends to protect the cow and the brahmin; therefore even pure devotees worship them. Tulsi and the Vaishnavs are the topmost, so all of us should worship them. Especially if we desire prem it becomes inevitable for us to worship Tulsi and the Vaishnavs. This is an intricate part of our bhajan.”

“We begin bhakti with these ten rules.” – (B.R.S.)

This means that if we do not follow these ten laws, we do not start with bhajan. So these are the “do’s”. Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd now mentions ten “don’ts”. They are as follows.

11. We should reject the association of non-devotees – They belong to two classes –

(a) Who do not perform bhajan is ‘bhagavad-vimukh’ (turned away from Sri Bhagavân)

¹ Holy Places where Sri Bhagavân has performed His Divine pastimes

² Ficus religiosa

³ Emblica officinalis or Indian gooseberry

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

(b) Those who oppose the devotees, devotion and Sri Bhagavân are 'Bhagavad-vidweshi' (envious of God).

We should reject the association of both.

"It is better to live in a cage of fire than suffer in the company of one who does not meditate on Sri Krishna." – (Kâtyâyan Samhitâ quoted in B.R.S.)

The point is that the association of non-devotees is detrimental for our devotional knowledge, material detachment and bhajan, so we should reject their company at all costs. If we keep their company our materialistic tendency is bound to increase and we get attached to all the things that are not conducive for bhajan. Just like an infectious disease the bad qualities of a non-devotee attack us and hence his association is dangerous for our spiritual health. Of course we cannot call a chance meeting with a non-devotee as 'association'. Even then we should accept him as a venomous snake ready-to-sting and run away from him trembling in fear. In fact to reject the company of non-devotees is part of Vaishnav-etiquette also.

"Vaishnav-etiquette requires us to reject bad company that comprises of 'stri-sangi'¹ and non-Krishna-devotee." – (C.C.M.22.49)

Sri Bhagavân's devotee can absorb our mind so deeply in Him by describing His beauty, qualities and sweetness that even Sri Bhagavân Himself cannot achieve; similarly a lusty man can make us deeply attached to sense gratification such that even a woman herself cannot do. Therefore we cannot over-emphasize the need to reject the company of such men at all costs.

12. We should not make too many disciples –

"Sri Nârada Muni has said – Do not make too many disciples. Do not study too many texts. Do not earn your living by giving commentaries on the scriptures. Never ever start building religious institutions." – (S.B.7.13.8 quoted in B.R.S.)

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has explained this point further –

"Read 'Do not make many disciples' as 'do not make unqualified disciples', since preceptors such as Nârada have given initiation to many. If we do not make disciples the sampradây faces the danger of extinction and we are accused of being miserly with the dispensation of spiritual knowledge. However it is wrong to initiate unworthy people simply to increase the fold. 'Many' refers to non-devout unqualified disciples."

Sridharswâmpâd has written – "nânubadhneeta pralobhanâdinâ balânnâpâdayet". Meaning - "You should never make disciples by using either temptation or force."

It is aparâdh to make disciples to gain money, fame, power or increase one's fan-following.

"ashraddhâne vimukhe'pi-shrinvanti yashchopadeshah shiva-nâmâparâdhah"

Meaning - "It is an aparâdh to instruct someone in the Holy Name if he lacks scriptural faith and is not interested in hearing the Holy Name."

This means that one is qualified to become a disciple if he has such faith and is interested in the Holy Name.

13. We should not start great projects – When we take up mega-projects like building institutions, missionaries etc. it results in turning away from God. When we get involved in building temples etc. we lack the time and energy for bhajan. Srimad Bhâgavatam says – "nârambhayet kwachit" – which means – "Never ever start religious institutions." How much

¹ Men who are attached to sexual pleasure. Here the point to be noted is, C.C. does not tell us to give up the company of the opposite sex but rather with those who are attached to sex.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

such endeavors affect our bhajan is evident from what is happening in the institutions today. The residents of religious institutions are in disagreement with each other, they are constantly fighting that even results in court-cases! The religious institutions are burning examples of all these grievous incidents.

Sri Krishna cites the character of a loving devotee in Sri Gita –

"sarvârambha-parityâgi yo mad-bhaktah sa me priyah"

Meaning - "O Arjun, He is my dear devotee who does not indulge in building big projects."
– (B.G.12.16)

Sridhar Swâmipâd has explained this verse as -

"sarva-drishta-adrishtârthan-ârambha-anudyamân parityaktum sheelah yasya sah"

Meaning - "The one who rejects mega-endeavors is dear to Sri Krishna."

14.Avoid studying too many texts and explanations –

This statement refers to the texts that oppose bhakti. Sri Nârad Muni has said –

"granthânaivâbhyased bahun na vyâkhyâm-upayunjeeta"

Meaning - "Do not study too many texts and do not earn your living by lecturing on the scriptures."

Srimad-Bhâgavatam is the essence of all Vedic teachings. The Vedas are like a wish-fulfilling tree and Srimad-Bhâgavatam is like an extremely ripe and sweet fruit of this tree. In Kaliyug mankind is enveloped in darkness and Srimad-Bhâgavatam is shining brilliantly like the sun to show us the way. It is self-luminous. There is no scripture that is so full of love. Srimad-Bhâgavatam is extraordinary and sets us on the path of love and God. Our Goswâmis have composed texts of bhakti-principles and ras that are following the dictum of Srimad-Bhâgavatam. Therefore they too are of the same status. These texts are enough for us to relish ras and to gain the knowledge of bhajan.

Some people earn their living by reciting Srimad-Bhâgavatam, this is offensive and hence to be rejected.

15. We should not lack bhakti in practical life –

"The sâdhak who performs bhajan such as meditation should not get worried when there is lack of food and shelter or when food and shelter are destroyed; instead he should remember Sri Hari." – (Padma Purân quoted in B.R.S.)

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has explained this verse as –

"This is the way of Sri Hari's devotee. A sâdhak who loves sevâ is satisfied with whatever he gets and continue to execute loving service; he should not show humility by begging too much. In all practical sense, he should not be a miser."

16.We should not succumb to sorrow –

"If our heart is full of misery and depression, how can Mukunda reveal Himself to us?" – (Padma Purân quoted in B.R.S.)

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

It is but natural to feel hopeless and miserable when we lose a dear one such as our child, spouse, parents etc. However since we are sādhaks, we should quickly remember Sri Hari and realize that the body and things related to the body are meant to perish. We should not let sorrow overwhelm us.

17. We should not disrespect devatās–

It is true that even the devatās worship Sri Hari; however we should not disrespect Brahma, Rudra and other devatās.

“Although a devotee worships only Sri Krishna, he should realize that devatas and devis are His devotees as well and so he should not disrespect them.”

– (Padma purân quoted in B.R.S.)

“anya deb anya shâstra nindâ nâ koribe” – (C.C.)

Meaning - “Do not slander other devatās and shâstras”.

Also we should not show contempt for those who worship devatās. They seek material pleasure and hence they engage in such worship. It is their nature to be loyal to devatās and they are qualified only for that. If the devatās feel true mercy for them they too will become free of material desires and gain the opportunity to practice Sri Krishna-bhajan. Then they will be truly blessed. Janasharmâ of Sri Brihad-Bhagavatâmrta was a worshiper of Kâmâkhyâ devî and later on became a Krishna-devotee.

18. We should not cause anxiety to anyone –

“Do not cause anxiety to any living being physically or mentally”. – (C.C.)

This is our singular duty.

“A devotee should behave sweetly with every living being just as a parent treats a child. He never causes anxiety to anyone. Lord Hrishikesh is quickly pleased with such a devotee for his consciousness is pure.” – Mahâbhârat quoted in (B.R.S.)

Sri Bhagavân has declared this with His sacred lips in Bhagavad-Gita as well –

“O Arjun, who does not trouble anyone, neither can anyone make him agitated, who is free of material joy, anger, fear and anxiety – he is dear to me.” – (B.G.12.15)

19. We should forsake seva-aprâdh and nâm-aparâdh –

What is ‘aparâdh’? Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has written in Bhakti-Sandarbhâ (300th chapter) –

“When we say that a devotee should have ‘shraddhâ’ and ‘bhakti’ it naturally means that we should be respectful. When we commit an offence it indicates disrespect. Therefore disrespect is the root cause for offence and we should stop being disrespectful.”

Seva-aparâdh and Nâm-aparâdh are offences we commit at the sacred feet of Bhakti devî. After all, we worship Bhakti devî when we hear, chant the Holy Name etc. We should place her on the highest pedestal. We should treat her with utmost reverence. It is necessary to love and respect all the devotees who are on the path of bhakti and feel pleased when someone glorifies them – otherwise we are committing aparâdh.

Bhakti-Rasâmrta-Sindhu quotes Varâha Purân in this context –

“Sri Varâha dev told Dharani devî (Mother Earth) – Dear Vasundharâ, A Vaishnav should very carefully avoid all the aparâdhs while serving me. They are as follows –

- 1) To enter Sri Bhagavân’s Mandir riding in a vehicle or with footwear.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

- 2) not to take darshan of Sri Krishna's festivals
- 3) not to pay obeisance to the Deity
- 4) To glorify or serve Sri Bhagavân when we are in a state of '*ucchishta*¹ and contamination.
- 5) To pay obeisance with one hand
- 6) To circumambulate (turn round and round) in front of the Deity or to circumambulate a devatâ in front of Him
- 7) To spread our legs and sit in front of Him
- 8) To sit in front of Him with our arms around our knees
- 9) To sleep in front of the Deity
- 10) To eat in front of Him
- 11) To tell lies in front of Him
- 12) To talk loudly in front of Him
- 13) To chit-chat in front of Him
- 14) To cry out in material sorrow
- 15) To quarrel
- 16) To chastise anyone before the Deity
- 17) To bless anyone or to accept obeisance in front of the Deity
- 18) To speak cruelly to anyone
- 19) We should not wrap ourselves in blanket while paying obeisance or serving Him
- 20) To blaspheme others in front of Him
- 21) To praise others in front of Him
- 22) To use vulgar language in front of Him
- 23) To break wind in front of Him
- 24) It is an offence if we bring less costly items to serve Him in spite of being able to afford more valuable things
- 25) To eat food that has not been offered to Him.
- 26) Not offering the seasonal fruit and flower to the Deity
- 27) If we give the first portion of anything to someone else and then offer Him from the remaining, it is an offence.
- 28) To sit with our backs turned to the Deity
- 29) Not to glorify our Spiritual Master
- 30) To praise oneself
- 31) To blaspheme the devatâs
- 32) To pay obeisance to someone in front of the Deity, to pay obeisance to the left side of the Deity or facing Him or inside the sanctum sanctorum.

These are the 32 sevâ-aparâdhs.

There are some more offences that we should avoid such as –

- to eat food offered by a materialist
- to touch the Deity in the dark
- to offer food after touching untouchable animals like dog etc.
- to speak during archanam
- to get up for passing stool and urine during archanam
- to offer incense before offering perfume and garland
- to enter the Mandir without washing hands and feet and without taking a bath after intercourse
- to serve the Deity after touching the dead, offered lamp and contaminated objects
- to serve Their Lordships wearing red, blue and dirty clothes or wearing clothes worn by someone else and unwashed
- to serve the Deity in an angry mood
- after returning from the crematorium
- when the food in the stomach is not digested
- after taking addictives such as drugs

¹ Without washing our hands and mouth after eating or drinking

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

- after taking an oil-massage

Other scriptures also instruct us to forsake some more seva-aparādhs such as –

- to worship the Deity by disregarding the rules stated in the Bhakti-shāstras
- to disregard the Bhakti-shāstras and uphold other scriptures
- to chew betel-leaf in front of the Deity
- to worship Sri Bhagavân with flowers kept on castor leaf
- to worship at inauspicious hours
- to sit on the floor or on a raised seat during archanam
- to touch the Deity with left hand while pouring water (bathing) Him – the liquid should not touch our left hand and then pour on Him
- offering dry or rotten flowers
- to spit during archanam
- to feel proud that none can worship like me
- to draw a crooked tilak
- to enter the Mandir without washing the feet
- to offer and partake of food cooked by non-Vaishnavas
- to dress up the Deity or offer bhog within a non-Vaishnava's eye-sight

Now we appreciate that seva-aparādhs means all acts that show even the slightest disregard for the Deity or show in any manner that we have but the highest love, care, and faith and respect for Him. We should carefully avoid all the seva-aparādhs. It is possible that we may commit them, not knowingly, but by chance; in that case if we take the Holy Name daily and recite the various hymns and glories then the seva-aparādhs is destroyed. However if we perform them knowingly and then recite glorifications because we know that it will destroy the offence, it gets converted into a 'Nâm-aparādhs', that is – 'to commit a sin on the strength of the Holy Name' and it is very difficult to get out of this one!

Nâm-aparādhs are 10 –

1. to blaspheme a devotee
2. to consider the names of Sri Vishnu and Sri Shiva as independent
3. to disregard the spiritual master
4. to blaspheme the Vedas and scriptures following them
5. to consider the glory of the Holy Name an exaggeration
6. to give some interpretation to the Holy Name
7. to commit a sin on the strength of the Holy Name
8. to consider Sri Harinâm equal to pious activities
9. to instruct in Holy Name a person who lacks faith in it.
10. not to love the Holy Name in spite of hearing its glory

"Who has committed all sorts of offences will become free of them when he takes the shelter of Sri Hari; a sinner who offends Sri Hari may get rid of it by taking refuge of the Holy Name; however if we commit an offence unto the Holy Name who is everybody's friend, we shall certainly suffer." - (Padma Purân quoted in B.R.S.)

20. We should not tolerate the blasphemy of Sri Krishna and His devotees

How can we say that we love Sri Krishna and his devotees if we bear their criticism?

"Who does not leave the place after hearing the blasphemy of Sri Bhagavân or His devotee falls down since all his sukritis get destroyed." (S.B.10.74.40 quoted B.R.S.)

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has explained this verse further as –

"Srimad-Bhâgavatam (4.4.17) orders us to leave the place only if we are incapable of doing anything; however if we have any power it is our duty to cut of the slandering tongue; and if we cannot do this we should give up our body. Sri Durgâ devi lost her self-control when she heard her father Daksha criticizing Shivji and said – “When an independent person is not capable of protesting he should cover his ears and leave the place in which Lord Shiva who protects dharma is criticized; and if he has the power he should cut off the tongue of the slanderer and then give up his body.” – (B.S.265)

Vaishnavs are more humble than a blade of grass, offer respect to others, yet do not desire respect. They do not wish to stress anyone by body, mind or speech, hence it is best for us to cover our ears, meditate on Sri Bhagavân and leave the place.

These 20 points are the gateway to bhakti. Amongst these the first 10 are necessary to obey as our sâdhan bhakti commences and we should shun the next 10 as ‘don’ts’. The next points are mostly related to certain activities.

21. We should don sacred marks on our body such as tilak and tulsi-

“Vaishnavs who decorate themselves with Tulsi and lotus-deed-necklaces, draw Sri Hari’s sacred feet beautified with symbols of conch-shell, discus etc., whose foreheads dazzle with tilak – they definitely purify the world.”-(Padma Purân quoted in B.R.S.)

The scriptures also state –

*yagnopaveet-vad dhârya kanthe tulasi-mâlikâ kshana-mâra-parityâgât vishnu-drohi bhaven-narah.
ashouche cha-py-anâchâre kale-akâle cha sarvadâ, tulasi-mâlikâm dhatte sa yâti paramam padam.”*

Meaning - “We should don the Tulsi necklace constantly just like the sacred thread. If we detach it even for a moment we become anti-Vishnu. Even during child-birth, dealing with the dead, and intercourse, or at any other time – if we continue to sport the Tulsi necklace we shall attain the highest realm.”

These statements prove the glory of wearing sacred insignia. There are people who say – “Bhakti should be in our heart, what is the need to wear Tulsi beads and tilak?” If they read these statements of the Holy Scriptures they will realize how much spiritual strength they confer on a devotee, and when we forsake them the loss is tremendous. For a Vaishnav the Tulsi necklace and tilak are reminders of his swarup, they are conducive for self-surrender and hence boost our bhajan.

22. We should write the Holy Name on our body -

“Who write Sri Krishna’s names on their body with chandan etc. purify the world and attain Sri Hari’s abode which is supremæ.” – (Padma Purân quoted in B.R.S.)

The Holy Name is non-different from Sri Bhagavân, hence it is indeed sach-chidânanda. When the Holy Name touches our body it is good for our health and general well-being also, what to speak of spiritual welfare. The saints advise us to serve the Holy Name with all our senses – we serve Him with our skin by writing the Holy Name on our body.

23. We should wear prasâdi garland –

Flowers, garlands, chandan, Tulsi etc taken from the Deities are called ‘nirmâlya’. When this ‘nirmâlya’ touches our body it destroys anartha and grants us love for His holy feet.

“Uddhav Mahâshay is saying in Srimad-Bhâgavatam (11.6.46) – quoted in B.R.S. – My dear Lord, We are your servants; we shall don garlands, chandan, clothes and ornaments enjoyed (worn) by You and thus we shall easily overcome mâyâ.”

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

This proves how we can destroy non-Krishna desires and gain Sri Krishna-bhakti by using materials offered to the Deity.

24. We should dance in front of the Deity –

“Who dances happily in front of the Deity with bhāv and bhakti annihilates all the sins he has accumulated in hundreds of manvantars.” (Dwâarakâ-Mâhâtmyam quoted in B.R.S.)

How simple it is to sing and dance in front of the Deity – in fact it is an enjoyable experience too – yet it supremely pleases Sri Bhagavân!

25. We should pay obeisance –

“We cannot compare the outcome of paying a single obeisance to Sri Krishna with the result of ten complete Ashwamedh sacrifices. We still get rebirth after performing Ashwamedh sacrifice, whereas who pays obeisance to Sri Krishna is released from the cycle of birth and death.”

– (Nârada Muni quoted in B.R.S.)

Srila Vishwanâth Chakravartipâd explains ‘obeisance’ –

“swâpakarsha-bodha-anukula-vyâpâra-vishesho namaskârah”

Meaning - “‘obeisance’ is an act by which we degrade ourselves yet it is good for us.”

There are four types of obeisance –

- Ø *Abhivâdanâ*¹ (to touch the feet after exclaiming “Jay” or other words of glorification)
- Ø *Sâstânga*² (to touch the feet by fully prostrating on the ground – this indicates the surrender with 8 organs - feet, knees, chest, eyes, head, hands, speech and mind)
- Ø Panchânga (to touch the lotus feet with 5 organs – hands, head, knees, speech and mind)
- Ø Join our palms and touch to our head

Padma Purân says –

“ahamkritirmakârah syân-nakârah-tan-nishedhakah, tasmâttunamasâ kshetriswâtantryam pratishidhyati.”

Meaning - “‘na’ means ‘no’ and ‘ma’ signifies ‘ahamkâr’ (false ego). Hence ‘namaskâr’ or obeisance is the best way to get rid of false pride.”

When we pay obeisance to Sri Gurudev, we should touch our head to his feet and pay panchânga or sâstânga obeisance with prayer.

26. We should rise (from sitting or lying position) when we get darshan of the Deity -

We should stand up when the temple doors open for darshan, and even when Sri Gurudev or senior Vaishnavs arrive. Or else it is not good for our welfare. When we arise, it is a mark of respect and it destroys inauspiciousness.

27. When we see a procession of the Deity and Guruvarga we should follow them -

“Even dog-eaters become as adorable as Vishnu if they accompany Sri Bhagavân’s chariot, procession etc. at the side, behind or in front.” - (Bhavishyottar Purân quoted in B.R.S.)

28. We should visit the Mandirs in the Holy places such as Sri Vrindâban where Sri Bhagavân has performed His divine pastimes, and take His darshan –

² Sa= with; ashta = eight; anga = organs.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

When we visit the holy places we get the association of pure devotees; we feel blessed in their company, and especially so in Vrindâban since this Dhâm Prabhu has inconceivable potency. We shall describe this later.

29. We should circumambulate the Deity and Tulsi devi –

The right way to do parikramâ is to keep the Deity to our right and circumambulate 4 times. This yields very quick and good result – it is better than bathing in the Gangâ. Parikramâ of Sri Girirâj in Braja-dhâm has very great glory and fulfils our desire swiftly. Many faithful devotees do Sri Girirâj Parikramâ on the Full moon day, new moon day, on special occasions and in the Purushottam month.

30. Archanam - it is the process by which we make offerings to the Deity after purifying ourselves and with mantras. It is the bounden duty of every initiated devotee to perform archanam, otherwise the consequence is terrible. During archanam we must never ever consider the Deity as an 'idol' or 'image', because He is really Sri Bhagavân. All those who perform archanam after initiation attain Sri Bhagavân's eternal and blissful abode.

We should do archanam only after we learn the scriptural method of worshipping. Although we may worship lovingly but not in the prescribed manner we get only one hundredth the result. We get 0.01% result only because we have done the pujâ with love and care – without these we shall not gain anything. Hence it is necessary to perform pujâ according to the scriptural injunctions.

During Yogpeeth-sevâ we should meditate on our siddha-deha, be present near Sri Krishna Who is surrounded by Srimati Râdhârâni and the sakhis. Then we should worship as per the instructions of our Spiritual Master. After this we should worship externally with external paraphernalia. This Yogpeeth-seva is the soul of external seva. Without Yogpeeth-seva, the external seva is meaningless. The householders must serve the Deity to the best of their ability with the costliest items they can afford. If they serve only in meditation like the penniless recluse they fall under the category 'vitta-shâthya' (monetary fraud). If we make someone else perform the pujâ as our representative, it means we are lazy and just 'keeping the routine'. This signifies irreverence and hence we should avoid it.

31. Paricharyâ – (to serve directly) –

'Paricharyâ indicates that we should serve the Deity like a king – give Him royal treatment. We should clean the items used for seva and serve Him with fan etc.

Sriman-Nârada Muni has said –

"muhurtam vâ muhurtârdham yastishtheddhari-mandire, sa yâti paramam sthânam kimu shushrushane ratâh." – (B.R.S.)

Meaning - "Who resides in the temple of Sri Hari for a moment or even half a moment, he attains the supremæ abode; then how much more a devotee who serves the Deity will gain – can we guess?"

There are many points in archanam and paricharyâ. Sri Hari-Bhakti-Vilâs has described them in detail. If we can engage even in one such seva our life is blessed. We should serve the Lord with objects suitable for that particular time and place¹.

32. We should sing songs pertaining to Sri Hari's Holy Name, beauty and pastimes -

¹ For example in winter we should use warm water to bathe the Deity and should not fan Him. Also He will feel more comfortable with woolen garlands than flower ones. In summer we should dress Him in cotton clothes.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

"The scriptures say - Do not sing any song other than Sri Bhagavân's glory. Therefore the brahmin sang Sri Vâsudev's glorification constantly and attained His abode. That song yielded better result than even the glorification of Sri Rudra (Shiva)." – (B.R.S.)

33. Sankirtan or Congregational singing of the Holy Name – Sankirtan means to chant Sri Bhagavân's name, qualities and pastimes loudly. Also when many devotees unite and sing the Holy Name together we call it 'sankirtan'. Sankirtan is the 'yuga-dharma' in the Kaliyug. Hence we should follow the other rules of bhajan always accompanied by Sankirtan.

"When we perform the nine types of bhakti we have to accompany them with Nâm-sankirtan, otherwise our endeavor will not be successful." – (C.C.Madhya.15.107)

Often we cannot perform some parts of bhajan (e.g. archanam) perfectly. However it becomes perfect when we take the Holy Name along with it. The Holy Name itself is Sri Bhagavân. It is the 'Sound-incarnation' of Sri Hari. It is absolute. Therefore it has the ability to fulfill our short-comings while performing the other parts of bhajan. With the help of Nâm-sankirtan we can easily get Bhagavat-prem (divine love) and side-by-side we also get rid of material attachments.

"The nine types of Bhakti are the topmost Bhajan and have great power to give us Krishna-prem and Krishna. However Nâm-sankirtan is the best of all –and if we chant the Holy Name inoffensively we get the treasure called 'prem.'" – (C.C.Antya.4.65-66)

Nâm-sankirtan is so powerful that nothing can stop it. Only aparâdhs have the strength to pose obstacles on its path. Sriman-Mahâprabhu has Himself instructed us how we can avoid aparâdh and attain the main objective of Nâm-sankirtan, that is 'prem' –

"Hear O Swarup and Râmânanda Roy! This is the manner in which we should chant the Holy Name so as to attain prem – trinâdapi sunechena taroreva sahishnunâ, amâninâ mânadena kirtaniyah sada harih.

Sriman-Mahâprabhu has explained this verse as follows –

A devotee should have excellent qualities and yet consider himself more worthless than a blade of grass. Also he should be as tolerant as a tree in two aspects – a tree never protests when you cut it; it dries up, yet does not ask for water. Moreover it gives its fruits to whosoever desires them. It bears heat and rain, all the while lending shelter and protection to others. Similarly a Vaishnav should possess excellent qualities and yet be devoid of pride. He should respect every living being because he is aware that Sri Krishna is present in all.

When a devotee takes the Holy Name in this manner he gets love for the sacred feet of Sri Krishna." – (C.C.Antya.20.16-21)

Srila Krishnadâs Kavirâj Goswâmi has mentioned that the Lord has declared with His Holy lips and has commanded –

"I give a clarion call with upraised arms – do add this verse with the Holy Name and wear it like a garland round your neck. Obey the Lord by following this instruction and you shall most certainly attain the sacred feet of Sri Krishna." – (C.C.Âdi.17.32-33)

This means that if we behave according to Sriman-Mahâprabhu's instructions and chant the Holy Name, the one and only obstacle, Vaishnav-aparâdh will never occur. It is also the tremendously powerful obstacle. But, if we are more humble than a blade of grass, and as tolerant as a tree, we shall never commit a Vaishnav-offence. Then we can very easily gain the good fortune of attaining prem.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

There are different types of kirtan (hymns) such as 'leelâ-kirtan' (glorifying the divine pastimes) and 'guna-kirtan' (glorifying the divine qualities) -

"Sri Prahlâd said – O Lord Narsimha, I am your humble servant who has received Your mercy. You are my dear well-wisher and the Supreme Being. Brahmâ glorifies Your pastimes¹. I shall hear them constantly in the company of blessed paramhamsas who reside at Your lotus-feet. Then I shall get rid of material attachments and easily cross over mountainous sorrow."

-(S.B.7.9.18 quoted in B.R.S.)

The power of 'guna-kirtan' is as follows – "The great devotees say that our tapasyâ, Vedic-study, performing nice yagna, uttering Vedic hymns perfectly, knowledge and alms-giving - all yield just one result – and that is we start glorifying Bhagavân Sri Hari's excellent qualities"

– (S.B.1.5.22 quoted in B.R.S.)

34. Jap –

When we utter a mantra very softly it is called 'jap'. It is part of meditation. Jap is of three types –

- Vocal – when we perform 'kirtan' we take the mantra loudly
- Soft – in this we take the mantra so softly that only we are able to hear it and no one else
- Mental – we take the mantra without vibrating the tongue. In 'mental jap' we meditate on the meaning of the mantra and repeat it. It is part of meditation.

Taking the *Mantra*² in mind is better than repeating it softly and it is better than loud utterance. Whereas in the case of chanting the Mahâmantra, loud chanting is better than soft chanting which is better than chanting in the mind. We should learn the rules of taking the mantra and its meaning from Sri Gurudev.

35. Talking – "Whatever little you have spoken to Sri Hari has opened the doorway for your liberation." – (Padma Purân quoted in B.R.S.)

This talking is of many types such as praying, expressing humility, displaying eagerness etc.

We should talk to Sri Krishna and tell Him about the feelings in our heart. This is praying.

Example of praying –

"My dear Lord, just as a young man gets deeply attached to a young woman and vice versa, please makes my heart engrossed in You." – (Padma Purân quoted in B.R.S.)

Example of humility –

"Dear Purushottam, none in the whole world is as sinful and offensive as me. I am embarrassed to even request You to please forgive my sins." – (Padma Purân quoted in B.R.S.)

Example of intense eagerness (lâlasâmayi prârthanâ)–

kadâham yamunâteere nâmâni tava keertayan, udvâshpah pundarikâksha! rachayishyâmi tândavam?"

² Here 'mantra' refers to Kâm-beej, Kâm-Gâyatri, Gour-mantra/Gâyatri, Radha-mantra/Gâyatri etc. and not to Mahâmantra.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

"Dear Pundarikāksha, when will that day arrive in my life when I shall burst into a *tāndav*¹ on the banks of the Yamuna with tears flowing from my eyes, while singing Your Holy Name?"

Only when the sādhak attains the stage of ratī such prayer is possible. Lālasāmayi prayer is the right prayer for a rāgānugā devotee.

36. We should recite glorification in front of Sri Bhagavān –

There are many eulogies in Gitā, Srimad-Bhāgavatam, and bhakti-texts such as Goutamiya Tantra. The Mahājans have composed many sweet glorifications. We should recite them repeatedly. The rāgānugā devotees who wish to perform intimate and intense bhajan should recite the *stavas*² from Stavamālā by Srila Rupa Goswānipād, Sri Stavāvali by Srila Raghunāth dās Goswāmi, Prārthanā and Prem-Bhakti-Chandrikā by Srila Narottam dās Thākur Mahāshay.

37. We should relish Mahāprasādam –

It is the food-offering we make to Sri Krishna with love and devotion accompanied by mantras. What food should we offer to Sri Krishna? All that is pure, pleasing, fit for human consumption and nutritious. A devotee should always accept only Mahāprasādam. We must never ever accept what is not Mahāprasādam. It is divine; when we take it, we are rid of material tendencies and ultimately we gain prem and bhakti.

In fact we should never accept food, water or medicine without offering to Sri Krishna. Accepting unoffered food is detrimental for a Vaishnav.

We may think that refusing Mahāprasādam or neglecting it is a sign of material detachment. That is, it shows we have overcome sense-gratification. However it only shows *Phalgu-vairāgya*³. When we do not beg for Mahāprasādam (say, when we see someone distributing it) it indicates false-pride. After getting Mahāprasādam if we neglect it or disregard it, it is an aparādh. We should never make mahāprasād wait, for 'Prasād Prabhu' is non-different from Govinda. It is better we accept Mahāprasādam eagerly. In fact we should be interested in accepting anything pertaining to Sri Krishna, for only in this manner we can truly overcome our sensual desires.

38. We should relish the charanāmritam (foot-wash) of Sri Hari –

"Who do not give alms, nor recite the Vedas, nor worship nor perform any sacrifice, yet drink the foot wash of Sri Hari will attain the highest realm." – (Padma Purān quoted in B.R.S.)

39. We should smell the fragrance of incense offered to Sri Krishna –

Its glory is as follows –

"We are bitten by the snake-like material desires and attachments. If we wish to rid ourselves from the poison of this snake, it is our foremost duty to smell the scent of incense offered to Sri Hari." – (Tantra quoted in B.R.S.)

This goes for Sri Hari's garland and Tulsi as well. The fragrance of flowers and Tulsi offered to Sri Bhagavān enters our nose and destroys all anarthas. It transmits bhakti in us. The sages such as Sanak were situated in the bliss of submerging in Brahman. Yet when they smelt the Tulsi offered at Sri Nārāyan's lotus feet, that fragrance crushed their Brahmānanda and transmitted supremē devotion in them. Srimad-Bhāgavatam (3.15) describes this incident.

² Panegyric, tribute, adulation

³ River Phalgu in Bengal appears dry since all we can see is a sandy spread which actually is a very thin layer. However the river flows quietly underneath. If a person tries to walk on the sand, he falls into the water. Similarly a person may display detachment, yet have desire for sense gratification inside. This is 'phalgu-vairāgya'.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

40. We should touch the Deity during archanam –

Earlier we have stated that it is compulsory for every initiated devotee to perform archanam. When we do archanam we should be physically and mentally pure and worship with faith, love and devotion.

"sprishtvâ vishnoradhushthânâ pavitrah shraddhayânvitah."

– (Vishnu-dharmottar quoted in B.R.S.)

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has explained this verse as follows –

"Let us learn the wonderful benefit of touching the Deity. However everyone does not have the right to touch Him. Only those who have got dikshâ can touch the Lord.

Skanda Purân says –

evam sri-bhagavân sarvaih shâlagrâma-shilâtmakah, dwijaih sribhishcha shudraishcha pujoyah bhagavatah pariah

Meaning – All *bhagavat-parâyan*¹ brahmins, women and shudras can worship Sri Bhagavân Who is in the form of Shâlagrâm.

Here 'bhagavat-parâyan' means 'those who follow the rules of bhakti, or the Vaishnavs². It naturally follows that those who are without love for Sri Bhagavân have no right to touch Shâlagrâm. Hence when we read in the scriptures that women and shudras should not touch Shâlagrâm we should know that it refers to non-Vaishnav women and shudras³. Such statements do NOT indicate women and shudras who follow Vaishnav-etiquette and have love for Sri Vishnu (or Sri Krishna).

41. We should take darshan of the Deity –

When we do not get an opportunity to touch the Deity we should take His darshan. We get a lot of benefit from this –

"O Vasundharâ, those who go to Sri Vrindâban and take darshan of Sri Govindadev, do not go to the abode of Yamraj (the Lord of death), in stead they attain the realm of pious people." – (Varâha Purân quoted in B.R.S.)

Here 'realm of pious people' definitely refers to Sri Bhagavân's abode since we can get only one blessing from the darshan of Govinda dev – and that is prem. Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has explained this verse as follows –

"The author (Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd) has instructed the wonderful benefit of taking darshan of every worshipped Deity of Sri Bhagavân. After this, due to his immense bhakti he has stated the special glory of taking darshan of Sri Govinda dev Who is Sri Bhagavân in His true form. Here 'they go to the realm of pious people' means 'one attains the state of Sri Krishna-bhakti' for we should realize that bhakti is the topmost achievable goal."

42. We should take darshan of *ârâtrika (ârâti)*⁴ –

Âratrika or ârâti as we commonly call it is a very loving affair. If we take darshan of the Deity during ârâti, great sins too get destroyed and we gain very good result in our devotional life.

43. Hearing –

As soon as Sri Krishna's name, description of His beauty, qualities and associates touch our ears we call it 'hearing'. It spells the beginning of Bhajan and the best bhajan. Without hearing

¹ Those who have taken the path of bhakti, which incidentally, commences with initiation.

² Since Vaishnav are the ones who follow the rules of bhakti

³ Shudras do not remain so after they have embraced Vaishnavism

⁴ Offering of lamp, incense etc.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

we cannot learn why we should perform bhajan and its glory. Especially when we hear Sri Krishna-kathā, He enters our heart, destroys material desires and manifests bhakti. Also it is very beneficial to hear about Sri Bhagavān from great devotees.

Srimat Jiva Goswāmipād has written –

“Hearing Srimad-Bhāgavatam is the topmost hearing, since the words of Srimad-Bhāgavatam have immense power. The great sage Vyāsdev has commented in the very beginning of Srimad-Bhāgavatam that, forget hearing Srimad-Bhāgavatam, if we merely wish to hear it – immediately Sri Bhagavān is imprisoned inside our heart. - (S.B.1.1.2) Also Srimad-Bhāgavatam is the complete summum bonum of the Vedas. The Vedas are like a wish-fulfilling tree while Srimad-Bhāgavatam is its ripened fruit. Therefore its every bite is delicious.”
- (Bhakti-Sandarbha).

Here Srimad-Bhāgavatam refers not only to Srimad-Bhāgavatam, but also all the ‘Rasa-granthas’¹ composed by our Goswāmīs since they are in accordance with Srimad-Bhāgavatam. We are worshipping in the mood of Braja-ras; hence if we are fortunate enough to hear about Sri Bhagavān from a pure devotee who is in the same mood then it is really a great blessing. Also when we hear Sri Krishna-kathā we should hear with love, faith and attention, since then only we shall gain passionate love for Sri Krishna’s lotus feet. Later on we should ruminate on what we have heard.

“If we follow this rule for hearing, Sri Hari will come spontaneously and enter our heart. We do not have to make any special effort in this regard.” – (Sri Shridhar Swāmi)

44. We should wait for Sri Bhagavān’s merciful gaze –

All our devotional efforts will be successful when the Lord gives us His bounty. Although sugarcane is sweet, we need a machine to squeeze the juice out. Similarly Sri Bhagavān is full of kṛpā-ras, yet we cannot get this ras without eager and enthusiastic bhajan. We have to work hard for it. Hence we should anxiously and constantly wait for Sri Krishna’s mercy while performing bhajan so that it will bear fruits.

Sri Brahma glorified Sri Krishna by saying – “My Lord, when a devotee bears his share of joys and sorrows (he knows they are the results of his own deeds) and continues to perform bhajan with body, mind and speech, all the time simply praying ‘Dear Lord, when will I get your mercy?’ he naturally inherits You (the greatest treasure) just as a good son inherits his father’s wealth.” – (S.B.10.14.8 quoted in B.R.S.)

Srila Vishwanāth Chakravartipād has explained this verse as follows –

“Who has forsaken all other paths and follows only bhakti – he alone will gain You. Knowing this, we may question – what sort of bhakti should I perform? The answer is – we should perform bhajan with body, mind and speech while enjoying whatever life offers us – be it sorrow or joy. Bhakti gives happiness and aparādh brings suffering. The devotee goes through these experiences and eventually considers both as Sri Bhagavān’s mercy. A loving father feeds his child milk as well as *Neem*²-juice to maintain her health. Milk is palatable while the child abhors Neem-juice. However the father forces the child to drink both since they are nutritious. Similarly he sometimes hugs and kisses the child and at times may even slap to correct her. A surrendered devotee feels that I do not know what is good for me, only my Lord knows best. I am His devotee, time and karma have no effect on me – it is my Lord Who takes mercy on me and gives me joy and sorrow. When a devotee firmly believes in this and serves Sri Bhagavān with body, mind and speech, he gets liberation from material attachments (this is secondary result) and the right to serve the Holy feet of Sri Bhagavān (chief outcome). If we wish to inherit our father’s wealth all we have to do is – continue to live. Similarly to gain the treasure-like sacred feet of Sri Bhagavân, all we need to do is – continue in the path of bhakti. Therefore we should humbly live a life of bhakti and patiently wait for His causeless mercy.

45. Meditation – It means we should connect our mind in any manner with Sri Bhagavâts name, beauty, qualities and pastimes. Remembering Sri Hari is the soul of bhakti-sâdhanâ. If we do not remember Him during bhajan it means bhajan is lifeless and we are just like robots.

“I seek shelter unto Sri Hari Who is without beginning and end, and Whom as soon as we remember we gain all welfare.” – (Vishnu Purân quoted in B.R.S.)

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has written in Bhakti Sandarbha –

“Sri Krishna is the universal guru. When a devotee meditates on His lotus feet, Sri Krishna appears before him and offers Himself to the devotee. It indicates that He surrenders unto the devotee on His own. Then what more can we say about the devotee’s material desires¹? Since anyway, he does not desire much.”

Meditation has five stages –

- Ø Smaran – this is the primary level. In this stage the devotee thinks of Sri Hari’s name, beauty etc to a small degree.
- Ø Dhâranâ – in this stage the devotee drags his mind away from other topics and concentrates on Sri Bhagavâts beauty etc. This is an ordinary level of concentration.
- Ø Dhyân – when the concentration is deep then we call it ‘dhyân’.
- Ø Dhruvânumsmritu – in this level the remembrance is continuous like the flow of oil – the mind does not wander.
- Ø Samâdhi – in this stage the devotee experiences ‘sphurti’ (spontaneous revelation).

Hearing, glorifying and remembrance are intermingled with each other. We cannot tell when one will lead to another. We may be hearing or chanting the Holy Name, and suddenly it absorbs us in His remembrance! Therefore chanting the Holy Name and meditation are often inseparable and one leads to the other. We shall discuss this in detail in ‘A scientific Study of Râgânugâ-Bhakti.’

46. Dhyân – ‘Dhyân’ is the most important part of bhajan since no bhajan is fruitful unless and until we perform it with deep concentration. Therefore Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd has given it as a special point.

‘Dhyân’ means ‘extremely deep concentration’. It is the soul of devotional practice. Its outcome is extremely marvelous. Whatever we do, whether we hear, take the Holy Name, sing glorification, do archanam or for that matter any sevâ, we have to do it with dhyân. We find in Srimad-Bhâgavatam –

“Sri Avadhut Gitâ describes the inconceivable effect of dhyân. When a living being fixes its mind on anything – be it out of fear, love or envy – it attains the state of the ‘object of meditation’. Let us explain with an example – Srimad-Bhâgavatam mentions that there is an insect that catches another smaller insect and imprisons it in its nest. The tiny insect is in constant fear of the bigger insect and hence constantly thinks about it. Therefore it starts looking like the insect even before leaving its body. This signifies that we can get a similar body like that of our ‘object of meditation’. Then do we have any doubt that if we meditate on sac-chidânanda Sri Bhagavân, we too shall gain a sac-chidânanda form?" – (S.B.11.9.22-23)

Dhyân is of four types –

Ø Rupa¹-dhyân – The scriptures have declared that if we meditate on Sri Krishna's lotus feet all our sorrows will be alleviated. Sri Krishna has 19 symbols on His soles – such as flag, thunderbolt, elephant-goad etc. Each symbol is capable of destroying anarthas that cause obstacles on the path of bhakti. It also has immense power to offer prem to the meditator.

Sri Krishna has infinite beauty and sweetness. When we meditate on His form it attracts our mind like a pitcher of honey drags a honey bee – so much so – that we naturally give up thinking about objects other than Sri Krishna.

Ø Guna²-dhyân – Sri Krishna has excellent and sweet qualities such as love for His devotees, compassion etc. If a devotee meditates on these qualities constantly with devotion even colossal amount of anarthas get destroyed and he attains the abode of Sri Hari.

Ø Leelâ-dhyân – Sri Krishna is heart-stealing and His pastimes are even more tempting. They are the essence of all sweetness. If we meditate on them we shall immerse in sweet ras.³

Ø Sevâ⁴-dhyân – to serve 'manomayee⁵' Deity in meditation.

"Certain devotees have served Sri Hari continually in their mind and have actually got his darshan although He is beyond all conception." – (Purân quoted in B.R.S.)

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has explained this point further by quoting an incident from Sri Brahma-Vaivarta Purân –

"There lived a simple and poor brahmin in Pratishtânpur (present day Paithân in Maharashtra). He was extremely eager to serve Sri Bhagavân. However due to poverty he was unable to buy the ingredients necessary for pujâ. One day he attended an assembly of Vaishnavs to hear Bhagavad-kathâ. There he heard that if someone is unable to get the items needed for external seva, he can manifest the Deity in his mind and can simply worship Him with all the paraphernalia mentally. When the Brahmin heard this he was delighted. He decided that he would worship his manomayee Deity everyday. One day, after bathing in the Godâvari, he sat in a secluded place. In his mind he built a nice temple for Sri Hari, installed manomayee Deity, worshiped Him with royal ingredients and he felt supreme happiness. He continued to worship in this manner everyday. On one occasion he decided to offer paramânnâ⁶ with ghee to the Deity. So he cooked it in his mind, poured it in a gold vessel and started fanning to cool it. After sometime, he mentally dipped his finger in it to check whether it had cooled or not. His finger got burnt. He felt sorry that now the paramânnâ had become unfit for Sri Bhagavân's sevâ. His samâdhî⁷ broke. He saw that his finger had really got burnt and he could feel the pain. When Sri Hari saw His bewildered devotee, He smiled, called for a vehicle and brought His devotee to Him."

47. Dāsya¹ – When we serve thinking “I am Sri Krishna’s servant” such a mood is called ‘dāsya’.

“When we are engrossed in the mood that “I am Sri Krishna’s servant” we get so much bliss – it is like an ocean – and even millions of Brahmānanda cannot equal a drop of this ocean.”

– (C.C.Antya.6.44.)

Srimat Jiva Goswāmipād has written –

“Forget doing paricharyā, if we are simply engrossed in the mood of a servant we shall attain success, that is, gain prem-bhakti.” – (B.S.304)

He has quoted evidence Itihās to prove his point –

“janmāntar sahasreshu yasya syānmatireedrihi, dāso’ham vāsudevasya sarvān lokān samuddharet.”

Meaning - “After gathering the good fortune over thousands of births someone gets the feeling ‘I am Vāsudev’s servant’ - such a person can deliver the entire world.”

What is ‘dāsya’?

Srimat Jiva Goswāmipād has explained it as follows – “Dāsya’ means to pay obeisance, glorify, surrender all our activities to Him, do paricharyā, remember His holy feet and hear about Him. Sri Hari’s servants always accomplish all sādhanā and achieve their goal – they never fail in anything. Srimad-Bhāgavatam says –

Sri Bhagavān’s Name is so exalted that simply by hearing it once man gets purified. Then how great is His servant? Forget attaining complete success in bhajan, there is nothing he cannot achieve. – (S.B.9.5.16.)”

We, the Goudiya Vaishnavs are proud to consider ourselves Srimati Rādhārāni’s maidservants and worship the Divine couple in this mood. We shall discuss this in detail in ‘A Scientific study of Rāgānugā Bhajan’.

48. Sakhya – It means to have faith and treat one another with friendly love. We should have faith in Sri Krishna and be friends with Him. We can express our sakhya-mood by endeavoring for His welfare and happiness. Some great devotees have such friendly and loving bhāv towards Sri Krishna that they sleep inside the temple to guard Him.

Sakhya-bhāv is not only a goal, but also a sādhanā since we can gain prem by practicing this mood. Sri Bhagavān is everybody’s friend, yet He has special love for His devotees. The devotees too always wish Him well. This loving relation between Sri Bhagavān and His devotees is unbroken. Therefore when we practice being friendly with Him, our natural love for Him blooms further.

49. Self-surrender - This means we should surrender everything to Sri Bhagavān – body, soul and everything we possess. When we surrender, it indicates that we do not try anything for ourselves. We leave our goal and sādhanā to Him – He will take care of my goal and also to my sādhanā – this is the feeling. We will only take great care of Him and He will see to the rest. This is self-surrender. It is like selling your cow. Suppose you possess a cow. Till you own it you are bound to worry about its food, health etc. But once you sell the cow you need not worry anymore; now let the man who has bought the cow take the trouble. Similarly as long as we are proud and think this body to be ‘I’ and material possessions to be ‘mine’ we have to worry about their maintenance. Once we have sought refuge in the path of bhakti and we have surrendered unto Sri Krishna’s lotus feet we need not be anxious for ourselves or our possessions (relations) any more.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Our minds should just be deeply absorbed in Him and perform His bhajan - free of stress. Then we shall be blessed.

"When we seek refuge of Sri Krishna and self-surrender unto Him, He immediately makes us His own." – (C.C.Madhya.22.54.)

50. We should offer Sri Krishna what is dear to us – "When an object is permitted by the scriptures, it is lavish and it is also our favorite – and we offer such an object to Sri Krishna then the outcome is immeasurable."- (S.B.11.11.41. quoted in B.R.S.)

Here 'favorite object' refers to those items permitted by the scriptures since an object forbidden by the scriptures can never be a devotee's favorite. In the above statement 'and' indicates Sri Bhagavân's favorite as well. When we offer such items we get immense results.

51. All our endeavors should be directed towards Sri Krishna - A devotee labors only to please Sri Krishna.

"O sage, who wishes to gain bhakti should direct all his activities – be it worldly or spiritual – to serve Sri Hari alone." – (Pancharâtra quoted in B.R.S.)

If we are following the path of pure devotion we should not offer our activity to Sri Krishna after performing it, rather before doing anything we should question ourselves whether it is for Sri Krishna's pleasure or not? If it is, then we perform that deed – this is seva. Then it is worthwhile.

52. Sharanâgatî – Taking refuge is the main pillar of devotional practice. Our progress in bhakti is directly proportional to our sharanâgatî. We should seek the refuge of Sri Krishna with body, mind and speech.

"The devotee who says – 'My dear Lord, I am only Yours', knows the same in his mind (he really feels he belongs to Sri Krishna) and physically lives in his dhâm, he has indeed taken refuge and enjoys happiness." – (B.R.S.)

There are 6 rules of Sharanâgatî- *ânukulyasya samkalpah prâtikulya-vivârjanam, rakshishyatiti vishwâso goptritve varanam tahtâ.

âtma-nikshepa-kârpanye shada-vidhâ sharanâgatih.*

Meaning –

- Ø Determined to do all that is favorable for bhakti
- Ø Reject everything that is unfavorable for bhakti
- Ø A firm faith that "Sri Bhagavân will protect me"
- Ø To feel that "Sri Bhagavân is my sole maintainer"
- Ø Self-surrender
- Ø Pray with humility

Amongst these "Sri Bhagavân is my husband or sole maintainer" is the main point, other rules follow suit. Sharanâgatî* is wonderful and without this we can not say we belong to Sri Krishna. Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has said –

"Our bhajan processes become successful when we adopt sharanâgatî." – (B.S.237.)

53. We should serve Sri Krishna's dear ones –

“Sri Krishna's dear ones' refers to Tulsi, Vaishnav, Brajamandal and Srimad-Bhâgavatam; we should serve them.” – (C.C.Madhya.22.71.)

Let us discuss the importance of these seva in detail.

54. We should serve the bhakti-scriptures such as Srimad-Bhâgavatam –

“Even the devatās worship those who adore Vaishnav-scriptures. They are liberated from all sins. When we keep Vaishnav-scriptures in our home, Sri Nârâyan resides there.” – (Skanda Purân quoted in B.R.S.)

The Vedas are like a wish-fulfilling tree and Srimad-Bhâgavatam is its ripe fruit (it is the essence of the Vedas). Therefore it is the original Vaishnav-scripture. When we develop a passion for the sweet ras of Srimad-Bhâgavatam we do not feel interest in other books. Our preceptors – the Goswâmîs of Vrindâban – have composed many texts following the dictum of Srimad-Bhâgavatam. They are Brihad-Bhâgavatam, Laghu-Bhâgavatâmtitam, Bhakti-Rasâmrita-Sindhu, Gopâl-Champuh, Ānanda-Vrindâbana-Champuh etc. They are also 'Bhâgavat'. When we read, hear and worship these texts, we are serving Srimad-Bhâgavatam.

55. We should serve Braja-mandal (also called Mathura-mandal) – We should hear the glory of Braja-dhâm where Sri Krishna has manifested His sweet pastimes. We should visit Braja-dhâm, take darshan, touch the earth of that place, reside there, sweep and wash the place. Then we shall achieve our goal easily.

“Who forsakes Braja-dhâm, develops attachment for another Holy place and resides there, he is a fool. He has fallen in the grip of mâyâ and will wander in the cycle of birth and death.” – (Ādi-Varâha Purân quoted in B.R.S.)

“Even if we serve all the Holy places in the three worlds, we cannot get supreme bliss (or prem – the topmost achievable goal); however it becomes easily available simply if we touch Braja-dhâm.” – (Brahmânda Purân)

56. We should serve the Vaishnavs – We can please the Vaishnavs in two ways

Ø By arranging Sri Hari-kathâ and Sri Harinâm

Ø By doing paricharyâ such as offering Mahâprasâdam, massaging the feet etc.

Sri Krishna has told Uddhav –

“Vaishnav-sevâ is more pleasing to me than my own seva.”- (S.B.11.19.21)

Srila Vishwanâth Chakravartipâd has explained this statement as follows –

“I am more pleased when you serve my devotees; therefore you should serve the devotees.”

Sriman-Mahâdev has told the Mother Goddess –

“Worshiping Sri Vishnu is greater than all adoration. Worshiping the Vaishnavs is greater than that. Sri Bhagavân is easily pleased when we serve the Vaishnavs.” – (Padma Purân)

The Lord Himself has stated –

“Dear Pârtha (Arjun), who claim to be my devotees are not really so, but those who love and serve my devotees are my devotees in truth.” – (Ādi Purân)

“O sage, when we serve great devotees such as you, we get the immense joy of extremely deep love for the lotus feet of Lord Madhusudan.” – (S.B.3.7.19.)

This proves that if we want Sri Bhagavân's mercy we should diligently serve the Vaishnavs.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

57. We should arrange grand feasts to the maximum extent we can afford - A grand feast is a happy event in which there is a lot of Harinâm-sankirtan and Vaishnavs are fed Mahâprasâdam. The saints glorify such feasts. We should procure objects according to what we can afford and hold such feasts for the Vaishnavs. A householder who has the funds yet does not arrange such feasts fall under the category 'monetary fraud'. A grand feast achieves two targets – spreading the Holy Name and Vaishnav-sevâ.

58. We should observe Niyam Sevâ vrata in the month of *Kârtik - The month of Kârtik is more important than other months. We should keep some *Niyam*¹ during this month to read, hear, glorify and serve Sri Sri Râdhâ-Dâmodarjiu with special love and care. In this period, even a small amount of bhajan gives Sri Râdhâ-Dâmodar more pleasure. Whatever bhajan we may perform, the outcome is much more as compared to the same bhajan performed in other months.

If we reside in Braja-dhâm during Kârtik and observe Niyam Sevâ, all of a sudden we get Sri Hari-bhakti that is otherwise extremely difficult to gain.

*"bhuktim muktim harirdadyâdarchito'nyatra sevinâm, bhaktintu na dadâtyeva yato vashyâkri hare.
sâ twanjâsâ harerbhaktirlabhate kârtike naraih, mathurâyâm sakridapi Sri-dâmodara-sevanât."*
– (Padma Purân quoted in B.R.S.)

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has explained the above statement as follows –

"When a devotee who is devoid of deep love and unqualified, worship Sri Krishna in any place other than Braja-mandal, He grants him material pleasures and liberation, but does not give him bhakti, that will make Him subjugated to the devotee. Sri Krishna grants bhakti only to a devotee who has deep love for Him, and to no one else. If a devotee does not have deep love for Sri Krishna, he is unqualified for bhakti. This is because He does not think it is right for Him to surrender to one who does not have deep love for Him. So He waits for the devotee to become qualified. What is that qualification? The devotee should realize that his welfare lies in bhakti alone, and he should become disinterested in everything else. However, if we reside in Braja-mandal even once and perform Niyam-sevâ and worship Sri Sri Râdhâ-Dâmodarjiu, then all of a sudden we can get Sri Hari-bhakti, in spite of being unqualified. This happens although Sri Hari-bhakti is extremely difficult to obtain."

Srila Vishwanâth Chakravartipâd has added –

"If we serve the Dâmodar month (= observe Niyam-seva) in Braja-mandal, in spite of not having performed any sâdhanâ, all of a sudden we get bhakti."

59. We should celebrate Vaishnav festivals – Appearance days of Sri Krishna, Sriman-Mahâprabhu and divine avatârs are joyous occasions. We should observe fasts on these days and blissfully indulge in Sri Harinâm. After hearing Sri *Bhagavârt*s sweet pastimes and qualities we should glorify them. On the next day we can have a Mahâ-mahotsav (more than a grand feast) for the Vaishnavs. Sri Bhagavân is pleased with such celebration and if we do not take part in it, it is an offence.

60. We should take pleasure in serving the lotus feet of the Deity –

"Who takes my name constantly and is always happy to serve me – I grant him bhakti, and not liberation." – (Âdi Purân quoted in B.R.S.)

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Meaning - "You are not a Deity but the Son of Nanda Mahââj in real form." – (C.C.)

When we feel like this, then our sevâ naturally becomes loving. The best worshipers are those who serve the Deity in this mood.

61. We should relish the meaning of Srimad-Bhâgavatam in the association of rasik pure devotees – In the very beginning Srimad-Bhâgavatam lovingly invites the rasik and pure devotees to relish the highly delectable fruit of the Vedas which are like wish-fulfilling tree.¹

"Dear connoisseurs of ras, dear bhâvukas (those who are expert in ras-realization), Srimad-Bhâgavatam is a transcendental drink that is devoid of any adulteration. The Vedas are like the wish-fulfilling tree and Srimad-Bhâgavatam is the extremely ripened fruit of this tree. It is flowing out of the Holy lips of Sri Shuka and has revealed itself to this world on its own (since eternity). Although you are in the state of self-realization, please drink repeatedly of this marvelous ras." – (S.B.1.1.3)

The sweetness of Sri Bhagavân's leelâ-ras is much more remarkable than the bliss of merging with the Brahman. Shuka Muni was absorbed in the Brahman-realization which has no characteristic whatsoever. However when he heard Srimad-Bhâgavatam he was highly attracted by its ras. He came to Vyâsdev and studied Srimad-Bhâgavatam. He has admitted to Parikshit Mahârâj–

"O *Râjarshî*², I was immersed in Brahman-realization which is devoid of any characteristic. Yet Sri Krishna's divine pastimes are so sweet that they dragged me to my father and I studied Srimad-Bhâgavatam under him." – (S.B.2.1.9.)

To relish the ras of Srimad-Bhâgavatam in the company of rasik devotees is an intimate part of bhajan.

62. Association of pure devotees – A pure devotee is one who has Vaishnav-etiquette and is firm in Bhakti. We call him a 'sâdhu'. His association is always desirable. We wish ourselves well when we associate with a sâdhu who is *samavâsan*³. He should be of a serene disposition and situated on a higher plane of bhakti than we are.

"All scriptures repeatedly exhort us to associate with sâdhus; even momentary association with a sâdhu can enable us to achieve our goal." – (C.C.Madhya.22.33.)

"Even a very short association with a sâdhu can grant such incredible fruits that the heaven and apavarga cannot give us. It is needless to say that material kingdom and wealth that is highly destructible is nowhere near it." – (S.B.1.18.13)

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has stated that we have this effect when we associate with savâsan sâdhus only.

Sri Bhagavân's bounties engulf us when we associate with sâdhus and get their kripâ. We cannot get His mercy by independent endeavors. Of course, Sri Bhagavân's mercy is compulsory to get bhakti, however we should know that His mercy comes to us in the form of a sâdhu. It is foolish if we ignore the mercy that has assumed a form⁴ and instead keep searching for second-grade mercy (directly Sri Bhagavân's mercy).

¹ The Vedas are like the wish-fulfilling tree and Srimad-Bhâgavatam is the essence of all Vedic scriptures. Hence it is like the ripened fruit of this tree.

² A king who is also a sage

³ With the same mood. For example, since we are practicing bhajan in the mood of a Manjari, we should desire the company of a sâdhu who has the same mood (that is, of a Manjari).

⁴ Mercy has come to us in the form of a sâdhu

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Association of a sādhu and serving him does not mean simply going to a sādhu, living with him and feeding him prasādam, we will know that we have really done sādhu-sanga when we hear Sri Krishna-kathā from them, meditate on their words, follow their instructions and practice devotion according to their advice.¹

63. Sri Harinām-sankirtan – This is the best bhajan. Srimad-Bhāgavatam says -

"na hyatah paramolāhbo dehinām bhrāmyatāmiha, yato vindeta paramām shāntim nasyeta samsritih."

Meaning - "The living beings are wandering in various forms of life – they do not benefit more from anything else other than the interest in Sri Harinām-sankirtan."

Therefore we should have interest in hearing and/or chanting the Holy Name. The main outcome is love for the lotus feet of Sri Bhagavān and its secondary outcome is the destruction of material desires. It results in supremæ peace.

"Harinām appears constantly only in the mouth of one who has served Sri Vāsudev for thousands of life-times." – (Padma Purān quoted in B.R.S.)

Srimat Jiva Goswāmipād has explained this statement as follows –

"A devotee who is firm in serving Sri Vāsudev goes through rebirths repeatedly only because Sri Bhagavān wishes to increase his eagerness and enthusiasm for bhakti."

"Sri Harinām Sankirtan results in the destruction of sin and material desires; it cleanses the sub-conscious mind. It is the source of all other bhakti-sādhanās that results in Sri Krishna-prem. It also enables us to relish this nectarine prem. It makes Sri Krishna available to us and submerges us in the nectarine ocean of sevā." – (C.C.Antya.20.10-11.)

64. We should reside in Braja-mandal – This is an intimate part of bhajan. Even the liberated souls crave for Sri Hari-bhakti- and we can get it simply by residing here for one day. To get the real benefit of residing in Brajadhām we should constantly hear the loving sweet pastimes of Sri Sri Rādhā-Krishna. If we stay here lovingly then all of a sudden we shall get bhāv and bhakti. When an inoffensive person merely touches Brajadhām he gets bhakti. This is because by Sri Krishna's wish, *prem-dhām*² Sri Golok-Vrindāban that is the highest point in the divine realm, has expressed itself on planet earth.

The highest point in the divine world is Sri Golok-Brajalok dhām. It is also called Sri Golok, Shwetadweep and Vrindāban. It is conscious, all-knowing, infinite, almighty and non-different from Sri Krishna's body. It pervades all quarters – has no limit. By Sri Krishna's wish it has appeared in this universe. It exists in the same form as in the divine world. In other words, it is not in two different forms." – (C.C.Ādi.5.17-19)

Although Srila Rupa Goswāmipād has mentioned the five points, namely, serving the Deity, Srimad-Bhāgavatam, devotee, Harinām and Braja-dhām – he repeats them to emphasize their importance and power. Forget honoring them, if we merely come in touch with them, and we are inoffensive, it will awaken bhāv in us all of a sudden.

"The association of sādhus, Harinām-sankirtan, hearing of Srimad-Bhāgavatam, residing in Braja-mandal and faithfully serving the Deities are the most important parts of bhajan. If we perform even little of these we can get Sri Krishna-prem." – (C.C.Madhya.22.74-75)

Gradual Progress in Bhakti

Srila Rupa Goswāmipād has chalked out how we progress gradually in Bhakti, reach the state of bhāv and ultimately prem – athâsaktis-tato bhâvas-tatah premâbhyudanchati, sâdhakânâmayam premnah prâdurbhâve bhavet kramah. "*

Meaning - "In the beginning we should acquire shraddhâ by hearing the scriptures in the company of sâdhus, then we should learn the process of bhajan by further association with them, after this starts actual practice of bhajan followed by anartha-nivritti (getting rid of bad qualities), nishthâ (firm determination in bhajan), ruchi (interest in bhajan), âsakti (deep attachment for bhajan), bhâv and ultimately prem. This is the usual process by which prem manifests in a sâdhak. "

Best bhakti – Bhakti has two aspects – sâdhya - 'achievable goal' and 'Process'. We can classify bhakti into –

- Ø Sâdhan-bhakti – when we are in the stages from shraddhâ to bhakti we are said to perform sâdhan-bhakti. It comprises of hearing, glorifying and remembering.
- Ø Bhâv-bhakti – When our heart is cleansed by the above process, we reach the stage of bhâv.
- Ø Prem-bhakti – when we gain prem.

We should remember that bhakti is a property of Sri Bhagavârt's swarup-shakti (internal potency) and although it is transcendental it becomes one with our senses and manifests itself on its own.

" nitya-siddha krishna-prem sâdhya kobhu noy, shrabanâdi shuddha chitte koroye udoy. "

Meaning - "Sri Krishna-prem is eternal and self-manifested. We can never achieve it by any process. When we hear, glorify and follow the paths of bhajan, our heart becomes clean and it reveals itself." - (C.C.Madhya.22.57.)

Now let us study the different stages in bhakti.

1. Shraddhâ – it means to hear the scriptures from the pure devotees and believe in the shâstras. "âdou shraddhâ" - shradhhâ is the first step of bhajan and the root of all devotional practice. Only when a person has shradhhâ he can gain knowledge about bhakti. We have already discussed in brief the characteristics of scriptural faith. The one who has such faith alone is qualified for bhajan. When shradhhâ arises in us, we cannot remain disinterested in bhajan anymore – we will surely set forth in the path of bhakti. When we gain scriptural faith we become agitated and start searching for a Sadguru so that we may seek refuge at his holy feet. At last, by the mercy of Sri Krishna we get the shelter of Sri Gurudev. This is sâdhu-sanga - the next step in the ladder of bhakti.
2. Sâdhu-sanga – The first time we do sâdhu-sanga is when we hear the scriptures from the sâdhus and the second sâdhu-sanga occurs when we crave for bhajan and are eager to take the shelter of Sri Gurudev's feet. Here sâdhu means those who have surrendered themselves at the lotus feet of Sri Bhagavân, they love Him and consider loving Him as the supremæ goal of their life.

What is 'sâdhu-sanga'?

'sanga' means serving the sâdhu, doing his paricharyâ, hearing Sri Krishna-kathâ from him, behaving as they behave, glorifying them – and be engrossed in serving them with body, speech and mind – this is sâdhu-sanga. Then amongst these sâdhus we may meet someone whose shelter we sincerely desire; he becomes our Sri Gurudev. We should take dikshâ and shikshâ from him.

3. bhajan-kriyâ – or the actual process of bhajan – Now we start hearing, glorifying, archanam, vandandam etc. bhajan-kriyâ is of two types –

- Ø not firm
- Ø firm

In the beginning stages our bhajan is not firm. We have to cross a few hurdles before our bhajan becomes firm. When a devotee who has shraddhâ takes initiation from a Sadguru, and by his mercy starts bhajan, he is highly enthusiastic. He is always eager to practice sâdhanâ. So we call this stage as utsâhamayi or 'enthusiastic'.

However this state does not remain long. Within a short time we find our eagerness webbing. We feel bored and our bhajan suffers a 'low tide'. Sometimes our bhajan is intense and at other times it is slack. Therefore the wise call this state as 'intense-slack' period. during this time we get many ideas, such as – I shall leave my family and practice bhajan in seclusion or I will practice bhajan as a householder or out of hearing, glorifying etc. (nine types of bhakti) I will practice only one or I will practice all of them etc. etc. Therefore we also call this state as vyudha-vikalpâ or 'alternate ideas'.

In this stage we have to literally fight with our materialistic tendencies. Sometimes we win and at other times material desires get the better of us. Since this continues, we call it the vishay-sangarâ or 'material association' state.

Devotional practice should force our material desires to wane and increase love for bhajan. However if it does not happen we should realize that it is because we are not following the rules of bhajan properly (as given by Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd). Therefore we also call this state as niyamâkshamâ – 'unable to follow rules'.

When we practice bhajan, sometimes people are drawn to us; then temptations such as monetary gain, power and position appear on our path. These are the parasitic creepers growing on the Bhakti-kalpa-latâ (bhakti is like a divine creeper that can fulfill all the wishes of a devotee). Therefore it is our duty to sever them first.

4. Anartha-nivritti – getting rid of bad qualities – When we are not firm in bhajan, our anarthas force us to slip down the ladder of bhakti. Anarthas are of four types –

- Ø Those arising from sinful actions – these anarthas arise from past and recent sinful activities.
- Ø Those arising of pious actions – the pious activities we have performed in the past grant us a rich lifestyle. This absorbs us in sense-gratification and causes anarthas.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

- Ø Those arising from aparādhs- Offenses against the Holy Name and sevā- aparādhs result in anarthas.
- Ø Those arising from bhakti – When we advance in bhakti we may get money, fame and power. They give rise to anarthas. Thus bhakti too can cause bad qualities.

What are the external symptoms that tell us we have got rid of anarthas?

When we lack the following –

- Ø Laya – we feel sleepy while chanting the Mahāmantra, hearing and meditating. In fact sleepy while doing jap, more sleepy during hearing and the sleepest while meditating. This characteristic is called 'laya'.
- Ø Vikshep - when we conduct worldly matters during hearing, glorifying etc. we call it 'vikshep'.
- Ø Apratipatti - even though we may lack laya and vikshep, sometimes we do not feel like hearing or glorifying – this is 'apratipatti'.
- Ø Kashāya – While doing bhajan such as hearing etc. if we get negative feelings such as anger, greed, pride – it is called 'kashāya'.
- Ø Rasāswād – if we are unable to concentrate on hearing etc. because our mind is dwelling on material pleasures or attachments, it is called 'rasāswād'.

We should not get overwhelmed by anarthas and in stead we should perform bhajan in the company of sādhus. Also we should be very careful not to criticize pure devotees and be humble in any situation. Then by Sri Bhagavān's mercy, all our anarthas will be destroyed and we shall enter the next stage, that is - 'firm bhajan'.

5. Nishthā – This is the stage of firm bhajan.

"How do we decide whether our bhajan is 'not firm' or 'firm'? When we are lax in hearing, glorifying etc. we are not firm, and when we are strong in these activities we are 'firm'." – (Mādhurya-Kādambini, 4th shower)

When we become devoid of the five symptoms of anarthas as mentioned above, then we can say we have become 'firm in bhajan' or we have gained 'nishthā'.

6. ruchi (interest) – When we relish the sweetness of Sri Krishna's name, beauty, qualities, pastimes and associates we have reached the state of 'ruchi'. It is of two types –

- Ø Depending on the subject – suppose we are hearing a kirtan and we relish its sweetness because it has a sweet tune, proper music, rhythm etc. it indicates we are in the first stage of interest. It is similar to a person who has little hunger and wishes for delicious meal to satisfy himself.
- Ø Independent of the subject – This stage is like one who is ravenously hungry. He will eat with pleasure whatever you offer him. Similarly when we develop a higher level of interest we shall relish a kirtan even if it does not have a sweet tune or correct rhythm. What simply matters that it contains Sri Bhagavān's name, and qualities. We feel immensely overjoyed just to hear about Him. After this we step into the next stage that is āsakti.

7. āsaktā (deep attachment or addiction)–

"When our ruchi (interest) in bhajan becomes extremely intense and our thoughts keep roaming around Sri Bhagavān alone, then this stage is called 'āsakti'. The process of bhajan is like a gracious wish-fulfilling creeper on which āsakti blooms like a cluster of buds that burst into the colorful flowers of bhāv (āsaktā gives rise to bhāv) that finally turns into prem (the fruit)." (M.K.6th shower)

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Āsakti cleanses our chitta so much that it shines like a mirror. It reflects Sri Bhagavān so clearly as if we are actually seeing Him. Earlier, by chance our heart would get torn away from Sri Bhagavān, we would voluntarily connect it to Him again – but not when we have reached āsaktā. Now our mind is automatically absorbed in Him. The Mahājans have termed this state as dhruvānusmriti (constant remembrance). How a poor man suffering in drought will be attracted by a plate of delicious food and how a honey bee is dragged by the scent of honey – like that, when we attain āsakti, our chitta becomes addicted to Sri Bhagavān and His name, qualities and leelas. This is the pinnacle of sāadhan-bhakti. After this we enter the realm of bhāv-bhakti.

8. Bhāv or rati – Bhakti is like a wish-fulfilling creeper and bhāv or rati is its flower. It is so fragrant that it pierces the envelope of the universe, pervades all divine abodes and drags Bhagavān Madhusudan to the devotee. When āsakti becomes extremely intense we gain rati (divine passion). When we gain rati, we see Sri Bhagavān in sphurā as if we are actually seeing Him. We can experience His wonderful words, touch, beauty, ras and fragrance. In this state we become one with our siddha swarup - we identify only with our spiritual body. We live as if we are completely different from the material body and we are existing outside this sādhak-body. Like a greedy honey bee all set to get intoxicated, our heart too becomes eager to drink the sweet nectar of His lotus feet.

“Nine symptoms of bhāv-bhakti are as follows-

- 1) Although from material point of view we should get agitated but we do not.
- 2) We do not waste a single second in anything not relevant to Sri Bhagavān
- 3) Disinterest in any topic that is ‘other than Sri Krishna’
- 4) Devoid of false ego
- 5) Firm faith that Sri Bhagavān will certainly have mercy on me
- 6) Great eagerness to attain His lotus feet
- 7) Always interested in singing Harinām
- 8) Forever desiring to glorify Sri Bhagavān’s Holy Name, excellences etc.
- 9) Extremely enthusiastic to reside in holy places such as Brajadhām”

– (B.R.S.13.25-26)

Bhāv-bhakti has two characteristics –

- The devotee considers liberation as nothing
- Bhāv-bhakti is extremely rare

9. Prem – It is the highest stage of bhakti. When prem arises our heart is completely clean. The devotee very much feels “Sri Bhagavān belongs to me.” Prem has two characteristics –

- Intense bliss
- Attracts Sri Krishna

“Prem is the most precious treasure and is the fifth *purushārthā*¹ of the living entity. It gives us the sweet relish of Sri Krishna. Prem makes Sri Krishna come under the control of the devotee and gives him the immense joy of serving Sri Krishna.” – (C.C.Ādi.7.144-145)²

Sri Naam-Tattva-Vigyaan

(A Scientific Study of the Holy Name)

What is 'nām' (Name)?

Srimat Jiva Goswāmipād has written in Sri Bhakti-Sandarbha –

“Nām is a sound used to identify certain object.”

Shabda-Kalpa-Droom (a Sanskrit dictionary) says –

“Sound is of two types –

- That which cannot be pronounced (just as a thunder or rustling of leaves)
- That which can be pronounced”

Of course, a name is something we can pronounce. Whenever we want to talk about an object we say its name. For example a thirsty person says “Please give me water”. Immediately we think of a liquid substance that quenches thirst. In this manner every person, object, concept or idea has a name that distinguishes it from others.

“Nāmī” is the object (e.g. the object ‘water’) to which the name belongs. Nām is simply the word (e.g. ‘water’ in English), while nāmī is the object itself. The only function the nām serves is to denote the object – it has no quality of the object whatsoever. Had it not been so, we would have quenched our thirst simply by uttering “water” – there would have been no need to actually drink water. If nām and nāmī would have been non-different, nām would have had all the power of nāmī.

Shabda-Shakti-Prakāshikā¹ says – Names are of two types –

- Man-made
- Eternal

We give names to various worldly destructible objects; they are just words and do not have any characteristic of the said objects. Such names are ‘man-made’. However in the divine world there are names that have existed since eternity and will remain forever. So we call them ‘eternal’.

Amongst these names, the names of God almighty are non-different from Him. They contain all His qualities. The saints and scriptures clearly state that Sri Bhagavān and His names are non-different – we must always remember this fact.

The Holy Name and God are non-different

There is absolutely no difference between God and His names. The Holy Name is God Himself – all the śrutis, smritis and the knowers of truth state this. If we are able to accept this truth then we shall realize very easily in our lives that the Holy Name is not an ordinary word that simply denotes “God”.

Sri Padma Purān says –

“The Holy Name is non-different from Sri Krishna and therefore it is a wish-fulfilling gem - conscious, full of ras, absolute, pure, eternal and independent like Him.”

The Holy Name is a wish-fulfilling gem – this means that it is capable of granting all our desires just like Sri Bhagavān. Srimat Jiva Goswāmipād has explained this verse as –

“The Holy Name is a wish-fulfilling gem since it can grant all our wishes. Not only this, but like Sri Krishna it is also conscious. It is factually Sri Krishna Himself!”

– (Bhagavad Sandarbha, 48)

¹ A Sanskrit book that deals with the scientific study of words.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Sri Chaitanya-Charitāmrita says –

“Sri Krishna’s body and His self are non-different from each other and so are His Holy Names from Him. It is only the living being whose name, body and self differ from one another.”

– (C.C.Madhya.17.132)

“Just as Sri Bhagavân’s body is not different from his self, His names too are non-different from Him.” – (Kurma Purân)

Our true self is transcendental while our body is material and destructible. Our names too are mundane and refer to this material body. Hence they are different from each other. This is our characteristic, not that of God. Sri Bhagavân and His Holy Name are only different expressions of one thing. Therefore we should understand that the Holy Name has the same power as Sri Bhagavân.

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has written –

“The Holy Name is an expression of the Almighty just as Sri Râmchandra, Nrisimha, Matsya, Kurma and other manifestations.” – (Sri Bhagavad-Sandarbha, 48)

“Sri Krishna descends in the form of the Holy Name in Kaliyug and delivers all universe.”

– (C.C.Âdi.17.22)

Srimad-Bhâgavatam says –“Sri Bhagavân has innumerable incarnations.”– (S.B.1.3.26)

However His Holy Name is more compassionate and has more power to redeem the fallen souls than any incarnation. Sripâd Shukamuni has said in Srimad-Bhâgavatam-

“If a dying, miserable, fallen and sinful person utters the Holy Name, that too simply under compulsion, the Holy Name delievers him from the cycle of birth and death. He attains a high state. It is sad that the people of Kaliyug do not worship such great Sri Hari with Harinâm Sankirtan.” – (S.B.12.3.44)

It is because the Holy Name is non-different from Sri Bhagavân Himself that if we take the Holy Name in any manner – whether during kirtan or hearing – even by the slight reflection of the Holy Name – if we have committed the foulest of sins – the Holy Name can redeem us and we can attain Sri Bhagavân. This fact is very clear from the deliverance of Ajâmil in Srimad-Bhâgavatam. The emissaries of Sri Vishnu told the messengers of Yamrâj (the Lord of death) –

“A thief, alcoholic, one who is disloyal to a friend, one who has murdered a brahmin, one who has seduced the wife of his Guru, one who has killed a woman, his king, parent or a cow, and all other sinners have only one solution – the Holy Name of Sri Nârâyan. Only the Holy Name can redeem him, since as soon as he takes the Holy Name he draws Sri Bhagavân’s attention to him. Sri Bhagavân thinks, “This person belongs to me, it is my duty to protect him at all costs.”

Ajâmil was a most fallen sinner. On his death-bed, when he saw the messenger of the Lord of death, he had called out his son ‘Nârâyan’ out of fear – he had definitely not called Bhagavân Sri Nârâyan. We can not call this as ‘pure name’ – it is simply ‘nâmâbhâs’ (shadow of the Holy Name). However the Holy Name saved him and he ultimately attained Sri Bhagavân’s abode. Not only is this true repentance, it is the best mode of repenting; for it destroys the ignorance – the very root of sin. Moreover he gains Sri Bhagavân’s attention. The Lord feels – “He is my devotee – I should take care for him always”. Thus we see that there is nothing more powerful than the Holy Name that can save a sinner. The Holy Name is also more compassionate than Sri Bhagavân Himself. Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd has written in Sri Krishna-Nâm-Ashtakam–

‘Dear Holy Name, You have manifested Yourself in two forms – ‘word’ (the Holy Names such as ‘Sri Krishna’, ‘Govinda’ etc.) and ‘all-conscious, all-blissful Sri Krishna Deity’. Of the two I know Your ‘word-form’ to be more compassionate, since You redeem those who have committed an offence at the lotus feet of Sri Krishna. You save him from all the offenses and immerse him in the ocean of joy, that is, he becomes engrossed in relishing the happiness of prem. ”

Sri Chaitanya-Charitāmrita says –

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

“The Holy Name, the Deity and Sri Krishna Himself are one. There is no difference in them – all are conscious and blissful.” – (C.C.Madhya.17.131)

This signifies that Sri Bhagavân's name and Deity are always non-different from Himself. Here ‘Deity’ refers to His image that we worship as well as to His body.

After reading the above *poyâr*¹ if anybody thinks that Sri Bhagavân's name, Deity and Himself are actually different, but because they are all transcendental they are said to be ‘one’ – then he is wrong. Sri Bhagavân's abode and associates are also the expressions of His majestic internal potency; then why does Sri Chaitanya-Charitâmrita specifically say that ‘these three are one’? We should realize that they are indeed one.

Sri Hari-bhakti-Vilâs clearly proves that His Deity is non-different from Himself –

“swayam vyaktâh sthâpanâshcha murtayo dwividhâ matâh swayam vyaktâ swayam krishnah sthâpanâstu pratishthayâ.”

Meaning - “Sri Bhagavân's Deities are of two types –

- Self-manifested
- Installed

We should know that the self-manifested Deities are Sri Krishna himself and the installed deities are ‘That same Sri Krishna’ from the time since they have been installed.”

Sri Govindadev, Sri Gopinâth and Sri Madan-Mohan are self-manifested and they are Swayam Bhagavân. However such eternal Deities are very rare and we need other Deities for archanam – so it is necessary to install Deities. When we install Deities according to the scriptural injunctions They are actually Sri Bhagavân from the time since their installment. Sri Krishna has told Uddhav with His holy lips –

“The moving and non-moving – both types of forms are my temples.”

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has explained this verse from Sri Hari-Bhakti-Vilâs as follows –

“Here ‘pratishthâ’ means ‘pratimâ’ (image or form) and ‘jivâ’ means ‘the life of a living entity’. This means – ‘it is my temple’ or a place that is non-different from me. The Deity is in no way different from the parts of my body. ‘Jiva-Mandir’ can also mean ‘Sri Bhagavân - the original source of all living beings’. Those who worship Sri Bhagavân actually see Him in the Deity. If we harbor even the slightest notion that He is different from Sri Bhagavân it will be detrimental for our bhakti; therefore we should always perform Deity-sevâ considering Him to be non-different from Sri Krishna.”

Srila Krishnadâs Kavirâj Goswâmi has written about the Deities of Sri Govindadev and Sri MadanMohan –

“Sri MadanGopâl, Who is the supremæ most person of Vrindâban, is really and truly the Son of Nanda Mahârâj – He is verily the One Who sports in the râs-dance with Sri Râdhâ and Lalitâ. He is the same One Who has manifested Himself as the captivator of the Love-God and steals all the hearts with His enchanting sweetness while Srimati Râdhârâni and Lalitâ serve Him on both sides.” – (C.C.Âdi.5.218-223)

“All the trees of Vrindâban are *kalpa-vrikshas*² and the Yogpeeth is situated therein. A gem-studded altar with a gem-studded throne is placed at the centre of this Yogpeeth. Sri Govinda, Who is none other than the Son of Nanda Mahârâj, is seated atop this gem-throne. He is expressing His sweetness and mesmerizing the universe. Srimati Râdhârâni is seated at His left with all Her sakhis and the sweet Lord performs so many divine pastimes such as the râs-dance with them in charming manner. His devotees sit in the lotus-pose and meditate on Him. They worship Him with the eighteen syllable mantra. All His devotees in the fourteen worlds meditate on Him and the residents of Vaikuntha sing His praises. His sweetness drags Laxmi devi from the bosom of Lord Nârâyan – He is so attractive and Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd has described Him wonderfully. There is no doubt that this Govindadev is none other than the Son of Nanda Mahââj Himself. If a fool considers Him to be an 'image' he commits a foul aparâdh and He shall never be redeemed – he shall fall in the hellish planets – what more can I say?" – (C.C.Âdi.225-226)

² Wish-fulfilling trees

We all know the story of Sri SâkshiGopâl Who walked all the way from the Vrindâban to the far away Vidyânagar, simply to shower His bounties on them when the King of Utkal (Orissa) conquered Vidyânagar, by the command of Lord SâkshiGopâl, he took Him to Cuttack and installed His sevâ there. Sri Chaitanya-Charitâmrita states –

"The queen (of Orissa) came to take darshan of Sri SâkshiGopâl and offered Him many ornaments with devotion. She was wearing a very precious pearl on her nose-pin. She wished to give it to the Lord. 'I wish His nostril was pierced – then this maidservant would have surely offered Him this pearl' – she sighed. Then she paid obeisance and returned to her palace. When the night was about to end Gopâlji appeared in a dream and said – 'When I was a child my mother had pierced my nose and had lovingly placed a pearl on it. That piercing exists on my nose even today – put that pearl for me and fulfill your wish.' The queen woke up and narrated her dream to the king. She came to the temple carrying the pearl and accompanied by the king. She saw the piercing on the nose and put the pearl for him. Then she became so ecstatic that she threw an extremely grand feast in honor of this sweet occasion." – (C.C.Madhya.5.125-132)

These evidences drive home the message that there is no difference between Sri Bhagavân and His Deity – same is the case with Sri Bhagavân and his Holy Name. The one who thinks otherwise will surely suffer in hell.

"Who considers Sri Vishnu's Deity and Shâlagrâm to be stone, the Spiritual Master a human being, considers a Vaishnav's caste, the foot-wash of Vishnu and Vaishnavs as plain water, Sri Vishnu's Holy Name that can destroy all sins as ordinary sound and Sri Vishnu, the Lord God as equal to other Gods – he is a resident of hell". – (Padyâvali)

This verse signifies that although the Holy Name appears like all other sound vibrations and exists as words He is the Supreme Being Sri Bhagavân the embodiment of intense eternal conscious bliss.

Glory of chanting the Holy Name

All scriptures such as the Vedas and the saints have openly extolled the glory of chanting the Holy Name. The Rig Ved has stated –

"om âhasya jânanto nâma chidviviktan mahaste vishno sumatim bhajâmahe om tatsadityâdi." – (1.156.3)

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has explained this verse as follows –

"O Vishno! Your name is conscious and hence self-manifested. If we do not realize the correct way to pronounce it or entirely comprehend its glory - if we know only little bit of its magnificence and continue to chant we shall still gain knowledge about You."

Sri Krishna has told Sri Arjun in Âdi purân –

"Dear Arjun, who sing my name and dance before me – I am telling the truth – they buy me (I become their slave). Who sing my name and cry before me I become their slave since I am Janârdan¹. I do not belong to anyone else."

Sri Krishna has told in the Mahâbhârat –

"Krishnâ (Draupadi) has called out to me crying "Govinda!" although I am so far from her – this cry rendered from her heart has put me in a debt that is increasing every moment – this debt is refusing to leave my mind (I cannot forget this debt)."

Sri Bali Mahârâj told Shukrâchârya in Brihan-Nâradiya Purân –

¹ The One Who wipes the tears of His dear ones

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

"When the two syllables "'Ha' and 'ri'" are present on the tip of one's tongue he attains the realm of Sri Vishnu and he never returns to this world."

Lord Shiva told Sri Nârada in Linga Purân –

"Harinâm destroys the evils of Kaliyug; if someone chants this name while going, sitting, standing, sleeping, eating, and breathing, just to complete a sentence or without any reason or reverence – he attains liberation; and who chants Harinâm with devotion goes to His abode and gains the Supreme Being."

Srimad-Bhâgavatam recommends chanting of the Holy Name as the supreme means and the topmost achievable goal –

*"etan-nirvidyamânânâmichchhatâmakutobhayam, yoginâm nrîpa nirnitam harer-nâmânukirtanam."
- (S.B.2.1.11)*

Shridhar Swâmi has explained this verse as follows –

"No means is greater than chanting the Holy Name either for a sâdhak or for a siddha (one who has realized his spiritual goal). Therefore Srimad-Bhâgavatam is saying – 'O King, who wants to fulfill material desires must necessarily chant the Holy Name to accomplish their goal; the ones striving for liberation too have only one option – that is, to chant the Holy Name; when the yogis (the gyânîs) practice their path nicely it makes them take to the path of chanting the Holy Name. There is no need to cite any evidence for this – that is why Srimad-Bhâgavatam uses the word 'nirnitam', meaning, it is an axiom – have no doubt about it."

We can achieve all our desires by resorting to Sri Harinâm Sankirtan alone and although we may not perfect other parts of bhajan, simply by chanting the Holy Name we attain perfection.

We can chant the Holy Name in any place or at any time. Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has written –

"Chanting the Holy Name has the same power in all the ages; however in Kaliyug Sri Bhagavân Himself exhorts the living being to chant, hence it has more glory in Kaliyug. In an ordinary Kaliyug, Sri Bhagavân appears as a Yugâvatâr and spreads the Holy Name, but this is a very special Kaliyug since Swayam Bhagavân Sriman-Mahâprabhu has descended along with His associates. He Himself chants the Holy Name and makes the living beings do so. Therefore Harinâm kirtan is more wonderful now. Even though we have to perform other parts of bhajan, we should do them along with chanting. When Karbhâjan Rishi described the yuga-dharma of Kaliyug he told King Nimi –

"In Kaliyug the ones who are very intelligent worship Sri Hari with plenty of Sankirtan-yagna (by chanting lots of Harinâm)" – (S.B.11.5.32)

"Sri Krishna-Chaitanya Mahâprabhu has revealed the Harinâm Sankirtan. Whoever worships Him by chanting the Holy Name is indeed blessed. He alone has good intelligence while the rest of the people are foolish. Chanting the Holy Name is the essence of all yagnas." - (C.C.Âdi.3.77-78)

The scriptures highly extol Sri Harinâm kirtan and state its colossal power – let us hear some of it. The most sinful person can destroy his sins by taking refuge of the Holy Name –

"Just as the roar of a lion drives out the wild animals man can annihilate all his sins by chanting the Holy Name." – (Garud Purân)

What to speak of destroying sins; the Holy Name can redeem one even from the hell –

"Wherever the residents of hell chanted the Holy Name they gained devotion for Sri Bhagavân and attained divine abodes." – (Nrisimha Purân)

The Holy Name destroys mental as well as physical ailments –

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

"As soon as we remember His Name and glorify Him all mental and physical ailments are destroyed - I pay obeisance unto That Sri Anantadev (Sri Bhagavân)."¹ – (Skanda Purân)

"When we chant the Holy Name constantly all our illnesses, troubles, disturbance are destroyed and we are filled with peace." (Brihad Vishnu Purân)

"Even the most fallen sinner gains a pure heart and becomes a devotee if he chants the Holy Name continuously." – (Brahmânda Purân)

"Who chants the names Hare, Keshav, Govinda and Vâsudev – Kaliyug has no mastery (effect) on them." – (Brihan-Nâradiya Purân)

"My dear child, you need not recite the Rig, Sam and Yajur Vedas; simply chant the name of Govinda continuously since His Name alone is worthy of praise." – (Skanda Purân)

"We can get the result of serving hundreds of holy places by chanting Sri Vishnu's name." – (Vâman Purân)

"It is extremely pious to donate one crore cows during the solar eclipse, to reside for one kalpa in the water of Gangâ at Prayâg, to perform one million yagnas and give alms in gold equal to Mount Meru – however they are not equal to a hundredth fraction of chanting Lord Govinda's name." – (Skanda Purân)

"If we chant Sri Vishnu's name we get rid of the cycle of birth and death, our enemies such as lust and anger are destroyed and we gain spiritual knowledge." – (Skanda Purân)

"There are various powers (shaktis) in alms-giving, fasting, austerities and holy places. Some shaktis can destroy all the sins of the devatâs and grant well being. Râjsuya, Ashwamedh yagna and spiritual knowledge too have power. Bhagavân Sri Hari has dragged all those shaktis from there and placed them in His Name." – (Skanda Purân)

"The ones who chant 'Nârâyan', 'Jagannâth', 'Vâsudev', 'Janârdan' etc are praised everywhere." – (Brihan-Nâradiya)

"The ones who have no other respite, are steeped in sense gratification, are inimical by nature, without spiritual knowledge and material detachment, without any control over sexual desire and devoid of any righteous conduct – they can easily attain a state only by chanting the Holy Name – such that even the sum total of all-righteous people¹ cannot reach." – (Padma Purân)

"The ones who always chant the names such as 'Nârâyan', 'Achyuta', 'Ananta', 'Vâsudev' etc. are united with me." – (Varâha Purân)

"The one who always engages in sins, even he can attain the supreme abode of Sri Vishnu by chanting the Holy Name." – (Nandi Purân)

"Dear brahmins, the ones who constantly chant Your Holy Name in spite of being hungry and thirsty – Sri Hari is extremely pleased with them." – (Brihan-Nâradiya Purân)

"Chanting the Holy Name of Sri Dâmodar is the only good thing in life – it is also a treasure worth gaining and the sole benefit of living." – (Skanda Purân and Padma Purân)

"The connoisseurs of bhakti ras consider the chanting of the Holy Name as the outcome of bhakti, since the Holy Name is the only sure way to arouse precious divine love – it never fails." (Srla Sanâtan Goswâmi in Brihad-Bhâgavatam.2.3.165)

Srla Sanâtan Goswâmipâd has further explained this statement–

"Aho! How much can I extol Sri Harinâm-sankirtan, which is the greatest of all means? The connoisseurs of bhakti have ascertained chanting of the Holy Name as the highest achievable goal. You may ask – prem is the outcome of devotional practice and chanting is the means to achieve it, why are you calling it the 'result of bhakti? My answer is – you are right. However chanting the Holy Name leads certainly to prem (whosoever chants the Holy Name will surely get prem), therefore the Holy Name is synonymous with prem. Therefore we are calling it the result of bhakti. In fact there is no exception to this rule."

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

As a result the saints call Harinâm-sankirtan as the product of bhakti. When we chant the Holy Name we naturally gain priceless divine love – the result of devotional practice. Hence chanting is our goal.

Sriman-*Mahâ*prabhu has stated with His holy lips –

“Chanting the Holy Name destroys all our sins and redeems us from material attachment. It purifies the innermost heart and is the source of all devotional practices. It arouses Sri Krishna-prem, and makes us relish its nectar. It gives us Sri Krishna and immerses us in the nectarine ocean of sevâ.” – (C.C.Antya.20.10-11)

The special characteristic of chanting Sri Krishna’s name

We have already learnt that Sri Bhagavân’s name is eternal, conscious and blissful just like Sri Bhagavân. From this point of view all His names are equal. Yet if we analyze the glory of the Holy Name we can understand the glory of Sri Krishna-nâm. Since the Holy Name is non-different from Sri Bhagavân, the glory of the names is in proportion to the greatness of the divine manifestations. Therefore since Sri Krishna is Swayam Bhagavân, His name too is special – naturally. Chanting Sri Vishnu’s name is more glorious than taking the names of devatâs, while a single name of Lord Râmchandra is equal to a thousand names of Sri Vishnu. Sriman-*Mahâ*dev told the same to the Mother Goddess –

“râmo râmeti râmeti rame râme manorame, sahasra-nâmabhistulyam râmanâma varânane.”

Sri Râmchandra is superior to Matsya, Kurma and other incarnations – this we learn from the scriptures. Therefore Padma Purân says that the name ‘Râm’ is more glorious than the names of the other incarnations. Shata-nâm Stotra also corroborates this fact –

“A single name of Sri Vishnu can yield more result than reciting all the Vedas. Yet a single name of Lord Râm equals one thousand names of Sri Vishnu.”

Brahmânda Purân says –

“We get the same result by uttering Sri Krishna’s name once and by chanting the *sahasranâm*¹ of Lord Vishnu thrice.”

This shows that if we chant Sri Krishna’s name once it is equal to saying the name of Lord Râm thrice². Sri Chaitanya-Charitâmrita says –

“The name of Sri Râmchandra grants liberation – hence it is ‘tâarak’ (the liberator), however the name of Sri Krishna gives prem, therefore it is ‘pâarak’ (the One Who gives love).” – (C.C.Antya.3.244)

Thus the scriptures and preceptors tell us that the name of Sri Krishna is the most glorious of all divine names. Sri Krishna himself has declared –

“nâmnâm mukhyatamam nâma krishnâkhyam me parantapa”

Meaning - “Dear Arjun, ‘Krishna’ is the greatest of all my names.”

Also from the point of view relish, Sri Krishna’s name is incomparable. We see in Prabhâs-Khanda –

“O Shounak, Sri Krishna’s name is sweeter than sweet, is the goodness amongst all that is good, the most delicious fruit of the Vedas that are like a wish-fulfilling creeper and it is transcendental – if anyone says this name even once – be it out of respect or disrespect – it redeems that man.”

Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd has written a very sweet verse in his drama Vidagdha-Mâdhav –

“They dance on my tongue and arouse the desire to possess innumerable tongues! When they slightly brush against my ears, they make me crave for millions of ears! They lodge in my heart

² Since one Râm-nâm is equal to one thousand Vishnu-nâm

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

and stupefy all my senses! Ohh! I do not know what immense nectar these two syllables – ‘Kri’ and ‘shna’ possess!!”

Pada-kartā Srila Jadunandan Thâkur has rendered an extraordinarily superb translation of this verse –

“As soon as I utter Krishna-nâm, my tongue dances incessantly and immensely increases my longing; the Holy Name is so sweet that I cannot control my heart and I desire innumerable tongues! Oh! How can I express the sweetness of the Holy Name?

Who has made these two syllables “Kri’ and ‘shna’ and with which nectar? They are so sweet that they enhance so much bliss in the ears which start sprouting (the ears get enlarged to hear more) and I crave for millions of ears so that I may relish the Holy Name to my heart’s content!

When I see the two syllables ‘Kri’ and ‘shna’ my scorched eyes are soothed and they long to see Krishna in person. Oh! Only if I could have countless eyes then I could behold Krishna’s beauty, since His Name is non-different from His body.

When the Holy Name enters the heart, I want to spread wings, all my senses dance in delight – the Holy Name maddens me with prem!

When the Holy Name enters simply one ear, it forsakes all other activities and the Holy Name arouses all the bhāvs. Sri Krishna-nâm is the repository of all sweetness and is the casket of entire ras – thus says poet Jadunandan dās.”

Sriman-Mahâprabhu has said –

“ânandâmbudhi-varadhanam pratipadam purnâmritâswâdanam, sarvâtmâ-snaoanam param vijayate srikrishna-sankirtanam.”

Meaning - "It enhances the ocean of bliss, each moment it gives the relish of complete nectar, supremely delights all senses, mind, intellect and even the soul – That glorious Sri Krishna-nâm-sankirtan is reigning supreme." – (Shikshâstakam)

Srila Sanâtan Goswâmpâd has written –

“When the nectarine ras of Sri Krishna-nâm manifests itself in just a single organ – that is – the tongue - it overflows all other senses with its own sweet ras.”

Sriman-*Mahâ*prabhu has advised all humankind in Kaliyug to chant the Mahâmantra composed of 32 syllables, for it is the only way to get deliverance. Sri Chaitanya-Bhâgabat says –

*“ âpone sobâre prabhu kore upadeshe, krishna-nâm Mahâmantra shunoho harishe.
'hare krishna hare krishna krishna krishna hare hare, hare râma hare râma râma râma hare hare.’
prabhu kohe kohilâm ei Mahâmantra, ihâ jopo giyâ shobe koriâ nirbandha.
ihâ hoite sarba-siddhi hoibe shobâr, sarbakkhan bolo ithe bidhi nâhi âr.”*

Meaning - "The Lord Himself has advised everyone – joyously hear Sri Krishna-nâm – the Mahâmantra. Hare Krishna Hare Krishna Krishna Krishna Hare Hare, Hare Râm Hare Râm Râm Râm Hare Hare. The Lord said – I have told you this Mahâmantra, now go home and chant it with determination. By chanting this mantra you will accomplish everything, keep on chanting it all the time – there is no other rule.”

In this poyâr, ‘ihâ jopo giyâ shobe koriâ nirbandhâ’ indicates that the Lord instructed us to chant the Mahamantra by keeping a count (certain number of rounds). On the other hand ‘sarbakkhan bolo ithe bidhi nâhi âr’ means He told us to chant it loudly without keeping count.

² now go home and chant it with determination

³ keep on chanting it all the time – there is no other rule

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Sriman-Mahâprabhu's instruction shows that we can chant the Mahâmantra of 32 syllables silently (as jap) and also pronounce it loudly as in kirtan. Some say – "You cannot chant a mantra loudly. It is outside the scriptural law. Since the 'hare-krishneti-nâm is Mahâmantra, we should only do jap by keeping count; we cannot sing it loudly." In this context we would like to state that – only when it contains a 'beej (seed-word) and words such as 'swâhâ and when it contains the Chaturthi-Vibhakti (the 4th case or the dative case) we can call it a 'mantra'. The Hare Krishna Mahâmantra is an address (calling out to someone) and does not contain any of these. Hence any intelligent person should not doubt that we can chant it as 'jap' and also say it loudly. Especially when we get proof for such activity in the scriptures, Mahâjan-statements and more so from the instruction and conduct of Sriman-Mahâprabhu Who is none other than Swayam Bhagavân (God Himself).

We are mentioning here in brief. Sri Padma Purân states –

"harer-nâma-Mahâmantrair-nashyet papa-pishâchakam, harer-agre-swanair-uchchhair-nrityam stan-nâm-krin-narah, punâti bhuvanam vipra ! gangâdi salilam yathâ, hare pradakshinam kurvann-uchchais-tan-nâma-krin-narah, karatâlâdi sandhânâ suswaram kala-shabdîtam."

Meaning - "If anyone dances in front of Sri Hari, chanting the Harinâm Mahâmantra loudly, his sins that are like ghosts, are destroyed. Just as the holy waters such as the Gangâ, purify the world, similarly those who loudly sing the Mahâmantra in a sweet voice with the accompaniment of cymbals – and circumambulate Sri Hari – they purify the world."

Those who say that although we may chant the Mahâmantra loudly, it is compulsory to keep a count and that there is no evidence of chanting the Mahâmantra without keeping a count – they should read this verse from Sri Padma Purân. Then they will easily understand that when we do kirtan while dancing along with playing the Kartâls (cymbals), we cannot possibly keep count; so the countless chanting of the Mahâmantra is also corroborated.

Srila Kabi Karnapur has described Sriman-Mahâprabhu's renunciation-ceremony in his great drama Sri Chaitanya-Charit Mahâkâvya in the following manner.

"tatah sri gourângah samavadadateeva-pramudito, hare krishnetiuchchychairvada muhuriti shrimayatanuh, tato'soutat prochya prativalitaromâncha-lalito rudanstattat karmârabhata bahu-duhkhair-vidalitam."

Meaning - "When Lord Gourânga was taking sanyâs, the barber was extremely sad; he held on to the shaving blade and simply could not bring himself to shave off the Lord's long and thick curls. Then Lord Gourânga told him to repeat the Hare Krishna Mahâmantra loudly. The barber obeyed Him. He loudly cried out the Hare Krishna Mahâmantra and weeping all the while, he shaved the Lord's head. While doing so, he displayed goosebumps – the sign of ecstasy."

Certainly this is chanting Mahâmantra without keeping count, since how could the barber keep count while shaving? The question does not arise at all. Not only have Sriman-Mahâprabhu instructed us to chant the Mahâmantra without keeping count, He has done it Himself. Srila Lochan dâs Thâkur has stated in his text Sri Chaitanya-Mangal –

"hare krishna nâm seho bole nirantar".

Here 'bole' means 'tells' and 'nirantar' means 'constantly'. It clearly indicates that the Lord chanted the Mahâmantra loudly and constantly, which naturally shows 'without keeping count'. Sri Vrindâban dâs Thâkur, who is the incarnation of Vyasdev, too says –

*"prasanna sri-mukhe 'hare krishna krishna' boli, bijoy hoilâ gourchandra kutuhali.
'hare krishna hare krishna' boli prem-sukhe, pratyaksha hoilâ âshi adwaita sammukhe."*

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Meaning - "Lord Gourachandra strode in eagerly with a beaming face, chanting 'Hare Krishna Krishna'. He said 'Hare Krishna Hare Krishna' with blissful love and appeared before Lord Advaita."

Sriman-Mahâprabhu instructed countless chanting of Mahâmantra and did it Himself too; however He also instructed us to chant the Mahâmantra by keeping count as well.

Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd has stated –

"hare krishnetyuchchaih sphuritarasano nâma-gananâkrita-granthi-shrenih subhaga-kati-sutrojjwalakarah".

Srila Raghunâth dâs Goswâmi has written –

"nijatve goudiyân jagati parigrihya prabhurimân hare krishnety-evam ganânâvidhinâ kirtayata bhoh"

Thus we have proved beyond doubt that we should chant the Mahâmantra by keeping count as well as without keeping count. Both these statements prove that Sriman-Mahâprabhu chanted the Mahâmantra mentally as well as loudly, and by keeping count and not keeping count.

Srila Sârvabhôma Bhattachârya Mahâshay has written in Sri Chaitanya-Shatak –

"vishanna-chittân kalipâpa-bheetan samvikshya gouro harinâma-mantram swayam dadou bhakta-janân samâdishat kurushva sankirtanam nritya-vâdyaih."

Meaning - "When Sri Chaitanya Mahâprabhu saw the people getting afraid of the sinful Kaliyug and depressed, He gave them the Harinâm-mantra and issued a blanket order to chant in congregation this Mahâmantra along with dancing and music."

'samâdishat' indicates that Sriman-Mahâprabhu had descended with the firm determination to immerse humankind in the ras of eternal love and that was possible only through loud congregational chanting of the Mahâmantra. 'Jap' redeems a single soul, whereas loud kirtan delivers the animate and the inanimate objects, since they too hear it. Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has written –

"nâma-kirtananchedam-uchchaireva prashastam."

Meaning - "The loud chanting of the Holy Name is more popular."

Along with the above statement Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has also cited the reason for this –

"Those who chant the Holy Name loudly deliver not only themselves, but others also. They cause welfare to every living being. Prahlâd Mahâshay has thus glorified Lord Nrisimha in Sri Nrisimha Purân in the following manner – 'O my Lord, the great devotees who loudly chant You the Holy Name with extreme joy – they are the selfless friends of all living beings'." – (B.S.269)

Nâmâchârya Srila Haridâs Thâkur has vociferously praised loud chanting of the Mahâmantra with his holy lips –

*"jopile se krishna-nâm âponi se tore, uchcha sankirtane para-upakâr kore.
ataeb uchcha kori kirtan korile, shatagun phal hoy sarba-shâstra bole.
jihbâ pâiâo nara bine sarba prâni, na pare bolite krishna nâm heno dhvani.
byartha janma ihârâ nistâr jâhâ hoite, bolo dekhi kon dosh se karma korite.
keho âponâre mâtira koroye poshan, keho bâ poshan kore sahasreko jon.
duite ke boro, bhâbi bujhoho âpone, ei abhiprây gun uchcha sankirtane."*

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Meaning - "When we chant Sri Krishna-nâm silently we only deliver ourselves, however when we chant loudly, we are helping others too. Therefore all the scriptures hail loud sankirtan and say that it is hundred times more fruitful than silent chanting (jap). All living beings, with the exception of man, cannot utter Sri Krishna-nâm, even though they may have tongues. In that case, their birth is useless, since the only way to deliver ourselves is to chant Sri Krishna-nâm. Tell me then, what is the problem if we do this? Someone feeds only himself, while another person feeds one thousand – decide and tell me who is greater of the two? That is why loud sankirtan is more praiseworthy than silent jap." – (Sri Chaitanya-Bhāgabat)

Sriman-Mahāprabhu drowned the universe in prem-ras merely by the loud chanting of the Hare Krishna-Mahāmantra. His confidential associate Srila Rupa Goswāmpād has written –

"sri-chaitanya-mukhodgirnâ hare-krishneti-varnakâh, majjayanto jagat premni vijayantâm tad-âhvayâh."

Meaning - "The countless chanting of Hare Krishna Mahāmantra, that has 32 syllables and has sprung from Sri Chaitanya Mahāprabhu's holy lips, are submerging the entire universe in the ocean of prem – all victory to such Mahāmantra." – (Laghu-Bhāgavatāmritam)

Sripād Baladev Vidyābhushan has explained 'tad-âhvayâh' (in the verse) as 'krishna-namâni' – meaning – all the sixteen names belong to Sri Krishna. This name alone can deliver any man and is so powerful that it can immerse anybody in prem-ras.

How to chant Sri Hari-nâm

Chanting the Holy Name is the infallible way to gain prem. How to chant the Holy Name? Sriman-Mahāprabhu has Himself instructed us about this with His holy lips –

"How should we chant the Holy Name so that we gain prem? O Swarup and Rāma Roy, Listen to the process! We should be lower than a blade of grass and as tolerant as a tree, we should not expect any respect from others, yet respect everybody – in this manner we should constantly chant the Holy Name." – (C.C.Antya.20.16)

Sriman-Mahāprabhu has explained further –

"We should be superior in all respects, yet consider ourselves more useless than a blade of grass. We should be tolerant like a tree in two ways – a tree never protests even when it is cut; it dies of thirst, yet does not beg for water. In spite of this, it gives its wealth to whosoever asks for it. It bears the heat and rain, yet offers shelter to others. Similarly a Vaishnav should be superior and yet devoid of false ego. We should respect all living beings knowing that Sri Krishna is present in them. When we chant the Holy Name in this manner, we gain love for the lotus feet of Sri Krishna." – (C.C.Antya.20.17-21)

Offenses alone can stop the Holy Name

The Holy Name is so extremely powerful that nothing can deter it – it is impossible for us to possess any anartha that can prevent the Holy Name from leading us to prem – well, except one barrier – and that is 'aparādh'. When Sriman-Mahāprabhu spoke the above verse to Swarup-Dāmodar and Rāmānanda Roy, He axed the very root of *nām-aparādh*¹. He instructed us to chant the Holy Name with humbleness. Humility is the soul of devotional practice.

What is humility?

'Humility' is a bhāv that makes us feel that we are amazingly worthless and fallen, although we may possess all good qualities. When we possess such humility it will save us from committing Vaishnav-offense and then Sri Nām-Prabhu will be pleased with us. However we should not think that – "first I will acquire this great quality 'humbleness' and then I will start chanting". As we continue to chant the Holy Name the humility as described by Sriman-Mahāprabhu will arise in our heart on its own and make us chant inoffensively. Of course, if we wish to attain prem, we should pay great attention to all the offenses, and chant with utmost humility – this is the instruction of the great souls as well as of the scriptures.

Let us discuss the ten offenses in brief.

The First Offense

Sri Padma Purân says – “When we blaspheme the devotees we supremely offend the Holy Name. The devotees who steadfastly chant the Holy Name are preaching the glory of Sri Nâm-Prabhu to the world; how can the Holy Name tolerate the blasphemy of such devotees?”

Ten offenses

Amongst all the offenses this one is the strongest, hence we call it Mahad-aparâdh or ‘great offense’. Mostly it is this offense that obstructs us, although we firmly chant the Holy Name and practice devotion. It is the chief offense to the Holy Name; therefore the preceptors have posted it on top of the list.

What does ‘nindâ’ or ‘blasphemy’ mean?

Srimad-Bhâgavatam says –

“nindanam dosha kirtanam”

Meaning - “ ‘Nindâ’ or ‘blasphemy’ means ‘to glorify¹ someone’s fault’.”

When our speech shows disrespect, intolerance, envy or violence towards a devotee – it is ‘nindâ’. Just censuring a devotee is ‘great offense’ – then we can easily guess what huge offense we will commit when we treat him with envy and violence.

Often we think that if a devotee does something foul, then why should it be wrong to criticize? For are we not speaking out the fact? To tell you the truth, even thinking like this amounts to an offense. The scriptures have stated that “nindâ means ‘to discuss a fault’ ” – the question whether it is true or false does not arise. The scriptures say – “suchakasyâpi tad-bhave!” – this means “do not discuss a devotee’s fault”.

Who is a sâdhu?

Here it is natural for us to raise this question. Who is a sâdhu devotee? The answer is – “‘Sâdhu’ refers to all those who have taken the shelter of ‘Bhâgavat-dharma’. A devotee has forsaken even the desire for liberation; he has accepted the path of devotional practice solely to gain the service of Sri Krishna’s lotus feet – so he is ‘sâdhu’.”

Srila Vishwanâth Chakravartipâd has written in Mâdhurya-Kâdambini – “We should not think that only those who are kind, peaceful, tolerant and are endowed with all good qualities are devotees or ‘sâdhus’ in the real sense, and that if we blaspheme them, we commit an offense, but there is no problem if we criticize those who do not have such sterling qualities.”

Actually, even if “sarvâchâra-vivarjitâh shathadhiyo vrâtyâ jagad-vanchakâh!” – the ones who are devoid of all etiquettes, are big frauds and are cheating the entire world – if they worship Sri Bhagavân – we should count them as ‘sâdhus’. This is because we should never blaspheme a devotee who adores Sri Bhagavân exclusively, even though he may be evil. We have to accept him as a ‘sâdhu’. Sri Krishna has Himself instructed Arjun –

“O Arjun, If one is extremely evil – that is – harms others, steals others’ property and wife – yet worships me exclusively (does not worship anyone other than me, does not practice any other path such as gyân or karma, resorting only to bhakti, does not wish to attain anyone other than me) – accept him as a ‘sâdhu’. After all, he has taken to the best path (meaning – he has decided, whether I go to hell or get a lower form of life – I will worship none other than Sri Krishna), so he is a ‘sâdhu’.” – (B.G.9.30)

If we blaspheme such a devotee we are bound to commit offence. Then we need not stress how much aparâdh we will commit if we criticize a good devotee. When we see a bad devotee, we may feel like criticizing him; so the Lord has called him a ‘sâdhu’ so that we remember not to blaspheme him. Whether we speak or hear evil about a devotee – both are offenses. Therefore if someone blasphemes a devotee, we should close our ears, remember Sri Bhagavân and leave that place. Sriman-Mahâprabhu has illuminated this subject more in detail.

¹ Here it means to speak aloud

The Lord said –“If I hear even once Sri Krishna-nâm from someone’s lips, he is worthy of worship and the best of all.” – (C.C.Madhya.15.106)

“Therefore, one who says Sri Krishna-nâm once – I consider him a Vaishnav and revere him.” – (C.C.Madhya.15.111)

There is none who has not uttered Sri Krishna-nâm even once, so we should forsake all criticisms. Then it will be easy for us to save ourselves from this ‘great offense’.

The Lord said – “No purpose is served by criticizing; sin is all that we gain. As a result, the one who does not criticize is the most blessed of all.”

“The one who does not criticize, and constantly chants Sri Krishna-nâm, he alone is invincible, his consciousness has awakened and he shall conquer Sri Krishna easily.” – (Sri Chaitanya Bhâgabat)

The Second Offense

“shivasya shri-vishnorya iha guna-nâmâdi sakalam, dhiyâ bhinnam pashyet sa khalu harinâmâhitakarah”

Meaning - "If we consider the qualities, name etc of Sri Vishnu and Sri Shiva as different from each other, it is not good for our Harinâm (= offense)."

This indicates that we should not think that Sri Vishnu is a power and Sri Shiva is another power. Same goes for their names and qualities also. If we do make this distinction, we are endorsing polytheism – this displeases the Holy Name. Sri Vishnu is ‘the One without a second’. He is the Supreme Controller. Brahmâ, Shiva etc, are all His manifestations – no one has any independent power. To prove this Sri Brahma-Samhitâ has stated –

“Milk transforms into curds; curds are non-different from milk. In the same manner He descends as Shambhu to destroy the world – I adore That Primeval Lord Sri Govinda.”

Actually Sri Krishna is the Supreme Controller. Brahmâ, Shiva and the other devatâs have come from Him; so they are neither different from Him nor are they equal to Him. This is because He is the cause of all causes – Swayam Bhagavân (God Himself). As a result it is an offense to consider Sriman-Mahâdev a different controller or equal to Sri Krishna. The devotees who adore Sri Vishnu exclusively, consider Sri Shiva as a ‘Supreme Vaishnav’ and revere him. Some devotees consider him as Sri Vishnu’s gunâvatâr. The concluding part of Srimad-Bhâgavatam says –

‘Just as Gangâ is the greatest of all rivers, Sri Krishna is the supreme amongst devatâs, Shambhu (Shiva) is the foremost Vaishnav, and similarly Srimad-Bhâgavatam is the supreme most Purân.”

– (S.B.12.13.16)

The Third Offense –

If we disregard Sri Gurudev or consider him ordinary, we offend the Holy Name. This happens when we do not know the facts about Sri Gurudev. Then we take him in a worldly sense. Sri Krishna has Himself said to Sri Uddhav –

“Know the Spiritual Master as non-different from me. Do not ever disregard him or consider him mundane and behave adversely towards him.” – (S.B.11.17.27)

If we think of Sri Gurudev as a human being all our efforts become fruitless.

Sri Nârad said –“The Spiritual Master is Sri Bhagavân manifested before us. He endows us with spiritual enlightenment. If we are as foolish as to consider him a mortal, all our spiritual efforts such as study of the scriptures become as useless as the hasti-snân (elephant-bath)¹.” – (S.B.7.15.26)

This also indicates that –

¹ An elephant has the habit of taking bath nicely in the river, and after coming out of the water it sprinkles dust on itself; hence its bath is of no use.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

"When we adore the Spiritual Master as much as we love Sri Bhagavân, then we get all the inner meanings of the scriptures from that great soul". – (Shwetâshwatar Upanishad)

Therefore we should always think about the good qualities of the Spiritual Master and sing his glory. We should consider his body as divine and not see any fault in him. We must realize that when we do not perform bhajan as per his instructions, and do not chant the mantras given by him, we disregard the Spiritual Master and it offends the Holy Name.

The Fourth offense - shruti-shâstra-nindanam –

This refers to blaspheming the Vedas and scriptures following the Vedas. 'Blaspheming' includes disregard, irreverence or any other adverse behavior. The Vedas are transcendental and self-manifested. "Vedayatiti vedati" – "Veda is one who makes himself known". The Itihâsas, Purânas etc. elaborate the instructions of the Vedas. Srimad-Bhâgavatam is in accordance with the Vedas. Criticizing and disrespecting these scriptures is an offense.

The Vedas have three parts (called 'kânda' or 'trunks'). They are karma-kânda, gyân-kânda and upâsanâ-kânda. Naturally a devotee will not criticize the shrutis that extol devotion; however if a devotee thinks that those parts of the Vedas that instruct about karma and gyân are nonsense and because they do not directly deal with devotion, we can disrespect them – then he is committing an offense. We should realize that the Vedas are most compassionate. Not everybody is qualified for bhakti. There are people who are promiscuous and deeply attached to material enjoyments. The Vedas are resolved to enlighten even such fallen ones. The merciful Vedas instruct them in such a way that when these people follow the Vedic injunctions, someday they too will enter the temple of Bhakti devi. This is the root intention of those portions of the Vedas that preach karma and gyân. Thus when we know the truth about the scriptures, we will not commit the offense of criticizing them.

The Fifth Offense – tatha-ârtha-vâdo –

We see that the scriptures highly extol Sri Harinâm. The glory of the Holy Name is incomparable. When we think that these are mere eulogies, and are not true, we commit offense.

To tell you the truth, the magnificence of the Holy Name is like a fathomless ocean. It has no limits. How much of its glory have the scripture and preceptors been able to express? They must have revealed only a drop of this ocean. Yet, if we think that it is merely 'glory' and not true – can we guess how much offense we are committing?

Why do the Vedas sing false glory?

Here we may question that the Vedas extol even devatâ-pujâ, sacrifices etc. and state that the joy in the heavenly planets never comes to an end, it is limitless and we should make it our supreme goal. Are they not exaggeration? We, the devotees, boldly proclaim that these statements are not true, yet we do not commit offense while saying so. Then why do we offend the Holy Name when we think that the scriptures are simply exaggerating its glory? The answer is that – the Vedas want to draw non-emotional lusty people who are highly attached to material comforts towards spiritual life. So they eulogize heavenly-joy. With the help of these statements the Vedas want to tempt these people and improve the quality of their lives. On the other hand, Sri Bhagavân is absolute, the One and only the Supreme Object. His Holy Name, bhakti and prem are so inconceivably great that even the Vedas fail to grasp them. They are beyond the Vedas. Hence there is no question of the Vedas singing false glory of the Holy Name.

"Sri Krishna is Truth and Sri Krishna-bhakti is love personified. Sri Krishna, His bhakti and the chanting of His Holy name are all blissful." – (C.C.Âdi.1.9.6)

The Sixth Offense - harinâmni kalpanam –

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has explained this as –

"The glory of the Holy Name is incomparable. To prove that it is not so great, one may put forth some imaginary meaning of the Holy Name. It is an offense."

The Holy Name is exceedingly great and has colossal impact. Intelligent people will not find it difficult to believe. In this world we can perceive the power of certain, gems, mantras etc. How these objects have such power – it is beyond our comprehension. But we cannot ignore their influence either. When the power of these material objects is beyond our intellect, how can we conceive the greatness of the Holy Name that is transcendental, divine, exceedingly inconceivable and extraordinarily powerful? The scriptures have forbidden us to analyze transcendental objects achintyâh khalu ye bhâvâ na tânstarkena yojayet, prakritibhyah param yachcha tadachintasya lakshanam.

Meaning - "We are forbidden to speculate over inconceivable bhâvs or objects. 'Inconceivable' refers to whatever is beyond the material nature."

After all, we belong to this world. We come in contact only with objects that are transformation of Nature. Therefore while analyzing or debating, we use our material experience. As our intellect becomes transcendental, we will be able to absorb the knowledge of divine objects. Hence whatever the scriptures and the preceptors who have transcendental intellect have told us about the inconceivable, we should accept with respect and faith. We are forbidden to use material intellect in this regard. Those with material unclear intelligence try to use logic and analysis to diminish the inconceivable glory and power of the Holy Name; they verily commit a crime against Sri Nâm-Prabhu.

The Seventh Offense - nâmno balâd yasya hi apapa-buddhirna vidyate yamairhi shuddhih -

Meaning - "If one thinks he can commit an offense on strength of the Holy Name – even if he performs innumerable penances and undergoes untold suffering in hell – he will not get rid of his offense."

Explanation – We know that our sins are destroyed when we chant the Holy Name; now if we use this knowledge to think – "Oh, I can continue to commit sins, because after all, I am chanting and the Holy Name will destroy my sins" – then we are offending Sri Nâm-Prabhu.

It is true that to destroy mountainous sins is but a child's play for Sri Harinâm; yet we are supposed to take His shelter to achieve the topmost goal – eternal love or to make Sri Krishna happy by obtaining His sevâ. Now if we resort to the Holy Name to commit hateful sins, it means we are displaying audacity. Moreover this indicates that we are belittling the Holy Name, and consequently we are collecting offenses that are millions of times more dangerous than sins. As a result, even if we perform penances and suffer terrible punishments in the hell, our chitta is not cleansed.

Here we should note the point that, when we take the shelter of the Holy Name with a pure intention, forget committing sins, we will not be interested even in pious activities. Therefore the one who has sought refuge of the lotus feet of Sri Harinâm will never dream of committing a sin. When we have some aparâdh, then our chanting is called 'nâmâbhâs' (shadow of the Holy Name) and not 'pure nâm'. Even nâmâbhâs annihilates past sins and wipes out the tendency to sin. Even then, some sinful reactions do remain. In this state, if a sâdhak thinks that he can continue to sin on the strength of the Holy Name he commits a horrible nâm aparâdh.

The Eighth Offense -

"dharma-vrata-tyâga-hutâdi sarva-shubha-kriyâ-sâmyam-api-pramâdah"

Meaning - "It is an offense to equate the result of the Holy Name with the outcomes of righteous conduct, penance, sacrifices, and other religious activities."

This belittles the glory of the Holy Name, hence an offense. All the pious activities listed in the scriptures are material in nature, whereas the divine name is transcendental and indestructible. The pious activities are merely the means to attain heavenly comforts. They cannot be the goal. On the other hand, the Holy Name reaches us to the goal (eternal love) and is also the goal itself. Thus how can we consider any good act equal to Harinâm? In fact, the good acts merely grant us some miniscule fruits. If we pray to the Holy Name for the same results – we commit an offense, since this means we are equating the Holy Name with those pious activities.

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has said –

"Sri Harinâm is independent and all-powerful. If we engage Him to bestow those small products that karmas can give us, we are insulting Him. It is an offense."

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

– (purport to Srimad-Bhâgavatam 6.2.10-22)

The Ninth Offense – ashraddadhâne vimukhe'pi shrinvati yashchopadeshah shiva-nâmaparâdhâ

Meaning - "It is an offense to instruct one to chant Harinâm if he is irreverent and is averse to hearing the Holy Name."

Faith and reverence are the prime requisites to enter the Bhakti-Mandir. Therefore only one who has shraddhâ is qualified to chant the Holy Name. If we meet someone who has no respect for the Lord and is not interested to know the glory of the Holy Name we should not instruct such a person to chant. We should simply say – "Harinâm is above everything, it is the supreme most and if we chant the Holy Name all will benefit". It is better to speak like this than directly saying – "You should chant the Mahâmantra." We should give Harinâm only after we have tested that person's faith. Otherwise we shall commit offense. The above verse states that if we instruct a faithless disrespectful person to chant, we are the offenders – and not the other person (who does not respect the Holy Name).

The Tenth Offense –

"shrute'pi-nâm-mâhâtmye yah pritirahito narah, aham mamâdi paramo nâmnî so'pâparâdhakrit."

Meaning - "In spite of hearing the glory of Sri Harinâm, if we continue to think of the body as 'I' and body-related objects (persons) as 'mine' – and do not love the Holy Name – we commit an offense."

This statement refers to the one who is being instructed to chant. When a devotee preaches the Holy Name to someone and if that person does not start chanting, he is committing an offense. When is it that we do not want to chant? When we take pride in our body that is highly destructible and consider ourselves the lord and master of material possessions. It is then that we disregard the Holy Name and do not start chanting. In spite of hearing the vast greatness of the Holy Name when we do not chant it means that we are insulting Sri Nâm-Prabhu. A devotee too should not instruct such a person to chant.

The result of offense less chanting

The saints and scriptures ordain that we should chant the Holy Name without committing these ten offences. The only way we can chant without offending is to obey Sriman-*Mahâ*prabhu's command – to be more humble than a blade of grass. However, if we can really put this to practice, Sri Nâm-Prabhu will certainly grace us with His bounties and we shall feel blessed. And this will happen extremely quickly.

How can we obliterate Nâm-aparâdh?

Padma Purân has stated –

"We can annihilate Nâm-aparâdh by resorting to chanting alone. We should chant without resting for a single moment – then we can destroy Nâm-aparâdh."

However if we offend a great soul, then we have to beg him to forgive us; when he is pleased, our aparâdh is destroyed. What happens if we are unable to please him? Then we have to chant all day and night, and then it will be possible to wipe out that offense. We can burn the other offenses by repenting and chanting incessantly.

How to find out if we have aparâdh or not?

We may ask – "I have not committed a single offense, and I am chanting with respect; then how come Sri Nâm-Prabhu is not showering His blessings on me?" The answer to this query is the same – "aparâdh". There is nothing that can stop the grace of the Holy Name other than offense. Although knowingly we do not commit an offense – it is true, yet we cannot proclaim to be completely free of aparâdh. We cannot guarantee that we do not have any offense collected over the past lives; also we do commit offenses unwittingly, do we not? However there is one solid way we can discern whether or not we have 'offenses'. After having chanted a lot many times, we should peep into our hearts. Am I feeling joyous? Have I got tears and goosebumps? If the answer is 'no', then we should accept that offenses have made our hearts rock-hard. In spite of chanting many times, when prem does not appear in our hearts, it is a sure sign of nâm-aparâdh. Srimad-Bhâgavatam proves this point –

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

" tadshmasâram hridayam vatedam yad-grihyam-ânair-harinâma-dheyaih, na vikriyetâtha yadâ vikâro netre jalam gâtraruhesu harshah."

Srila Vishwanâth Chakravartipâd has explained this verse as follows –

"When we chant repeatedly, yet we do not express tears, goose bumps and other symptoms of bhâv, it means that our heart has not melted with devotion. It implies that such a heart is hard like iron. This is a sign of nâm-aparâdh. Also, we cannot say that if we display tears and goose bumps, our heart has melted; for some people who have unstable emotions too express such tears and other symptoms without possessing any bhâv. They can do this with practice as well. The reverse is also true. Some very serious devotees do not express any sign of ecstasy although their chitta is full of bhakti. Hence this verse (from Srimad-Bhâgavatam) actually means –

'Even though one displays tears and goose bumps externally, if he does not have a heart that has melted with devotion, it means his heart is rock-hard. Although tears and goose bumps are the common symptoms of a change of heart, we should know that the real indications are the 'nine symptoms' such as forbearance, spending every moment in relation with Sri Bhagavân etc'.¹

Two Types of Chanting

Anyway, whether we are offensive or non-offensive, it is our bounden duty to serve Bhakti devi by chanting with love and respect. If we are inoffensive, we shall attain prem and if we are offensive, we shall obliterate our offenses and after that, gain prem. Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has instructed us to chant with love. He has said –

"We can chant the Holy Name in two manners –

1. just chant
2. chant lovingly

If we 'just chant' – that is, chant simply without any emotion, and if we are inoffensive we shall attain the divine abode. However if we chant with love we can get close to Sri Bhagavân and gain His sevâ.

The Gopis had met Sri Krishna in Kurukshetra. Then He had extolled their love by saying – 'Dear Braja-beauties, living beings become immortal because of their devotion unto me. Your love forces me to come near you' – (S.B.10.81.31)"- (Krama-Sandarbha purport to S.B.6.2.20)

These divine words prove that love is the best way to drag Sri Krishna to us. Similarly if we chant lovingly, the Holy Name will surely manifest Sri Krishna before us.

How to chant with love

If we exclusively love the Holy Name then we should call out the Mahâmantra with intense longing. With how much passion should we call out our beloved Harinâm? Srila Sanâtan Goswâmpâd has given a wonderful example (B.B.2.3.167) –

"With how much longing the thirsty châtaks call out when it does not sight any cloud during the monsoon, with how much passion the chakravâki laments out of separation from her lover at night – a devotee, suffering in the pangs of viraha, and writhing with an agitated soul, should loudly and thirstily call out his Beloved".

If we understand the meaning of the Mahâmantra, relish it and then chant the Holy Name, we shall very soon gain the blessings of Sri Nâm-prabhu and start loving Him.

What does the Mahâmantra mean?

Nâmâchârya Thâkur Sri Haridâs has given a most wonderful explanation of the Mahâmantra. The devotees of Lord Goursundar will surely relish it.

Meaning - "One day Haridâs Thâkur was sitting in a secluded place, absorbed in chanting the Mahâmantra. He was chanting joyously with love. He was laughing, crying, singing and roaring with a deafening noise. Just then Adwaita Âchârya entered and paid obeisance. An embarrassed Thâkur Haridâs immediately controlled himself. He returned the obeisance and offered the Âchârya a seat. Adwaita Prabhu sat down and requested Haridâs Thâkur to solve his doubt. He said – 'Sri Krishna Chaitanya is the Lord God in Kaliyug, so naturally whosoever worships Him is blessed. You are the foremost of all the associates of the Lord. Then why do you forsake the Holy Name of Sri Krishna Chaitanya and sing some other name? And what is your realization that makes you float in blissful prem? When the Holy Name of Sri Krishna Chaitanya Mahâprabhu is the topmost, then why did you instruct all living beings to chant Mahâmantra?'"

Thâkur Srila Haridâs humbly folded his palms and replied – 'You are the 'Knower of Truth'; then why do You ask me? You are only pretending not to know anything, simply to teach the fallen souls. Anyway, I shall do as You like. It is true that Sri Krishna Chaitanya is the secret avatâr in Kaliyug and His divine pastimes are as deep as innumerable oceans. He takes on the role of the Spiritual Master and makes us worship Him. That is why He has given everybody Harinâm-Mahâmantra.

Sri Krishna Chaitanya is the Lord God in Kaliyug and He has given us Harinâm-Mahâmantra that is the essence of this age. The Mahâmantra is in no way different from Sri Krishna Chaitanya, since all the scriptures declare that nâm is non-different from nâmi."

Then Thâkur Srila Haridâs illuminated every word of the Mahâmantra for our relish –

"Hare – She Who is the daughter of Vrishabhânu and is the crest-jewel of all the beloveds of Sri Krishna, has now descended as Sri Chaitanya, hence He is 'Hare'.

Krishna – Srimad-Bhâgavatam glorifies Him as the 'Son of Nanda' – that 'Krishna' has now appeared as this Chaitanya Gosâi.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Hare – He stole everything¹ from Braja and descended in Nadia; hence this name 'Hare' for Sri Krishna Chaitanya is most apt.

Krishna – He attracted the hearts of all living beings and sowed the seed of bhakti, hence the name 'Krishna' indeed belongs to Him.

Krishna – He is 'Krishna' within and without, and His entire being is absorbed in the sound vibration of 'Krishna' – therefore we conclude He is 'Krishna'.

Krishna – He assumed the garb of a sannyāsī and attracted the atheists – thus He is definitely 'Krishna'.

Hare – Gouranga steals the hearts and souls of the devotees with His extraordinary sweetness – this is the significance of His name 'Hare'.

Hare - He steals the hearts of His devotees so that He can steal their hearts in return – for this reason Sri Chaitanya is named 'Hare'.

Hare – Lord Krishna stole His Own sweetheart's bhāva and effulgence, and descended on earth – so Sri Krishna Chaitanya, Who is the essence of Kaliyug is 'Hare'.

Rām – The Divine Couple unite with each other and thus wander in Nabadweep in supreme pleasure, therefore Sri Chaitanya is 'Rām²' in this Kaliyug.

Hare – Sri Chaitanya steals all the inauspicious qualities from the living beings, as a result, His name 'Hare' is most propitious.

Rām – He love-sports in the hearts of His devotees, hence He has the name 'Rām'.

Rām – He is passionately aroused to relish Himself, therefore Sri Chaitanya has the name 'Rām'.

Rām – Lord Chaitanya manifested His form of Sri Rām Who is the Son of queen Kaushalya and had appeared in the Tretā yug – consequently He is 'Rām'.

Hare – He stole Haridās Thākura's heart with His sweetness; hence He got the name 'Hare'.

Hare – He stole His own heart with His own sweet bhāva and became like a tortoise. As a result He became famous in the world as 'Hare'.

I have revealed the most confidential meaning of Harinām, something that none of the scriptures can even dream about."

Srila Raghunâth dâs Goswâmi's relish of the Mahâmantra

Srila Raghunâth dâs Goswâmi has revealed a supremely enjoyable meaning of the Mahâmantra and Srila Shibânanda Sen's son Sri Chaitanya dâs has translated it in the form of a poem in simple Bengali. Since Srila Dâs Goswâmi is in Manjari-bhâv, Swaminijiu has revealed to him Her Own rendering of the Mahâmantra !!! We present the English translation here. Srimati Râdhârâni is saying -

O Krishna - You are the abode of joy and You are most attractive, I can see none but You.
O Hare - You shatter my self-control, fear of the elders and family-honor, O Krishna - You drag me with the notes of Your flute and make me forget my

Raganuga-Bhakti-Vigyaan

What is Râgânugâ bhakti?

We have learnt about sâdhan-bhakti in the chapter 'A Scientific Study of Bhakti'. Sâdhan-bhakti is of two types -

- Vaidhi
- Râgânugâ

Vaidhi bhakti is when we perform bhakti because of scriptural injunctions, while Râgânugâ bhakti has only one qualification – greed. When we are greedy for Sri Krishna-prem and this is the sole reason why we practice bhakti then we call it Râgânugâ bhakti.

When we practice bhakti following in the footsteps of Râgâtmikâ devotees we can say we are performing Râgânugâ bhakti. Hence if we want to know about Râgânugâ bhakti, first of all we have to learn what Râgâtmikâ bhakti is. Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd has defined Râgâtmikâ bhakti as follows -

" ishte swârasiki râgah param-âvishtatâ bhavet, tanmayee yâ bhaved-bhaktih sâtra râgâtmikoditâ."

Meaning - "When we have natural loving and extremely strong thirst for Sri Krishna and it makes us supremely absorbed in Him – it is called 'râg'; that râg-bhakti is 'Râgâtmikâ bhakti.'" – (B.R.S.)

"Very loving and strong thirst for Sri Krishna is the primary (main) characteristic of râg-bhakti while absorption in Him is its secondary characteristic." – (C.C.Madhya.22.86)

'Very strong thirst' indicates that we feel an intense desire to please Sri Krishna with our sevâ – this is the main characteristic. This immense greed makes us supremely absorbed in Sri Krishna - this is the secondary characteristic of râg-bhakti.

When we are completely absorbed in something, we lose touch with the external world, since we only think about how to make the ever-sportive Sri Krishna happy? How to serve Him according to our bhâv? In this state we are only concerned with His sevâ – nothing else enters the heart of a devotee. 'Swârasiki' means the devotee has an intense greed to serve Sri Krishna and make Him happy by serving Him according to the ras that he possesses. For example - if the devotee is in parental ras he treats Sri Krishna like a child and has an immense longing to make Him taste that ras. The devotee's desire to make Sri Krishna happy is so enormous that he is absolutely immersed in Him. This is Râgâtmikâ bhakti and it is present completely in the eternal associates of the Lord in Braja dhâm – in fact it is present only in Braja dhâm and never outside Braja.

"The bhakti that is present openly in the Brijwâsis¹ is 'Râgâtmikâ bhakti'; when someone practices devotion following in the footsteps of Râgâtmikâ bhakti, then we call it Râgânugâ bhakti." – (B.R.S.)

"Râgâtmikâ bhakti is present chiefly in the Brijwâsis, and Râgânugâ bhakti is that which follows in the footsteps of Râgâtmikâ bhakti." – (C.C.Madhya.22.85)

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has stated the characteristics of râg-bhakti as follows –

"There are devotees who feel slight interest in râg-bhakti; however they have still not actually felt râg-bhakti. Râg-bhakti is like a radiant moon; when a little trace of the moonlight of the ¹ 'Brijwâsis' in the Bhakti-shâstras always refers to the eternal residents of Braj who lived when Sri Krishna manifested His pastimes on earth.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

moon-like râg-bhakti falls in these devotees, their heart dazzles like crystal. Then they hear from the scriptures about the wonderful sevâ that Râgâtmikâ devotees perform, and then they are interested to achieve the same. Here we should note the point that the devotee's heart should be clean – it should not be polluted with lust, anger, jealousy and the like. If such a devotee hears from the sâdhus and the scriptures about the perfect sevâ rendered by the Râgâtmikâ devotees he becomes interested. Now with this interest, if he follows the footsteps of the Râgâtmikâ devotees, we can say he is performing Râgânugâ bhakti.

In this context 'hear from the sâdhus and scriptures' means the devotee should hear about the loving sevâ performed by the Brijwâsis and how Sri Krishna relishes the ras of their sevâ. When the devotee hears and glorifies these pastimes his enthusiasm knows no bounds; just as when a moon ray disperses through a prism it looks all the more beautiful, similarly the hearing and glorifying enters the clear heart of a devotee and he becomes more joyous. Thus the devotee is enthused with interest in prem-sevâ. This induces him in the path of Râgânugâ bhakti. Here 'interest' means the devotee realizes that the bhakti-shâstras that reveal the bhâv of the eternal Brijwâsi associates of Sri Krishna as the best for hearing and he wants to follow those instructions only. This happens when the devotee has past sanskâr in this field. From the very beginning the devotee is greedy for Sri Krishna-sevâ (please note: only that kind of sevâ which the Brijwâsis do) and does not practice bhakti simply because the scriptures order us to do so.

"Râgâtmikâ bhakti is full of pure loving service. Some rare fortunate person is tempted by hearing about it and then he follows in the footsteps of the eternal Brijwâsi associates. A Râgânugâ devotee does not practice bhakti just because of scriptural injunctions." – (C.C.Madhya. 22.87-88)

It is true that when we feel tempted, we do not care for scriptural injunctions; however if we want to gain His sevâ it becomes necessary to follow the processes prescribed by the bhakti-shâstras.

Srila Vishwanâth Chakravartipâd has ordained –

"When we hear about the sweet bhâv of the Brijwâsis we feel tempted; we do not care whether the scriptures tell us to practice bhakti or do not tell us. If we want to practice bhakti simply because the scriptures order us to do so we cannot say we were greedy for sevâ." – (Râg-vartma Chandrikâ)

However if we want to achieve the topmost goal that is Braja-prem, then we must necessarily practice bhajan according to the rules prescribed in the Râgânugâ scriptures. This is because –

"If someone performs exclusive Hari-bhakti by rejecting the shrutis, smritis, purâns and the Pancharâtra – we find that he only creates trouble." (Brahma-Yâmal-Tantra)

Earlier we have mentioned something about 'interest'. Now the fact is that majority of the devotees do not have this interest in the preliminary stage. Yet, when they perform bhajan according to the rules of bhakti and they continue to hear about the Râg-bhakti of the Brijwâsis, they develop interest. Then they become Râgânugâ devotees. When we hear from the devotees who are always immersed in pure love then we quickly gain interest. We also strive to follow these devotees in the same mood as they possess. This means that if we feel greedy after hearing about the loving sevâ of the eternal associates who are in madhur bhâv, we too start practicing in madhur bhâv. Râgânugâ bhajan is the spiritual practice by which we can attain that same stage of love as those devotees whom we are following (the eternal Brijwâsis in the madhur bhâv). We have to follow scriptural rules in this process, since the Râgânugâ scriptures aim to tell the Râgânugâ devotees about the behavior of the eternal associates, and thus they inuse vigorous interest in us.

"siddhasya lakshanam yat syât sâdhanam sâdhakasya tat."

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Meaning - "We have to practice to get all those qualities that they already possess."

When we really gain interest then the scriptures will follow us. It means that in the early stage

If we see some devotee who has developed interest in Râgânugâ bhakti, yet his conduct is contrary to the bhakti-shâstras, then we should understand that he has not developed true interest or he is trying to gain something material and is only pretending to be interested.

of interest we should perform bhajan according to the rules and regulations prescribed in the scriptures, and after we gain complete interest, the rules follow us – this is the difference between early stage and mature stage.

Srimad-Bhâgavatam (2.1.7) says –

*"e-aivâvihiteti keshâncit sangyâ, ruchimâtra pravrittayâ vidhi-prayuktenâpravrittatvât.
na cha vaktavyam vidhyanadheenasya na sambhavati bhaktiriti."*

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has explained this verse as follows –

"Râgânugâ bhakti starts from the time we develop the slightest hint of interest. No one steps into Râgânugâ because the scriptures order so. Therefore some people call it 'avihitâ' (not according to the rules). However the ones who step in the path of bhakti not caring for the scriptural injunctions – we cannot say that they are not practicing bhakti, because we see in Srimad-Bhâgavatam the following statement –

'O king, very often sages, who are beyond the rules prescribed in the scriptures, are immersed in relishing Sri Hari-kathâ.'

For this reason the vidhi-marga is weak since the devotees in this case practice bhakti because the scriptures order them to do so, while the devotees practicing Râgânugâ bhakti do so not caring for the scriptural order – hence it is much stronger – we should know this fact." – (B.S.310)

As soon as a devotee starts with Râgânugâ bhakti it makes him disinterested in anything other than bhakti. This is synonymous with greed. Srimad-Bhâgavatam states that when we bend towards Sri Hari-kathâ then it increases our interest gradually to such an extent that all topics other than Sri Krishna lose importance for us.

Now let us learn the various types of Râg-bhakti.

The Gradual Enhancement in Râg-bhakti

Although love for God is always great, it does depend on the devotee's identity and Sri Bhagavân's swarup. When the divine form expresses majesty and sweetness most completely to a devotee, then it means that the devotee's love for Him is also most complete¹. Vrajendranandan Sri Krishna is Swayam Bhagavân. He is the only One Who manifests majesty and sweetness most completely and hence a devotee's love too is most complete when it is for Vrajendranandan Sri Krishna. Again love depends on how much sweetness a devotee can relish and the relation he has with Sri Krishna. In Braja there are four types of bhâv –

- Dâsya (servitude),
- Sakhya (friendly)
- Vâtsalya (parental)

¹ Although love is complete, some types of love are more complete than the others.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

- Madhur (conjugal)

Amongst these bhâv, sakhya bhâv brings more pleasure than dâsya bhâv, vâtsalya bhâv is more enjoyable than sakhya bhâv and the relish is maximum in madhur bhâv.

We can classify Râgâtmikâ bhakti into two –

1. sambandha-rupâ
2. kâm-rupâ

A Brijwâsi¹ feels related with Sri Krishna and thinks – “I am Govinda’s servant” or “I am Govinda’s friend” or “I am Govinda’s parent”. This is 'sambandha-rupâ'. In this the devotee serves Sri Krishna according to his relation. In kâm-rupâ too the devotee has a relation with Sri Krishna; however in this bhakti eroticism is so dominant that it deserves special mention. This is present in the Braja-beauties who are the source of madhur ras. Although they have a relation with Sri Krishna – that is – they consider Him to be their Beloved – however because their relation is extra-marital, their love is not bound by any particular name. Their love is so strong that it crosses all barriers and establishes a loving relation with Sri Krishna. Thus their love is incomparable in all creation. Although the scriptures refer to it as 'kâm' (lust) it is supremely strong pure love or prem.

“The most dominant love of the fair sex of Braja is referred to as 'kâm'. The dear and wise associates of Sri Bhagavân such as Uddhav crave for this sort of 'kâm.'” – (B.R.S.)

The prem of the Gopikâs is inexpressibly sweet and is called as 'kâm'. It is entirely devoid of any desire for sense-gratification and although its external symptoms resemble 'kâm' its aim is nothing but to make Sri Krishna happy. It is indeed an inconceivable mystery!

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has written in Preeti Sandarbha –

“Braja-Gopikâs are in the mood of sweethearts. Therefore their activities resemble those of kâm, for this reason we call their mood as 'kâm'. It is entirely different from the material lust (smara) caused by the Love-god. There are many differences between the two. Ordinarily 'lust' indicates desire, while 'prem' means we are aware of what is favorable for the person whom we love and we do everything to that effect. Sri Krishna is the object of love and the Gopis do whatever is good for Him. Such feeling is prem. This is why although the external symptoms of both kâm and prem are almost similar they are extremely unlike one another. Kâm indicates selfishness whereas prem means we endeavor to do what is favorable for the one we love. Thus the pure dominant prem in the Braja-Gopis is referred to as 'kâm' only because of external activities and we call their bhakti as 'kâm-rupâ.'”

We have already mentioned how madhur bhâv is the most enjoyable of all the bhâvs. Let us see why so.

In dâsya bhâv the devotee performs sevâ such as fanning, offering of betel-leaves, massaging of feet etc. In sakhya bhâv too we notice the same activities, however when a sakhâ defeats Gopâl in a game, He has to undergo punishment. Then He has to carry the sakhâ on His shoulder. Sometimes the friends tease Him by tugging at His clothes and at other times they offer Him food that they have bitten into. All these activities are not possible for a devotee in the mood of servitude. Thus we see that sakhya bhâv is higher than dâsya bhâv. Vâtsalya bhâv contains the activities of dâsya bhâv, however the parents scold and beat Sri Krishna, instruct Him about what is right and wrong, displays extreme care regarding His food and health. Thus vâtsalya bhâv is higher than sakhya and dâsya bhâv. Again we find that the activities of dâsya, sakhya and vâtsalya are all present in madhur bhâv. Over and above it contains activities such as winking or gesturing with eyes, gazing with longing in the heart, embracing, kissing etc. Such sweet activities are not present in the other bhāv. The Braja-beauties manifest these activities to the fullest degree. Therefore they are established on the highest pedestal in the empire of *prem*¹.

¹ 'Brijwâsi' always refers to the eternal associates of Sri Krishna in Braja dhâm.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

You may ask – the relish of a certain bhāv depends on the taste of the particular devotee – how can we judge the individual taste and declare madhur bhāv as the highest? After all, the judgment depends on the devotee, does it not?

We beg to answer – you are right; the devotee considers his bhāv to be the topmost. It is alright for one in parental mood (vātsalya bhāv) to feel the parental mood to be the best. However if we analyze impartially then we can decide the degree of the taste. The one who has no ras cannot decide on topics regarding ras. Hence one who is a rasik (situated in his own ras), yet is impartial towards other ras, is the right person to make the judgment so as to which ras is the most relishing. Such a person is Uddhav Mahāshay. He was a devotee of dāsya ras mingled with sakhya ras. Sri Krishna sent him to Vrindāban to console the Gopīs. When he arrived here he saw the remarkable exultation of viraha surging in the ocean of prem experienced by the Gopīs. He realized the extreme greatness of Gopī-prem (madhur bhāv) and begged to become a blade of grass or at least a moss in Brajadhām so that a speck of dust from the lotus feet of the Gopīs would bathe him. We see this in Srimad-Bhāgavatam. This proves the superiority of madhur bhāv.

Our next question would be – if Gopī-prem is indeed superior, then why does everybody not aspire for madhur bhāv?

The answer is – Although madhur bhāv is the topmost, a devotee may be interested in the other bhāvs such as dāsya, depending on his past sanskār or may be in this life itself he has gained the kṛpā of some great soul who is in that bhāv. Let us understand this better.

Agreed that sweet dishes are more popular, they are considered the best; yet one may like sour, salty, pungent or bitter taste and not like the other tastes so much. It differs from individual to individual. Similarly although madhur bhāv is the topmost a devotee may not be interested in madhur bhāv and in stead be interested in dāsya, sakhya etc.

Of course all this is regarding the sādhak only. The Rāgātmikā devotees are situated naturally in their respective states. A Rāgātmikā devotee is one who loves Sri Krishna infinite times more than he loves himself. The Rāgātmikā devotees are bliss personified – just like Sri Krishna. They do not perform any sādhanā. As soon as they get Sri Krishna's darshan their past ratī is exulted. Amongst all the Rāgātmikā devotees the Braja-beauties are the highest and they are full of Mahābhāv. Sri Rādhā is the greatest amongst the Braja-beauties since the Mahābhāv called mādan is present only in Her. The mādan-Mahābhāv (or mādan-ākhyā Mahābhāv) is the zenith of prem.

We can classify madhur bhāv (conjugal mood) into two types –

- Swakīyā (bound by marriage)
- Parakīyā (extra-marital relation)

Swakīyā beloveds comprise of the 16108 queens of Dwārakā. They are lawfully wedded to Sri Krishna according to the Vedic rites. They are always alert to obey His command and steadfast in the scriptural injunctions regarding chastity.

On the other hand, the Braja devīs have rejected their dear ones and Ārya-path (the rules of the civilized society) – simply out of their extraordinary love for Sri Krishna. They serve Him in an extra-marital relation. The Braja devīs are not bound to Him through any Vedic rites such as keeping the priest and fire-God as witnesses. They meet Him only because they love Him. Hence the relation they share with Sri Krishna is due to inconceivable love. They have had to forsake their relatives and the path of good conduct to establish this relation – they had to drown all the rules of dharma and adharmā. This is the pinnacle of anurāg. As a result their prem has reached the topmost height that is Mahābhāv.

Only the Braja devīs are in true parakiyā-bhāv. Of course they are the personifications of Sri Krishna's swarup-shakti (internal potency) and hence they are His eternal consorts.

"Parakiyā bhāv is the height of ras and it exists nowhere other than in Braja dhām."

– (C.C. Ādi.4.47)

Srila Rupa Goswāmipād says – "When Sri Krishna relishes the exulted erotic ras that is heightened due to parakiyā bhāv – He proves that He is indeed The Rasik-Shekhar." – (U.N.)

The wonderful distinction between Sri Krishna and other divine forms is His ras-exultation. Sri Krishna's potency Yogmayā who is an expert in making the impossible possible shrouds the intellect of the Braja devīs and makes them forget that they are His eternal beloveds. She does this so that Sri Krishna and the Braja devīs unite in ecstatic ras only due to extreme anurāg and not because of any social bonding. In this she enables both Sri Krishna and the Braja-beauties to relish the ras of prem.

(Sri Krishna is saying) – "Yogmayā will make the Gopīs feel I am their lover (not married to them). I will not know this and neither will the Gopīs and we will continue eternally to steal one another's hearts. We will forsake the path of righteous conduct and unite with each other. Some times we will meet and at other times we will not – it will depend on luck. I will relish all this essence of ras. Through this relish I will shower mercy on my devotees by describing the pure love of Braja dhām. When the devotees hear this account (of the pure love of the Gopīs) they will give up Vedic rules and worship me in rāg-mārga." - (C.C.Ādi.4.29-33)

We already know the Rāgātmikā devotees are in different types of bhāv, however Srīman-Mahāprabhu wants us to be anugata of a certain type of Rāgātmikā bhāv – and which one is that?

Kām-rupā bhakti

We have already learnt that Rāgātmikā bhakti is of two types –

- Sambandha-rupā
- Kām-rupā

We can further classify kām-rupā bhakti into -

- Sambhog-echchāmayi
- Tad-bhāvech-chātmikā

"When the yutheshwarīs (group-leaders) such as Srīmatī Rādhārāṇī wish to please Sri Krishna with loving sports, their bhakti is called sambhog-echchāmayi (such Gopīs are called '*nāyikās*¹'), while 'tad-bhāvech-chātmikā' refers to those sakhīs whose only desire is to unite Sri Krishna with the nāyikās such as Srīmatī Rādhārāṇī or Chandrāvalī." – (B.R.S.)

These sakhīs are concerned only about their yutheshwarī's pleasure even when they are in Sri Krishna's company. They consider the pleasure of their group-leader as greater than their own happiness. Their pleasure lies in relishing the sweet joy arising out of their union. Therefore they never desire a physical relationship with Sri Krishna. When the yutheshwarīs unite with Sri Krishna these sakhīs derive so much joy that is many times greater than they would have gained from the physical association with Sri Krishna. This bhāv of the sakhīs is so wonderful that it astonishes even the nāyaka Sri Krishna and the nāyikā, so much so, that Sri Krishna and the nāyikā too desire this special bhāv. Since this sakhi-bhāv is higher than the bhāv of the nāyikā, it is called the 'chief kāmānugā bhakti'.

² The hero of a love-sport.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

"The nature of a sakhi is indeed remarkable; she does not wish to make love to Sri Krishna. She arranges the love-sports between Srimati Râdhârâni and Sri Krishna and gains innumerable times more pleasure out of it than from her own association with Him. Srimati Râdhârâni is like a wish-fulfilling creeper of Sri Krishna-prem, while the sakhis are its leaves, flowers and buds. When the nectarine love of Sri Krishna nourishes the creeper (Srimati Râdhârâni) then the leaves and flowers feel more joyous than they would have felt had they been watered directly¹." – (C.C.Madhya.8.207-210)

"When Sri Krishna touches Srimati Râdhârâni, then Her sakhis, although they may be far from Her, express shivering, perspiration, goose bumps etc. that are the signs of ecstatic pure love; and when Sri Krishna very joyously drinks the nectar of Srimati Râdhârâni's lips then the sakhis express intoxication - this is a most astonishing event!" – (Sri Govinda-Leelâmrîtam)

These sakhis are as beautiful and talented as any yutheshwari. They are absolutely in charge of the love-sports, fun and frolic. They are Braja-beauties who are the caskets of erotic ras. Sri Krishna and His beloveds love them more than their lives. They extol Sri Krishna to His sweetheart and sing Her glory to Him. In this manner they arouse their passion for each other and arrange for Their abhîsâr (secret meeting). They hand over the sweetheart to Sri Krishna, joke with them, console them, arrange their dresses, are experts at revealing the feelings of Sri Krishna and His sweetheart to the other, hide the nâyikâ's faults, instruct her so as to how she can cheat her husband and the elders, unite the nâyak and the nâyikâ at the right moment, offer the right sevâ at the right time, scold the nâyak and the nâyikâ, dispatch messages, restore the nâyikâ's life when she is in viraha, foil the plans of the opposite party – these are some of the sevâs of these sakhis.

These sakhis are of 5 types –

1. sakhi
2. nityasakhi
3. prânsakhi
4. priyasakhi
5. param-preshtha-sakhi

All these sakhis can be classified according to their nature as –

- Vishama-snehâ
- Sama-snehâ
- Adhik-snehâ

The sakhis who are vishama-snehâ love Sri Krishna little more than they love Srimati Râdhârâni – e.g. Dhanishthâ and Vindhyâ. The sakhis who sometimes exhibit little more love for Sri Krishna and at other times little more love towards Srimati Râdhârâni are sama-snehâ. E.g. priya-sakhis such as Kurangâkshi and param-preshtha sakhis such as Lalitâ and the Eight principle sakhis (popularly known as the Ashta-sakhis. Prân-sakhis and nitya-sakhis such as Kasturi and Manimanjari love Srimati Râdhârâni more and are called Râdhâ-snehâdhikâ.

Lalitâ, Vishâkhâ, Chitrâ, Indurekhâ, Champaklatâ, Rangadevi, Tungavidyâ and Sudevi are param-preshtha sakhis. Although they love Sri Krishna and Srimati Râdhârâni equally, they feel "we belong only to Râdhâ" – hence they reveal more love for Srimati Râdhârâni. It is a fact that they serve Sri Krishna only because He is Srimati Râdhârâni's Love and never as their own lover. Even though they make love to Sri Krishna – it is only to make Srimati Râdhârâni happy.

"Although the sakhis do not like to make love to Sri Krishna, Râdhikâ coaxes them to do so. She sends them to Sri Krishna under many pretexts since She derives much more pleasure from that than Her own association with Him. Srimati Râdhârâni and the sakhis express especially pure love and thus nourish the pleasure of ras. When Sri Krishna sees their love He feels satisfied." – (C.C.Madhya.18.212-214)

¹ If Sri Krishna would have directly made love to them.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

The param-preshtha sakhis love Srimati Râdhârâni very much and this love ultimately culminates in Sri Krishna-prem. And although they express less or more love for Sri Râdhâ-Krishna from time to time – it is their way of manifesting love naturally and they do not do so voluntarily. It is possible that we have more love for one person yet show equal love for both. Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd says –

“The priya-narma sakhis such as Lalitâ have immense love for Sri Râdhâ-Krishna, yet they express more love for Srimati Râdhârâni and at other times more love for Sri Krishna – this is the nature of the sakhis.” – (U.N.)

The visham-snehâ sakhis such as Dhanishthâ love Sri Krishna more than Srimati Râdhârâni, but they do not have any sakhi following them. They are in a minority. There is no process of bhajan following their path.

Now the question arises which sakhis of Srimati Râdhârâni are the topmost? Naturally we would like to perform bhajan under their subjugation alone.

Manjarî-bhâv

Sri Rupamanjari, Sri Ratimanjari, Sri Lavangamanjari etc are adhik-snehâdhikâ or Râdhâ-snehâdhikâ. They love Srimati Râdhârâni more. We call them 'manjaris'. In all situations they relish immeasurable and inexpressible ever-new pleasure of sevâ. Although they do not expect any pleasure – all they desire is sevâ – yet it is the nature of manjarî-bhâv and Sri Sri Râdhâ-Krishna's very confidential sevâ that they feel happy on their own. Their bhâv is so immense that even when they are close to Sri Krishna Who is Madan-Mohan; they retain their individual freedom and yet submerge Him in the ocean of joy simply by doing sevâ. Their rati is the only one of its kind; it reaches the height of wonder and becomes 'bhâvollâsa rati'.

“When the rati of sakhis (for Srimati Râdhârâni) such as Lalitâ is equal or less than the passion for Sri Krishna, then we call their rati for Srimati Râdhârâni as the 'passing rati', and that rati also nourishes their passion for Sri Krishna. However when the rati for Srimati Râdhârâni is more than the passion for Sri Krishna, and keeps on increasing due to constant absorption in that rati, we call that passion as 'bhâvollâsa'.” – (B.R.S.)

This bhâvollâsa rati is the permanent bhâv of the manjaris such as Sri Rupamanjari. When we determinedly follow in the footsteps of the manjaris in this bhâv and perform sevâ then our bhâv is called 'manjarî-bhâv'.

This manjarî-bhâv alone is the 'hitherto unoffered' gift of compassionate Sriman-Mahâprabhu; Sri Rup and Sanâtan have practiced and preached this bhâv only.

Srila Narottam dâs Thâkur Mahâshay has written in his Prem-Bhakti-Chandrikâ –

“Do not follow the sakhis who are in the mood of sama-snehâ and vishama-snehâ, I shall discuss only the adhik-snehâ sakhis. They remain constantly with Srimati Râdhârâni and indulge in charming talks about Sri Krishna – they are the narma-sakhis. Sri Rupa-manjari is their leader while Sri Rati-manjari, Lavanga-manjari, Manjulâli, Sri Rasa-manjari and Kasturikâ are the chief manjaris. They serve with love, joy and enthusiasm. I shall follow them and ask them to engage me in the loving service of the Divine Couple. I shall understand what sevâ I should do by a mere hint from them. Bouncing with beauty and talents I shall follow them with deep love and stay amidst the sakhis. When the Divine Couple will sit surrounded by the sakhis, I will serve them at the right time. When the sakhi gestures I will fan Them with the fly-whisk and offer betel-leaf at Their sweet lips. I will meditate constantly on the lotus feet of the divine Couple with deep love.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Whatever I meditate upon during my sâdhanâ I shall get in my siddha-deha – this is the only process in the path of eternal love.” – (P.B.C.)

A Râgânugâ devotee should take the shelter of the eternal associates such as Sri Rupa-manjari and surrender unto them; in this manner we should worship in manjari-bhâv (given to us by our Spiritual Master). We should be more enthusiastic about serving Srimati Râdhârâni than serving Sri Krishna and think of ourselves as Srimati Râdhârâni’s very near and dear person. We may ask – ‘All the scriptures proclaim Sri Krishna-prem as the topmost achievable goal, then why should we love Srimati Râdhârâni more than Sri Krishna?’ The reply is that – Sri Krishna is controlled by Srimati Râdhârâni. When we love Her, we will attain Sri Krishna-prem much more and this will happen automatically. Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd has written –

"vayam-idam-anubhuya shikshayâma, kuru chature ! saha râdhayaiva sakhyam, priya-sahachari ! yatra vâdhamantar-bhavati hari-pranaya-pramoda-lakshmih."

- (U.N.)

Srila Vishwanâth Chakravartipâd has explained this verse as follows in his Ânanda-Chandrikâ purport –

Sri Manimanjari instructed a new manjari –“My dear clever girl, I am telling you from my own experience, it is better you make friends with Srimati Râdhâ. You may ask – why should I form a loving relation with Srimati Râdhâ? Rather, is it not better to establish a loving relation with Sri Krishna? No, it is not. I’ll tell you why – please listen carefully. No doubt it is highly pleasurable to get Sri Hari’s love; but if you love Srimati Râdhârâni deeply then that precious pleasure will present itself to you on its own. This is because love for Sri Krishna is included within your love for Srimati Râdhâ. Hence if you make friends with Her – it is needless to say that - a loving relation with Sri Krishna will form naturally.

When you become Srimati Râdhârâni’s firm sakhi, then Sri Krishna will consider you as His beloved’s dear friend and so He will love you all the more. He will not love you so much if you make friends with Him directly, however He will love you more if you love Her. So I am telling you if you can prove your love for Srimati Râdhârâni then Sri Krishna will love you even if you do not try for it. Sri Krishna is happier when our love for Srimati Râdhârâni is more than our love for Him. Also when Srimati Râdhârâni does mân or if the elders shut Her up in the house, then Sri Krishna will need you desperately to help Him meet Her. Then He will, on His own, run behind you to make friends with you. You see, you don’t have to work hard to make friends with Him.”

Especially if we wish to relish the sweet ras of Sri Krishna then worshiping the lotus feet of Srimati Râdhârâni becomes inevitable. Srila Raghunâth dâs Goswâmpâd has written –

“The one who has not worshiped the dust of Srimati Râdhârâni’s lotus feet, has not taken shelter of Sri Vrindâban that is decorated with Her footprints, has not conversed with the great devotees who are deeply immersed in Srimati Râdhârâni’s servitude, how will such a person ever relish the most mysterious fathomless ocean of ras that is Sri Krishna?” – (Stavâvali)

This is the sole reason why Sripâd Raghunâth dâs Goswâmicaran has rejected the position of Srimati Râdhârâni’s sakhi and has begged Her to exclusively make him Her maidservant –

“O Devi Râdhike, to become a servant of Your lotus feet is the highest position; leaving this I do not desire anything else (such as the position of Your sakhi). I pay obeisance to Your sakhi-hood eternally, however please let me always remain rooted in the position of Your maidservant – this is my pledge.” - (V.K.)

Srimati Râdhârâni’s servitude is not a mean thing – it is the highest position or the most blessed status. Srimati Râdhârâni’s maidservant is a servant in spite of being a sakhi. She has the right to the entire sweet ras. First she relishes sweet ras and then she performs sevā. Therefore Srimati Rādhārāni's servitude is overflowing with ras.¹

Sometimes, by Srimati Rādhārāni's wish sakhis such as Lalitā do unite with Sri Krishna, yet the manjaris never have a conjugal relation with Him. They are so much averse to it that even if Sri Krishna begs them for it and even if their group leader orders them to do so – the manjaris never ever have the slightest wish to make love to Sri Krishna in spite of such an activity being extremely joyous. Sri Vrindāban-Mahimāmrita says –

"The manjari is exclusively immersed in relishing the ras of serving the lotus feet of Srimati Rādhārāni, and she never accepts love-dalliance with Sri Krishna even in her dreams (definitely not when awake). When Sri Krishna forcibly tears her bodice and makes an advance towards her, then the manjari tearfully protests and laments – and beholding this scene - Srimati Rādhārāni, the Beloved of my life laughs.'

Even sakhis such as Lalitā do not get the pleasure of serving the Divine couple in a manner that the manjaris can serve. We are fortunate to get such sevā when we are completely surrender at Srimati Rādhārāni's lotus feet.

"I seek the refuge of Srimati Rādhārāni's maidservants headed by Sri Rupa-manjari – who can move freely and unhesitatingly in the sports ground of Sri Sri Rādhā-Krishna's love-making² - that even the prān-preshtha sakhis such as Lalitā cannot – and they constantly please Srimati Rādhārāni, Who is the controller of Sri Vrindāban, with their sweet sevā, such as offering tāmbul, massaging feet, offering water and helping in abhisār." – (Braja-Vilās-Stav)

We, the Goudiya Vaishnavs, who wish to become Srimati Rādhārāni's maidservants, pray from the bottom of our hearts –

"When will I get the association of my sakhi and sew flower-garlands for both of Them? O when will I stand in front of them fanning Them with the fly-whisk? And anoint Them with aguru and chandar? When, on the command of the sakhi, will I offer tāmbul? And adorn Their foreheads with sindur and tilak? When will I behold their charming and loving pastimes with my eyes? And gaze at Their moon like faces after seating Them on the throne? I wish to relish that sweetness with all my heart – when will Narottam dās get such mercy?" – (Prārthanā)

Let us learn how to achieve this superlative state by practicing bhajan in manjari-swarup.

How to perform Rāgānugā bhajan

The Brijwāsīs are the eternal associates of Sri Krishna and they have a very special bhāv for Him. When we hear about their bhāv and how they express it, if we feel greedy to achieve the same bhāv, then we are qualified for Rāgānugā bhajan. Srila Rupa Goswāmipād says this in B.R.S. –

"teshām bhāvāptaye lubdho bhavedatrādhikāravān."

He has also described in detail how such a qualified devotee should perform Rāgānugā bhajan –

"*krisham smaran janan-chāsya preshtham nija-samihitam, tat-tat-kathāratashchāsou kuryād-vāsam vraje sada.
sevā sādha-rupena siddha-rupena chātrahi, tad-bhāva-lipsunā kāryā Braja-lokānusāratah.*"

Meaning - "We should meditate on our Beloved Sri Krishna and His Beloved, associate with devotees who are in the same mood as ourselves (swajātiya devotee) and if possible, we should reside in Vrindâban in our sâdhak-body also. If we are incapable of doing so then we should at least live here mentally. We should take the shelter and surrender unto the Brijwâsi-devotee who is dear to Sri Krishna, and craving to get the same bhâv as that devotee, we should constantly perform sevâ in our sâdhak-swarup (externally) and in our siddha-swarup (mentally)." – (B.R.S.)

Srila Vishwanâth Chakravartipâd has explained the above two verses as follows –

"In these two verses Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd has explained the proper way to perform Râgânugâ bhajan. 'Preshta' (in the above verse) refers to our Beloved Sri Nanda-Nandan in His budding youth. We should worship Sri Krishna in this form alone, but at the same time we should constantly remember His eternal associates who have similar desire as we and we should reside in Braja dhâm in this manner. If possible we should physically live in some place in Braja dhâm such as Vrindâban etc. and in case we are incapable of doing so, it is our duty to live there at least in mind.

'Sâdhak-form' means the body that we are in at present, and 'siddha-deha' indicates the body that is worthy of serving in the divine world, that on which we should meditate upon. In this divine form (siddha-deha) we should serve under the command of Sri Râdhâ, Lalitâ, Vishâkhâ, Sri Rupa-manjari and other sakhis who are very dear to Sri Krishna and they wish to relish the sweet bhâv of Sri Krishna. In the sâdhak-body we should serve following the instructions of the Goswâmis such as Sri Rup and Sanâtan. This signifies that in siddha-swarup we should perform sevâ mentally under the guidance of Sri Râdhâ, Lalitâ, Vishâkhâ and Sri Rupa-manjari, while in sâdhak body we should do sevâ under the subjugation of the Brijwâsis such as Sri Rup and Sanâtan. This is our duty.

Here 'anusâratah' does not mean 'anukarant' or imitation (we should not imitate the Goswâmis or the eternal divine associates), rather it indicates 'anusarant' - which means – we should serve according to their command and following their bhâv."

True, in Râgânugâ path meditating on the divine pastimes is the main sâdhanâ, however in the primary stage we are not qualified for *leelâ-smaran*¹. Therefore we should concentrate more on hearing, chanting and following the other rules of bhakti. Then as our chitta gets more and more purified, we are drawn towards leelâ-smaran. Slowly our smaran becomes more intense. Ultimately when we reach the zenith of bhajan, leelâ-smaran naturally becomes the major part of bhajan. We should note that all the parts of bhakti mentioned in vaidhi-bhakti are useful in Râgânugâ bhajan also.

Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd mentions this in the verse –

"shravanot-kirtanâdini vaidha-bhaktyuditâni tu, yânyangâni cha tânyatra vigneyâni manishibhih."
- (B.R.S.)

Here hearing and chanting also includes accepting the shelter of Sri Gurudev's lotus feet and other fundamentals of bhakti as well. We should realize that all the rules of bhakti that we have already mentioned, and they are the parts of vaidhi-bhakti – we should stick to them in Râgânugâ bhajan also. If we do not obey the instructions of the Brijwâsi Goswâmis such as Sri Rupa Goswâmi, Sanâtan Goswâmi etc., how can we say we are surrendered unto them? Then how can we follow in their footsteps? The serious devotees should practice only those rules that are in accordance with their bhâv and never do what is contrary to it – such as aham-grahopâsanâ, mudrâ, nyâs, meditating on Dwârakâ, worshiping Sri Rukmini etc. Although the âgam-shâstras mention these processes of bhakti, a Râgânugâ sâdhak should not perform them.

Râgânugâ practice has two limbs – external and internal. External practice is done with our sâdhak-body, while we perform internal sâdhanâ by meditating on our siddha-deha. In the sâdhak-body we should hear, chant, forsake material pleasures, and serve The Deities with actual ingredients. We should meditate on our siddha-deha and serve Sri Krishna Who is our Beloved with this body for only the siddha-deha is worthy of serving the divine Couple. We should seek refuge of Srimati Râdhârâni Who is the object of our love and surrender unto Her and Her dear ones. It is our duty to strive for that brilliant ras and following the instructions of Sri Rupa-manjari we should collect objects in meditation for internal sevâ and serve the divine couple as the time and situation demands.

*"bâhya antar ihâr dui to sâdhan, bâhya – sâdhak-dehe kore shraban kirtan.
mone – nija siddha-deha koriyâ bhâbon, râtridine kore braje radha-krishner seban."*

Meaning - "Râgânugâ bhajan comprises of two practices – external and internal. Externally, we should hear and chant, while we should meditate on our siddha deha and serve Sri Râdhâ-Krishna in Braja dhâm all day and night." – (C.C. Madhya.22.89-90)

But to meditate on the siddha-deha, first we have to know what a siddha-deha is.

What is siddha-deha?

'Siddha-deha means the body that our Spiritual Master gives us and we meditate on it. Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd says – 'siddha deha is the body that is worthy of serving Sri Krishna. Srila Vishwanâth Chakravartipâd has said – 'siddha-deha is the body that is worthy of serving Sri Sri Râdhâ-Krishna in reality (sâkshât sevâ). By using the word 'sâkshât' he is indicating that when a sâdhak meditates on the siddha-deha, then Sri Krishna accepts the sevâ in truth. In Râgânugâ when a sâdhak has not reached the stage of rati (passion), then he deliberately meditates that he is serving the Divine Couple with siddha-deha, however when a sâdhak attains the level of rati, he identifies naturally with his siddha-deha.

The siddha-deha that the sâdhak meditates on is not imaginary. It is the supreme truth, eternal, blissful and conscious. Some people think that although the soul is originally spiritual, it is infinitesimally small; hence the sâdhak has to meditate upon an imaginary body. He pleases Sri Bhagavân by his sâdhanâ and then following the rule – "yâdrishi bhâvanâ yasya siddhirbhavati tâdrishi"¹ – Sri Bhagavân converts the sâdhak's soul into His associate. So the message is that, although later on the siddha-deha does exist (as Sri Bhagavân's associate), just now it is imaginary. This means, we are meditating on a make-believe image. This is not a Vaishnav-conclusion.

The siddha-deha of the sâdhak is a beautiful treasure of the eternal divine abode and it is permanent. All the siddha-dehas are conscious, blissful and is in the mode of especially pure goodness. We see in Srimad-Bhâgavatam –

"vasanti yatra purushâh sarve vaikuntha-murtayah."

Meaning - "Innumerable bodies are present in the divine Vaikuntha. They are parts of Sri Bhagavân's effulgence and are the precious and beautiful treasure of the Holy Abode."

Sri Gurudev is Sri Bhagavân's intense compassion personified. He knows our siddha-deha by the power of his meditation. Then he reveals to us our siddha-deha. We should meditate on this divine body and think "I am this divine body". Such meditation is called "meditating on siddha-deha". So we should note that our sâdhanâ does NOT create the siddha-deha. It is already there. When we accomplish success in bhakti and we become worthy of serving Sri Bhagavân in reality, we become blessed and get the opportunity to serve the Divine Couple in our siddha-deha. Hence it is imperative that we follow the Siddha-pranâlî received in the Guru-paramparâ and perform sâdhanâ accordingly. We should meditate on that siddha-deha which we receive in Sri Guru-paramparâ and that which Sri Gurudev has given us.

Lord Sadâshiv has instructed us in Sri Sanatkumâr-Samhitâ how to meditate on siddha-swarup –

¹ On accomplishment of your sâdhanâ, you get the body and situation as per your meditation.

Meaning - "The Brajasundaris who are in parakiyâ-bhâv, give immense pleasure to their Beloved Sri Krishna according to their bhâv. Similarly, you too consider yourself as a Gopa-maiden and serve in subordination to their bhâv. You are a maidservant amongst the Gopa-damsels. How will you meditate on this self? You will think – 'I am an extremely attractive maiden brimming with beauty, youth and sensuousness. I am a Gopa-girl and experienced in many arts regarding Sri Krishna's sevâ. I am Srimati Râdhârâni's eternal companion and follower.' Your loving sevâ lies in uniting Srimati Râdhârâni with Sri Krishna and your happiness lies therein.

If Sri Krishna ever begs you for love-making, you will refuse, since you are Sri Râdhâ's maidservant and you feel joy in making her happy. In this manner you will serve Srimati Râdhârâni eternally and love Her more than Sri Krishna. You will serve Her during all eight parts of the day¹ and unite Her with Sri Krishna. Thus you will submerge in the joy of *sevâ*². You will serve right from the Brâhma-muhurta till the end of the night."

Those of us who cannot see the siddha-deha clearly, or do leelâ-smaran conspicuously – rather they even find it laborious – it is better if they are not over-enthusiastic about meditating on siddha-deha and practicing leelâ-smaran. It is better if they hear from the holy lips of the great devotees about the divine pastimes. Then they should read lots about the glory of Gopî-bhâv, repeat them and say *lâlasâmayî*³ prayers that crave for such bhâv. They should try to practice very little Gopî-bhâv in the form of remembering and thinking. If they perform bhajan like this, then gradually they will be able to meditate nicely on their siddha-deha and they will be qualified to meditate on the pastimes of the Divine Couple. They will also be able to meditate on the loving sevâ of the Divine Couple in the correct manner.

Our Sri Gurudev gives us siddha-deha and along with it the ekâdash-bhâv (11 qualities of siddha-deha). Now let us learn about the ekâdash bhâv of the siddha-deha.

Ekâdash- bhâv or the eleven qualities of siddha-deha

"nâma-rupam vayo veshah sambandho yutha eva cha, âgyâ sevâ parâkâshthâ pâlyadâsi nivâsakat"

Meaning - "The ekâdash-bhâv comprises of –

1. name
2. form
3. age
4. dress
5. relation
6. group
7. command

¹ The day is divided into eight parts called "ashta-yâm"

² This indicates that we should immerse ourselves in relishing the ras of serving Sri Sri Râdhâ-Krishna in Sri Vrindâvan constantly by meditating on our siddha-deha.

³ 'lâlasâ' literally means 'salivating'; here it indicates "extremely intense longing".

² This line of the verse may also mean – "even after dying they will not forsake this relation."

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Meaning - "We should serve in the manjarī-swarup according to our desire and instructions given by the senior manjarīs – such as fanning, offering perfume, water, tāmbul etc."

9. parākashthā – shri-rādhā-krishnayoryadvad rupamanjarikādayah, prāptā nitya sakhitwancha tathā syāmiti bhāvayet

Meaning - "We should have the firm faith that just as the earlier manjarīs such as Sri Rupa-manjari are the eternal sakhīs of Sri Sri Rādhā-Krishna, by following in their footsteps I too shall attain the topmost bhāv (zenith). In this manner we should meditate on our manjarī-swarup."

10. Protected maidservant –

pālya-dāsi cha sâ proktā paripālyā priyamvadā, swamanovrittirupena yā nityā paricharikā

Meaning - "The manjarī is so close to Srimati Rādhārāni that she reflects all Her emotions; in spite of this, she lives under the care and protection of her Ishwarī. Also, she has multi-faceted talents and still she is Swamini's maidservant. This is her greatness."

11. Residence – nivāso Brajamadhye tu rādhākrishna-shtale matah, vamshi-vatashcha sri nandīshwarashchāpyati koutukah."

Meaning - "The manjarī lives happily in Sri Brajadhām – in places where the Divine Couple perform Their pastimes – such as *Vamshi-vaṭ*¹, *Nandīshwar*² etc."

When we desire sevā in subjugation to Gopī-bhāv, if we have a pure heart, it softens and melts. When we are hungry we naturally find the food tasty; similarly the desire for sevā makes us relish the sweetness of Sri Sri Rādhā-Krishna's leelā-smaran. Those who wish to get sevā following in the footsteps of Gopī-bhāv, only they can enjoy the sweetness of the divine pastimes. When the bhāv of a devotee is expressed in its entirety, we call it "Gopī-bhāv". We can relish Sri Krishna's sweetness to the greatest degree in this Gopī-bhāv alone.

What is the chief characteristic of Gopī-bhāv? When we are absolutely devoid of any desire for happiness for ourselves and endeavor only to make Sri Krishna happy – then we are exhibiting the chief characteristic of Gopī-bhāv. The manjarīs display this characteristic to the greatest degree. The manjarīs are ever absorbed in praying for sevā. 'Bhāv' is a mental state. Ordinarily 'bhāv' refers to the equalization of the mind with the object of meditation. When we immerse ourselves exclusively in the pleasure of serving Srimati Rādhārāni and are completely absorbed in it, it is called 'manjarī-bhāv.' We, as sādhaks, should worship in this manjarī-bhāv.

Manjarī-bhāv-sāadhanā* has two forms of worship

Sri Krishna's pastimes are of two types –

- manifested
- unmanifested

When material people can see the divine pastimes with material eyes, we call such leelās as 'prakat leelā' or manifested pastimes. On the other hand, when the people of this world cannot see the divine pastimes, we call such pastimes as 'aprakat leelā' or 'unmanifested pastimes.' Both the leelās are identical. The difference lies in who is able to see it and who is not. The unmanifested pastimes do not mix with worldly people and mundane objects, while the prakat leelā is mixed up with the material world. Although the prakat leelā is not subject to change – just like Sri Krishna's form that is always divine – it appears to have a beginning and an end. However these leelās are not controlled by time and place – we should realize this. These pastimes too occur by His wish alone and His swarup shakti controls them.

¹ The banyan tree on which Sri Krishna played His flute.

² Nandagrām

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

“We can worship Sri Krishna’s unmanifested pastimes in two ways – swârasiki and mantramayee” – (Sri Krishna-Sandarbha.153)

Mantramayee worship

Sri Krishna is present in Yogpeeth in different places. He is surrounded by His associates who are seated in various positions. When we meditate on them as such and worship them with mantras mentioned in the scriptures, we call it mantramayee worship. In Brajadhâm there are different places where the Yogpeeth leelâ takes place. In this worship Sri Krishna is present with His associates in one particular place and the entire worship takes place in this place only – therefore mantramayee worship resembles a lake with still water.

Swârasiki worship

Swârasiki leelās are those pastimes of Sri Krishna that are according to our mood (in the case of a Manjari it is the sweet mood or conjugal mood). They do not occur at the same place and at the same time. They are without a beginning, middle and end. They are extremely variegated. Each pastime is unique. Different pastimes occur in different places and at different times. These leelās resemble a flowing river.

“These leelās take place as and when He wishes and differs from situation to situation.”

– (Sri Krishna-Sandarbha, 153)

Just as a river may have lakes in between, the swârasiki leelâ (that is like a river) have the Yogpeeth leelâ (that resembles a lake) within it. When we meditate on these variegated pastimes throughout the day, we call it swârasiki worship.

Boudhâyan Smriti states the meditation in mantramayee worship as follows –

How to perform mantramayee worship

“govindam manasâ dhyâyed gavâm madhye sthitam shubham, barhâ peeda-samyuktam venuvâdanatatparam, gopjanaih parivritam vanya-pushpâvatamsakam.”

Meaning - “Meditate on Sri Govinda in your mind – he is present in all, He is adorning a crown of peacock-feathers, ready to play on His flute, surrounded by the Gopīs and His ear-rings are made of wild flowers.”

Sri Gopâl-Tâpani Shruti too mentions mantramayee worship as follows –

“Tada hovâcha – hairanyo gopaveshamabhrâbham tarunam kalpadrumâshritam. Tadiha shlokâ bhavanti –

*‘satpundarikanayanam meghâbham vaidyutâmbaram, dwibhujam mounamudrâdhyam vanamâlinamishwam.
gopa-gopi-gavâvritam sura-druma-talâshritam, divyâlankâranopetam ratnamandapamadhyagam.
kâlindi-jala-kallola-sangimâruta-sevitam, chintayech-chetasâ krishnam mukto bhavati samsriteh.’

Meaning - Lord Brahmâ said – “Sri Krishna is dressed as a cowherd boy, He is cloud-complexioned, adolescent and His eyes are shaped like lotus petal. He is clad in yellow dhoti, has two hands and is silent. He is wearing a garland of wild flowers and He is the Controller. Brilliant ornaments adorn Him and the Gopas, Gopīs and the cows surround Him. He is seated on a gem-studded throne beneath a wish-fulfilling tree. The breeze blowing across the Kalindi River and laden with water droplets is serving Him. If we serve such Sri Krishna in meditation, we will be verily liberated from the material ocean. We should worship Him with words such as ‘Govinda’, ‘sach-chidânanda’ etc.”

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Types of mantramayee worship

Mantramayee worship is of two types –

- Yogpeeth worship
- *Archâ-vigrahâ*¹ worship

We should perform Yogpeeth-worship in meditation according to the descriptions given in Sri Govinda-Leelâmrita, Sri Krishna-Bhâvanâmrita etc. Also Sri Govinda is Himself present on every altar in a silent form to accept the loving service from His devotees. When we serve Him with utmost love, He will give up His silence and instruct us how to serve Him better. He may speak to the devotee in a dream or when he is awake. However when Sri Krishna speaks to a devotee in the awakened state, it is extremely confidential and our preceptors have forbidden us to discuss this in detail – therefore such devotees have not recorded it in writing. Sri Hari-Bhakti-Vilâs is the topmost Smriti² have stated the guidelines regarding this form of worship.

How to perform swârasiki worship

Sri Krishna's Leelâ-shakti wants Him to enjoy various leelâs, therefore she manifests the right leelâs at his right time. The swârasiki leelâ enfolds the mantramayee leelâ in her arms³ and is flowing in all its colorful variegatedness since eternity. During the prakat-leelâ (the pastimes that material people can see with mundane eyes) when Sri Krishna leaves Vrindâban and goes to Mathurâ, then the associates of Braja are scorched with viraha. However even then, the swârasiki leelâ continues in a shrouded manner and it contains the Yogpeeth leelâ. But, although the associates do realize this, they do not accept this as real. Due to extreme viraha, they feel it is but a sphurti. Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd has said –

"Sri Krishna is always sporting with the Brajadevis in Vrindâban and performing loving pastimes such as the Râs-leelâ – they are never separated from Him." – (U.N.)

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has explained this statement as follows – "These words certainly refer to the aprakat leelâ (the pastimes that cannot be seen with mundane eyes). 'Vrindâban' indicates the 'unmanifested Vrindâban'."

This means that Sri Krishna is always sporting with the Brijwâsis. There is no question of separation.

Padma Purân too states – "go-gopa-gopikâ sange kridati kamsahâ"

Meaning - "The enemy of Kamsa (Sri Krishna) sports with the cows, Gopas and Gopis."

How the Goudiya Vaishnavs should relish the eternal pastimes

'Kridati' indicates the simple present tense. This means that Sri Krishna is always engaged in divine play in Vrindâban. Sri Brahmâ glorified Lord Govinda in Brahma-Samhitâ as follows –

"Vrindâban is an abode of gem-studded palaces and is decorated with innumerable wish-fulfilling trees. There He is taking care of countless Surabhi-cows. Hundreds of thousands of Gopa beauties surround Him and serve Him most lovingly. I adore That Primeval Being – Sri Govinda."

This verse proves swârasiki leelâ.

Sri Sri Nabadweep is non-different from Braja-dhâm and Sri Goursundar is the united form of Sri Sri Râdhâ-Krishna. Therefore the Goudiya Vaishnavs should relish the sweetness of both these Holy places and assist the eternal pastimes in the form of loving devotees. As sâdhaks we should

¹ The Deity that we worship on the altar in our home

² Smritis mean "that which has to be remembered". Unlike the Vedas which are considered of divine origin, the Smritis are of human compositions which guide individuals in their daily conduct according to time and place. They list the codes and rules governing the actions of the individual, the community, society, and the nation. They are also called Dharma Shâstras or laws of righteous conduct.

at first perform Yogpeeth-meditation (mantramayee worship) in Sridhâm Nabadweep and worship Sri Goursundar along with His associates in the mind. When Srîman-Mahâprabhu is engrossed in Braja-bhâv along with His confidantes, we too should enter the Yogpeeth sevâ in Manjari-swarup and perform mental worship of Sri Sri Râdhâ-Mâdhâv surrounded by the sakhis (mantramayee worship). This continues into meditating on the various pastimes throughout the day (ashta-yâm) and we call this the 'swârasikî-worship'.

"Whatever we meditate upon during sâdhanâ, we shall get in siddha-swarup". – (P.B.C.)

Following this rule the sâdhak is blessed by serving in both the leelâs in the eternal abodes in siddha-swarup.

This is the most confidential truth of Râgânugâ-practice by those Goudiya Vaishnavs who are humbly surrendered unto Srîman-Mahâprabhu and the preceptors appointed by Him such as Sri Rupa and Sanâtan. In fact this is the path of bhajan revealed by Srîman-Mahâprabhu, and preached and practiced by His confidential associates.

Prem-Tattva-Vigyaan

What is prem?

'Prem' ordinarily means 'love'. We find this word overused in the material world. But what is really meant by prem or love?

"hlâdiniir sâr prem"

Meaning - "Love is the essence of Hlâdini shakti." – (C.C.)

Love is the topmost manifestation of Hlâdini Shakti. Hlâdini is pure goodness and love is its characteristic. When we perform bhajan and we get Sri Bhagavân's blessing then our heart becomes clean. It is now ready to receive pure goodness. Then Sri Krishna flings Hlâdini Shakti into our heart. When we put an iron rod in fire, it gains the property of the fire – that is – it becomes red in color and hot to touch. Similarly our heart becomes one with pure goodness and gets its characteristics. Now pure goodness starts expressing its qualities through our mind. Its main quality is 'a desire to please Sri Krishna's senses'. This is love.

"krishnendriya-priti-ichchâ dhore prem nâm."

Meaning - "Love is the desire to please Sri Krishna's senses." – (C.C.)

Sri Krishna's eternal associates always express the desire to please His senses. This means love is eternally present in them. When the sâdhak's heart is cleansed by hearing, chanting etc. then the same love flows into this material world like the river Mandâkini. It rushes down through the channel of devotees and manifests in our hearts.

"We can never get the everlasting love for Sri Krishna that His eternal associates possess by means of any spiritual practice. When our heart becomes clean due to hearing etc. it manifests itself." – (C.C.)

Now we can understand that although love does express itself in this world it is never worldly. Love is the characteristic of the transcendental inherent potency of Sri Bhagavân – Hlâdini Shakti. Therefore when we call worldly affection as 'love' – such as 'brotherly love', 'love for the society', 'love for the nation', 'love between men and women' – we are inflicting a grievous insult on the word 'love' – we can easily understand this.

In fact - "Lust and love are distinct from each other just as iron and gold. Lust indicates a desire to satisfy one's own senses, while love wants to please Sri Krishna's senses only. Lust wants only sexual satisfaction for own self, while love's strongest desire is to delight Sri Krishna." – (C.C.)

We can define 'lust' as the living being's material affection for each other where only sense gratification is involved. It is as cheap as a piece of iron for it is self-centered. On the other hand love is brilliant like gold because it wants to satisfy Sri Krishna. Lust stinks like hell for it smacks of sensual pleasure, while love is fragrant like the celestial garden Nandan-kânan because it is aromatic with the wish to please Sri Krishna. Lust is as dark as the New Moon night for it is so selfish, whereas love is self-luminous and as bright as daylight because it seeks to make Sri Krishna happy.

"And so we see that lust is very much different from love – lust is pitch dark, while love dazzles like the brilliant sun." – (C.C.)

Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd has written –

"When a sâdhak who is in the advanced stage of bhâv-bhakti – his heart is much more melted or serene as compared to when he was in the primary stage of bhâv-bhakti – and now he feels the topmost supreme bliss – and he also feels strongly that Sri Krishna belongs to him – the wise call such a bhâv as prem." – (B.R.S.)

Difference between bhâv and prem

In the stage of bhâv, our chitta becomes clean while when we reach prem we are absolutely spotless. In bhâv we have profound interest in Sri Krishna, whereas in prem we are extremely possessive about Sri Krishna. Srila Rupa

Goswâmpâd has quoted in Sri Nârad-Pancharâtra to prove this point -

"When we feel that our body, house and every other physical possession does not belong to us – and in stead consider Sri Vishnu alone as our sole possession – great saints such as Bishma, Prahlâd, Uddhav and Nârad call this stage as 'prem.'"

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has explained this verse as follows –

"Prem is a characteristic of Hlâdini shakti. Therefore prem is intensely blissful. This is its primary characteristic. Prem also has two secondary characteristics – a) our chitta is squeaky clean and b) we feel extremely possessive about Sri Bhagavân."

"Character and nature are the primary characteristics (of anything) and 'how it acts' is its secondary characteristic, by which we recognize it." – (C.C.)

Lets us now examine prem using the above principle.

What is the character and nature of prem?

Prem is 'very intense' – this is its primary character and this is how we distinguish prem from bhâv. In the stage of bhâv we have lukewarm love for Sri Bhagavân while in prem it becomes extremely passionate. What is prem made of? The nature of prem is that it is the essence of samvit and samvit is the essence of Hlâdini Shakti. We have already mentioned it.

We can recognize something by its action. Prem has two secondary characteristics –

- it is spotlessly clean and
- it gives us a sense of possessiveness.

When we gain intense passion – that is we gain prem – our chitta becomes completely clean, and it melts. Our desires regarding Sri Krishna increases. We express external symptoms such as tears, goose bumps etc.

"If the heart does not melt, how come there are goose bumps? Without goose bumps how come there are tears of joy? Without tears of joy how is it possible that our chitta is cleansed?" – (S.B.11.14.23)

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has written in Priti-Sandarbha (69th chapters) –

"So we see that love results in melting of the heart which leads to goose bumps etc. Although our heart may melt somewhat and we may express some signs of ecstasy such as goose bumps and joy - yet if our chitta does not become clean, we should realize that Sri Krishna-prem has not manifested itself completely."

These statements prove that when we perform sâdhanâ, our heart becomes pure. Then bhakti appears in our heart. When bhakti appears in our heart then we become exceedingly eager for Sri Bhagavân's darshan. Bhakti is like blazing fire while the sâdhak's heart is like gold. The fire (bhakti) melts the especially pure gold (heart) – "darshanotkanthâgnidrutikritachittajâmbunadah" (Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd) – in this manner when prem arises, the chitta melts completely and the premik cries, sings and dances in ecstasy.

Srimad-Bhâgavatam says (11.3.31 – 32) –

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

"When love for Sri Bhagavân appears in the devotees' hearts, he remembers Sri Hari Who destroys all sins. The devotees also remind each other of Sri Hari. Their sâdhan-bhakti ultimately results in prem-bhakti and they express goose bumps. They remember Achyuta Sri Bhagavân and sometimes they laugh and at other times they cry. Every now and then they speak of things that are out-of-this-world and at other times they dance and sing. By following in the path of Sri Bhagavân Who is without birth, they become supremely blissful and remain silent."

Sri Krishna-prem has another secondary characteristic - intense possessiveness about Sri Krishna. Srîmat Jiva Goswâmpâd has explained in Priti-Sandarbha (84th chapter) –

"Love results in extreme possessiveness. Although numerous circumstances arise that threaten to destroy love, it does not diminish and there is no decrease in loving behavior. Love is rich with possessiveness. We can see it in other scriptures as well. Mârkandeya Purân says – 'We feel so sad when a cat eats up our hen, since the hen belongs to us, whereas if a *chatak*¹ devours a mouse, we do not grieve, since it does not belong to us.' Therefore possessiveness is the sign of love. Nârada-Pancharâtra says – 'We can say we have bhakti when we feel that nothing belongs to us other than Lord Vishnu.' "

A discussion about the characteristics of love

Srîmat Jiva Goswâmpâd has discussed the characteristics of love in Priti-Sandarbha, 78th chapter. He has written –

"Now let us discuss the characteristics of love and what we conclude from them. Love for Sri Bhagavân is like a full moon that radiates the moon rays of supreme bliss, it is the essence of all good fortune in the creation and is the source of all goodness in the material world. It is full of ecstasy that constantly arises out of transcendental especially pure goodness. It is insurmountably pleasurable. Sri Bhagavân is so sweet – one can neither equal nor surpass His sweetness. Yet our love can madden Him completely and make Him dizzy with happiness. Circumstances cannot diminish Divine love and it cannot bring any change in the relation. It is a characteristic of condensed Hlâdini. Love only wants what is favorable for Sri Krishna and desires only Him. Love resides in the heart of such a devotee. Love is more ras-full than condensed Amritam and conceals its excellences from everyone, except the devotees. It is decorated with the pearl like tears² and contains all good qualities. Every single goal of life – how much ever precious or important it may be – is reduced to nothing in front of divine love. In fact when we accomplish love, nothing else remains to be attained. Love is entirely absorbed in serving Sri Bhagavân like a chaste wife. Its only job is to steal His heart. Love is the sovereign ruler because it serves Sri Bhagavân to the fullest extent."

Let us scrutinize Srîmat Jiva Goswâmpâd's description. It reveals the primary as well as secondary characteristics of love. We have already mentioned that primary characteristic comprises character and nature. They indicate what this substance is actually.

Character of love

Srîmat Jiva Goswâmpâd says that love's character is – "bhagavad-ânukulyâtma-tad-anugata-tat-sprihâdimay-gyâna-visheshâkârâ". It means that love is knowledge. What sort of knowledge? We should have the knowledge of what is favorable for Sri Bhagavân – that is – what pleases Him and we should also know what sevâ we should perform so as to make Him happy. He has further clarified this point with "tâdrishabhaktamanovrittivisheshadehâ" – this means – when a devotee gains love he strongly yearns to please Sri Bhagavân and love is made up of such extreme longing.

Nature of love

² When a devotee has divine love, he sheds tears of love. These tears arise from extremely pure feelings and hence they are compared to pearls.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Now Srīmat Jīva Goswāmīpād is describing the secondary characteristics of love – kārjyadwārā gyān ei tatasthā lakshan – we learn the secondary characteristics of anything from the way it acts. Following are the activities of love.

1. anapekshitavidhih – Love for Sri Bhagavān (Divine love) does not depend on whether or not the scriptures instruct us to do so. Love is self-manifested.
2. swarasata eva samullasanti – Divine love is pleasurable due to its own ras. It is sweet on its own and does not require any external sweetener. This is because it is a characteristic of Hlādinī.
3. vishayāntarairanavachchhedyā – Divine love desires only to please Sri Bhagavān – nothing can deter it – the temptation for heaven, liberation or any other attraction.
4. tātparyāntaramasahamānā – A devotee who has love always stays away from all desires other than Sri Bhagavān's sevā.
5. peeyusha-purato'pi sarasena swenaiva swadeham sarasayanti – It is sweeter than a sweet with Amritam-filling; this means in Divine love sweetness is at its zenith. Also it keeps its sweetness intact on its own. It is blissful by itself. A loving devotee enjoys its taste and so this characteristic too is secondary.
6. bhakta-kritātma-rahasya-sangopana-gunamaya-rasanā, vāshpamuktādi-vyakta-parishkāra – This statement mentions a few ornaments¹ of Divine love. A loving devotee always tries to conceal himself – he never reveals to anyone the fact that he has gained love. This excellent quality is like a precious necklace dazzling around his neck. Srīmat Jīva Goswāmīpād has compared the tears of love shed by a loving devotee with gems and pearls. These ornaments make Divine love all the more attractive. Love makes the devotee want to conceal himself and makes him shed tears. This is a secondary characteristic of love.
7. sarva-gunaika-nidhāna-swabhāvā – Divine love is naturally a repository of excellent qualities. Srīmad-Bhāgavatam (5.18.12) says - "When Divine love manifests in a devotee's heart, he gains all good qualities."
8. dāsi-kritāshesha-purushārtha-sampattikā – Even the most important goals of life seem like maidservants of love. Love is the topmost achievable goal, and all other goals are short-term – and they wish to serve love.
9. bhagavat-pātivratya-vrata-varyā-paryākulā – A chaste wife always longs to please her husband by her sevā. Similarly when Divine love manifests in someone he constantly strives to perform sevā and please Sri Bhagavān.
10. bhagavān-manoharanaikopāyahārirupā – Divine love has only one function – to steal Sri Bhagavān's heart.

If we only know the course of divine love we will be able to realize how remarkable love is. This is why Srīmat Jīva Goswāmīpād has written – 'nikhila paramānanda-chnadrikā-chandram' and 'ananta-vilasamayā-māyika-vishuddha-sattvānavaratollasād-asamorddha-madhure bhagavati' – Sri Bhagavān is the only Object of love. Love is like a moon that scatters supreme bliss like the moon rays. In fact love is the source of all that is joyous. Love is a rumbling ocean of incomparable sweetness.

Srīla Vishwanāth Chakravartīpād has described the symptoms of love in his Mādhurya-Kādambini (8th shower of nectar²). Let us discuss in brief.

When we perform sādhana we are attached to body, home and wealth. Love easily breaks these bonds and converts our material tendencies into transcendental. Thus love fixes our heart in His sweet name, beauty and excellences. Love is like a dazzling sun while all the goals of life are like the twinkling stars. When all of a sudden love arises in our heart, it forces other goals in our life to disappear. Love verily intoxicates the devotee. Then he becomes dynamic like a valorous warrior. He forgets himself like an extremely greedy dacoit who is all set to plunder. Then the devotee just keeps on relishing, and the more he relishes the greedier he becomes. His thirst is ever-increasing. The more he drinks this nectar the more thirsty he becomes. Love and divine sweetness enhance each other extremely. Love takes the heart of the devotee in a realm of immeasurable relish.

Love creates an extraordinary strong agitation in the premik's heart; at the same time he also experiences a peace that sweetness brings. The two feelings are contrary to each other. The devotee wishes to meet Sri Bhagavân and his heart is torn apart due to these simultaneous opposite feelings. Then he is no more satisfied with Sri Bhagavân's beauty and sweet pastimes. Then his relatives seem like dry and dark well, his home appears like a thorny forest and even a small amount of food as a good beating. Even if a good person praises such a devotee (which means it is true and not flattery), it stings him like a snake; he performs his daily duties like death, he carries his body like a burden. When his friends console him it stings him like poison. When he is awake he is immersed in an ocean of repentance (he thinks – why am I alive?) and sleep tears his life apart. He thinks he is alive because Sri Bhagavân has no mercy on him. He feels his life like repeatedly fried grains (= useless). What's more, earlier when he was a sâdhak he used to wish dearly to meditate on Sri Bhagavân – and now he finds that same meditation suicidal.

After this, love draws Sri Krishna like a magnet and reveals Himself to that premik. Sri Bhagavân too divulges His beauty, fragrance, sweet voice, handsome youth, sweet ras, magnanimity, munificence and all other auspicious qualities to His devotee. His excellences are extremely nectarine. When the devotee relishes these excellences he feels a great longing that increases every moment and ultimately such a colossal bliss appears in his heart that no poet can describe it.¹

Sriman-Mahâprabhu has stated briefly the original form and activity of love in very simple terms –

“Love is a precious wealth and it is the fifth purushârthâ. It enables us to relish Sri Krishna's sweet ras. Love subjugates Him to His devotee and love gives us the pleasure of serving Sri Krishna.” – (C.C.)

Love is the fifth purushârtha – the crest-jewel of all purushârthas. It is the greatest treasure. When we have a treasure, we enjoy – similarly whether a premik experiences viraha or milan – he uninterruptedly relishes sweetness. Love is the essence of Hlâdini or the Blissful Potency, hence it is most delicious. Love alone enables us to relish Sri Krishna's beauty, excellences, and sweet pastimes since “we can relish Sri Krishna's sweetness only if we have love” – (Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd). Sri Krishna becomes subordinate to His devotee because of love. Just as a chaste wife subjugates a faithful husband, although Sri Bhagavân is independent, He becomes subordinate to his devotee on His Own. To become love-subjugated is His greatest quality. We can enjoy serving Sri Krishna when we love Him. In fact love is the only way we can gain His service. Love is the best ingredient of Sri Krishna-sevâ. Love appears in our heart in two ways –

- By the mercy of Sri Bhagavân and the devotees (allof a sudden)
- By practicing sâdhanâ and thus attracting mercy.

Love through the first route is very rare; it is better we perform sâdhanâ to gain this treasure.

Different types of devotional practice leads to different types of love

¹ We can study this topic in detail in Mâdhurya-Kâdambini

² Goal of a living entity

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Depending on what type of sādhana we perform we can get two types of love –

- Love that contains the knowledge that Sri Bhagavān is almighty
- Simply love

Srila Rupa Goswāmipād states the same in B.R.S. –

"māhātmya-gyāna-yuktashcha kevalashcheti sâ dwidhâ"

Devotional practice is of two types –

1. Vaidhi

Love gained by following the vaidhī path

2. Rāgānugā

When a sādhak follows the vaidhi path he has a strong feeling that Sri Bhagavān is majestic. Therefore when he gains love, it is mixed with a sensation of glory. When a sādhak practices the path of vidhi (or vaidhi path) then he gains love, however this love results in sālokya, sārshī, sārūpya or sāmīpya. These are four types of liberation or mukti that a devotee can get. Then he goes to Vaikuntha.

"aishwarya-gyāne bidhi-marge bhajan koriyā, boikunthete jāy chaturbidha mukti pāiyā"

Meaning - "When we practice bhajan in the path of vidhi by considering Sri Bhagavān as majestic, we attain liberation and go to Vaikuntha." – (C.C.Ādi.3.17.)

Love gained by following
*Rāgānugā

The Rāgānugā devotee worships Sri Krishna as the Son of Vrajendra (King of Brajadhām, that is, Nanda Mahārāj). It is devoid of a sense of majesty. Hence such a devotee gains simply love or exclusive love or 'keval' prem. The devotional practice in Rāgānugā path is without a hint of opulence or aishwarya-gyān. Srila Rupa Goswāmipād states this in B.R.S. – "rāgānugāshritānāncha prāyashah kevalo bhavet"

Meaning - "The devotees who practice Rāgānugā almost always (prāyashah) gain keval prem."

Srimat Jiva Goswāmipād has explained the word 'prāyashah' (almost always) as – "Although a devotee may follow Rāgānugā if his devotion is tainted with vaidhi bhakti then he will not attain 'exclusive love'."

This means that not necessary that all Rāgānugā devotees will attain keval prem. However we should note that we can taste the pure sweetness of Braja-ras only when we possess keval prem.

Love is extremely difficult to comprehend

"The devotee who gains the new-found love is indeed blessed. Even the Vedic scholars are unable to comprehend his speech and actions." – (B.R.S.)

"The devotee who has achieved love – even the wise cannot understand his speech and actions."
– (C.C.Madhya.23.21.)

Ordinary people feel joy and sorrow related with their body and material conditions. Although a premik devotee too expresses such feelings, it is entirely different from those expressed by materialistic people. A devotee who has gained love is absorbed in bliss all day and night. His joy and sorrow depends on whether he has attained Sri Bhagavān or is in viraha from Him. These are divine joy and sorrow. They are realizations that are always ras-full and supremely sweet. We can never compare these realizations with any happiness or suffering of this world. The loving devotee rides on the waves of transcendental pleasure and pain that whatever feelings he may express externally – forget ordinary mortals – even Vedic scholars who may be inexperienced in the mysteries of love – are incapable of understanding. When they see the premik laughing, weeping, singing and dancing, they simply think he is a lunatic. Of course those who know the mysteries of love can understand such a devotee.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Love depends on your relation with Sri Bhagavân

We already know what is love – “when we feel that only Sri Krishna belongs to me and I possess nothing else”. Now, this possessiveness depends on our relation with Him. It is possible for us to feel like this only when we have established some sort of bonding with Him, for instance, that of a servant, friend, parent or sweetheart. Therefore love is of four types – depending on the bond – namely –

- Dāsya-prem – love in servitude
- Sakhya-prem – friendly love
- Vātsalya-prem – parental love
- Madhur prem – conjugal love

The shānta devotees are happy just to get His darshan. They never feel He belongs to them. Their idea is – Sri Krishna is ātmārām and āptakām, He does not require any sevā. Therefore a shānta devotee does not wish to perform sevā, yet bhakti means 'sevā'. Srimat Jiva Goswāmipād has called the shānta devotee as a borderline case due to two reasons –

- He does not feel that Sri Bhagavân belongs to him and
- He does not wish to do sevā

“The shānta devotee has absolutely no sense of possessiveness regarding Sri Krishna. His head is crammed with the knowledge that He is the Supreme Brahman and Paramātmā. When a devotee is in shānta-ras he can only realize the true form of Sri Krishna and nothing else.” – (C.C.Madhya.19.177-178)

“A shānta devotee has only two qualities –

1. he has firm belief in Sri Krishna
2. he has no desire for anything not pertaining to Sri Krishna.” (C.C.Madhya.19.175)

dāsya-prem

A devotee who is bound to Sri Krishna as a servant has the qualities of a shānta devotee – that is – he is a firm believer of Sri Krishna and has no desire for anything not pertaining to Sri Krishna. He has an additional quality, that is, he longs to perform sevā. Eg. Sri Krishna’s servants in Dwāraka, such as, Dâruk.

“The servant is completely in awe of Him and thinks of Him as a Master. He considers Sri Krishna as Almighty God and reveres Him highly. He pleases Sri Krishna by constantly serving Him. He has all the qualities of a shānta devotee and also one more - and that is – 'sevā.'”

– (C.C. Madhya.19.178-180)

The Brijwâsis have keval prem for Sri Krishna since none here considers Him God. The servants in Brajadhâm such as Raktak and Patrak do consider Him a prince (the Son of Nanda Mahārāj), but they never feel He is God. Hence Srimat Jiva Goswāmipād has called their love ‘sweet’.

sakhya-prem

The Gopa boys such as Shridâm, Subal etc have pure friendly love. True, Sri Krishna has friends such as Uddhav and Arjun in Dwāraka; however they are in aishwarya-gyân.

“Love decreases when a devotee senses opulence (aishwarya), however when a devotee has keval prem, even though he may behold Sri Krishna’s majesty he does not accept it.” – (C.C.)

When Arjun saw Sri Krishna’s majestic Universal Form, he was astounded, and his love diminished. He had begged forgiveness from Sri Krishna for his earlier behavior in a friendly mood. We find this in Bhagavad-Gita. On the other hand see how the sakhās in Brajadhām behave. They were seeing Sri Krishna killing terrible asurs nearly everyday, yet they never thought He is God. They only thought – “Oh! Our friend is so strong!” and they loved Him all the more. They rejoiced when they defeated Him in sports and climbed on His shoulder to punish Him; they merrily bit into fruits before feeding Him. They say –

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

“As if you are better than any of us! All of us are equal.” – (C.C.)

“The sakhās have the qualities of a shānta devotee and wish to serve like the servants. The difference between the sakhā and the servant is that while the servant respects Him, the sakhā has no such feeling. He climbs on Sri Krishna’s shoulders, play and fight with Him. He serves Sri Krishna and also makes Him serve. A friend has great faith in Sri Krishna and has no respect for Him. Hence sakhya-ras has three qualities by which you can recognize it –

1. plenty of possessiveness for Sri Krishna
2. considers Sri Krishna non-different from himself
3. he has subjugated Him.” – (C.C.Madhya.19.181-184)

In Brajadhām Sri Nanda Mahārāj and Mother Yashomati has pure parental love. Vasudev and Devaki too have parental love, but they are in aishwarya bhāv. When Sri Krishna had appeared before them they had fallen at His feet and eulogized Him. Later on also we see that they have reverently stated that Sri Krishna and Baladev are not their sons; rather they are the Supreme controllers. However Sri Nanda-Yashomati were very happy to receive Sri Krishna and they performed pujā that was appropriate for a new-born baby. They arranged this to protect Him from all inauspiciousness, something that any ordinary parent would do. They donated huge wealth, gems and cattle seeking His welfare. Mother Yashodā, in spite of seeing Baby Krishna kill Putanā with her own eyes, tried to protect Him in everyway by performing some or the other ritual. She never thought for a moment whether one who can kill such a ferocious demoness at such a tender age really needs any protecting ritual or not. She has constantly prayed for His well-being. When she saw her son stealing butter and curds, she even beat Him and scolded Him so that He would grow up to be a good man. When Sri Krishna carried his sandals on His head and brought them to him, Nanda Mahārāj was immersed in the ocean of bliss. So Sri Chaitanya-Charitāmrita states –

“A devotee in Vātsalya-love has the qualities of a shānta devotee and sevā that is present in dāsya prem also. However here we call that sevā as ‘pālan’¹. A devotee in parental mood has no awe and reverence for Sri Krishna – same like a friend. He has more sense of possessiveness and so he beats and chastises Him. He considers himself as Sri Krishna’s protector and feels that He depends on him for survival. A devotee in this mood is full of nectar since he has the qualities of the four sentiments (shānta, dāsya, sakhya and vātsalya). Therefore he drowns in the ocean of nectarine bliss. Even the scholars who are in aishwarya-gyān admit that Sri Krishna is subjugated by His devotees.” – (C.C.Madhya.19.185-188)

Madhur prem or sweet love is special because the devotees in this sentiment serve Sri Krishna with their bodies in the mood of sweethearts. The Brajabeauties are the zenith of sweet love and they are headed by Sri Rādhā. They are in the mood of extra-marital relationship with Sri Krishna and possess pure sweet love for Him. The queens such as Rukmini and Satyabhāmā too possess sweet love, but they are in aishwarya bhāv and are within the confinement of marriage. They hold Sri Krishna in awe and serve Him as a wife. On the other hand the Brajabeautie’s knowledge is pure and sweet. They serve Sri Krishna taking Him as a lover and not as a husband. All the devotees – whether they have dāsya, sakhya, vātsalya, or madhur prem in the mood of the queens of Dwārakā – they have a bond with Sri Krishna and serve Him according to that relation. However the Gopīs are not bound to Him by any relation, yet serve Him as a lover with pure sweet love. They do not love Him because they have a relation with Him; rather they are bound to Him because they love Him.

“The Gopīs love Sri Krishna accepting Him as a lover – this is the height of ras-exultation, and it does not exist anywhere other than in Braja.” – (C.C.Ādi.4.117)

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

As a result, the Gopī's pure sweet love is replete with all the ras to the fullest extent. And the relish is incomparable.

"A devotee in the sweet ras (madhur ras) is –

- 1) Firmly established in Sri Krishna and
- 2) Performs plentiful sevā.
- 3) She cares for Him without any inhibition and
- 4) Very strongly feels that Sri Krishna belongs to her.
- 5) She serves Him with her body in the mood of a consort.

Thus a devotee in the sweet ras has five qualities, just as the five elements have the qualities of the previous ones starting with the sky. Ultimately the earth has all the five properties.¹ In this way, a devotee in the sweet ras possesses all the bhāvs and as a result, it is so delicious that it makes one wonderstruck!" – (C.C.Madhya.19.189-192)

The Specialty of Gopī-prem

From the point of view of tattva, the Brajabeauties are Sri Krishna's own potency. Hence they are His wives. Yet Sri Krishna's *aghatan-ghatan-patīyas*² Yogmāyā made them eternally feel parakīyā.³ Actually they never got married to any other cowherd man. Yogmāyā simply made them feel this as if in a dream, to strengthen their parakīyā belief. A parakīyā sweetheart faces many obstacles to meet her lover. She has to meet Him secretly without the knowledge of her friends and relatives. Sometimes she succeeds in her endeavor and at other times does not. Due to this she has to veil her erotic desires and uniting with her lover is an extremely rare phenomenon. This lends immense color and charm to their love-affair. Therefore Yogmāyā has made the gopīs feel a sense of parakīyā.

There is another reason for this. When our goal is fraught with impediments, then our longing for the beloved increases. We feel strong agitation. Also we feel it is priceless. At long last, when we get the object of our desire, we relish it maximum - Just like one enjoys the taste of water when one is dying of thirst. The reverse is also true – if we are not thirsty, even if we get water, it is useless. Thus relish is directly proportional to desire. Stronger the desire, more the pleasure. The Braja gopīs constantly feel new undaunted desires to serve Sri Krishna. These cravings surge in their ocean-like hearts akin to gurgling waves! When a river reaches the sea, we see that the tides are stronger. The Braja gopīs are very close to Shyām-*sāgar*⁴, hence they experience remarkable high tide (bliss of meeting) and low tide (the pang of virahā) in their hearts. This results in variegated love-sports and ever new leelās.

The Gopīs suffer virahā from Sri Krishna as if each moment is like millions of yugas, similarly when they meet Him; even one *Brahma-rātrī*⁵ passes in a trice. Their eyes are like chakors that survive by drinking the immensely sweet nectarine beauty (like moonbeams) radiating from the moon like face of Shyām-*chānd*⁶. They insult the creator for making eyelids.

"Not only did the creator not give us millions of eyes, he gave us only two – and that too he covered them with eyelids! The creator only knows to perform dry austerity and is a big fool ! He has no inkling of ras and does not know the art of creation at all. Imagine giving only two eyes to one who will behold Krishna's face! He is the creator, yet he is so unjust! If he accepts my ¹ The five elements are – sky, air, fire, water and earth. Sound can echo in the sky. The air can reverberate sound; in addition it has another quality – touch. Fire can transmit sound; we can touch it as well as see it. Water transmits sound, has the quality of touch, is visible and also has taste. The earth has all these characteristics and also smell.

² One who is expert in making the impossible possible.

³ An extra-marital relationship.

⁴ Shyām – Sri Krishna; Sāgar = sea. Shyām-sāgar = Sri Krishna Who is like the blue sea.

suggestion and give me one crore eyes then I will consider him somewhat worthy for the post of a creator." – (C.C.Madhya.21.112-113)

Only the Gopīs who are rich with Mahābhāva can possess such precious sentiments. Such great love-longing can arise only out of parakīyā bhāva. This is why they relish Sri Krishna's sweetness to the greatest degree.

The highest specialty of Gopī-prem is 'lack of a desire for sense-gratification'. They feel blessed simply to serve Sri Krishna. They never ever think of their own happiness. If they wish to make love to Sri Krishna it is only to please Him. Only a Gopī can make statements such as – "I do not consider my own sorrow and I only desire His happiness for I am happy if He is happy. If He feels joy in making me suffer then that sorrow is the greatest joy for me." – (C.C.Antya.20.43)

"*kānta-sebā sukhapur, sangam hoite sumadhur*¹" – this is a statement made by a Braja-damsel. A desire for sense gratification never arises in a Gopikās heart. They are lost in finding out new means to serve Sri Krishna every time. No lover has been able to sacrifice their own dreams to make their beloved happy like the Gopīs have done.

"The Gopī never considers her own happiness and sorrow. All her endeavors are directed towards making Sri Krishna joyous. She forsakes all for Him and offers pure deep love to make Him blissful." – (C.C.Ādi.4.174-175)

We may question – "In the beginning of Rās-leelā Sripād Shukamuni has mentioned that the Gopīs clean and decorate themselves – limpantyahpramrijantyo'nyā anjantyah kāshcha lochane - (S.B.10.29.7) – then can we say that the Gopīs do not desire sense gratification?" The reply is –

"When we see the Gopīs dressing up nicely, know for sure, it is to please Sri Krishna. A Gopī feels – I have surrendered this body to Him and now it is His property for Him to enjoy. He will touch it and feel happy, so she keeps it clean and adorns it." – (C.C.4.181-183)

Now we have another doubt. Since the Gopikās do not aim for happiness, they will be bereft of joy; yet the scriptures state that happiness is the only goal for any living being. Whatever a living entity does, it is ultimately to gain pleasure, is it not? Then what is the use of such colossal Gopī-prem? Since it does not culminate in joy?

Sri Chaitanya-Charitāmrita answers –

"The Gopīs have an extraordinary mood and it is inconceivable. When the Gopīs see Sri Krishna, they do not wish for happiness, yet their joy is infinite. Their pleasure is millions of times greater than the joy that Sri Krishna feels on seeing them. Although they do not desire happiness it increases manifold. Is this not contradictory? We have only one solution of this riddle – The Gopikās joy lies in pleasing Sri Krishna; when He sees them His exultation increases and this makes Him incomparably sweet. When the Gopikā sees that Sri Krishna is joyous on seeing her, she feels all the more blissful, which makes her prettier. This in turn makes Sri Krishna jubilant and thus He looks more handsome than ever. In this manner both start competing with one another. However Sri Krishna is pleased with the beauty and excellent qualities of the Gopīs, while the Gopīs are happy simply to give Him pleasure. This is the reason why the love of the Gopīs is not tainted with lust." – (C.C.Ādi.4.185-195)

Thus we discover that the Gopīs love is absolutely flawless. Even though they may wish to make love to Sri Krishna it is only with the intention to please Him. Their love is unobstructed. Their love reveals all about Sri Krishna. Therefore He has admitted to Arjun –

"O Pārtha, only the Gopikās truly know my glory, my sevā, my wish and my deepest moods; no one else knows like they do."

¹ "Serving my Beloved is extremely joyous and is much sweeter than love-making."

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

This is why Sri Krishna is completely subjugated by the conjugal love of the Gopīs.

“Sri Bhagavān states that Gopi-prem subjugates Sri Krishna completely and this love makes Sri Krishna available to the devotee in His most complete form.” – (C.C.Madhya.8.88)

“Sri Krishna told the Gopikās on the night of the rās-dance – My dear Gopīs, the cords that bind a woman to the house is unbreakable, yet you have cut it asunder and have adored me selflessly. I will never be able to repay your debt. Your goodness is alone is the reward for your love.” – (S.B.10.32.22)

The Gopikās have Mahābhāv and Srimati Rādhārāni is the best of them.

Srila Vishwanāth Chakravartipād has written – “Based on the amount, we can classify love into 4 categories –

1. minute
2. relatively little more than minute,
3. great,
4. extremely great

A sādhak has minute love and he is able to subjugate Sri Krishna to a minute degree. Sages such as Nārad and Vyās have little more love than this and they subordinate Sri Krishna proportionally. The Brijwāsīs have great love while Srimati Rādhārāni has extremely great love. Thus Srimati Rādhārāni controls Him the most.”

Conjugal Love and its height

“When a couple is bound to each other by a feeling that is not destroyed in spite of immense threat (unfavorable conditions) we call it ‘love’,” – (U.N. Sthāyi-63)

Example – Srimati Rādhārāni is infinitely greater than Chandrāvali in all respects – beauty, qualities, sweetness, expertise, charm etc. Chandrāvali is well aware of this fact and Sri Krishna too knows it. She also knows that He has extreme anurāg for Srimati Rādhārāni. Yet the bond of bhāv between Sri Krishna and Chandrāvali never fades.

Here, Srimati Rādhārāni’s extreme beauty and excellences and Sri Krishna’s tremendous love for Her are the causes that can sever Chandrāvali’s love for Sri Krishna; yet their love does not die. This is the true nature of love. Why? Because both the lovers are completely without any desire for sense gratification.

This sort of love is of three types –

1. manda (feeble)
2. madhya (intermediate)
3. proudha (mature)

“Mature love is the one in which the lovers cannot bear separation” – (U.N.)

“When the lovers tolerate separation with great sorrow we call it intermediate love” – (U.N.)

“When the lovers may forget each other sometimes, it is feeble love.”– (U.N.)

Leelā-shakti creates such different types of love to enhance the ras of love and make it variegated. Of course, we should realize that Sri Krishna’s love is proportional to the type of love that the sweetheart feels for Him.

“Love increases gradually from sneha, mān, pranay, rāg, anurāg, bhāv and mahābhāv. Just as the taste is increasingly sweet from the seed of sugarcane, sugarcane, sugarcane juice, jaggery, lump sugar, sugar, refined sugar, double refined sugar and pure sugar. Similarly the enjoyment increases from one level of love to the next." – (C.C.Madhya.23.22-24)

The chemical analysts say that once we get the product, the reactant disappears – for instance – when the sugarcane is squeezed, we get the juice, however the sugarcane stick is no more; and when we thicken this juice to obtain jaggery, the juice disappears. Similarly when love deepens and reach the level of mân, we will not get the previous stage of love. When sneha turns into mân, sneha will vanish. This logic does not hold well in the case of love. Love has inconceivable power. It arouses the pleasure of all the levels in the heart of a lover. Even when a lover attains the next stage of love, the previous stage remains.

Sneha

"When love deepens, it makes us realize the object of love and melts our sub-consciousness. Then we call it 'sneha'. When a lover reaches this stage he never feels satisfied on simply seeing his beloved." – (U.N.)

Who is the object of love? Sri Krishna. To realize the object of love means 'to become conscious of Sri Krishna'. Sneha dazzles with such realization. Love (prem) too makes the lover realize Sri Krishna; however this consciousness shines brilliantly when he reaches sneha. His chitta too melts more than when he was in the stage of prem. Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has written in his Lochan-Rochani purport – "This definition of 'sneha' indicates that it is indestructible. The definition of prem states that one cannot annihilate prem. In sneha this quality becomes greater. When the devotee reaches sneha, in spite of getting Sri Krishna's darshan, he is not satisfied. His thirst keeps on increasing."

"janam abadhi ham, roop nehârinu nayana nâ tirapita bhelo".

Meaning - "I have been seeing Him since birth, yet my eyes remain thirsty for more."

– (Vidyâpati).¹

Mân

"When sneha increases and makes the lover relish novel sweetness and itself becomes crooked, and then we call it 'mân.' – (U.N.)

When sneha become deep, the lover relishes a sweetness that is greater and new than what he has relished earlier. Yet, he behaves crookedly and does not show any interest. When a river gushes with great speed and comes across a giant barrier, this water surges. Unable to proceed in the normal course, it divides into hundreds of streams that flow in a curved manner. Similarly, the Braja gopis, who are naturally crooked – when their love faces a barricade of mân, their love twists all the more and it rushes speedily through hundreds of courses. Hence U.N. says –

"The lover and the beloved are together; they are also attached to one another; they wish to see and embrace one another as well; yet the mood that stops them from doing so is called 'mân.'"

Although mân apparently troubles the lovers, it enhances their love and becomes new each moment. Mân serves to revitalize love, heightens the pulse and maintains novelty. Mân makes love that is already enjoyable, more relishing, sweeter and more tempting. Truly, mân is a wonderful rejuvenator in the empire of prem – an amazing miracle! The lover starts yearning to drink the nectar of his beloved's lotus-like lips just like a black bee tempted by a lotus full of honey. He prays to the beloved to dispel the darkness of his heart by flashing her sparkling white teeth (that is – by smiling at him). Ultimately He rolls at her feet crying - "dehi-pada-pallavamudâram" – and feels blessed in doing so! Actually the lover feels immense joy internally, yet he/she feigns disinterest, shows crooked behavior, sarcasm etc. outside. This is the true nature of mân. Hence Sri Chaitanya-Charitâmrita has stated –

"The Gopis' mân creates ras in Braja dhâm."

¹ Prem and all the higher stages are present in Srimati Râdhârâni to the maximum extent in amount as well as quality.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Pranay

"When mân deepens to become vishrambha then we call it 'pranay.'" - (U.N.)

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has explained 'vishrambha' as – "Vishrambha is a state when we consider ourselves non-different from our dear one.'

We should note the point that 'we are non-different from each other' is not at all like the feeling of the brahma-yogis who think they are non-different from Brahman. Pranay is a very high stage of love. And love means to serve Sri Krishna and please Him. So the devotee serves more when he attains the level of pranay. If Sri Krishna and the devotee think they are non-different from each other, how will the devotee serve Sri Krishna and how will He accept the sevâ? Then what does 'feeling non-different from each other' imply here? Srila Vishwanâth Chakravartipâd has cleared our doubt in his Ânanda-Chandrikâ purport –

"'Vishrambha' means 'to have faith' or 'without awe and reverence'. The lovers consider each other's life, mind, intellect, body and belongings to be the same. Whatever belongs to Him is mine; whatever is mine belongs to Him. This is the feeling. In spite of this, sometimes they do get angry with one another – this is only to create ras. We should understand this. If we touch our body with our feet, do we apologize? We do not hesitate to wipe our face with our garments, do we? Similarly when the sweetheart touches Sri Krishna with her feet, she is not embarrassed; neither does she seek permission to wipe her face with His golden yellow robe. In brief, lack of self-consciousness is the main sign of pranay. The height of pranay is – 'nâ so ramana nâ ham ramani, duhu mana manobhava peshala jâni.'"¹

True, we have mentioned that mân deepens to become pranay. However this rule does not hold good all the time. Sometimes pranay turns into mân. Thus pranay and mân give rise to each other. Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd says –

"Sometimes sneha deepens to form pranay and then the lover attains mân; and in some cases, sneha matures into mân and then the lover reaches the stage of pranay. Thus we see that mân and pranay are interconvertible. Therefore we are specifying that when the love deepens so much that the lovers express vishrambha (lose self-consciousness), we call it pranay." – (U.N.)

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has explained this statement in his Lochan-Rochani commentary as follows –

"Crookedness is the specialty of mân and crookedness is possible only when the lover attains the stage of pranay. So it is logical that mân should appear after pranay. However love travels in a twisted course; the sweetheart's love is naturally warped. Hence she can feel mân because she has a reason and mân may arise in her heart for no rhyme or reason. Hence it is Srila Rupa Goswâmi's personal opinion that mân deepens so that the lovers lose self-consciousness and they graduate onto the level of pranay."

Râg

"When pranay reaches its maximum height, the lover feels happy in extreme sorrow; we call this stage as 'râg.'" – (U.N.)

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd explains – "When a lover sees that if he accepts a sorrowful situation he will get Sri Krishna, he joyously welcomes that state; on the other hand if a happy situation does not result in obtaining Sri Krishna he feel sad. This indicates that the lover has reached the state of râg."

Sneha, mân, pranay and râg – all have variety. For instance, there are two kinds of sneha –

- Ghrita-snehâ (sneha resembling clarified butter)
- Madhu-snehâ (sneha that is akin to honey)

¹ He is not the lover, neither am I the beloved, our hearts have merged to become one.

² Ghrita-sneha – This sneha is full of loving care; however ghee tastes well only when you add it with some other ingredient like sugar etc. Similarly this sneha gives Sri Krishna pleasure when the lover also expresses other bhâvs along with sneha – like envy, pride etc.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Mân is also of two types –

- *Udâta-mân*²
- *Lalito-mân*³

Pranay is of two types –

- *Maitra-pranay*⁴
- *Sakhya-pranay*⁵

There are further classifications of these moods. Râg too has various categories.

Srimati Râdhârâni expresses the second of all the above-mentioned qualities. The second attributes are higher than the first ones. The first qualities express – “I belong to you” (the sweetheart thinks she belongs to Sri Krishna), while the second qualities show – “You belong to me” or Sri Krishna belongs to the devotee. Chandrâvali displays all the first qualities while Srimati Râdhârâni has the second ones. All the qualities of Srimati Râdhârâni are present in the sakhis belonging to Her group since they are Her expansions.

Sri Krishna’s eternal associates (nitya-siddha) are the embodiments of His swarup shakti. The above-mentioned qualities are present in them since eternity. The devotees who become His associates after attaining success in sâdhanâ gain the necessary qualities only after accomplishment. We call them sâdhan-siddha. When the sâdhak-body breaks up, he is born in the home of a cowherd (âhiri-gop) wherever Sri Krishna is performing His divine pastimes at the moment. There he gains transcendental body. He bonds with the eternal associates who are in the same mood as he is in. Their mood transmits into him.

Anurâg

“When a lover is at the height of râg and expresses newer and newer colorful moods, and he experiences his beloved in novel manners each moment, we call that stage as ‘anurâg.’” – (U.N.)

This means that anurâg is “deep râg”. When the lover’s râg matures, his moods become all the more colorful, variegated and gain novel hues. Although he did realize his beloved Sri Krishna’s sweet beauty and excellence earlier too, now he relishes them afresh – as if he had never relished them before. As a result the devotee’s temptation to relish Sri Krishna’s sweetness increases tremendously. Then “the thirst is not satiated, the thirst increases constantly” – (C.C. Âdi.4.149). The devotee reaches such a state. It is true that anurâg makes us realize Sri Krishna Whom we were relishing constantly earlier as if we are seeing Him or hearing about Him for the first time!!

Sri Ujjwal-Neelmani describes the characteristics of anurâg as follows –

“(1) The lovers are subjugated to each other. (2) Their love attains prem-vaichittya. (3) We extremely crave to become even inanimate objects to relish Sri Krishna’s sweetness and (4) We get His visphurti in viraha.”

(1) The lovers are subjugated to each other

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd explains the above statement –

“In prem too the lovers are subjugated to each other, yet the subordination is distinct in anurâg, it is newer and newer each moment.”

¹ Madhu-sneha – Honey is relishing on its own. It is thick. Hence this sneha is much deeper than the ghrita-sneha.

² Udâta-mân – The sweetheart possessing ‘ghrita-sneha’ express this sort of mân. She is generous externally, but adverse internally. E.g. Chandrâvali

³ Lalito-mân – The sweetheart possessing ‘madhu-sneha’ express this sort of mân. She has no barrier and expresses vary sweet sarcasm and witty remarks. E.g. Srimati Râdhârâni

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Srila Vishwanâth Chakravartipâd says – “In prem, clearly the lovers are subordinate to each other. However, in this case the sweetheart maiden is not much subjugated since she feels shy and is reluctant to make any overture. On the other hand, in anurâg, we see that the sweetheart is so thirsty for Sri Krishna that she is rid of all feminine bashfulness and is completely overpowered. Thus the subjugation in anurâg is distinct from that in prem.”

(2) Their love attains ‘prem-vaichittya’.

When a devotee reaches the stage of anurâg, he expresses a certain mood called ‘prem-vaichittya’. Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd explains –

vaichittya.” – (U.N.)

“When love surges high, even though the lover is very close to the beloved, she yearns and grieves for him thinking he is far from her – this is ‘prem-vaichittya’.”

The lover craves for Sri Krishna so much in anurâg, that in spite of lying on His lap she feels the pangs of viraha. This is a remarkable miracle in the Empire of Love.

*rasabati boithi rasikoboro pâsh, ro-i koho-i dhani biroho hutâsh,
âr ki milobo mohe roshomoy shyâm, biroho jaladhi koto pourobo ham.*

*nikotohi nâho nâ hero-i rai, sahachari koto parabodhai tâ-i.
kânu chamaki tobo rai koru kor, gobinda dâsa heri bhelo bhor.”*

Meaning - “Rasavati¹ Râdhârâni sat close to Sri Krishna Who is the greatest of all rasiks. And just see what my Precious Darling did – She wept and said sighing heavily writhing in the pangs of separation – ‘Will I ever get Shyâm Who is full of ras?’ Although She was so close to Him She could not see Him. The sakhis were trying their level best to console her and make Her see reason. Kânu was shocked and drew Her onto His lap, and when poet Gobinda dâs saw this he was immersed in joy.”

(3) To relish Sri Krishna’s sweetness we extremely crave to become inanimate objects even.

When our anurâg reaches a dizzy height, we yearn tremendously to meet Sri Krishna – so much so – if we learn that by becoming some inanimate object we can obtain Sri Krishna we crave for it. Example, Srimati Râdhârâni wants to perform tapasyâ to become a flute. Sriman-Mahâprabhu has expressed in Srimati Râdhârâni’s bhâv–

“Dear gopis, please ponder and tell me - what austerity did this flute perform in his past life, in which holy place and what great mantra did he chant? How else did he get the opportunity to drink the nectar of Krishna’s lips that puts even Amritam to shame? That Amritam – for which the gopis cling to their lives (hoping they will get it in some distant future). The flute has no qualification at all, moreover it belongs to the male community, yet it drinks such nectar constantly!” – (C.C. Antya.16.133-134)

“I want to find out what austerity the flute performed so that I too may follow suit. After all he has no qualification, while we are worthy women (so we shall certainly get easily what he has obtained). I cannot bear the grief of not getting what this worthless flute is drinking to its heart’s content! Therefore I am seriously contemplating austerity.” – (C.C. Antya.16.139)

(4) We get His visphurti in viraha

When we reach the zenith of anurâg, even though we may be separated from Sri Krishna we feel as if we are seeing Him. This is visphurti. Firstly, the anurâgini (the devotee who is in gopi-bhâv and has reached the stage of anurâg) does not consider such meeting as illusion. She thinks it is real and rushes to take Him in her arms. When she fails to touch Him she thinks it is sphurti. Such are the symptoms of anurâg.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Mahâbhâv

When the lover's anurâg reaches its height and attains a special state, we call it Mahâbhâv. To understand Mahâbhâv we first need to learn a few facts about anurâg. Srila Vishwanâth Chakravartipâd has written in his Ânanda-Chandrikâ

explanation –

"Anurâg has 3 aspects –

- bhâv
- karan (instrument)
- karma (action)

Bhâv - When a lover reaches the height of anurâg, she loses herself completely in relishing Sri Krishna's sweetness – so much so – that she fails to distinguish between Sri Krishna and herself. All she experiences is – 'relish'. This is the bhâv of the lover in anurâg.

Karan – 'Karan' means 'instrument' – an object by which we can do some work. A lover can relish Sri Krishna's sweetness with the help of anurâg. Hence anurâg is an instrument. When the lover reaches the zenith of anurâg, he relishes Sri Krishna's sweetness to the highest degree. Thus we see that maximum anurâg causes maximum relish.

Karma – It means 'action'. Anurâg performs an action – it makes us relish Sri Krishna's sweetness. When we reach the height of anurâg, we relish the greatest sweetness and when we relish maximum sweetness, we experience anurâg in its most brilliant form. Therefore in this case, 'relishing' is the action and anurâg performs this action.

When the lover reaches the highest point of anurâg, she expresses it to the utmost level. Anurâg reveals maximum bhâv, becomes the best instrument to relish Sri Krishna's sweetness and makes her relish the sweetness to the highest degree. When she experiences these aspects of anurâg, she feels the most complete bliss. We call this state of anurâg as 'swa-samvedya-dashâ'.

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has stated in Lochan-Rochani purport–

"When a lover experiences anurâg, she expresses ecstasy. There are eight symptoms of ecstasy. When the lover reaches the height of anurâg, she may express five, six or all the symptoms simultaneously and that too in to the greatest extent. Then we call such anurâg as 'prakâshito' or 'expressive'.

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has also stated in the same purport –

"When anurâg increases, the lover expresses her love to the greatest degree. After all, what does it mean to be in love with Sri Krishna? It means that she considers immense pain as pleasure if that pain makes Sri Krishna happy. So we deduce that her love has reached the zenith when she considers the greatest pain as the highest pleasure. When the lover attains this stage of anurâg, we call such anurâg as 'yâvad-âshraya-vritti'.

The brides of honorable families find nothing more painful than forsaking the noble path of life. They are ever ready to bear the fire or consume poison to guard their honor. They can very easily and happily give up their lives for this purpose. The Brajabeauties have forsaken their near and dear ones and the noble path effortlessly to serve Sri Krishna. Giving up righteous conduct is the pinnacle of sorrow, yet they have experienced supreme bliss in doing so. Therefore this proves that their anurâg is showing 'yâvad-âshraya-vritti'."

Now let us decipher the definition of Mahâbhâv from the above mentioned facts.

Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd has defined Mahâbhâv as –

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

"When anurâg attains –

1. swa-samvedya-dashâ
2. prakâshito (is expressive)
3. shows yâvad-âshraya-vritti,

we call it 'Mahâbhâv.' – (U.N.)

"Even the queens of Lord Mukunda (such as Rukmini and Satyabhâmâ) cannot attain this Mahâbhâv, we can find it only in the Braja devîs." – (U.N.)

Variety of Mahâbhâv

"In the ascending order, Mahâbhâv is of two types –

1. rudha (heightened)
2. adhirudha (very much heightened)." – (U.N.)

Rudha Mahâbhâv - It is the first stage of Mahâbhâv.

"When a lover who is in Mahâbhâv, expresses tears, goose bumps and other symptoms of ecstasy, we call this stage as 'rudha Mahâbhâv'. The lover should express five, six or all the symptoms simultaneously and to the maximum extent". – (U.N.)

The gopikâs are mahâbhâv-vatî. When they are in viraha and are experiencing rudha-mahâbhâv

1. They cannot tolerate the eye-lids (can also mean – a time span as short as the blinking of an eye) and
2. Even the nearby people experience agitation in the heart;
3. They consider a kalpa as a moment in separation from Govinda
4. They are sad because they apprehend sorrow even when Sri Krishna is in great joy;
5. Although the gopîs are not in illusion or ignorance, they forget everything including themselves,
6. They consider a moment as long as a kalpa.

Now Let us understand each point in detail.

They cannot tolerate the eye-lids

When the Mahâbhâv-vatî gopîs feel rudha-bhâv, they cannot stand the eye-lids during Sri Krishna-darshan! The gop-sundaris curse the creator for making eye-lids. They feel –"Ohh! It would have been so much better if he had not created eye-lids, for then we could have seen our Beloved uninterruptedly, to our heart's content." Of course, the gopîs are not created by Brahmâji, yet they consider themselves as cowherd women made by Lord Brahmâ. This enables them to relish Sri Krishna's sweetness more nicely. When they curse Brahmâji, who is one of the "Twelve Mahâjans²" in the mood of an ordinary milk-maid, we can comprehend how much they yearn for Sri Krishna's darshan.

Even the nearby people experience agitation in the heart

When the lover expresses rudha-mahâbhâv, even the people present nearby experience an agitation in the heart due to the immense impact of rudha-mahâbhâv. When the gopîs took darshan of Sri Krishna during the solar-eclipse in Kurukshetra, everybody present there had experienced agitation in their hearts. This was the effect of the rudha-mahâbhâv of the gopîs. This is just like the surging waves of the sea that make all nearby objects oscillate.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

They consider a kalpa as a moment

When the gopis unite with Sri Krishna they experience supreme bliss and even a kalpa passes so quickly that they feel they had seen Him only for a moment. Although the gopis had danced with Sri Krishna for one Brahma-râtri (during the râs-leelâ), they had felt as if it was shorter than the blinking of an eye. This is due to their rudha-mahâbhâv that arouses in them an extremely intense longing to sport with Shyâmsundar. When they are separated from Him, they are so much absorbed in His divine loving pastimes, that they find a kalpa equal to one *nimesh*¹.

They are sad because they apprehend sorrow even when Sri Krishna is in great joy

When Sri Krishna is greatly happy, they are sad because they expect something bad to happen.

"When we see our dear one in trouble, we fear for him."
– (Ancient Indian Proverb)

No one fears when we see our dear one rejoicing. However the Braja-beauties who are in rudha-mahâbhâv, grieve when they see Sri Krishna in a very happy mood, since they apprehend sorrow. When Sri Krishna places His foot on the bosom of the gopis, He is immensely happy, yet the gopis are sad, because they think that their breasts are hard while His feet are so soft, and they fear that He may be hurt. Fearfully they place His foot very slowly on their bosom. The last verse of Gopi-Geet proves this point.

Although the gopis
are not in illusion or ignorance, they forget everything including themselves

Material people may forget their belongings when they are in illusion; however although the gopis are free of such negative factors, they forget everything including themselves. This is a remarkable characteristic of rudha-mahâbhâv. It happens because the gopis are entirely lost in Sri Krishna's beauty and excellences.

them. It is the characteristic

The gopis suffer the pangs of viraha so much that even one moment of separation from Sri Krishna seems like one kalpa to of rudha-mahâbhâv that the lover feels one kalpa equal to one moment when she unites with Sri Krishna, and one moment as one kalpa when she is separated from Him.

They consider a moment as long as a *kalpa

Now let us discuss adhirudha-Mahâbhâv.

Adhirudha-Mahâbhâv

"Adhirudha-bhâv is a state of love in which the lover has all the characters of rudha-mahâbhâv, but expresses inconceivable symptoms of ecstasy." – (U.N.)

We have already mentioned that when a lover reaches rudha-mahâbhâv, she expresses five, six or all the eight symptoms of ecstasy simultaneously.

"In adhirudha-mahâbhâv the lover expresses all the symptoms of ecstasy and they are much more beautiful. However her expressions do not shine as brilliantly as they do in another higher stage of love called 'mohan.'" – (Ânanda-Chandrikâ purport)

Later on we shall discuss 'mohan'. Now let us learn the classification of adhirudha-Mahâbhâv.

Classification of
*adhirudha-mahâbhâv

"Adhirudha-Mahâbhâv is of two types –

- Modan
- Mâdar" – (U.N.)

¹ The time taken to blink an eye

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd says – “Modan and mâdan arise during conjugation only. ‘Modan’ comes from the root ‘mud’. It means ‘joy’. Hence ‘modan’ indicates the bliss of union. ‘Mad’ is the root for ‘mâdan’. Its literal meaning is ‘intoxication’. Thus ‘mâdan’ signifies the intoxication caused by exquisite honey-wine. Here mâdan refers to the blissful intoxication arising out of meeting with Govinda.

Modan

“When Sri Krishna and Sri Râdhâ meet one another, They express brilliant ecstasy that is very beautiful. Then we call such a bhâvas modan’ . – (U.N.)

In the stage of rudha-mahâbhâv too the lover expresses ecstasy; however we should remember that the symptoms of ecstasy are inconceivably special in adhirudha-mahâbhâv. When both Sri Krishna and Srimati Râdhârâni express these extraordinarily beautiful symptoms, then we can say it is modan. Sri Ujjwal-Neelmani says –

“Modan is a supremely rich bhâv. It is present only in the gopis of Srimati Râdhârâni’s group. It does not exist elsewhere. Modan is the topmost character or function of hlâdini shakti. It is extremely sweet and lovable. It is also very great. Only Srimati Râdhârâni and Her group-members have this bhâv. It is not possible in Chandrâvali or any other group. This proves that Srimati Râdhârâni and Her sakhis are the greatest of all the Braja-gopis.

Mohan

When a lover feels separation, her modan-bhâv turns into mohan. She is overcome by the pangs of viraha and cannot help but express symptoms of ecstasy that are exceptionally brilliant (suddipta).

This signifies that only in mohan, a lover expresses all the signs of ecstasy in a ‘suddipta’ manner. When the lover exhibits each and every ecstatic symptom very brilliantly, that is, she displays each sign of ecstasy to the utmost degree, then alone we can call it ‘suddipta’ (prominently brilliant).

“Only one person exhibits mohan-bhâv – and She is Srimati Râdhârâni – the Supreme Controller of Vrindâban.” – (U.N.)

Sri Chaitanya-Charitâmrita describes the suddipta signs of ecstasy as displayed by Sriman-Mahâprabhu when He relished the mohan-bhâv of Srimati Râdhârâni in Neelâchal – “Lord Goursundar sprouted pimples all over and His hair stood at their ends. He resembled a Shimuli tree¹ full of thorns. It was scary the way His each tooth rattled and you would think all His teeth would fall off. Perspiration flowed all over His body, and on top of that, blood oozed from the pores. All the more why He looked like a Shimuli tree (refer glossary for picture). He could utter only ‘ja ja ga ga’ since His voice was choked. Tears sprang from His eyes like water from a pichkârî that wet everyone around Him. His complexion would

Symptoms of mohan

sometimes be golden, and then be pink the next moment. At other times He would be as radiant as the Mallikâ flowers (small white flowers). Sometimes He would be stupefied and the next moment He would be rolling on the earth; at other times He would lie stiff like a dry log. He would fall on the earth and lie without breathing – seeing this, the devotees would nearly die.” – (C.C.Madhy.102-108)

“The signs of mohan as glorified by the wise are as follows –

1. Sri Krishna faints in spite of being embraced by His consorts.
2. The lover bears intense pain and still desires only Sri Krishna’s happiness.
3. It agitates the entire universe.
4. Even the animals weep.
5. The lover is ready to accept death and wants to quench her thirst for Sri Krishna with the remnants of Her bodily elements.
6. Divine lunacy”. – (U.N.)

We shall now discuss these points in detail.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

1. Sri Krishna faints in spite of being embraced by His consorts

"When Srimati Râdhârâni Who is in Braja, feels mohan-bhâv, Sri Krishna Who is in Dwâarakâ, faints in spite of being embraced by His queens such as Rukmini and Satyabhâmâ."

– (Ânanda-Chandrikâ purport)

This shows the impact of mohan on the object of love (in this case, Sri Krishna).

2. The lover bears intense pain and still desires only Sri Krishna's happiness

In spite of suffering from unbearable pain the lover wishes to please Sri Krishna. When Sri Uddhav asked Srimati Râdhârâni before departing from Brajadhâm – "Dear Radhe, what message shall I gift Sri Krishna on Your behalf?" Then Srimati Râdhârâni replied – "O Uddhav, if Mukunda would have come to this cattle-field, we would be extremely happy – it is true. However if this causes even the slightest loss to Him, then He should never come."

3. It agitates the entire universe

Mohan bhâv has such a powerful impact on the material and divine worlds that Sri Ujjwal-Neelmani describes –

"When Srimati Râdhârâni Who was in mohan-bhâv, prem-exhaled, the love-smoke pervaded the universe and humankind yelled in pain, the Nâgas (celestial serpents) are agitated, the heavenly beings perspire profusely and even Kamalâ devi in Vaikuntha, shed abundant tears. In this manner, all universes, although joyous, was extremely miserable."

4. Even the animals weep

When Srimati Râdhârâni heard that Sri Krishna had gone to Dwâarakâ, She was seated in a kunja on the banks of the Kâlindi. Hearing this terrible news She covered Herself with His golden yellow robe and embraced a beautiful creeper. Then She let out such a heart-rending cry that even the fish and other aquatic animals of the Kâlindi wailed with Her.

5. The lover is ready to accept death and wants to quench her thirst for Sri Krishna with the remnants of Her bodily elements

The Mahâjan has described –

*"jâhân pohuaruno charane choli jâto, tânhâ tânhâ dharani hoi mojhu gâto.
jo sarobare pohu niti niti nâho, mojhu anga salilo hoi tathi mâho.
e sakhi biroho morono nirodondo, oichhe milobo jobo gokulochando.
jo darapane pohu nijo mukho châho, mojhu anga-jyoti hoi tathi mâho.
jo beejane pohu beejoi gâto, mojhu anga tânhi hoi mridu bâto.
jânhâ pohu bharamoi jaladhara shyâmo,
mojhu anga gagano hoi tochhu thâmo.
gobinda dâso oho kâchano gori, so rasamoy tonu tohe kiye chhori."*

Meaning - "Wherever His rosy feet tread, I wish my body to mingle with the earth there. May my body turn into water of the lake my Beloved bathes everyday. Dear sakhi, I do not hesitate to die in viraha if I can get the Moon of Gokul (Sri Krishna) by doing so. When my Beloved looks at Himself in the mirror, may my radiance illuminate that room (to enable Him to gaze at Himself). When my Beloved is fanned, may my body be the soft breeze blowing on Him. When I mistake the dark clouds as Shyâm, may my body become the sky that holds such clouds. Poet Gobinda dâs says – O golden maiden, Your body is so full of ras - why do you want to give it up?"

6. Divine lunacy -

It is the topmost symptom of mohan-bhâv. Sri Ujjwal-Neelmani says -

"Divine lunacy has an aura of illusion. It is an inexpressible characteristic of mohan-bhâv".

True, divine lunacy is an extraordinary event in the realm of bhâv. It has an aura of illusion. However the lover, who experiences this bhâv, is not really in any illusion. A delusion appears in the lover's heart only because she is immersed in extreme bhâv! Due to this when Srimati Râdhârâni experiences divine lunacy; She mistakes the clouds and the Tamâl to be Sri Krishna! When Srimati Râdhârâni is overwhelmed by viraha She has so many hallucinations. Her sweet lamentations form an incomparable priceless treasure in the empire of Vaishnav literature. Her expressions of grief are the highest truth and the topmost relish for all devotees who have entered the sphere of bhajan.

Divine lunacy is extremely difficult concept. This craziness is transcendental or beyond the material world. When someone in the material world goes mad, he is in illusion, however divine lunacy has an aura of delusion, yet it is the supreme truth, since the lover has only one person in Her sub-consciousness – and He is none other than Sri Krishna – Who is 'satyam shivam sundaram'¹. Srimad-Bhâgavatam (11.2.40) describes divine lunacy as follows –

"evam vratah swapriya-nâma-kirtyâ jâtânurâgo drutachitta uchchaih, hasatyatha roditi routi gâyâtyunmâdavannarityati lokabâhyah."

Meaning and explanation - "When one gains anurâg, sometimes he laughs loudly like a madman², and at other times he weeps. He screams, sings and dances. Although this devotee appears to be crazy like a material lunatic, he is far from it. An ordinary madman suffers from a miserable illness, while an anurâgi devotee is verily liberated from the dreadful disease of material desires and is wandering in the transcendental empire of ras! A mentally retarded person is immersed in the darkest hallucinations, while a prem-crazy devotee is advancing towards the transcendental abode called 'Golok-dhâm' – the divine place of eternal bliss! One is ignorant while the other is intoxicated with divine joy!"

However divine lunacy is far above the description in Srimad-Bhâgavatam. In this stage the lover constantly relishes revelations of Sri Krishna and incessantly wanders in the realm of ras. She sees Vrindâban everywhere and beholds Sri Krishna's divine pastimes wherever she gazes.

We see that the mesmerizing flute forces the maidens of Braja to forsake self-control, righteousness and bashfulness – they ramble through the woods of Vrindâban like ones possessed. They ask the trees, creepers and shrubs about Sri Krishna. Undoubtedly, a colossal maddening-shakti is working on them, yet their madness is nothing as compared to divine lunacy experienced by Srimati Râdhârâni. Their madness is not all that special. Srimati Râdhârâni alone has the monopoly over this priceless gem called 'divine lunacy'. And we are fortunate that we belong to this Kaliyug, when Sri Goursundar has relished the sweet ras of this divine lunacy. Srila Krishnadâs Kavirâj Goswâmi has written –

"During the last twelve years of His divine pastimes, Lord Goursundar constantly expressed sphurti in Sri Krishna's viraha. He manifested the same symptoms as Srimati Râdhârâni did when She met Uddhav. The Lord incessantly displayed divine lunacy in Sri Krishna's viraha. He manifested such ecstatic symptoms all day and night. It was as if He was in illusion and He only lamented. Blood oozed from His pores and His teeth rattled. At one moment He would become thin and the very next moment His body would bloat up. He did not sleep a wink in Gambhirâ. He would rub his face and head on the walls and get wounded. The house had three gates, yet the Lord would go out! Sometimes He fell near the Lion-gate¹ and at other times, in the sea.

Sometimes He would mistake the Chatak hill as Govardhan and rush towards it wailing piteously. When He saw a garden He would think it was Vrindâban. He would go there and start singing and dancing. The next moment He would faint. The Lord expressed such symptoms of bhâv that no one has even heard before. The joints of His hands and legs would come loose; the bones would separate from each other, although the skin remained in place.

At times the Lord's head, legs and hands would enter inside the body and He would resemble a turtle. In this manner the Lord exhibited remarkable signs of ecstasy. His heart was empty and He would only grieve. He wailed – 'O what do I do? Where do I go? How do I get Vrajendranandan? Where is my Beloved Murali-vadan? To whom do I express my sorrow and who can understand my grief? My heart is breaking without Vrajendranandan!!' The Lord lamented continuously in this piteous manner." – (C.C.Madhya.2.3-17)

Types of divine lunacy

"Divine lunacy is of various types, such as, udghurnâ, chitrajalpa etc." – (U.N.)

Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd has described Srimati Râdhârâni's udghurnâ in the 3rd act of the drama 'Lalit-Mâdhâv'. When the lady-love meets someone who is dear to her Beloved, She expresses extreme yearning that stems from deep anger. She talks animatedly with plenty of bhâv. This is 'chitra-jalpa'. In the 47th chapter of the 10th skandha of Srimad-Bhâgavatam Srimati Râdhârâni displayed various bhâvs on meeting Sri Uddhav. These ten verses that make up Bhramar-geet contain the ten types of jalpanâ and it is 'chitrajalpa'.²

Now let us study the second type of Mahâbhâv that is – mâdan.

Mâdan

"Prem is the essence (or the most condensed form) of hlâdini shakti. When prem amplifies all the bhâvs ranging from rati to Mahâbhâv, we call it mâdan. It is a bhâv that is superior to the suprememost bhâv. It exists only in Srimati Râdhârâni."

– (U.N.)

When Swayam Bhagavân Sri Krishna appears, then all divine forms come and appear in Him. Similarly, when Srimati Râdhârâni expresses mâdan, love of all the gradations sparkles brilliantly through this bhâv. Mâdan is the best of all bhâvs and is supremely exultant – therefore we call it 'superior to the supreme'.

Mâdan is present only in Srimati Râdhârâni; even Her soul mate Lalitâ who is a prominent member of Her group, does not possess mâdan. Thus we discover that Srimati Râdhârâni reigns supreme in the empire of Love. Mâdan existed in Srimati Râdhârâni since time infinite. Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has written –

"Although mâdan is ever-residing in Srimati Râdhârâni, sometimes it remains concealed in Her heart, and is revealed at other times." – (Lochan-Rochani purport)

Mâdan never disappears from Srimati Râdhârâni's sub-consciousness. We learn that mâdan is Her original nature. This makes Her more remarkable and extraordinary than other lovers who possess Mahâbhâv. Thus we accept the fact that where the height of love is concerned, Srimati Râdhârâni has no competition what so ever.

Let us analyse the word mâdan for some further relish. It stems from the root 'mad'. Although the root word 'mad' indicates 'joy', it is generally used to mean 'intoxicate'.

"mâdayati harshena unmâdâtiti mâdanah"

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Meaning - "We call this bhâv as 'mâdan' because it has the same effect of exquisite honey-wine – it exhilarates the lover with intoxicating joy."

Symptoms of mâdan

"When a lover has the bhâv 'mâdan' –

- ◆ She feels extremely jealous of something that does not warrant resentment at all. Example – When Srimati Râdhârâni saw the garland of wild flowers oscillating on Sri Krishna's bosom, She was jealous, although the garland is lifeless and is surely not competing with Her.
- ◆ Also, although She is always united with Sri Krishna, She pays obeisance to anything that simply carries His perfume." – (U.N.) Example – Once the saffron from Her bosom had got transferred onto Sri Krishna's feet. When He had walked away from there, the saffron smeared the grass. While collecting woods from the forest, a tribal lass had been attracted by the sweet fragrance of that saffron; she had taken it and dabbed it on her face and bosom. Srimati Râdhârâni had copiously praised that tribal girl and had sung a hymn unto her. We see this in Srimad-Bhâgavatam (10.21.17) in the verse 'purnâh pulindya'.

Sri Ujjwal-Neelmani describes the extraordinary specialty of mâdan-bhâv as –

"This mâdan-bhâv arises only during milan. Its impact is strangely inconceivable. It assists in the eternal pastimes in thousands of artistic ways. Mâdan is very much Sri Krishna Himself. Just as He is the transcendental youthful Love-God, and you cannot comprehend Him, similarly the ways of mâdan too are impossible to understand. This is why, neither Srila Bharat Muni nor Sripâd Shuka Muni (the descriptor of râs-leelâ in Srimad-Bhâgavatam) have succeeded in describing clearly the characteristics of mâdan."

Srila Vishwanâth Chakravartipâd has explained this statement in his Ânanda-Chandrikâ purport as follows – "Mâdan bhâv arises in Srimati Râdhârâni only when She is in milan with Sri Krishna, and never during viraha. Although mâdan is ever-existent in Srimati Râdhârâni, it is expressed in milan and remains concealed in viraha."

Now we have a question – "Do you remember the example of the symptoms of mâdan, when we spoke about the tribal girl? Well, when Srimati Râdhârâni felt mâdan and spoke that verse, She was nowhere near Sri Krishna. Then how does the tribal-girl-example fit in, since mâdan occurs only during milan?"

The reply is – "When mâdan expresses itself, the lover experiences kissing and embracing (or conjugal bliss) and within this experience she also realizes the pangs of viraha. She undergoes two experiences – of milan and viraha in one situation itself. In fact this is the strange specialty of mâdan."

The question may arise – "How can the sweetheart cry out in longing of viraha when she is actually making love to Sri Krishna?"

We answer – "This is why Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd has used the word 'strange' to explain the nature of mâdan. There are innumerable types of conjugation and innumerable types of viraha-lamentations during such love-making – this is extremely remarkable! We cannot explain how it happens – this is the wonder of mâdan."

How mâdan differs from anurâg

We have mentioned that anurâg has a characteristic – visphurti during viraha. However when the sweetheart experiences viraha in mâdan, it is not like the 'visphurti in viraha' of anurâg, since it is not a sphurti – it is real. What happens in anurâg? The lady-love experiences viraha, then as she remembers her Beloved repeatedly, she gets his sphurti; in sphurti she embraces Sri Krishna. Then she is happy and she does not cry out in longing. We know in mâdan it is not like this. Hence the simultaneous milan and viraha that occurs in mâdan distinguishes it from anurâg.

True, the behavior of mâdan is entirely incomprehensible. Just as the glory of Sri Krishna, Who is the transcendental youthful Love-God Whom we worship with Kâm-beej and Kâm-Gâyatri, is inconceivable, so is mâdan! As a result, Srila Bharat Muni who is the preceptor of the 'primeval ras' or the erotic ras and Srila Shukadev Muni – the orator of Srimad-Bhâgavatam too have failed in describing the characteristics of mâdan. When mâdan is so wonderful, then how much more wonderful, incomparable, inexpressible and inconceivable is the glory of the One Who is always full of *mâdan-âkhya Mahâbhâv*¹ - Srimati Râdhârâni?

Sri Rasa-Tattva-Vigyaan

(Analytical Study of Ras)

What is 'ras'?

'Ras' is something unearthly and beyond the Laws of Nature. Like Brahman, ras is inconceivable and inexpressible. We can only realize ras and cannot arrive at it with logic. Ras transcends all thought-processes and gives us relish when our chitta has attained the state of pure goodness and shines brilliantly. Those who do not have the desire to relish ras can never realize ras. The author of Sāhitya-Darpan says –

"Ras is beyond the material world and it can be realized only by a rasik."

Alankār-Koustubh says – "Ras creates magic" and "A feeling of 'WOW!!' is the soul of ras; if, after relishing something, we do not say 'WOW!!' then it is not ras."

Suppose we see something so gorgeous that we have never seen before or we hear something so beautiful that we have never heard before, then we feel a kind of joy and our heart somersaults. Consequently, unknown to us, our eyes too bulge out. This is 'wonderment'. We call this thrilling experience as 'ras'.

What do we mean by wonderment?

Alankār-Koustubh also states –

"If some favorable objects (or incidents) come together to create such a joyful thrill in the heart, that stupefies our external as well as internal senses – then we can call such a delightful experience as 'ras'."

Srila Rupa Goswāmipād too has written –

"A magical inexpressible relish that shoots across a heart blazing with goodness and is beyond all human perceptions, it is 'ras'" – (B.R.S.2.5.132)

Ras is commonly of two types –

1. material ras – we can feel this ras with our heart
2. transcendental ras – realized by the soul

When talented writers compose literature about worldly characters then the reader relishes some ras. We call this as 'material ras'. The rhetoricians call this as 'close to relishing Brahman'. However the authors of transcendental ras-literature flatly denounce this and state - "The ras in material literature target the heart of material people, hence it is full of Mâyā (illusion) and contains the three gunas (modes of nature). Naturally it is short-living. There is no way we can gain complete bliss from this ras."

Srīmat Jīva Goswāmipād has clearly written in Priti-Sandarbhā (110) –

"Worldly passion can give only slight pleasure, since if we analyze deeply, material emotions ultimately result in sorrow. Therefore we cannot respect material literature that gives rise to worldly ras."

Srīla Kabi Karnapur's opinion is –

"Ras is of three types –

1. prākṛita (material) e.g. the ras found in the novel 'Mālati and Mādhav'¹

¹ A famous book based on material lovers

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

2. aprākṛita (transcendental) e.g. the ras reposing in Sri Râdhâ-Krishna
3. âbhâs (shadow of ras) e.g. ras existing in an inappropriate place or situation"

Srila Vishwanâth Chakravartipâd has explained this statement as follows –

"We classify ras into three types and say that material ras is a type of ras just to satisfy the fans of material literature. Actually there is no relish in material novels. It is a misake to think that worldly events can arouse ras. It is certain that mundane heroes and heroines will ultimately transform into ash, worms or stool¹ – then how can we get ras in them? Also when we analyze the truth we see that that the worldly poets are so ignorant that they present their heroes and heroines as 'beautiful like flowers, youthful and fragrant'. Such falsehoods only fuel our hatred all the more than arousing ras. This is the reason why the author (Srila Kabi Karnapur) who is a rasik has not cited a single poem composed by material poets as examples; rather everywhere he has only described transcendental ras and has given likewise examples. Those who have had the good fortune to relish blissful transcendental divine ras, find material ras as worthless and horrible. But of course, material literature offers more happiness than the pleasures of the flesh. We do not doubt this fact.

Who relishes ras?

In this context the rhetoricians are divided into 4 groups. The first group opines that the real heroes and heroines of an event are the ones who mainly relish the ras. The actors who represent them (in a drama) get the taste of ras little bit. If they do a lot of rehearsal and their hearts are clear, they may relish ras.

The second group says - the real life characters are limited. They face troubles and tribulations in life – so how can they relish any ras? Rather the actors who play their parts relish the ras.

The third group states – the real characters do not relish ras at all, and neither do the actors representing them. The actors are but imitators. They only practice and become experts at displaying emotions (which are not real). So they do not enjoy ras. Then who gets the pleasure of ras? The rasik audience. After all, the public sees and hears with absorption.

The fourth group says that if the actors have a clear heart, they will feel the emotions of the real characters and hence they too will relish ras, and of course, the public too will certainly enjoy ras.

Most of the rhetoricians agree on the point that the audience relishes ras.

However one point is clear from the above discussion that in transcendental ras – all can relish ras – the real characters, the actors playing their role as well as the audience. The real characters (e.g. the Divine Couple) do not suffer from the problems faced by the original characters of material literature – that is – they are not mortals, are not limited and do not endure troubles and tribulations. Therefore Their associates too relish ras. Divine passion is naturally immortal and unlimited. The main subject of transcendental ras (Sri Krishna) is the Supreme Brahman Himself and all His activities too are divine. Sri Hari's excellences are innumerable, His beauty is immeasurable and He is the unlimited turbulent ocean of Leelâ-ras! Also, Sri Bhagavân's names, beauty, qualities and pastimes are not mere agglomeration of words. They are non-different from each other.

"Sri Krishna's names, Sri Krishna's excellences, Sri Krishna's divine pastimes are all equal to His swarup and hence they are eternal and blissful." – (C.C.)

Therefore nothing can stop or diminish the ras-relish of Sri Krishna's names, excellences, pastimes etc. We can realize transcendental ras even when confronted with anarthas such as fear (e.g. Prahâlâd Mahââj) and intermission caused due to rebirth (Jada-Bharat). Not even Brahman-realization can obstruct one from relishing divine ras! Shukadev is a brilliant evidence for this. Hence we'd better accept that ras exists only in divine passion.

Who is qualified to relish devotional ras?

"Those who have past and present desire for devotional ras, they alone can relish bhakti-ras."
– (B.R.S. 2.1.6.)

What is 'past' and 'present' desire?

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has explained the above verse – "Past desire refers to the yearning for bhakti in the past life, while present desire means the desire for bhakti in this life. When a devotee has a passion for Sri Krishna in this life, it is clear that he has present desire; however to realize ras, he also has to have had a desire for ras in the past life. Both are necessary to relish ras."

Srila Vishwanâth Chakravartipâd has clarified further –

"When we are offense less and if we practice bhajan under the shelter of Sri Gurudev's lotus feet, we can reach the state of passion; even then, we will relish ras only in the next birth."

Now we have to see what we mean by 'the desire for ras'¹? How does it arise in the heart? When? In whose heart does it arise? When we delve deep into tattva, we learn that Sri Krishna is rasa-swarup (ras personified). He and the living being are related to each other since infinity and the living being longs for rasa-swarup Sri Krishna since then – and not for anybody else. However the living being has turned away from Sri Krishna and so he does not understand this. The longing drives him to enjoy Krishnetar objects (things other than Sri Krishna). Of course, he does not really enjoy. The innate desire of his original self is to relish rasa-swarup Sri Krishna. In stead of doing this, he simply wallows in sense-gratification. However, the soul is transcendental. He is against material pleasure. He is not happy to indulge in the pleasures of the flesh. After all, the soul has only one goal – to relish sevâ-ras of the rasa-swarup Sri Krishna. This means, the soul enjoys when he serves Rasarâj. This is why, in spite of rolling in material enjoyments since infinity, the living being remains ever dissatisfied. He can gain satisfaction and become blessed only by relishing divine ras. The Shrutis are very merciful. They clearly tell the living being, who has floundered from his goal (ras-relish) that Sri Krishna is ras personified. They proclaim –

"raso vai sah" – He alone is ras.

"rasam hyevâyam labdhânandi bhavati" – Sri Bhagavân is ras personified and only by obtaining Him the ras-thirsty living being can gain bliss.

The words 'alone' and 'only' indicate that we can never gain happiness from anything (or anyone) other than Sri Bhagavân. Thus when we search for our root desire, we discover that it is the 'desire to serve Sri Krishna' or simply put, 'bhakti-desire'. When we have faith and reverence, we should take the shelter of the saints and Spiritual Master. We should associate with them and gain their kripâ. By their mercy, the desire for bhakti arises in our heart. It is the same as the desire to perform bhajan. After this we embark on the path of bhajan. When we perform bhajan enthusiastically, gradually we are rid of anarthas. Then we gain nishthâ, interest, âsakti and finally we are promoted to the stage of rati. Rati (passion) is a devotee's permanent bhâv. This 'permanent bhâv' mingles with vibhâv, *anubhâv*² etc. and gets converted into bhakti-ras. Thus we see that only a passionate devotee is one worthy of relishing bhakti-ras.

Which sâdhanâ arouses ras, what causes ras to arise and what is the way through which ras arises?

¹ as mentioned in the verse in B.R.S.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd has written - "Ras arises when –

Which sâdhanâ arouses ras?

1. Bhakti has uprooted all our faults and at last we are happy. And so we are ready to receive pure goodness. Our heart is sparkling with the knowledge required to receive pure goodness,
2. We are deeply attached to Srimad-Bhâgavatam,
3. The only pleasure in our life is – the constant company of rasik devotees,
4. We consider the joy arising out of serving the lotus feet of Lord Govinda as the sole purpose of living,
5. We are incessantly engaged in hearing about the confidential pastimes, glorifying them and meditating on them since these are the very necessity to gain prem.

When the heart is radiant with the ras-desire handed down from the past life and the desire for ras in the present life, ras arises in it.

What causes ras to arise?

Worldly people relish material ras when a good author composes an interesting piece of literature. Transcendental ras is not like that. It does not depend on the merits of the author or the composition. The passion in a devotee's heart takes the form of joy and he realizes ras whenever he comes across anything pertaining to Sri Krishna. The passion in the devotee's own heart makes Sri Krishna extremely relishing to him and he attains dizzy heights of tremendous bliss!" – (B.R.S. 2.1.7-10)

These statements prove that ras is like Brahman – simultaneously gross and subtle, beyond all reasoning, and something unearthly. We can only realize ras; we cannot ascertain it by using logic; we cannot debate on it. If we do not have a sanskâr for ras, or a 'ras-desire', we can never ever digest ras.

Who is unworthy of relishing ras?

Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd replies –

"When the heart is burnt up with dry renunciation and one is disinterested in bhakti, he is not qualified to relish ras. For example –

- the one who is interested in only gaining dry knowledge,
- simply wants to argue
- proponent of karma
- the *purva-mimânsak*¹
- the uttar-mimânsak who wants to disprove the statement that, the living being is not equal to the Supreme Being.

All these above-mentioned people are averse to bhakti in the ascending order (the second one is more averse than the first one and so on). Even the argumentative men stand a chance. Out of

¹ A mimânsak is one who examines, investigates and proves the Vedic philosophy. He arrives at the Truth by logic and analysis. They love to debate. The mimânsak are divided into two groups –

Purva-mimânsak – They are the followers of Rishi Jaimini. He is attributed with Karma-mimânsâ ("Study of [Ritual] Action"). His followers dabble with mainly with karma-kânda.

Uttar-mimânsak – The followers of this doctrine hold that God is the omniscient and omnipotent cause of the existence, continuance, and dissolution of the universe. Creation is an act of his will; he is both the efficient and the material cause of the world. At the consummation of all things all are resolved into him. He is "the sole-existent and universal soul," and besides him there is no second principle; he is Adwaita, 'without a second.' Shankarâchârya was the great apostle of this school.

The object of both these schools is to teach the art of reasoning with the purpose of aiding the interpretation of the Vedas, not only in the speculative but the practical portion.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

curiosity they may study rhetoric, enter the path of bhakti and may relish bhakti ras to a slight extent; but the mimāṃsaks are never qualified to enter the temple of bhakti.

The ones practicing dry renunciation are uncouth and the remaining are plain ignorant. You know how a householder hides his most valuable items out of fear that the thieves may steal them? Similarly, Sri Krishna- bhakti-ras is a precious treasure. The devotee rasik too should hide this gem from the uncouth and ignorant. We should not discuss bhakti-ras with the above-mentioned people. Be especially careful of those dry mimāṃsaks (logicians and analysts), since they harbor a distaste for bhakti-ras and are ever-ready to jump on bhakti-ras to annihilate it with worldly arguments.

Srimat Jiva Goswāmpād has said –

“We see five types of people in this world –

- a) Ignorant (agya) – They may be learned in the other scriptures, but have no experience of ras-literature (transcendental ras, naturally). We still call them ‘ignorant’.
- b) Uncouth (grāmya) – They are addicted to material enjoyment. They are like animals indulging in the pleasure of the flesh.
- c) Wise (prāgya) – They are learned in ras-literature; they even accept that ras is the topmost, yet they are so unfortunate that they are not capable of relishing ras. All three (ignorant, uncouth and wise) are unworthy of ras-realization.
- d) Bhāvak - They are devotees who are learned in ras-literature and are able to relish ras.
- e) Bhāvya – They are also devotees. They have attained success (siddhi) in ras-sādhana. They are accomplished relishers of ras. We call them rasik devotees.”

We surely understand from this discussion that bhakti-ras is a permanent riddle for the non-devotees.

“The devotees who possess nothing but the lotus feet of Sri Hari can only relish ras.”

– (B.R.S. 2.5.131)

How does ras form?

Before we go into the study of ras-formation, we need to become familiar with certain terms such as vibhāv, anubhāv, sātvik bhāv, vyābhichāri, sthāyī bhāv etc. Let us learn these terms and understand their definitions properly.

Vibhāv – Alankār-Koustubh has defined it as – “It is the cause of ras. It arouses ras in us”.

Vibhāv is classified into two types –

1. ālamban vibhāv (=what supports ras) – Sri Krishna arouses ras in the devotee’s heart. Also, the devotee’s passion for Sri Krishna causes ras to arise in the sādhak’s heart. Here we call Sri Krishna as the ‘subject’ and the devotee as the ‘shelter’ of ras. Thus ālamban vibhāv is divided into two – subject (Sri Krishna) and shelter (the devotee).
2. uddīpan vibhāv (=what excites ras) – Sri Krishna’s sweet qualities, activities, decorations, laughter, fragrance, flute, anklets, conch-shell, footprints, home, cattle-grazing pasture, Tulsi, devotees, feasts – all excite ras in us. So they are ‘uddīpan vibhāv’.

Anubhāv – Alankār-Koustubh states –

“‘anu’ means ‘later’ or ‘what follows’. After ras arises in our heart, we express some symptoms externally. These are ‘anubhāv’. We also call them as ‘ras-action’.”

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Example – The subject (Sri Krishna) and the devotee (shelter) express some external characters due to their passion for each other, such as – loving glances, smiles etc.

Some expressions are loud and are easily visible – such as – dancing in joy, singing, yelling, stretching, roaring, yawning, sighing heavily, not caring how others react to our love, salivating, loud laughter, hiccupping, smiling etc. These reveal our heartfelt passion. We call these anubhāvs as 'udbhāswar anubhāv' (openly visible).

"When the anubhāvs (symptoms of ras-relish) are not so visible, we call them as 'sātvik anubhāv' or simply 'sātvik-bhāv.'" – (B.R.S.)

Srila Rupa Goswāmpād has listed eight sātvik anubhāvs in B.R.S. –

1. stupefaction
2. perspiration
3. goose bumps
4. faltering voice
5. shivering
6. paleness
7. tears
8. doom"

Vyābhichāri bhāv – Alankār-Koustubh explains –

"This bhāv is not constant; it lends color to the permanent bhāv."

B.R.S. says – "it is a 'passing' bhāv – so we also call it 'sanchāri or passing bhāv."

Let us understand it better. Just as waves rise and fall in the sea, thus making it more beautiful, some small bhāvs appear and disappear while we continue to remain in our own permanent bhāv. These waves of bhāv lend color to the permanent bhāv. There are 33 passing bhāvs in total –

1. complete indifference
2. grief
3. humility
4. *glānī*¹
5. fatigue
6. arrogance
7. pride
8. doubt
9. stress
10. *āveg*²

Permanent bhāv or Sthāyi bhāv - Alankār-Koustubh says –

"When our heart is without a tinge of raja (mode of passion) and tama (mode of ignorance) and it is full of only pure goodness, then an indescribable passion can fill the heart; it is the source of ras-relish, and the wise call it the 'permanent' or sthāyi-bhāv."

Srila Rupa Goswāmipād says –

"Laughter is a positive feeling while anger is a negative feeling. A bhāv that subjugates all other bhāvs whether positive or negative and looms high above them – we call such a bhāv as 'permanent'. The Bhakti-literatures call the passion for Sri Krishna as 'sthāyi-bhāv.'" – (B.R.S.)

Our sthāyi-bhāv intermingles with the bhāvs such as vibhāv etc. and is transformed into ras. On its own, vibhāv cannot make us realize ras. It just causes us to express anubhāvs. The Vyābhichāri (passing) bhāvs only help anubhāv. None of these bhāvs can create ras in us if we do not have 'sthāyi-bhāv'. When our sthāyi-bhāv mingles with three other bhāvs, then it is the sthāyi-bhāv that turns into ras. We have to be very clear about this.

Sthāyi-bhāv is permanent, whereas the other bhāvs such as vibhāv etc. change. Hence although the other bhāvs do make us express ras, they are not the source of ras. Sthāyi-bhāv is a form of the great power called Hlādinī Shakti. It is inconceivable. Therefore Sthāyi-bhāv is permanent and so is ras. We repeat – when sthāyi-bhāv matures, we realize ras. Sthāyi-bhāv has only one function – to please Sri Bhagavān.

Here, we may question –

You said – "sthāyi-bhāv transforms into ras." In the same breath you are saying – sthāyi-bhāv and ras are both permanent. Are you not contradicting yourself? When one thing changes into another, it does not remain. This means, when sthāyi-bhāv will turn into ras, the sthāyi-bhāv will not exist any more, since now it is ras! Then how can you call sthāyi-bhāv permanent? Also how can you call ras as permanent? Since it has taken birth from sthāyi-bhāv – which means, earlier it did not exist. Does this not mean that both sthāyi-bhāv and ras are temporary?

The answer to this question is –

All the divine pastimes of Sri Krishna are eternal. His various ages such as childhood, adolescence, youth – are also timeless. His behavior in these ages is eternal as well. However the devotees have a tremendous desire to behold these pastimes or to see Him in a particular form. Then He uses this as an opportunity to save the world and He manifests these pastimes. When the work is over, that leelā unmanifests. The leelā continues to exist, but shrouded from material eye. Similarly ras expresses itself in a devotee's heart and when the vibhāv etc. disappear, ras too conceals itself.

When material reactants transform into products, the reactant disappears. For example, when sugarcane juice turns into molasses, the juice is no more. Later when it forms sugar, we do not see the jaggery. However transcendental objects are different from material things. They have an inconceivable potency. They get transformed without losing their separate identity. Example – Sri Krishna is eternally a kishor. Yet, His kishor-body becomes a child, adolescent and the adolescent-body becomes all the more beautiful as a kishor. Every stage is eternal. All the bodies – child,

¹ Tremendous anger. This bhāv has no place in madhur ras. So we find this bhāv only in the grandmother, in-laws etc. who are the side-characters in the events of madhur ras. – (U.N.13.88-89)

² Intolerance resulting out of criticism, insult etc. (U.N.13.90-91)

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

adolescent, youthful – are eternal. Similarly, our permanent bhāv (sthāyi-bhāv) is eternal, yet it transforms into ras. Both – sthāyi-bhāv and ras continue to exist separately.

About the formation of ras, Srimat Jiva Goswāmipād has written in his Priti-Sandarbha –

“The bhāvs that are worthy of becoming ras, become ras.”

Let us understand this statement better. Material vibhāvs – yes, even the vibhāvs pertaining to devatās are material – are temporary and are lacking in ingredients of ras. So they do not form ras. Transcendental vibhāvs have all the ingredients to form ras. These ingredients have 3 qualifications –

1. The right swarup
2. The right associate
3. The right recipient

1. The right *swarup – The eternal associates have the right swarup, hence they possess sthāyi-bhāv and are always situated in bliss. They reveal Sri Bhagavān to us and constantly please Him with their sevā. They even criticize the joy of liberation. Such is the sthāyi-bhāv of the dear associates of Sri Krishna. Although we are worldly beings, by the blessing of Sri Krishna and His devotees, this bhāv can arise in our hearts also.

2. The right associate – The vibhāvs of material ras are mundane. Therefore they are naturally disqualified to arouse ras. On the other hand, the eternal loving confidantes of Sri Bhagavān love Him so much that their bhāv spontaneously create ras. Their love is self-manifesting. It also reveals Sri Krishna and everything pertaining to Him. This love appears in the heart of earthly devotees and gives them similar bhāv. So we should hear and meditate constantly on those eternal associates, who are in a mood akin to ours. We should be choosy about the association we keep. We should keep the company of only rasik and sajātiya devotees who can inculcate ras in us.

3. The right recipient – The devotee (sādhak) too should have a desire to obtain bhakti for Sri Bhagavān. Then only he is qualified to relish bhakti-ras.

Alankār-Koustubh has explained these points in detail –

Sri Bhagavān's eternal associates and the devotees who follow them relish transcendental ras. Thus we see that two types of people relish ras –

1. the eternal associates of Sri Bhagavān Who participate in His divine Leelās
2. the devotees who perform sādhanā according those leelās.

Ras forms spontaneously in the eternal associates and they constantly relish ras. On the other hand, the devotees who follow them undergo two types of experiences –

- 1) They meditate on the eternal associates according to their liking (bhāv) and on their pastimes with Sri Bhagavān, and in this manner ras arises in their heart.
- 2) They only hear and glorify the sweet Leelās of Sri Bhagavān, thus they relish ras. When someone sings or enacts such leelās, or some great soul speaks Hari-kathā very sweetly, then the devotees who hear or see this can relish ras. On top of this if all the people involved in these activities are in the same bhāv and harbor the same desire, then the devotee can equalize his feelings with the associates depicted in the drama (or Hari-kathā). This enables him to relish greater ras.

So we can understand that although the eternal associates are present in transcendental realm, and we reside in the material world, we too can relish transcendental ras like they. The only difference is that eternal associates have natural bhāv. They do not need any instruction nor do they need to hear any divine discourse. However we live in the material world, so we need the right sanskār and it is necessary for us to perform sādhanā. These will intensify our desire to relish ras and our passion will blaze forth. We need all these, because we cannot relish ras without a desire for ras and if we are devoid of ras-sanskār.

Equalization of Bhāv

What is bhāv? How can we get the bhāv of the eternal associates?

'Bhāv' is an experience of Sri Krishna's sweetness. Although we live in the material world, all of us can get this bhāv by the mercy of Sri Krishna and His devotees. But how? The bhāv of the dear eternal associates get equalized with the feelings of the sādhak. What is equalization? It means when two things become non-different from each other, yet maintain individuality. Let's put it like this – our bhāv remains independent, yet becomes equal to the bhāv of a sajātiya devotee. We call this bhāv-equalization. By the effect of bhāv-equalization, we – the mundane devotees, too can react in the same extraordinary manner as that of the eternal devotees – and very easily, at that. Srila Rupa Goswāmipād states –

"Formation of ras is beyond this material world. Hence, it is true that, it is very difficult to comprehend. We find that the vibhāvs and ratīs manifest themselves easily and in an excellent manner in the senior and junior devotees. Bhāv-equalization means 'unable to decide the difference between each other's bhāv'. Bhāv-equalization has such an impact that even the new devotees can have the same feelings or perform the activities that the experienced devotees can."
– (B.R.S. 2.5.101-102)

Srila Vishwanāth Chakravartipād has elucidated the above statement as follows –

"During a sat-sang, someone was reciting Rāmāyan. He came to the part when Hanumān was about to take a leap to cross the Indian Ocean. From the audience an emotional devotee jumped up without any embarrassment or hesitation. He was so much absorbed in the same bhāv as that of Hanumān that he wanted to cross the ocean there in the assembly itself!

Another example –

An emotional devotee was performing the role of King Dasharath in a drama. When he heard that – 'Rām has gone to the forest' – he really and truly died on the stage. This happened since he was extremely absorbed in the bhāv of Dasharath."

Thus we see that when we develop passion, although we may be newbies in devotion, we can equalize our bhāv with that of the mature devotees and ras will arise in us. Rhetoric says – bhāv-equalization has an inconceivable impact. It can make an immature devotee feel non-different from Hanumān and he leapt up in an assembly to cross the ocean. Although he was an ordinary man, bhāv-equalization lent him an extraordinary enthusiasm to cross the ocean, which is an astonishing feat. Sāhitya-Darpan states –

"There are such bhāvs with which we feel non-different; we can equalize with those bhāvs."

However for this we have to have passion (rati). Then even newcomers (in devotional practice) can experience bhāv-equalization with siddha devotees. This forms ras.

The Sage Bharat has said – "Bhāv-equalization has an inexpressible power. It makes the audience/reader feel non-different from a certain character or situation."

During bhāv-equalization sometimes we feel different and at other times non-different from the siddha-devotees. When we relish ras, we feel completely non-different. E.g. the devotee relished the same ras as did Sri Hanumān. When we feel entirely non-different, this stage is called 'tanmayi-bhavan'¹. We should remember that the literature or drama has a very minor role in creating bhāv-equalization; the main thing is our own rati. If we do not possess rati, the narrator/actor cannot arouse bhāv-equalization in us. Rati makes Sri Krishna appear sweet, and therefore it reveals all that is pertaining to Sri Krishna. Rati makes Sri Krishna's sweetness relishing to us, and this in turn, enhances rati. Thus we find that the vibhāvs and rati help each other to make us relish ras. Srila Rupa Goswāmipād has written –

"There are pandits who strongly vote that divine literatures and dramas are completely responsible in arousing bhāv-equalization, and hence, they instruct us to read/hear divine literature and dramas to the greatest degree. However we state that rati for Sri Bhagavān is remarkably powerful and precious. We can never ever doubt its sweetness. We ascertain rati as the topmost reason for bhāv-equalization." – (B.R.S. 2.5.90-91)

It is also true that although a devotee may be emotional, and equalize his bhāv, he will not relish ras if he does not have the sanskār or ras-desire in past life. Ras-relish is directly proportional to our ras-desire. If our desire for ras is less, when the cause of ras is removed, our relish too will disappear¹. On the other hand, a rasik-devotee continues to relish ras even when the cause of ras is no more. Ras keeps on expressing itself right in front of him; it enters his heart and caresses every pore of his body. Even though the cause of ras has vanished, a rasik-devotee continues to relish ras. He forgets everything else – after all, ras is magic!!

Primary and secondary bhakti-ras

Sriman-*Mahā*prabhu has thus instructed Srila Rupa Goswāmipād –

"We can classify rati into five types² depending on the class of the devotees –

1. shānta rati – for shānta devotees
2. dāsya rati – for devotees in servitude
3. sakhya rati – for the devotees in friendly mood
4. vātsalya rati – for the devotees in the parental mood
5. madhur rati – for the devotees in conjugal mood

Hence there are five types of ras – shānta, dāsya, sakhya, vātsalya and madhur. These five ras are the chief amongst all the ras present in Sri Krishna-bhakti." – (C.C. Madhya.19.157-159)

There are some more ras other than these five ras. They are hāsya - laughter (humor), adbhut - extraordinary, veer – valour, karun – sad, roudra – anger, veebhatsa – horror, bhaya – terror. These seven ras are secondary. The devotee can be situated in any of the five primary ras – that is – he may be in the mood of a servant, parent etc. Then, due to some reason, these seven ras may enter his heart like a stranger and when the cause is removed, these ras too disappear. Shānta etc. are permanent ras. They remain always in the particular devotee's heart. For example, there is a sad situation. Then a devotee feels karun ras. When the sorrowful situation disappears, the karun ras too vanishes. Same is the case with hāsya ras (laughter) etc. We should remember that the five principal ras never leave a devotee situated in that ras.

"The five primary ras are permanent in a devotee. The seven other ras are secondary. They come and go like strangers." – (C.C.Madhya.19.161)

The seven secondary ras appear and disappear in the dear associates of Sri Bhagavān. They are the 'sanchāri' or passing moods. Hence we shall not discuss them here. Rather, let us learn in detail about the primary ras. Those devotees, who wish to study the seven secondary ras in detail, are requested to read the 'Uttar-part' of Bhakti-Rasāmrita-Sindhu.

Shānta bhakti-ras

Definition of shānta-devotee

"Sri Bhagavān has stated with His Holy lips that, the shānta-devotee only knows His swarup and is firmly attached to Sri Krishna." (C.C.Madhya.19.173)

"A shānta-devotee does not feel Sri Bhagavān belongs to him. He knows only one fact – that He is Parabrahman and Paramātmā. The shānta-devotee is only aware of the original form of Sri Bhagavān." – (C.C.Madhya.19.177-178)

Srimat Jiva Goswāmipād has written in his Priti-Sandarbha –

¹ For example – some devotees relish ras only as long as they are hearing the Harikatha. When the kathā stops, they are back in the mundane world.

² These are the five principal ras

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

"The shânta-devotee is living on the borderline and his bhakti too is sitting on the margin. This means that a shânta-devotee is not exactly a devotee. His devotion does not fall inside the boundary of bhakti." – (P.S.84.)

Sri Nârada-Pancharâtra describes –

"ananya mamatâ vishnou mamatâ premasangatâ, bhaktirityuchyate bhishmaprahlâdoddhavanâradaih."

Meaning - "Mahâjans such as Bhishma, Prahlâd, Uddhav and Nârada have called it 'bhakti' only when we do not feel anything or anyone else to be 'mine' – we know that Sri Vishnu alone is our sole possession and we love Him dearly."

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has stated –

"The shânta-devotees do not consider Sri Bhagavân as someone Whom they can call their 'own'. A relation with Sri Bhagavân is not inspired in their heart. Therefore it is logical that they do not feel a sense of belonging with respect to Him." – (P.S.96)

The servants and friends have a relation with Sri Bhagavân, hence they feel He belongs to them.

The shânta-devotees feel that Sri Bhagavân is âtmârâm and self-satisfied, hence He cannot feel hungry or thirsty. He is absolute in all respects, so how can He need any sevâ? Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd has mentioned in Bhakti-Rasâmrita-Sindhu that the shânta-devotees are close to the dâsya-devotees. In fact the dâsya-devotees are the best friends of the shânta-devotees. He has quoted a shânta-devotee as saying –

"The supreme Brahman is a mass of fire while the living entity is its spark. He is intensely 'conscious' effulgence. When will I massage His feet?" – (B.R.S. 4.8.20)

Srimat Jiva Goswâmpâd has explained this statement as follows –

"Here 'intense' implies the form of Sri Bhagavân, otherwise how can he mention 'feet'? 'Conscious' refers to 'sach-chidânanda' (eternal, conscious¹ and blissful). Thus we see that the shânta-devotee's mind is firmly established in the Supreme Brahman Who is sachchidânanda.

Here we see that the shânta-devotee wants to massage Sri Bhagavân's feet – it is not because he wishes to please the Lord with his sevâ. Rather, he hopes to gratify his own senses by His touch. He wants to become happy by touching the beautiful form of Sri Bhagavân. On the other hand, the devotees who are in the mood of servants wish to serve the Lord to give Him pleasure. Hence they are 'bhaktas' in the true sense."

What forms ras in the shânta-devotee?

"When a yogi heard the Pânchajanya², he was so overjoyed that the end of his robe fell to the ground. He shook his head and shed copious tears. He was full of goose bumps. All the vows he had undertaken broke. His regulative principles were lost. When the brilliant dark blue mascara-complexioned Lord appeared before him, he was so extremely happy and behaved in such a manner that displayed utter contempt for his own position (as that of a yogi)." – (B.R.S. 3.1.42)

Let us examine this case and determine which ingredients have come together to form ras. The vibhâvs (causes) are as follows –

- vishayâlamban – the subject of ras – the four-armed form of Parabrahman
- âshrayâlamban – the shelter of ras – the yogi who is in shânta-ras
- uddipan – what excites ras – the resounding Pânchajanya

What symptoms (anubhâv) did he show? The end of his cloth rolled on to the ground, he shook his head etc. He also displayed sâtvik-bhâv (not-so-loud symptoms) such as tears and goose bumps. His sanchâri-bhâv (passing moods) was joy, great surge of emotion.

¹ Someone who is truly conscious has to be blissful

² The powerful conch of Sri Krishna that He blew in the awake of the Kurukshetra war

What are the symptoms that the shânta-devotee expresses?

These vibhâv, anubhâv, sâtvik and sanchâri mingle with the permanent (sthâyi-bhâv) of the yogi¹ and create shânta-bhakti-ras. Then the yogi relishes this ras.

"They glorify the excellences of Sri Bhagavân, chant names such as Parabrahman, Paramâtmâ etc. They know that Brahman-realization is a blissful state; hence they show interest in Him. They concentrate on the tip of their nose; try to become avadhuts, practice mudrâs such as gyân-mudrâ.² They bow and glorify Sri Hari. Their not-so-visible reactions are – tears, gooseflesh.

What arouses ras in them? The fact that Parabrahman is almighty, calm, impartial, and He can assume extraordinary forms.

Their passing moods (sanchâri bhâv) are – indifference, patience, joy, understanding, remembrance, sorrow, argumentative etc." – (P.S.203)

"krishna-nishthâ trishnâ-tyâg shânter dui gune"

Meaning - "The shânta-devotee has two qualities – he is steadfast in Sri Krishna and has given up the desire for material pleasures." – (C.C.)

We should realize that these two qualities are the basis for the other ras as well. This means, even though we may be situated in some other mood, it is necessary for us to possess these two qualities.

Dâsya-bhakti-ras

"The devotees in the dâsya-mood have two characteristics – they have the qualities of the shânta-devotee³ as well as 'sevâ:' – (C.C.Madhya.19.180)

Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd has called the sthâyi-bhâv of the dâsya-devotees as 'love mingled with awe'. He has stated –

"When we know someone to be our master, the slight trembling we feel in the heart is called 'awe'. When love mixes with this feeling we call it as 'sambhram-priti' (love mingled with awe). The wise term this sense of 'love mingled with awe' as 'the mood of servitude' (dâsya-bhâv)." (B.R.S. 3.2.76)

Sri Chaitanya-Charitâmrita says –

"In the dâsya-bhâv the devotee has the complete knowledge that Sri Krishna is God Almighty and considers Him as the Master." – (C.C.Madhya.19.178)

"When the devotee has aishwarya-gyân about Sri Krishna his love diminishes." (C.C.Madhya.19.167)

However we find that the servants in Braja have a different mood from those of Dwârakâ and Vaikuntha. Priti-Sandarbha (208) says –

"Aishwarya-gyân is pre-dominant in the devotees such as Akrur, who are in dâsya-bhâv, while although devotees such as Uddhav too have aishwarya-gyân, it is mixed with mâdhurya-gyân and the mâdhurya-gyân is more prevalent in them. But we see that in Brajadhâm the servants are completely in the sweet mood. They simply respect Sri Krishna because they know Him as the Son of Nanda Mahârâj (and not as God Almighty). They are aware that He has excellent qualities and that He is impressive."

"The Brijwâsis do not know that Sri Krishna is Ishwar.'" – (C.C.Madhya.19.128)

Even the servants of Braja do not consider Sri Krishna as God, and therefore they do not hold Him in awe." – (C.C.Madhya.19.128)

² To touch the tips of the thumb and the index finger.

³ Steadfast in Sri Krishna-worship and forsaking material desires

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Srimad-Bhâgavatam does not mention the servants such as Raktak and Patrak in Braja-leelâ. We do not know whether such names exist in the Vedic texts such as the Purân, Samhitâ or Tantra). The 10th skandha of Srimad-Bhâgavatam only describes the moods of sakhya, vâtsalya and madhur. Some subjects of Nanda Mahârâj may have dâsya-bhâv for Sri Krishna and one may be eager to practice sâdhanâ under their guidance. However since Srimad-Bhâgavatam does not mention the names such as Raktak and Patrak, also it does not describe in detail the sort of sevâ they perform, it is very difficult to practice Râgânugâ bhajan in dâsya-bhâv. This is why Sri Chaitanya-Charitâmrita says –

"mor putra, mor sakhâ, mor prânapati, eibhâbe jei more kore shuddhâ-bhakti."

Meaning - "The one thinks of me as 'my son', 'my friend' or 'my beloved' is practicing pure devotion."¹

What excites dâsya-bhâv?

Thus we find that sakhya, vâtsalya and madhur ras are the main Râgânugâ bhakti in Braja.

When a devotee gets the dust of Sri Krishna's lotus feet, accepts Mahâprasâd, associates with the dâs-devotees, his dâsya-bhâv is excited.

What are the symptoms expressed by a dâs-devotee?

He performs sevâ according to what he is capable of, is steadfast in Sri Krishna-bhajan etc. His sâtvik anubhâvs (invisible symptoms) are stupefaction, tears etc. His passing or sanchâri bhâv are joy, pride, patience, indifference, humility, curiosity, surge of emotion.

"When Dâruk (Sri Krishna's charioteer) saw Sri Krishna in front of the main gate of Dwârakâ, he was unable even to fold his palms, and attained a very strange state." – (B.R.S. 3.2.135)

What forms ras in a dâs-devotee?

From this verse we ascertain the vibhâv as follows –

Sthâyi-bhâv – love mingled with awe, since he is a servant in Dwârakâ

The subject of love – Sri Krishna Who knows He is the protector

The shelter of love – Dâruk, who knows he is under Sri Krishna's protection

What excited ras in him – the vision of Sri Krishna at the main gate of Dwârakâ

Symptoms of ras – He gazed with reverence and tried to fold his palms

Sâtvik bhâv - He was unable to fold his palms; this indicates he was stupefied

Passing bhâvs – He was joyful, immobilized, shivering in thrill, eager to serve.

Thus we find that Dâruk was relishing remarkable ras when his Master Sri Krishna arrived suddenly after a very long period of absence. This mercy upon him was entirely unexpected and he relished many strange bhâvs.

Sakhya-bhakti-ras

"The devotees in friendly mood has three characteristics –

1. the qualities of the shânta devotee
2. the sevâ performed by the servants
3. The mood of non-difference between himself and Krishna is very strong in a sakhâ and the friend is devoid of awe and reverence.

A sakhâ climbs on Sri Krishna's shoulders and also lets Him climb on his; he plays as well as fights with Him. He serves Sri Krishna and takes service from Him². He loves Sri Krishna more than the

² A friend even orders Sri Krishna to serve Him

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

shânta-devotee and the devotee in the mood of servitude. He considers Sri Krishna as non-different from Himself. In this manner the friend subjugates Sri Krishna. For this reason you can recognize sakhya-ras by the three above characteristics." – (C.C.Madhya.19.181-184)

Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd has termed sakhya-bhakti-ras as 'preyo-bhakti-ras' (preyo = dear, loving).

"When two friends are nearly equal, they feel non-different from one another. They are devoid of awe and reverence. We call this relation as 'sakhya'. They are in the mood of 'vishrambha'. 'Vishrambha' means very deep faith that lacks hesitation of any sort." – (B.R.S.)

Srila Rupa Goswâmpâd has described Sri Krishna Who is the subject of love in sakhya ras, as follows –

"Shyâmsundar is well-dressed, has all good qualities, He is strong, speaks so many extraordinary languages and is an expert at well-articulated speech. He is extremely learned, exceptionally talented, highly capable and kind. He is the bravest of all, witty, intelligent and forgiving. Sri Krishna loves all and is loved by everyone. He is upbeat, joyful and great to be around with."

All these qualities are arousing ras in the devotees belonging to the friendly mood.

"The sakhâs are the shelter (âshray) of this ras and they look handsome like Sri Krishna. They even dress like Him. Unlike the servants, they do not have the slightest inkling of hesitation. They only have very firm faith in Sri Krishna." – (B.R.S.)

Arjun, Bhimsen, the brahmin Sudâmâ are Sri Krishna's friends in Dwâarakâ. Amongst them, Arjun is the closest. However, if we take all His friends into account¹, then the sakhâs of Braja are the topmost. They are the closest. How are these sakhâs?

"They are overcome with extreme grief if they don't see Shyâmsundar for just one moment. They want to play with Him always and Sri Krishna is their life and soul. Such are His Brijwâsi-sakhâs. They are the greatest of all His friends." – (B.R.S.)

Sri Krishna's Braja-sakhâs are of four types –

1. suhrit (companions)– These boys are slightly older to Sri Krishna. They hold weapons and are always trying to protect Him from bad men. E.g. – Subhadra, Mandalibhadra, Bhadravardhan, Gobhat, Indrabhat, Bhadrânga, Veerbhadra, Mahâgun, Vijay, Balabhadra etc.
2. sakhâ (friends)– These friends are younger to Him and like to serve Him. Although they are definitely in the sakhya-mood, they have a whiff of dâsyâ-ras about them - They look up to Sri Krishna. Their names are as follows – Vishâl, Vrishabh, Ojaswi, Devaprastha, Varuthapa, Maranda, Kusumâpeeda, Manibandha, Karandham etc.
3. priya-sakhâ (dear friends)– They are equal to Sri Krishna in age and are in pure sakhya-ras. E.g. Shridâm, Sudâm², Dâm, Vasudâm, Kinkini, Stoka-Krishna, Amshu, Bhadrâsen, Vilâsi, Pundarik, Vitanka, Kalavinka etc. These sakhâs please Sri Krishna by indulging in various friendly sports with Him. They have fisticuff-fights and stick-fights with Him. They joke and play pranks. Thus they give pleasure to Sri Krishna. Shridâm is the topmost in this category.
4. priya-narma-sakhâ (bosom friends)– They are greater than the suhrit, sakhâ and priya-sakhâ. They have a special bhâv. Their bhâv is laced with sakhi-bhâv. They help Sri Krishna to unite with the sweethearts. They are engaged in confidential services such as carrying messages between the lovers and helping in secret meetings. Therefore we call them priya-narma-sakhâs. E.g. Subal, Arjun³, Gandharva, Vasanta, Ujjwal, Mandhumangal etc. Amongst them, Subal and Ujjwal are the closest to Sri Krishna.

What arouses sakhya-ras?

Sri Krishna's age, beauty, flute, cow-horn (a type of musical instrument), jokes, witty repartees, talents, the way He mimics kings and the incarnations of God.

² He is a friend in Vraja; we should not confuse him with Sudâmâ-the-brahmin as mentioned in Srimad-Bhâgavatam. The Sudâmâ in Srimad-Bhâgavatam is also sometimes called Shridâm.

³ He is a gopa-boy and not to be confused with Arjun-the-Pândav

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Visible symptoms or activities of a devotee in sakhya-ras are as follows – wrestling, playing throw-ball, dice-game and various other boyish sports.

The silent activities (sātvik) are – stupefaction, perspiration.

The passing bhāvs are laughter etc.

Srila Rupa Goswāmipād has explained with a concrete example –

“Mukunda looked as handsome as a mass of cloud illuminated by the star ‘Swāti’. When He loudly commenced the festival of sports by blowing sweetly, yet forcefully into the enchanting flute, there was a shower of jubilation all around. In this joy, Shridām’s body, that resembled an exquisite pearl-oyster, expressed little droplets of perspiration that gleamed like pearls.” – (B.R.S. 3.3.98)¹

The vibhāvs (cause of ras) are as follows –

- Sthāyi-bhāv - the passionate mood called ‘vishrambha’ which exists only in Braja
- The subject of love – Sri Krishna
- The shelter of love – Shridām
- What excites ras – the song of the flute

Anubhāv – activities expressed by the devotee - boyish-sports

Sātvik – perspiration

Passing bhāvs – joy, playfulness

The Mahājan has thus described the sakhya-ras –

*“jamunār tire kânāi shridāmere loiyā, māthāmāthi ron kore shrama-jukto hoiyā.
prakhar robir tāpe shukāilo mukh, dekhi shob sakhāgoner mone hoilo dukkh.
ār nā khelibho bhāi cholo jāi ghare, sakāle jāite mā kohiyāchhe shobāre.
molin hoilo kânāi mukhāni tomār, dekhiyā bidore hiyā āmā shobākār.
beli abasān hoilo cholo ghare jāi, ithe balarām dur bone gelo gāi.”*

Meaning - “Kânāi locked horns with Shridām on the banks of the Yamunā and both of them fought vigorously – so much so – that they were bathed with perspiration from head to toe. The scorching heat of the sun burnt Sri Krishna’s face. When the sakhās saw this they were overcome with grief. (They love Him so much!!) Out of concern for Him, they stopped the game and said – “We shall not play any more, brothers, come, let’s go home”. In stead of revealing the true reason for wanting to return, they simply said – “Mother Yashomati has told all of us to go home early today. Why, my dear Kânāi, Your face has turned so pale!! Our hearts are bleeding, seeing You thus!! Anyway, the sun is about to set, come, let’s go home. Look, Balarām has gone far and the cows too have wandered deep into the forest – if we wait any longer, it will get dark, and then, how will we collect them?” (This implies that – Kamsa’s emissaries may attack us any moment. Then what will we do? Since Balarām, Who can protect us, too has gone far. Once again, this proves the lack of ‘aishwarya-gyāt’ in the Braja-sakhās.)

Vātsalya-bhakti-ras

“The devotee in vātsalya-ras has 4 ras-qualities –

1. the qualities of the shānta-devotee

¹ It is a myth that pearl oysters open up when the Swāti has ascended in the sky, and if it rains, and if a rain-drop enters the oyster, then a pearl is born. Here Srila Rupa Goswāmipād has described Sri Krishna as the cloud under the Swāti star, His captivating flute-notes as the shower of rain, Shridām’s body as the pearl-oyster and his perspiration as the pearls born due to the shower (mellifluous song of the flute).

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

2. the sevā of the servant – as a parent the sevā comprises of love, care and protection.
3. the qualities of the sakhā, namely, no self-consciousness and no awe and reverence,
4. love is much more in this ras, hence the devotee scolds and beats Sri Krishna. He considers himself as the protector and thinks he is responsible for Him.

Since the devotee in vātsalya-ras has all the above qualities, this ras is as delicious as nectar.”

– (C.C.Madhya.19.185-187)

Vātsalya-rati is the permanent (sthāyi-bhāv) of the devotee in vātsalya-ras. Sri Krishna is the subject of this ras. How is He?

“He is soft, dark and serene like a garland of fresh blue lotuses. His eyes are shaped like lotus-petals and their corners are playing restlessly. His thick black eyelashes resemble black bees hovering around the lotus (His eyes). When Vrajeshwari Mother Yashodā saw her beautiful son playing in the dust of Braja, she wet her body with milk that flowed involuntarily from her breasts.” (B.R.S. 3.4.3)

Thus Sri Krishna, Who is dark, handsome, endowed with excellent qualities, soft, sweet-spoken, simple, innocent, well-mannered, respectful and kind, is the subject of this ras.

The Queen of Braja (Yashodā-mātā), Rohini-mātā, the Aunties, the Gopīs whose sons Brahmāji had stolen, Devaki, her co-wives, Kunti, Vasudev, Sāndipani Muni (His teacher) and other elders are the shelter of this ras. This list is arranged in descending order of love.

What excites vātsalya ras? The child-form, childish beauty and attire, babyish pranks, sweet speech, smile and leelās.

What are the reactions of a devotee in this ras? She kisses Sri Krishna’s forehead, caresses Him, blesses Him, and commands Him. She bathes Him, cares for Him and instructs Him about His welfare. A devotee in vātsalya ras also displays 9 types of silent reactions - 8 of them being stupefaction etc. and an additional one – milk flowing from the breasts.

The passing moods are – joy, strong emotion, eagerness.

The sthāyi-bhāv of the devotee mingles with vātsalya-rati and becomes vātsalya-ras. An example of this ras –

Yashodā and Rohini were so full of love for Gopāl that milk would flow spontaneously from their breasts. He would get covered with dirt from head to toe – this was His *anga-rāg*¹ - yet they would pick up both beautiful babies (Krishna and Balarām) onto their laps. Then they would breast-feed Them. When the babies would suckle, the mothers would gaze lovingly at Their enchanting smile that revealed few tiny teeth. This would immerse them in supreme bliss.” – (B.R.S. 108.23)

In this verse the ingredients of ras are as follows –

Vibhāv –

- Sthāyi-bhāv – the devotee should have a passion called 'vātsalya'.
- The subject of ras – Sri Krishna and Baladev who are crawling.
- The shelter of ras – Mothers Yashodā and Rohini.
- Uddīpan – what excites ras – the childish age of Sri Krishna and Balarām, sweet smile, childish pranks.

Reactions of ras – the devotee caresses, pets, kisses the forehead and wipes the dust off His body

The silent reactions of the devotee – tears, goose bumps, breasts overflowing with milk

The passing moods of the devotee – joy, āveg, eagerness.

The Mahājan has described Vrajeshwari Mother Yashodā’s vātsalya ras so sweetly –

“Her heart burnt in anguish and torrential tears flowed from her eyes, while her heart was shattered in grief – how would He go to the woods (to graze the cattle)? Why, He didn’t even know the house and its surroundings well till now! How could a mother bear such sorrow?

O my dearest, O the darling of the Yādavs¹, is there no wealth at home that you should step in the woods? Let the other cowherd boys take the cattle.

I have no one else to call my own and no support but You. You are my only darling, how can you bear to leave me and let my life be engulfed in darkness?

You are only a suckling babe, and you want to go to the forest with the cows? How can I rest in peace at home?

O my dear, Your body is as soft as butter – why, the sun will melt You and You will be finished!! The mere thought of this makes my heart tremble! The sun is soaring overhead and the mercury is rising high; it is pouring fire – how will my little one survive?

The grasses are so huge – each one is like a spear! They will pierce your soft skin like anything! Your feet are like velvet flowers, how will You run when they enter Your feet?

When the Gem of Gokul (Gokul-manī) heard His mother weep so pathetically, He tried to console her in so many ways – He said – Mother, please do not grieve, I have nothing to fear for after all, I have this Shekhar Roy (poet) to accompany me.”

Madhur-bhakti-ras

“A devotee in madhur ras five characteristics in all –

1. she is steadfast in her attachment to Sri Krishna (like a shānta-devotee)
2. extreme sevā (of the dās-devotee)
3. the unhesitating (frank) behavior of the sakhā
4. caring and protecting attitude of the vātsalya devotee
5. over and above she serves Sri Krishna by offering her body.

Just as the five elements (sky, air, fire, water and earth) have the qualities of the previous elements, and ultimately the earth has all the five characteristics, similarly the madhur-devotee has a beautiful conglomeration of all the qualities of the devotees in other ras. Therefore this ras has much more relish and it tastes extraordinarily wonderful!” – (C.C.Madhya.19.189-192)

The ingredients of madhur ras –

Vibhāvs –

- the object of ras – the unparalleled Sri Krishna Who is the Chief of the vidagdhas. Example – “Dear sakhi, Sri Hari is gladdening the hearts of all the Gopīs by entertaining them with His body that is softer and darker than the blue lotus; thus He is pleasuring them with a Feast of Love. Every part of His body is freely embraced by the Braja-beauties – thus He is looking all the more charming. In this manner He is sporting in this spring season like Eros personified.” – (Geet-Govindam)

“The maidens of Braja appear exquisitely sweet and new each moment; every tendency of their heart is a wave of love and they adore Him as their Beloved – I pay obeisance to such remarkable Braja-kishoris.” – (B.R.S. 3.5.6)

Although the queens of Dwārakā and women like Kubjā (in Mathurā) too have kāntā-bhāv (the mood of a sweetheart), the Braja-beauties are in parakiyā-mood, and they are the greatest of all sweethearts.

“Amongst them, Srimati Rādhārāni, Who is the crest-jewel of all Braja-bālās, is the topmost.”²

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

“Sri Krishna is the embodiment of love and so a devotee entirely subjugates Him with his love. Also the gopikās are very mature where pure prem-ras is concerned. After all there is no rasābhās-dosh¹, in the love of the Gopikās. Hence they are able to satisfy Sri Krishna supremely.

One group of Gopis is 'vāmā (crooked) while the other group is 'dakshinā' (generous, straight etc.). They make Sri Krishna relish ras in many ways. Amongst all these Gopis, Srimati Rādhā Thākurāni is the topmost, for She is the treasure-mine of crystal pure dazzling love. She is 'madhyamā in age and balanced in nature. Her love is immensely intense and so She is constantly 'vāmā. Due to this, She is always going into mān, and this creates huge waves in Sri Krishna's ocean-like bliss.” – (C.C.Madhya.17.156-157, 159-162)

How is Srimati Rādhārāni's beauty?

“Her eyes steal the beauty of an inebriated chakor², Her face stifles the glory of the full moon, Her immensely exquisite beauty makes super-pure gold feel very much ashamed of its brilliance – look, there is Sri Rādhā – the One Who contains all sweetness of the Nectar.” – (B.R.S.)

Sri Hari's and His sweethearts'

- qualities,
- names,
- characteristics,
- decoration,
- associated elements and
- some marginal objects – all arouse this ras.

What excites madhur ras?
(uddīpan vibhāv)

Qualities - They are divided into three –

1. physical quality – age, looks, lāvanya, beauty, sweetness etc.
2. verbal quality – sweet speech that delights the auditory sense is the 'verbal quality'.
3. mental quality – gratefulness, forgiveness and kindness are the mental qualities.

Names - Sweet sounds such as 'Rādhā' and 'Krishna' are the 'names' that excite ras in a devotee of madhur ras.

Characteristics – We can categorize them into two – (1) anubhāv (2) leelā. We shall discuss the 'anubhāv' separately, since it is a long topic. Here let us see the leelās that arouse madhur ras. Sri Krishna's characteristics are – playing the flute, Rās-sports, ball-game. Srimati Rādhārāni's characteristics are – graceful-ness, playing the veenā, music, cooking.

Decoration - It is of 4 types –

1. clothes
2. ornaments
3. flower-garlands
4. unguents

Associated elements - We can classify them into two –

1. lagnā³ – Sri Krishna's lagna are – the flute-song, sound of the horn, singing, body-fragrance etc. Srimati Rādhārāni's lagna are – song of the veenās, music and body-fragrance.
2. sannihitā⁴ – Sri Krishna's sannihita are – flower-garland, gunjā-mālā, saffron anointments. Srimati Rādhārāni's sannihita are – flower-garlands, veenā, dear friends such as Lalitā and Sri Rādhākund.

¹ This is considered as the most terrible flaw in ras. It means when something comes up in a ras-presentation (or ras-relish), that closely resembles ras, but it is not so. It is an imitation of the real thing and is highly abhorrent.

² She-chakor (bird)

³ Things you cannot separate from Him.

⁴ Those things that are close to Him, but can be separated from Him.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Some marginal objects – moonlight, clouds, lightning, spring season, sharad season, full moon, breeze, peacocks, cuckoo, he-parrot and she-parrot.

What are the reactions of a devotee in madhur ras (Anubhāv)?

In madhur ras we have three types of anubhāvs – alankār, udbhāswar, vāchik

1. *Alankār*¹ – The commonly maidens are at the height of youthfulness, and they are always absorbed in their life and soul – that is – Sri Krishna. Their heart is attacked with all sorts of bhāvs, called 'alankār'. We can list twenty alankārs –

1. *hāv*²,
2. *bhāv*³,
3. *helā*⁴,
4. beauty,
5. splendor,
6. glow,
7. sweetness,
8. pragalbhatā (prāgalbhya)⁵,
9. generosity,
10. patience,
11. *leelā*⁶,
12. love-dalliance,
13. *vichchittī*⁷,
14. *vibhram*⁸,
15. *kilakinchi*⁹,
16. *mottāyitā*¹⁰,
17. *kuttumitā*¹¹,
18. *bibbok*¹²,
19. *lali*¹³ and
20. *vikritā*¹⁴.

Stupefaction and surprise are two additional alankārs.

¹ The literal meaning is 'jewellery'. These are actually bhāvs that are so beautiful and loving that they entice Sri Krishna instantly, just like jewellery makes an ordinary girl appear beautiful and attracts a mundane 'lover'.

² It is a mood in which one turns the neck and moves the eye-brows and the eyes; it is more expressive than the mood called 'bhāv'. – (U.N.11.9-10)

³ When one is in the erotic ras, and a seed called 'rañ' or passion appears in the heart, and then certain feelings occur where there was none earlier – we call it 'bhāv'. – (U.N.11.6)

⁴ When 'hāv' clearly indicates erotic desire then we call it 'helā'. – (U.N.11.11)

⁵ When a sweetheart has no qualms regarding love-making; adopts a carefree attitude. – (U.N.11.21)

⁶ To dress up attractively and imitate the beloved's actions – (U.N.11.28)

⁷ To wear just one simple ornament and yet look beautiful. E.g. Srimati Rādhārāni wore an earring made of a rosy mango-leaf (newly-budding) that quivered in the breeze; this looked so novel that it charmed Mukunda immensely and His lotus-face became exultant.

⁸ When a Vraja-bālā is extremely eager to meet her lover, she puts all the ornaments in the wrong places – we call this as 'vibhram'.

⁹ A mood where joy is predominant. However it is mingled with arrogance, desire, tears, smile, malevolence, fear and anger – all expressed simultaneously.

¹⁰ In this mood, the Vraja-gopi reminisces about her Beloved and reveals the feelings in her heart.

¹¹ When Sri Krishna kisses or touches Srimati Rādhārāni's breasts, She is happy within, yet expresses anger externally – the wise call it 'kuttumitā'.

¹² Sometimes in spite of getting what she desires, a Gopi disregards it – this may be due to (a) over-arrogance or (b) mān. We call it 'bibbok'.

¹³ Very soft gestures and love-play of the eye-brows; Govinda is an expert in this mood.

¹⁴ Not revealing the feeling in one's heart, due to shyness, mān and jealousy, yet the lover cannot conceal his feeling, since it gets expressed through some other way. E.g. When Sri Krishna sought a date with a Vraja devī, she refused, yet her cheeks manifested gooseflesh and looked very beautiful.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

2. Udbhâswar – loud reactions of a devotee in madhur ras – the sweetheart's skirt-string loosens, her *uttariya (dupattâ)*¹ falls, she stretches the upper body, yawns, flares the nostrils, sighs heavily, rolls on the earth, sings, does not care for the public, spins around and hiccoughs; these are the udbhâswar reactions.
3. Vâchik – verbal reactions of a devotee in this ras – there are 12 in all – *âlâp*², *vilâp*³, *samlâp*⁴, *pralâp*⁵, *anulâp*⁶, *apalâp*⁷, *sandesh*⁸, *atidesh*⁹, *apadesh*¹⁰, *upadesh*¹¹, *nirdesh*¹² and *vyâpadesh*¹³.

The devotee expresses all the eight sâtvik bhâvs such as stupefaction, perspiration, gooseflesh etc. A devotee can express any one of the 5 levels in sâtvik bhâv – they are as follows –

1. dhumâyita – expressed when the devotee is in the stage of bhâv or rati.
2. jwalita – when the devotee is in the stage of prem.
3. deepta – expressed in the stage of sneha, mân, pranay, râg and anurâg.
4. uddipta – in the stage of rudha-Mahâbhâv.
5. suddipta – in the last stage, that is Mohanâkhya-Mahâbhâv. Only Srimati Râdhârâni manifests this bhâv called 'suddipta sâtvik bhâv'. Explanation –

"Srimati Râdhârâni heard Sri Krishna's magical flute and was absorbed in suddipta-sâtvik-bhâv. Sri Vishâkhâ and Vrindâ devî are describing Her state at that moment to Govinda as follows – 'Dear Mâdhav, A most amazing incident has occurred! When Sri Râdhâ heard the song of Your flute, She has entered such a state that the students have mistaken Her to be an idol of Goddess Saraswati and have started worshipping Her. (This indicates that Ishwari has become excessively stupefied and pale, since Goddess Saraswati is white in color). Aho! Sri Râdhâ perspired so much that we felt as if it was the monsoon season¹⁴! She wept so profusely that the cattle quenched their thirst, drinking Her tears! She is so covered with gooseflesh from head to toe, that She looks as if flower-buds have sprouted all over Her body." – (U.N.)

What are the vyâbhichâri bhâv or passing moods of a devotee in madhur ras? "A devotee expresses The 33 types of vyâbhichâri bhâv (such as nirved etc.), other than ougra and lethargy."

– (B.R.S.)

Srimati Râdhârâni manifests all the bhâvs to the maximum extent and these bhâvs make Her all the more attractive. For instance when Srimati Râdhârâni feels proud of Her good fortune, She reveals it in the following manner –

² Words of flattery E.g. Although Sri Krishna called the Gopis for the râs-dance, when they came; He rejected them, since He wanted to hear their sweet words. He pretended to be indifferent. Yet, the Gopis, due to their anurâg, they thought He is very rare to obtain and started flattering Him. This is 'âlâp'.

³ lamentation

⁴ A two-way conversation

⁵ Futile talk

⁶ Repeated utterances

⁷ pun

⁸ A message sent to one's beloved who has traveled far

⁹ It means "his statement is my statement" – e.g. – Sri Krishna begged Lalitâ and pleased her so that she would get Srimati Râdhârâni out of Her mân. Although Lalitâ assured Him, He would not believe her. Then Vrindâ said – "dear Vrajendra-Nandan, You are simply at all doubting Lalitâ's words. Do You not know that Lalitâ is expressing what is concealed in Râdhâ's heart externally, like a veenâ."

¹⁰ When one indirectly informs about something - e.g. after love-making, Shyâmalâ was roaming unabashedly in front of her elders. Her sakhî commented – "This young sweet girl is carrying two round fruits, and although they have been bitten by some bird, they look resplendent. Also I can see she is wearing two red flowers that have been tasted by the black-bee." Shyâmalâ understood her friend was referring to the marks on her breasts and lips, and covered them.

¹¹ Instruction to impart teaching

¹² talks like "she is so-and-so, I am so-and-so"

¹³ To express one's desire in an indirect manner.

¹⁴ The perspiration sprang out of Her body like torrential rains and wet the surrounding; so the sakhis felt as if the monsoon season had arrived in India.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

"Srimati Râdhârâni was feeling proud of Her good fortune. As a result She pretended to be so much engrossed in making a kundal, that, as if She did not notice Govinda at all. Lalitâ told Her – Dear sakhî, this person, Hari, has forsaken all His sakhâs, has disregarded even sweethearts such as Chandrâvali and He is standing at Your doorstep gazing fixedly at Your face alone ! On the other hand, You are smiling and continuing to be busy arranging a crocodile-shaped earring¹ with jasmine flowers sewn inside a bunch of flowers! You are not glancing at Him even with the corner of Your eyes!" - (U.N.)

Thus we see that how sweetly Ishwari expresses even pride, which is otherwise considered a negative quality.

A devotee's sthâyi-bhâv mingles with vibhâvs such as these and transform into Madhur-bhakti-ras. Again this madhur-ras (also called Ujjwal-ras or brilliant ras) can be classified into two –

" sa vipralambhah sambhoga iti dwedhojjwalo matah. "

Meaning - "Madhur ras or erotic ras is categorized into two – vipralambha (separation) and sambhog (union)." – (U.N.)

Vipralambha can be of 4 types –

1. purva-râg (before meeting)
2. mân (love-quarrel)
3. prem-vaichittiyâ
4. *pravâs*³

They enhance the ras of union and we can relish them separately as 'ras' also.

Let us relish an example of Purva-râg ras. The sakhîs saw Srimati Râdhârâni's extraordinary bhâv during purva-râg and said –

"O Râdhe! You are coming and going constantly! And You are standing outside the threshold a hundred times! You seem so agitated and Your sighs are heavy – all You do is to glance at the Kadamba-woods.

Oh Râi! Why are behaving so?

Do You not fear the evil elders? What shall we do if they find out?

You are so restless that You cannot even manage Your dupattâ. While being seated, You suddenly get a start and Your robe falls off. You are hardly in Your teens and moreover are You not a princess? In addition, You are a girl of prestigious ancestry! What desire do You wish to satisfy that You are stretching out Your hand so greedily? We cannot understand what game You are up to.

We feel You are extending Your hand towards the moon. Poet Chandidâs says – I guess the 'Black-snare'⁴ has captured You!"

Now let us study the various ingredients of ras (such as vibhâv etc.) in the above situation. We remember that vibhâv comprises of sthâyi-bhâv, the subject of ras, the shelter of ras and what excites ras. They are as follows –

- sthâyi-bhâv – Madhur rati called 'vipralambha' (separation)
- the subject of ras – Sri Krishna Who is the *dheer-lalit*⁵ lover.
- The shelter of love – Srimati Râdhârâni Who is in the stage of Purva-râg.
- Uddipan (What excites ras) – the sight of the Kadamba-trees.

Anubhâv (the visible reaction of the devotee in this ras) – coming in and out of the house repeatedly.

¹ This indicates that Srimati Râdhârâni is making the ear-ring solely for Her Beloved Sri Shyâmsundar

² Even though her beloved may be near, the sweetheart is miserable since she is afraid of separation.

³ Separation due to traveling.

⁴ The snare of black-magic cast by the dark-complexioned Shyâmsundar

⁵ A lover who is vidagdha, youthful, witty, free of any tension, and is usually subjugated by His sweetheart. Sri Krishna is a perfect example of this bhâv.

Topmost Achievable Goal & The Scientific Way To Achieve It

Sâtvik (not-so-visible reactions) – tears, turning pale.

Sanchâri (passing moods) – âveg, depression, stress.

The Mahâjan has drawn a very clear picture of madhur-ras during the separation called 'pravâs' –
"New flowers blossomed in the woods and the flower-groves, while the she-cuckoo sang on the top of her voice, oh my!

The sweet chandan-scented breeze is blowing while the frost has receded to the mountain tops; yet my Beloved has not returned home – oh dear!

The moon is scorching my chandan-like body more than sun ever does, while the honey bees sing in the garden. The spring has arrived, yet my sweetheart remains far – what can I do if fate has turned against me?

I gaze transfixed at Kânu's face, yet my eyes are not quenched. My poor heart must indeed be like a rock - otherwise how can it continue to suffer like this when the time is so happy?

Day by day I am drying up like a fragile lotus-bud in the snow – I don't know where it all will end. Poet Vidyâpati says – shame! Oh shame on such a life! Mâdhav's conduct is the height of cruelty!"

The vibhâvs are as follows –

- Sthâyi-bhâv – madhur-rati called separation due to 'pravâs'.
- The subject (vishay) of ras – Sri Krishna Who has gone to Mathurâ.
- The shelter of ras – Virahini Srimati Râdhârâni.
- Uddîpan – the spring season, the song of the cuckoo, sweet-scented breeze, humming of the bees, moonlit night.

Anubhâv – crying loudly, not caring what others will think.

Sâtvik bhâv – tears, shivering, paleness, fainting.

Sanchâri bhâv – indifference, depression, humility, eagerness, lunacy, illusion.

Let us relish sambhog-ras in brief.

Sambhog-ras

"He caught her hand, eager to make love. They locked hands, gazing into each other's eyes with passion.

He was adamant and wanted to touch Her body - he was so full of desire. But Râi shook Her head in refusal. She said, "No, no." Râi was displaying a novel mood of passion¹, whereas Shyâm was advancing in the mood of an elephant-at-war. She was hesitating to return the kiss, and closed Her eyes, yet when He drank the nectar of Her lips, She moaned.

When His nails dug into Her, my Precious Râi gave a start, and a current ran across Her body just when He bit Her softly. She started prattling in a choked voice. She forgot Herself completely and craziness swept over Her. Just then She controlled Herself and stopped being generous. Says poet Gobinda dâs – this is the limit of ras!"

What are the ingredients of ras here?

The vibhâvs –

- Sthâyi-bhâv – madhur-rati called sambhog (union)
- The subject of ras – Sri Krishna Who is dheer-lalita lover, vidagdha and at the threshold of youth.
- The shelter of love – sweet, vidagdha, the crest-jewel of all experts at love-making – Srimati Râdhârâni, Who has come of age.
- Uddîpan – the love-grove, humming of the bees etc.

Anubhâv – pulling the veil on the face, arching the body.

Sâtvik bhâv – choking of the voice, goose bumps etc.

¹ By adopting a defensive attitude

Sanchâri – bashfulness, surge of emotion, fear (that someone will come to know about the relation).

Thus we see how the vibhâv, anubhâv, sâtvik and sanchâri bhâvs are like fragrant blossoms that have mingled with madhur-rati and formed sambhog-ras, like a sweet bouquet. When we, the sâdhak-devotees, relish such wonderful poems that contain the ras of a Braja-bâlâ's feelings, this sweetness is transmitted through us. Then we also feel blessed to relish the delectable sambhog-ras of Sri Sri Râdhâ-Mâdhav.

archanam	Activities that involve invoking our worshiped Deity and serving Him. According to great souls such as Nārad Muni, the devotees should most certainly establish a relation with Sri Bhagavān by taking deekshā, and after deekshā, we must indeed perform archanam. For householders who own wealth and property, archanam is the main path to serve the Lord. In stead, if they resort to meditation alone like the penniless renunciates, then they fall under the category 'monetary fraud'. If we make others perform archanam on our behalf, it displays laziness. We are not allowed to eat in a house where Keshav is not worshiped. (Bhakti-Sandarbha.283).

It breeds in Africa south of the Sahara Desert eastwards to India, Sri Lanka and Burma. It is a short-distance migrant, since birds at more northerly latitudes and on higher ground are summer visitors, leaving for warmer and wetter areas in winter. The Pied Cuckoo takes a variety of insects and caterpillars. It is a noisy species, with a persistent and loud pipew pipew pipew call. In India we see it just before the monsoon and it disappears after the rainy season. Therefore we call it the 'harbinger of rain'. Mythology says that the châtak drinks water directly from the rainfall, and it remains thirsty until then. Consequently a very eager devotee pining for the Lord is compared to a châtak.

K
kâmânugâ	The eagerness to follow in the path of 'kâmrupâ-bhakti'. (Sri Bhakti-Rasâmrita-Sindhu.1.2.297). Sri Bhakti-Rasâmrita-Sindhu(1.2.283) explains Kâmrupâ-bhakti as "a type of bhakti in which, although the devotee has erotic desires for Sri Krishna, her intention is to please Him. The Brajadesis alone possess Kâmrupâ-bhakti. Here the word 'kâm' refers to pure and brilliant love."
kahlâr	The white-lily

mâdan	Love is the essence of Hlâdini. When this prem exhibits all the symptoms of all the stages of love ranging from rati to mahâbhâv, is especially exultant, and dazzles more brilliantly than even mohan-bhâv, we call such a mood as 'mâdan-âkhyâ-mahâbhâv'. Only Srimati Râdhârâni possesses this bhâv.

ras	When the mind and external senses come to a standstill and our heart feel with a joyful wonderment – a sense of "wow" – then it is ras . All the internal and external senses stop functioning and they cannot sense any object different from the ' ras ' – e.g. Although camphor, sugar, pepper etc (present in the dish called ' rasālā ') are different objects with different tastes, we relish them as one flavor. Ras manifests on its own in the especially pure and luminous heart of a devotee. It has only characteristic – bliss. When we hear and glorify repeatedly, we get 'rati' which is blissful. Later on this rati turns into ras . Then we get relish. The ras -experience is crores of times more blissful than the rati-experience. That is, we feel much more joy when we relish ras than what we feel in the rati-stage. In the state of ras -relish, we feel an ecstatic sense of wonderment. (Alankār-Koustubh).
